Any detailed description of the locality and general topography of the Deep Springs country is unnecessary, all the facts being well known to our local readers and within the past year or so have been given two or three times by this paper. The district is one of the oldest on this side of the Sierra, and the salient points of its history during the troublous Indian war have also been gone over from time to time. One of the most prominent characters in that memorable and bloody episode was Captain Joe Bowers, chief of the Indians of that section. The story of his sturdy friendship and faithful servitude to the whites is well known. Under an order of Gen. McDowell, up to the time of the abandonment of Camp Independence old Joe was a pensioner of the Government as an Indian scout. But at all times he has been under the special care of Scott Broder and Mr. Greenly, who have seen the old fellow well supplied. During the Winter of '79-80 there occurred quite a revival of interest in the district, particularly in the mines on the north side of Soldier's Pass. Old Joe has become considerable of a rock sharp himself, and as soon as he could get Scott Broder's attendance confided to him his knowledge of the existence of a "heap big mine." Mr. Broder accordingly set out with him. Disdaining all easy routes, Joe led out directly over the summit to the southeast of Gilbert's and on the south side of Soldier's Pass. It was a new and unexplored country in an old district. When ledge croppings were encountered Scott would naturally inquire if they were any good, Joe responding—"Mebbe so; me no sabe; purty soon, heap catchum." And he did, for that day—April 4th, 1880—Mr. Broder located the

INDIAN SCOUT MINE,

From which the whole ledge, distinctly traceable and now opened at numerous places for over two miles, has come to be called. This, the southern end of the great vein, is now approached by trail through Soldier's Pass from Deep Spring to Eureka Valley, thence south and west again up Scout Cañon. By this circuitous route it is only six miles from Gilbert's. The spur, which divides the valleys named, is a break from the Inyo or White Mountain range, the basin forming Deep Spring valley, with its lake and springs. South of the Indian Scout mine is situated the Greenly and other locations extending nearly to the summit of the mountains. A description of one mine on the ledge will answer well for all, with the exception of the amount of work done. At all points opened, the ledge shows from three to five feet in width, the ore itself ranging from two to three feet wide. The country rock is a soft granite, changed to syenite on the hanging wall. The foot country is a belt of porphyry ranging from six to 200 feet in width. In all of the locations examined the ledge outcrops boldly in from three to five places, with only slight spaces of intermediate capping. It courses northeast and southwest, with the general trend of the range, and dips westerly under the granite at an angle of about 40°. The ores are tractable to the ordinary mill and pan process without roasting; their grade and proportion of the precious metals will be shown by the assays given. A soft "gouge" on the hanging and a clay seam on the foot wall dispels any idea of the ore "freezing" to the country rock. At most points the rich ore is found next to the wall on both sides in almost continuous seams from four inches to a foot in width, the center being filled with massive, white quartz of a low grade. The

GREENLY MINE

Is opened by tunnels on both ends, running with the vein, in length 45 and 60 feet respectively, all in ledge and ore as described. The depth attained, however, is but 20 or 25 feet, but the ledge is perfect and shows a slate hanging wall for some distance. About 20 tons of first-class ore lies on the dumps.

Going northward, the Indian Scout adjoins. It has a 60-foot incline shaft, showing ore all the way, and a very large dump of first and second-class ore shows for itself. Three large outcrops appear along the ledge, where, if it was wanted, good milling ore in almost any quantity could be extracted. These mines are the propeaty of Messrs. Greenly, Broder, Woodhull and Hudgins. Passing three intermediate locations we come to the

CAIRO AND LAKE GROUP.

The Cairo has a shaft 25 feet deep, in a fine chute of ore. A lateral tunnel 150 feet long has also been run, but did not reach the ledge, as work had to be suspended on account of the ground caving from water. On this hill is the Scout Springs which were found by running short tunnels into the granite. A parallel ledge on the west side, about 600 feet higher up the range, called the

LAKE AND MAYFLOWER MINES,

Is found here. The principal claim on this is the property of Wm. J. Lake, upon which he has, alone and unaided, sunk a shaft 50 feet. This ledge, extending at least over three claims of 1,500 feet each, is identical in character with the other main vein. The shaft is in good ore to the bottom, and we think the rich rock is more equally distributed through the ledge matter. At another point on the vein he has an open cut of 9 or 10 feet, looking well.

Of course, in all this prospect work, no more ore than necessary has been extracted; nevertheless, all the various dumps show very considerable piles of it—enough to worry a good mill for several weeks at least. The ore chutes, being only penetrated, cannot be measured.

In future articles we shall refer to very many other properties of the district, with the view of setting forth the opportunities and necessity of a mill there, as well as bringing up many points of interest which cannot be touched upon within the limits of this report.

Following is a transcript of a series of assays of ores from the mines mentioned, showing the most favorable indications of a permanent and paying mining property:

SALINE VALLEY.—Supt. Crittenden, representing the parties having the new Saline Valley mines in bond, was there a week or two ago. From some of his men we learn that his entire force was discharged and that he had determined not to take the property. In one of the mines, at the depth of about 40 feet and the greatest attained, the ledge was still a strong, 5-foot vein, but showing no pay ore. It looks like a weak crowd which would give up at that depth. It is only a matter of time when some people with more staying qualities will undertake to develop them, and perhaps bring about such a revival as Panamint, Darwin and Deep Spring Districts are enjoying.

INSTALLED.—The following officers of Busy Bee Lodge, No. 250, I. O. G. T., were, at the first regular meeting in this month, duly installed by F. M. Willis, S. D. G. W. C. T., viz: Mrs. M. George, W. C. T.; Mrs. M. Q. Parker, W. V. T.; Willie A. Chalfant, W. S.; Carrie Willis, W. F. S.; Mrs. E. M. Willis, W. T.; Alvah L. Conklin, W. M.; Fred. George, W. I. G.; H. P. Cartier, W. O. G.; Rev. F. M. Willis, W. C.; Jenny Wheaton, W. R. S.; Winton Willis, W. L. S.; P. A. Chalfant, P. W. C. T.

THE MODOCK.—Frank Fitzgerald, after a stay of some weeks in San Francisco, returns with a lease of the entire Modock Co.'s property at Lookout, including the mines, furnace, water, etc., and also a lease from M. W. Bishaw of the Minneatta mine and water. After effecting some further preliminaries, Mr. Fitzgerald will put a force of men in the mines prospecting and developing, and will in time make an extended run with the furnace.

HERE.—Wm. Hamilton, of the Kern and Inyo Stage Line, gave us a call last week. He is lately from the east, and among other important movements for the near future, he reports that a heavy New York company has been organized to buy and open the noted Buena Vista ledge of Cerro Gordo, upon which is located the Crapo and Boushey properties. Mr. Hamilton says operations will begin in about six weeks.

AT DEEP SPRINGS.—Supt. Wm. Irwin and Jos. McDermot, of Bodie, were this week in Deep Spring District, examining the mines belonging to Mr. V. G. Thompson, and those of Messrs. Berry, Broder, Greenly, Lake, McSweeney and many others. From all reports they were highly pleased.

WHERE?—Where is that gigantic tooth carpenter, traveling as H. P. Swain, who received (per order) a local last week notifying the public of his all-important coming? He hath come and gone, and left no regrets behind him, to speak of—except our unpaid bill.

A NEW FIND.—Nate Mount and Jack Welch came in from Beveridge a few days ago, bringing samples of gold quartz from new discoveries made in that district. One sample assayed by Mr. Woodhull, give $552 56 gold, per ton.

A NEW FIRM.—Messrs. Engle and Burt are the chief dispensers of liquid luxuries at Big Pine, Harry being the leading mixological scientist. They succeed Frank Brown, as will be seen by their advertisement elsewhere.

RUMOR.—We hear it stated on the street that the Union Con. mine of Cerro Gordo, together with the furnaces, has been leased by San Francisco parties, and that work will soon be commenced on this property.

THE CENSUS.—School Trustees and Census Marshals will bear in mind that the census of the school children must be taken between the 15th and 31st of the present month.

PANAMINT.—Two bars of fine silver bullion, weighing 130 pounds, from the mill at Panimint, were shipped from Darwin last week.

DENTISTRY.—Dr. M. W. Parsons is now at Bishop Creek, and will shortly pay a professional visit to this place.

FOR MONACHE.—Messrs. Broder and Greenly started out to-day with a band of cattle to summer at Monache valley.

TO BODIE.—Judge A. R. Conklin and O. I. Mairs started last Tuesday on a business excursion to Bodie.

PREACHING.—Rev. F. M. Willis will hold services at the school house tomorrow evening at the usual hour.

BEVERIDGE GOLD YIELD.—The statement in our last issue of the shipment of over $14,000 in gold bullion from the Beveridge mines, being the product for the month of April, should attract the attention of parties seeking productive gold mines. Beveridge is fast coming to the front as a rich gold producing district. A number of fine gold quartz ledges in this camp are as yet untouched, which might be turning out thousands of dollars every month, if some enterprising parties would take hold and go to work on them. As soon as the trail is finished between the Mexican camp and Taylor & McEvoy's mill, we shall expect to see the above figures more than doubled, monthly.

DON'T FORGET IT.—When the young Misses call upon you expressly to sell you a ticket or two for the entertainment next Wednesday evening, don't forget that the young folks and their never-tiring instructress have worked hard to make the entertainment worth the fee to all who may attend, independent of the laudable purpose to which the receipts are to be applied—to aid our local Sunday School, which, by the way, has the largest juvenile attendance of any in the county, but is too poor in purse to purchase certain essential aids. Tickets only cost fifty cents each, while children go free.

TO MEET.—The County Board of Education meets on Wednesday next. So far as we now know, there will be but a small amount of business for its action. The terms of two of its members, Messrs. Crough and Conklin, expire at this meeting.

RICH ORE.—A sample of ordinary looking sulphide of lead sent down from the Ygnacio mine this week, showed by assay $2,538.52 per ton in silver. We have ordered one ton to be sent to our office as a sample.

DISSOLVED.—Messrs. Jones & Spaulding, the well-known Fish Springs firm, have dissolved partnership. Mr Spaulding returns to his old home at Reading, in this State.

THE MUSSEL SLOUGH OUTRAGE.

While Stanford & Co. are evicting people from their homes in Fresno county the Anti-Monopoly League are holding meetings and passing resolutions. One of these resolutions reads as follows:

Resolved, By the Anti-Monopoly League of Hanford, that we sympathize with the settlers of Tulare and Fresno counties who are at this moment being dispossessed of their homes, homes constructed only by years of arduous labor and unheard-of privations, at the instigation of a grasping, soulless monopoly, to wit, the Southern Pacific Railroad Company; that we especially abhor this condition of things when it is rumored that it is by legal process and countenanced by the government to which we pay taxes and under which we have ever been law abiding and order-loving and to which, we have been educated to believe, we were entitled to look for protection, for our persons, our property and our lives; that we will support our dispossessed friends in all legal measures, to regain what in justice, law and equity belongs to them; that we will stand shoulder to shoulder with them in legally resisting these encroachments upon the rights and liberties of the laboring people by an irresponsible, lawless combination, backed by money power.

THE largest and most important sale of mining property made in Yuma county was consummated about a week ago by Hon. Thos. Hughes, one of the oldest residents of this country. Mr. Hughes deeded over to Messrs. L. Martin, C. E. Jenkins, John Clark and John Keith, of Boston, his three mines in Silver District, called the Black Rock, Pacific and Blue Rock, for one hundred and thirty-five thousand dollars cash in gold coin. Different experts who had examined these mines estimated upwards of ten thousand tons of fine paying ore on the dump and in sight. Silver District has other equally good mines and is destined to be the leading district on the Pacific Coast.—Yuma Sentinel.

MENTION is made in some of our exchanges of a wonderful number of the Chicago Times. It was a sextuple sheet consisting of 24 pages of eight columns each, or 192 columns in all. Of this, 225,000 copies were printed, each copy weighing half a pound, requiring 57 tons of paper for the issue. It would take six ordinary freight cars to carry this single edition of a daily newspaper.

SNEEZING.

"God bless you!" is the common expression of Europeans when you sneeze in their presence. Sneezing having been considered in ancient times the result of a demoniac possession, to avert the evil influence they invoke a blessing. But the true philosophy of a sneeze is set forth in an article in the Popular Science Monthly for April under the heading "What is a cold?" The whole of it is worth reading, but we have only room to transcribe what relates to sneezing.

"Sneezing in catarrh is a method nature adopts to stimulate the prostrate nervous center, and thus enable it to reassert its proper control over the blood supply to the part; indeed, it will be found that the effects of being exposed to a draught of cold air are often completely destroyed by a succession of sneezes. Of course, nature does not always immediately succeed in these efforts; but, when she does not, the shock from which the nervous center suffers gradually passes away, and the blood-vessels again come under the control of the little nerves which regulate their caliber, and so the catarrh disappears in a few hours, or at most in a few days. It sometimes happens that the shock from the cold air acting upon the nervous center is of such severity that the consequent inflamation is intense enough to check the secretion of mucus altogether, and in consequence the mucous membrance is dry as well as inflamed, and the suffering very much intensified."

FEAR ON DISEASE.—It is said that while the plague was raging in Buenos Ayres the grave diggers bore charmed lives. Of the 300 men so employed, not one died of the disease. It has often been noticed that during the prevalence of pestilential diseases physicians, undertakers, nurses and grave-diggers, whose business compelled constant liability to infection, have usually escaped in a far greater ratio than their numbers would warrant. The "charm" of this immunity from the the prevailing scourge is very simple. They are not scared. They are positive to the disease, and repel its attacks. Fear is a great ally of death. Whoever is afraid of disease is in a negative condition, and really invites its approach. And thus it is the world over. The brave die but once, while cowards die many times. Much unnecessary alarm exists in every community in regard to many diseases. We are, it is true, all liable to sickness and death. But if we are all sober, cleanly and brave of heart, we need have no fear of disease of body or mind.

DR. GAUTHIER of St. Paul, Minn., tells in the Chicago Medical Review of his success in an epidemic of diphtheria by the use of iodine. He has treated 200 cases with bnt two deaths, while before adopting this method he lost one third of all his cases. The treatment is as follows: The patient is ordered tincture iodine in ten or twelve drop doses every hour, well diluted with water, so long as the fever lasts, subsequently reducing to ten drops every two, and finally every three hours. Local applications are made use of at the same time. These latter should be made by the physician at least twice a day. For internal use the decolorized tincture is used. Bread and starchy articles of diet are used in abundance.

CULTIVATE cheerfulness, if only for personal profit. You will do and bear every duty and burden better by being cheerful. It will be your consoler in solitude, your passport and recommendation in society. You will be more sought after, more trusted, and esteemed, for your steady cheerfulness. The bad and vicious may be boisterously gay and vulgarly humorous, but seldom or never truly cheerful. Genuine cheerfulness is an almost certain index of a happy mind and a pure good heart.

HERE is ample cause for war with Greece—the Greece that we cheered on to liberty fifty years ago. The names of the President's Cabinet were given in an Athens journal in this way: "Secretary of State, Blanne; Treasurer, Nin; Navy, Keint; Interior, Verkoved; Postmaster-General, Reames; Attorney General, Hackvragh; War-Secretary, Ljincoln." If that is not a national insult, what is?

PETROLEUM is an excellent preservative of exposed wood and tools. It penetrates the pores and repays its cost many times over. It is good for all farm buildings, gates, tools and rustic work, besides having the merit of cheapness.

A STORY ABOUT A DOCTOR.—The physicians of Berlin have set afloat an edifying story about a doctor exceedingly handsome, young and a fascinating talker, but who knows about as much concerning healing as a fashionable Abbe of Louis XV.'s time knew concerning religion. Notwithstanding, he had been in great request among ladies of high standing. One who most demanded his attendance is the widow of a late ambassador, who has opened many an aristocratic door to her medical favorite. The young doctor calls upon her three times a week, tells her all the news, takes his leave, and enters his visit upon his "patient's" quarterly bill for attendance and physic. A few days ago, when the doctor rang gayly at the great bell, the footman arrested him in the hall and asked him to wait there a moment, as her ladyship had charged her maid to give him a particular message. The maid was called and said to the astonished medicine man, "My lady told me to express to you her extreme regret that she is unable to see you to day." "Is she going out?" "No, doctor, but she is now really unwell, and is obliged to send for a physician."

ONE of the most notable of many notable novelties in Steele Mackaye's new theatre in New York will be the so-called "invisible" chair. All the seats will be constructed in such a manner that the occupants at the close of the performance, will only have to touch a spring when the framework will collapse and become part and parcel of the floor. The advantage of this device are too obvious to need demonstration, as the disappearance of the row of seats would enable everybody to move in a direct line for the doors, and greatly simplify all hitherto known methods of exit. That the idea is not fanciful is proven by the fact that the models have been perfected and, what is more to the purpose, patented.

THE San Francisco Stock Report, some time ago, made the point in defending San Francisco's murderous record that in some county in Nevada a red-handed murderer was allowed to go at large because the county where the crime was committed was too poor to try him. Will it please note that the prosecuting officer of Mono county, California, in the case of Sam Chung, accused of murder, moved in open court for the discharge of the murderer on the plea of saving the county expense.—[Eureka Leader.

Patrick Ford, of New York, writes an open letter to Gladstone in which he presents a terrible array of facts to substantiate the charge that England has followed a policy of oppression, robbery and terrorism in dealing with weaker nations and that it has ruled only with the sword and brand, backed by brute force. The letter is a remarkable exhibit of England's hypocrisy and duplicity, and its allegations are fully warranted.

NOT only does all life have its poetry, but in that very poetry may be found the best, the fullest and the sweetest parts of life. He will discover it who is himself true and brave, faithful and patient, earnest and loving; and of such a one it may be truly said, "His life is a poem."

EXTRACTED HONEY.

THIS HONEY WAS REMOVED FROM THE comb by centrifugal force, with a machine made for the purpose. It is therefore virtually the same as honey in the comb, only you don't have to eat the bees wax, which is indigestible and therefore disagrees with many persons. When first extracted the honey is liquid, but nearly all pure honey will candy or granulate in course of time, especially if exposed to the cold. Putting the cans in hot water for a short time will bring the honey to its fluid state without injury.

This Honey is put up in 10 pound cans, with patented screw tops, which renders it convenient for family use, and especially for the mines, to which it may be packed, even upside down, without leakage. A neat label on each can gives full directions.

Price, $1 50 per can, or 12½ cents per lb at the Apiary, if customers furnish their own receptacle. For sale at Harris & Rhine's, Independence, and at the Apiary, at Jacob Vagt's place, Camp Independence.

ANNUAL EXPENDITURE ON CLAIMS.

The following facts regarding a recent dispute at Tombstone, Arizona, will be of interest to mine owners:

"The Bob Ingersoll claim was located September 10, 1878. The owners did $100 worth of work in 1878, immediately following the location, but did not do any work in 1879, being under the impression that the work done in 1878 carried them through the year 1879. This would have been a correct conclusion for them to draw had not Congress passed an act on January 22, 1880, providing that $100 worth of work should be done within each calender year. As no work was done in 1879, this left the Bob Ingersoll ground open to relocation, a chance that was eagerly jumped at by certain parties in Tombstone, and the ground was located by half a dozen different rival claimants. The Bob Ingersoll people contended that Congress had no power to pass a retroactive law; that their claim having been located in 1878, could not be effected by a law passed in 1880. The jumpers claimed that Congress had absolute power over the mineral domain; that the miners had only a possessory title, which could be defeated at any time by failure to comply with Congressional laws, and that as long as the title was in the Government, the Government could make any kind of regulation it chose in regard to the land. The matter was finally referred to the Commissioner of the General Land Office. A copy of the Commissioner's letter from the original in the hands of one of the lawyers in this case is as follows:

GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, D.C., Feb 23, 1881.

Sir: I am in receipt of your letter of February 8, 1881, in regard to the expenditures necessary to be made on the Bob Ingersoll lode. It appears that the Bob Ingersoll claim was located in September, 1878, and that $100 worth of work was done by the locators during September, 1878. No work was done in 1879 by the locators or their grantees, nor in 1880, until December 11th of that year. Prior to that date, viz., during August and September, 1880, the ground was relocated by the Pinto, Moonlight and Midnight claims. On December 11th, 1880, the locators of the Bob Ingersoll took forcible possession of the claim, and are now holding it. By the amendment to the mining act approved January 22, 1880, it was provided:

SECTION 2. That Section 2,324 of the Revised Statutes of the United States be amended by adding the following words: Provided, That the period within which the work required to be done annually on all unpatented mineral claims shall commence on the 1st of January succeeding the date of location of such claim, and this section shall apply to all claims located since the 10th of May, A. D. 1872.

Whatever work, therefore, is done prior to the January succeeding the location of the claim, cannot be considered or credited to the year following such January. In the present case no work was done during the calender year of 1879, and, as just remarked, expenditures before that date cannot be considered. The mine then became subject to relocation on January 1, 1880. If it was actually relocated before the original owners resumed work, such relocation is good, and the claimants of the Ingersoll, in taking forcible possession of the claim, were trespassers, and would not, under the present rulings be recognized by this office.

Very Respectfully,
J. A. WILLIAMSON,
Commissioner.

It will be seen by this letter that the Commissioner holds that the annual expenditure must be made within each year, commencing on January 1st, and any expenditures made before January 1st do not count. As this is the ruling by which the Department will be guided in the future, owners of all mines located since May 10th, 1872, should be sure that their annual work has been done within each year. If it has not been done they should rectify the error at once by a new location.

It was supposed that the decision of the Commissioner would settle the question, and so it did in the minds of the lawyers. But the Bob Ingersoll people laughed at it, and announced their intention to contest the Commissioner's ruling in the courts, and put fighting men on their mine. After a few days of war-like threats better counsels prevailed, and they acknowledged the justice of the Pinto, Midnight and Moonlight claims, and settled with the owners, or, in parlance of the honest miner, "took them into camp."

VOLATILIZATION OF GOLD.

It has been stated by some authors that there is never much loss of gold in roasting ores, unless the roasting is performed too rapidly, and that the addition of salt makes no difference in this respect. I differ with them on this point, even when the statement is supported by so formidable a name as that of Plattner. But I think that illustrious chemist would yield to the logic of a pecuniary loss of $3,000, especially when backed by other facts.

When I first entered on the business of gold chlorination on a large scale, I had a class of concentrations to treat which, while consisting chiefly of iron pyrites, and presenting no visible peculiarity, had nevertheless baffled many old operators, a fact of which I was not aware of at the time. The ore was roasted in a three-hearth reverberatory furnace, with the addition of from 1 to 2 per cent of salt, on account of the presence in it of a considerable quantity of silver.

I was surprised to find that although the assays of the tailings were satisfactory, the gold when collected fell alarmingly short of the results which I had guaranteed, and I was of course obliged to make up the deficit.

Relying on the statement referred to, which I found in the only handbook on the subject within my reach, and being then a novice in this branch of metallurgy, I did not dream that a serious loss was taking place in the roasting furnace, especially as I had an expert metallurgist in reduced circumstances employed on the roasting, who had no more suspicion of the truth than I had.

Finding that I was sustaining some loss by inadequate tub room for the gold solution, and having consequently to draw the liquid from the gold-tub too soon after precipitation, I thought that I should find the whole loss to be in the leaching and precipitating department, and each time that an improvement was made, expected better results, so that I was led on from trial to trial, until the total loss reached the sum named.

I am not quite certain that I should ever have discovered the truth, but for the following accident: One day I so far checked the draught of the furnace as to cause some fumes to come through the air holes and working doors, and a yellow sublimate on the masonry attracted my attention. On examination I found the sublimate to be very rich in gold, although there was none to be seen in it by the most careful washing. It also contained perchloride, and copper chloride, with some lead and other substances. This at once aroused my suspicion, and I at once did what I ought to have done sooner.

Knowing that the material could be roasted with little or no loss, if no salt was used, because some assays had been made in that way, I weighed two half ounces of a sample, and precisely the same conditions, except that to one of them I added 4 per cent of salt. The roasting was purposely pushed to an extreme as to heat and time, and when the two tests were assayed, under exactly the same conditions, that which was salted was found to contain less than half as much gold as the unsalted one.

I then took some light fluffy sublimate from the flue of the roasting furnace, an assay of which gave me a value of some $600 per ton, chiefly gold. The quantity of this material was, however, very small, and the bulk of the matter in the dust chamber was not much richer than the average of the ore treated, a circumstance which indicates that the gold was actually to a certain extent volatilzed in some not easily condensable form. I also found that the ore sustained a loss of weight in roasting, equal to about 18 per cent, consequently the roasted ore ought to have been 18 per cent richer than before roasting, which was not the case.

If this is not considered to be sufficient proof that gold may be volatilized in the roasting of some ores with salt, the deficiency is supplied by the fact that, as soon as I made the necessary change by reserving the salt until the nearly dead roasting of the ore was finished, not only did the roasted ore assay 20 per cent richer than when raw, but the yield overran my guarantee, while the tailings nevertheless contained considerably more gold than before:

The moral of this is, never to neglect any precaution in the way of tests and assays, nor to place implicit reliance on rules laid down, or inferences drawn by others who have worked under different conditions.

I afterwards found that a very small quantity of salt, not more than three lbs. to the ton, might be mixed with the crude ore without detriment to the gold, and with decided advantage to the extraction of the silver.—[Aaron's Leaching Gold and Silver Ores.

LORD BEACONSFIELD.

It is stated that the fortune left by Lord Beaconsfield is but small. This can hardly be positively known before the reading of the will, and perhaps other researches. The New York Post says that "As a young man, and indeed into middle life, Mr. Disraeli was needy. But the fortune of Mrs Wynham Lewis, whom he married, was ample, and it was entirely at his disposal. It is well known, however, that he was very open-handed both before and after his elevation to the peerage; and although the expenditures at Hughenden Manor were on a modest scale, as compared with some great English houses, they were probably large as compared with the owner's means. Unlike the most of his race, but like the book-lover and book-maker, his father, Lord Beaconsfield thought little of accumulating money, and it is possible that the 'Lothairs' and 'Endymions,' whose production has been wondered at as well as enjoyed, sneered at as well as admired, were 'pot-boilers' in a sense not commonly supposed. If this proves to be the fact it will reveal a new phase of the dead statesman's character—a phase which, considering his years and labors, will thenceforth temper the strictures of his later fictions with sympathy and respect not generally accorded. It is worth recalling in this connection that an eccentric lady named Mrs. Williams left him $200,000 on condition that she be buried beside him at Hughenden. Her body was placed in the vault which holds the dust of Countess Beaconsfield, and in which all that is mortal of Benjamin Disraeli was deposited a few days ago, thus honoring the promise made to Mrs. Williams.

SENATOR BOOTH is slowly making his way across the continent with an invalid brother whose illness is of such a serious character that he can only be moved a few miles each day. For a month Senator Booth was at the bedside of a brother in Colorado, who finally died. The Senator and his brother have been some weeks on their overland journey.

THE Chicago "Times" announces that it will print the entire New Testament in one of its issues as soon as an advance copy can be obtained. This will be the most astounding result of the new "Revision" that is likely to occur. The effect of such a vast circulation of the New Testament among thousands who never read a line of it can hardly be calculated. If the "Times" would only conceal the fact that the document it prints is the New Testament, the evangelizing results might be still greater.

WASHINGTON.

Political circles in Washington city, and the whole country in fact, had a genuine sensation early this week—and are still enjoying it. It was this: Roscoe Conkling and Platt, Roscoe's man Friday, seeing that they were certain to come out second best in the Robertson fight, and that they were not able to run everything to suit themselves, determined to do a little in the mock heroic line—without the slightest premonition of their fell intent, Roscoe and his man both launched their resignation as U. S. Senators for the great State of New York slap-dab at the Governor of that State, also into the U. S. Senate! Well, it did create a sensation; Blaine "turned ashy pale;" (colic, perhaps); Roscoe shook his curl, and was temporarily very happy; even Friday considered himself no sardine. But the sun rose the next morning just as usual, howbeit, the great State of New York did not have a United States Senator in the world, not even Roscoe.

Said a little child to another: "If you don't play like I want you to, I'll go right straight home, so I will!"

That explains the whole business with Conkling and Platt.

Roscoe used to take snuff and everybody almost would fall to sneezing vehemently. Already he begins to see that, since his childish display of temper, hardly anybody will respond that way anymore, though he was to shake his box right under their noses. Very doubtful if the New York Legislature sends either of the gentlemen back as Senators, which was to be a part of the play. That failure would flatten Roscoe out. The other man can't stand any more flattening.

Robertson was confirmed almost unanimously. Farley and Jones of this coast were among the very few Conkling sneezers in that matter.

THE "Quackery Act," so called, has been declared unconstitutional by Judge Freelon in the Superior Court, San Francisco, on the ground that it is special legislation. It was contended that the act conferring the privilege upon the three societies named, to the exclusion of all others, to appoint Boards of Examiners, and to issue certificates, was special legislation of the worst kind; that it made it possible for an unscrupulous ring to dictate who might and who might not practice their profession; that it made gross abuses possible by way of extorting large fees from some applicants, and denying others without cause, and several instances were cited.

THE New York Tribune says there is a probability of trouble at the Sunday school parade in Brooklyn this year, as the Unitarian, Swedenborgian, Universalist and some other denominations have not been asked to participate. Beecher's Sunday-school and the mission schools connected therewith have invited these schools to march with them, and if the Sunday-school Union does not permit them to march with them in regular line with the others, they will make a parade on the same day on a route of their own.

THE confirmation of the appointment of Stanley Matthews to the vacancy on the United States Supreme bench is a corporation victory, and may result in a reversal of the Granger and other decisions under which the railroads are now so restive. This is a grand step toward the surrender of the country to the railroad power, for Stanley Matthews is the recognized friend as he has been the supple advocate of all the leading corporations.

THE concession for the ship-railway across the isthmus of Tehuantepec, which Mr. James B. Eads obtained arom the Mexican Secretary of Public Works last December, has been approved unanimously by the lower House of the Mexican Congress. It is probable that the Senate also will approve of the project, although that body has acted in opposition to President Gonzalez from the time of his inauguration.

THE report that an extraordinary close guard is kept around the Emperor of Russia is denied. He goes about freely in the grounds. The alarming statements by the foreign journals regarding the health of the Empress are unfounded. The stories about armed Cossacks guarding the ante-room in the palace are pure inventions.

Score a knock down for Senator Miller of this State. During the discussion of the Chinese Treaty, Hoar of Massachusetts quoted from the Bible: "For God hath made of one blood all nations of the earth," when Miller immediately chimed in with the remainder of the the verse—"and hath determined the bounds of their habitation."

MINING PARTNERS AND RE-LOCATIONS.

The Acting Commissioner of the Gen- Land Office has decided a question which is of very great importance to miners. He says, in effect that where a lode mining claim has been located by several persons jointly, and thereafter the required expenditures have not been made, the claim may be re-located by one of the lormer claimants to the exclusion of co-claimants.

Now this is a ruling which has a very important effect. It not only gives an honest miner a chance to rid himself of profitless associates, who won't come up with their share, but it also allows the dishonest miners to get rid of partners, in ventures likely to be profitable, if said dishonest men are in charge of the property. People who have invested in claims with others, may as well look sharp personally, that the work is being done.

The question on which this ruling was made came up in the following orm: "Can one of the locators of a mining claim, upon which the necessary amount of expenditures for a given year have not been made, re-locate the claim as abandoned property, in his own name and for himself only?" The Acting Commissioner answers: "Section 2324, Revised Statutes, after prescribing the value of labor to be performed, or improvements to be made annually upon each claim, in order to protect the possessory right of locators, provides that 'upon a failure to comply with these conditions the claim or mine upon which such failure occurred shall shall be open to re-location in the same manner as if no location of the same had ever been made; provided that the original locators, their heirs, assigns or legal representatives, have not resumed work upon the claim after failure and before such location.'

"From this it will be seen that the only question to be considered in the case stated is whether one of a number of original locators, whose location has been abandoned, would stand upon the same footing as a stranger to the first location, who by the provision above recited, is expressly authorized to re-locate such abandoned claim.

"It is clear that one of a number of locators of a certain claim can, concurrently with such joint location, locate a separate claim, independently of his co-locators; and as an abandoned claim reverts to the mass of unappropriated public lands, and becomes subject to a new appropriation, 'in the same manner as if no location of the same had ever been made, I can see no valid objection to a new adverse location of such claim by one of the former locators."

At the same time the Commissioner decides that labor performed or improvements made by the original locator, cannot be claimed by him as part of the expenditures necessary to entitle him to a patent for relocating,

As every one knows, the reverse of the above decision has been accepted as the law for years past. Cases have occurred when a party of locators have all allowed their claims to a claim to lapse, and years after, any one or more of the party having relocated it, all of the original partners could and did set up an equal partnership in the re-location. The Commissioner's decision upsetting that system, is certainly founded on good common sense and justice, and will be accepted as such by all honestly disposed miners or mine locators.

GOVERNOR OVERTON, of the Chicasaw Nation, has gathered together an army of 300 men, and has issued an order that Texas cattle-raisers, and white men generally, must leave the country before June 1sl, or force will be used. A similar situation prevails in the Choctaw nation, where Governor C. Curtain has instructed the Sheriffs to immediately organize and arm the militia companies to drive out the whites.

THIS year, it is hoped, will end the career of the grasshoppers in Truckee Meadows. This season have appeared a spider and a kind of a bug which prey upon grasshoppers. Also, there has come up out of the ground a yellow unknown weed, bearing a yellow blossom, of which the grasshoppers greedily eat and then fall dead.

ACCORDING to the Enterprise, the Trustees of the Chico public school countenance the action af the boys who wrote obscene language on the walls of the school-house by discharging the teacher who complained of the bad practice, and lauding the boys as rising artists.

PRESIDENT LINCOLN'S old house at Springfield, Illinois, was recently torn down. An enterprising boy bought all the shingles for a dollar, and with his scroll saw is turning them into ornamental momentoes, which he sells at from fifty cents to one dollar each.

MONDAY, the 30th instant, is Memorial Day, and will be appropriately observed in every part of the United States.

A Border Tragedy.

A special to the Republican gives the following particulars of Lieutenant Cherry's murder near Fort Niobrara, Nebraska:

Private Charles Johnson deserted from Fort Niobrara on the morning of the 11th. A detail was sent out on his trail, which led ten miles east to the Hog Ranch, a notorious dance house, where the detail learned that a terrible tragedy had taken place. Some soldiers and citizens and some Indians from the Spotted Tail Agency were in the dance hall dancing with women, when two shots were fired outside and two masked men entered the place and ordered every one to throw up their hands. A soldier near the door grasped a gun in the hands of one of the desperadoes, who shot at Castlieau, proprietor of the ranch, but missed him. Castelieau promptly returned the fire with a shot-gun from his bar, striking the desperadoes rifle and wounding him with buckshot. Castelieau then fired his revolver. In the row, Dan Cunningham, alias "Wild Bill," a cowboy, was fatally shot through the lung. The robbers were compelled to retreat. A half-breed Indian, John Borileux, from the Spotted Tail Agency, was soon afterwards found killed outside, and one white man was wounded. The Indians inside mounted horses and left for the Agency. It was supposed the robbers were Johnson and Maguire, two desperadoes, Teddy Rhodes, former owner of "Hog Ranch," and another man unknown, there being four in all, who had the four horses which had been stolen from Niobeara, and Lieutenant Cherry, with five soldiers and five Indi. ans who were at the post with Spotted Tail on a visit, was SENT OUT AFTER THE ROBBERS.

After ridlng some miles on the trail, Lieutenant Cherry found one horse tied to a tree, together with bloody garments and a hat belonging to Teddy Rhodes, and the officer from this thought he had been killed and his body hidden. Lieutenant Cherry followed the trail twenty-five miles, and camped at Clark's ranch. Meantime a brother of Borileux came from the Spotted Tail Agency with a party of soldiers and Indians, and followed on after Cherry's trail. In resuming the pursuit, Cherry divided his party, retaining three men with himself. While riding along with these three men—who were Sergeant Harrison, Thomas Locke and James Conroy—

A SHOT WAS FIRED,

And Cherry turned and asked for an explanation. Locke, who had a pistol in his hand, said it had gone off accidentally, and he then instantly fired again, shooting Cherry through the heart, killing him instantly. Locke next fired on Conroy, at whom he had fired the first shot. Conroy was wounded, and fell from his horse. Harrison, seeing strange men now advancing, and believing that Cherry and himself had been betrayed, turned and fled. He rode his own horse down and then took Cherry's, which had followed. He reached Fort Niobrara at 9:30 Thursday night, and gave the above particulars. As was afterwards learned, the party whom Harrison saw advancing were Borileux and his party coming to join Cherry. Locke, who murdered Cherry, made his escape. Cherry's body was brought in by Captain Montgomery's company, detailed for that purpose.

A DEEP GLOOM

Has been cast over the garrison. Cherry was beloved by all who knew him. His career in the army was bright. He distinguished himself in the engagement with the Utes at Milk River, Colorado, September 29, 1879. It will be remembered that he saved Thornberg's command by a masterly and plucky retreat, in which his own company's loss was very heavy. He was every inch a soldier. Locke's motive in killing Cherry is a mystery. The news of Lieutenant Cherry's death is received here with profound sorrow, particularly by his army friends. He was a graduate of West Point, and was not more than thirty years of age, and had already gained a brilliant reputation as a soldier and frontier fighter. He was a man of fine nature, 6 feet high, well built, with a fine manly face—in every sense a model American officer. He was engaged to be married to a young lady belonging to a distinguished Pennsylvania family, a very amiable and beautiful girl. He was a general favorite in the army, and his loss will be keenly felt, particularly in his own regiment, the renowned Fifth Cavalry.

AN immense cave is said to have been found in William's canyon, Manitou, El Paso county, Colorado. There are 74 chambers and passageways, glittering with statactites. Shining crystals, tufts of satiny fiber, slender arms mimicking growths of coral, rams' horns twisted and intertwined in every conceivable way, pillars and pendants, statuettes and grotesque resemblances of life are among the charms of these enchanted halls. After entering the cave it takes about two miles of travel to explore every part of it. But the proprietors are building stairways and enlarging the narrow places so as to enable visitors to go the round without serious fatigue.

A MEETING of the stockholders of the celebrated Empire Mine, in Mineral King District, Tulare county, took place in San Francisco, on the 8th inst. According to the San Francisco Chronicle, Mr. Thomas Fowler is reviving into his pristine vigor. He succeeded in voting 96,498 shares of stock notwithstanding it is hypothecated and in the hands of another. He elected a Board of Directors to suit himself, was appointed Superintendent and will proceed at once with the development of the mine.—Bakersfield Californian.

ROBERT GRAVES, H. M. Yerington and Mr. Holt arrived in Bodie Tuesday night, and Wednesday morning started out on a reconoissance of the proposeq Mono Lake Railroad, and the timber land to which it is to be run. They are expected to return to day (Thursday). The prospects are good for commencing work on the road at an early day.—Bodie Free Press, May 18th.

WHEN you do not need help from any one, then any one will help you; and when you do need help the world is somehow looking the other way.

THE DANGER OVER.

The planets are in conjunction now as near as they can be, and have been so for nearly a week, and from this time on they will, in their eternal rounds, get hourly farther and farther out of line, so all the aerial and electrical disturbances predicted by the frightened innocents as likely to raise from this cause have, it may be said, passed away and no harm has been done to the earth or to the inhabitants thereof. The planet upon which we live is safe again; it has received a new lease of life, as it were, and sails on through space in its whirling course at peace with all its contemporaries in the solar system and with those in the sidereal heaven, as well. The seasons will follow one another as of yore; pain and sorrow will alternate with health and gladness; as from the beginning, man will come and go until the end, when earth, from whatever cause, shall no longer be a fit habitation for the race, but that condition is not likely to exist for untold years. The public may rest again in this new assurance that an all-wise Creator did not make the machinery of the universe to so clash and grind as to provide for its own destruction. Worlds may die as worlds have been born. Life may go out of them for want of the elements upon which it feeds, such as heat, or air, or water, but worlds were not made to be killed by the jarring of planets or the extinguishment of their suns. Let this faith in the goodness of the Creator be well implanted in the human mind in order that the fear of such a catastrophe sometimes caused by the wild speculations of scientific charlatans, may find no resting place therein.—Sacramento Bee.

Death of William McBride.

The Aurora Herald of last week says William McBride, an old pioneer of Aurora, died at Stockton, California, on Tuesday, April 26th. For several years Mr. McBride has been suffering from an old chronic disease, and sought the mild climate of Los Angeles for his health. He accompanied his wife to Stockton where he died as above stated. William McBride crossed the plains in 1860 with a surveying party, and settled for a time in Washoe county. He went from there to Tuolumne county, California, and came to Aurora in 1862. In company with Mr. Tuttle, deceased made surveys of mines here during that year. He remained in Aurora until 1864, when he bought a ranch on the Columbus road six miles from Benton, where he has since lived. In 1878 he married Miss Clara Myers, at Benton, a niece of Mrs. E. Mack of that place, and daughter of Henry Myer of Stockton. He leaves a wife and three children to mourn for him.—Candelaria True Fissure.

ARMY worms have appeared in Sonul valley, Mendocino county, and are destroying everything eatable within their path. They are traveling south and east. The streets and houses in Hopland are said to be literally alive with them.

THOUSANDS of documents are piled up in the Government Printing Office, corded up from floor to ceiling, which the late Congress ordered printed and then failed to appropriate money to pay for it.

The Reno Gazette estimates the anual shipment of beef cattle to San Francisco at 7,300 head, or an average of 20 a day, and the average weight of a Nevada beef at 1,100 pounds.

A FLYING MACHINE.—Oscar Bacon has constructed the model of a machine which, he thinks, will successfully solve the air navigation problem. The model may be seen at the Blaney House. As no part of the invention is under ban of secrecy, we will try to give an idea of what the air ship is to be. Premising first that every part of the machine is to be of steel for the sake of lightness, strength and efficiency, the sustaining or buoying power is a vast cylinder, pointed at the ends, say 48 feet in diameter and 112 in length; this is to be of sheet steel, thin as paper, perfectly air and gas tight, and to contain a constant charge of hydrogen gas, which gives an unvarying sustaining power of some 17,000 pounds, or between 5,000 and 6,000 pounds surplus above the weight of the machine, machinery and three days' stores aboard. Attached to this huge cylinder, extending along its under side, is a boat or ship, complete in all its appointments for water navigation if something should "drap" while sailing above the seas. This boat is of similar material to that of the big cylinder above. This boat contains the propeling power, the lifting or sustaining power being already amply provided for by the gas in the cylinder as described. First comes one of the lately invented gas engines, which, we read, gives relatively much more power than the steam engine, yet, needing no boiler or furnace, or weight of water or fuel, with scarce a tenth of the weight of the latter. Weight, or rather, the lack of weight, is everything in sailing through the air, as everyone knows who ever tried to go anywheres through that thin element alone. Hence the value of this light but powerful gas engine in aerial getting through the world. The means of propulsion consist of two, four or more paddle wheels of peculiar construction, driven by the engine. These paddle wheels are of thin, broad and long sheet steel blades, radiating from the hub the same as the arms upon which they are pivoted in such manner as to permit a quarter revolution, each on its own axis, or arm. The wheel is caused to revolve with great rapidity; the paddles during the greater part of the revolution, are, by means of a fixed cam, turned edgewise to the air so as not to impede progress; then, at the proper time, they are turned broadside to the air, and while in that position, are in position to shove things right along—and if they don't do it, Mr. B. will be much disappointed in so far that he considers that the want supplied by this device is the missing link between man and the birds—that is, that while man can unquestionably float high in the air by means of well-tried appliances, to float like an inanimate gas bag was all the most intelligent man could do, whereas, the commonest bird could propel himself through the air in any direction he desired, and laugh the intelligent floater to scorn. But now, if this propeller above described, fulfills the hopes of its sanguine inventor, the birds will not hereafter have it all their own way.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT.—On the 19th Wm. Adams was, on information filed by the District Attorney, duly arraigned for trial for an assault to commit murder on the person of P. W. Forbes on the 7th of April last. The case was set for trial during the July term. As there is reason to expect, however, that Mr. Reddy, leading counsel for Mr. Adams, cannot be here at that time, it is very probable the case will not come up before November.....Motion of plaintiff and respondent in the case L. J. Horton vs. F. W. Hilton, to dismiss was denied by the Court.

MINES BONDED.—An agreement has been perfected between Wm. Hamilton, of the Kern & Inyo Stage Co., and Antonio Moreno, whereby for the sum of $1,000 the latter contracts to give a bond for a deed to the Hidalgo, Ave Maria and El Plan gold mines, situated near Juarez Camp, in Beveridge District. When given, the bond is to continue for 120 days, and if at the end of that time the purchase price is not paid the $1,000 is to be forfeited. It is greatly to be hoped that a wealthy company may be organized to take hold of these rich properties.

THE LAURA MINE.—This is a location in Beveredge owned by Nate Mount, Jack Welsh, Omie Mairs and A. R. Conklin, and gives promise of considerable value, as will be seen by the following assays of its ores: Black ore gives, gold, $318.95, silver $4.70—total, $323.65; Honeycrab ore—gold, $190.75, silver, $5.40—$196.17; White ore, gold $18-83. silver, $1.17—$50.00; The assays were made by T. M. Luther & Co. of Bodie.

SUIT FOR DAMAGES.—On the 19th, P. W. Forbes filed his complaint in a suit against Wm. Adams, Jr., to recover $40,000 damages for personal injuries received from the latter in the late shooting in which they were principals. Mr. Forbes has so far recovered from his wound as to be able to be about again, and appeared here in person to attend to the above matter. Paul Bennet, Esq., is his attorney in the case.

THE NEAL.—Developments in the famous Neal mine, Indian District, near Benton, are reported as highly favorable, the 21-foot ledge holding its own to the greatest depth, some 80 feet. Some of the ore assays up to $120 per ton, gold and free milling. It is now property of Dr. S. A. Middleton, who we hope may become a bonanza millionaire.

SOLD.—The Mineatta mill property at Lookout has been sold by Belshaw & Co. to an Arizona company represented by J. L. Porter. It is to be removed to a point near Grapevine, on the Mojave river.

O. L. S. M. Co. BULLION.—The new mill shipped last Monday a bar of very fine silver bullion, weighing 960 ounces.

The Entertainment.

The entertainment on Wednesday evening passed off in a very pleasant and satisfactory manner in every respect, especially when giving due allowance to the fact the presentations were almost without an exception by actors of tender years, with parts to correspond, not intended for high dramatic effect, but none the less enjoyed because that was not the case. The capacious court-room was pretty nearly filled with an appreciative and most kindly disposed audience—one that would do honor to any theatrical occasion, whomsoever the actors.

One young man on a back seat succeeded, by means peculiar to himself, in making one of the hits of the evening. It seemed to hit everybody alike (and dozens so expressed themselves) that if a stray thunderbolt should happen to hit that young man just enough to stop some of his noise on occasions of this sort that thunderbolt would not have been created in vain. The young man doubtless thought he was adding to the enjoyments of the occasion, and meant only to do so, but if we are not misinformed, none of the applause was really intended for him, so he was probably wrong in his premises.

Little May Parker rendered the Lord's Prayer in a manner to elicit general commendation.

Next in order of recurrence on the programme to receive warm applause was little Ruth Willis' recitation "Going to Church."

Eddie Rose in "Independence Bell," and Bertie Gelatt in "September Gale," did quite well.

The song "Now I lay me down to sleep," by Lena Harris and Della Willis, was eminently a success.

Miss Mallory's "Hezekiah Bedott" was well received.

Minnie Harris, Maggie Schalten and Julia Cook sustained their parts very well in rather a tame dialogue.

As "Margaret O'Flannigan" in "In want of a servant," Miss Addie Lewis took first premium for good acting. In the same dialogue Miss Emma Kemp personated "Mrs. Marshall" very well indeed. Her rendering of "Curfew shall not ring to-night," was also good.

Lena Walters' "Give me three grains of corn," was recited in superior style, and Minnie Harris' "Creeds of the bells," was a creditable effort.

The duet in character by Della Willls and "Boots" Conklin was the strike of the evening, and received a warm encore.

Carrie Willis recited "Widow Bedott's poetry" in excellent style, but probably with less agreeable effect because it was the second of the same sort, both full long, no matter how well told.

The closing dialogue was played very well by each and all, but by no one in particular in such a striking manner as to warrant special mention.

Quite a number of very little folks got through with their pieces acceptably, not to say firstrate, seeing that they did not break down, but, if we except the two or three already named, none with such brilliancy as to justify further individual mention.

Some beautiful tableaux were spoiled by an inefficient light.

Board of Education Proceedings.

This body met in regular session on Wednesday, May 18th. Present—S. W. Blaisdell, Daniel Crough, P. A. Chalfant and County Superintendent J. W. Symmes, ex-officio Secretary.

Judge Conklin, President, being absent, P. A. Chalfant was chosen President, pro tem.

Minutes of the last meeting read and approved.

The Secretary reported that there were no applications for teachers' certificates on file.

The matter of adopting certain text books was informally discussed and passed to the November term.

A motion by Mr. Crough to restore spelling to the minimum list of studies in teachers examinations was unanimously carried. [This, with grammar and arithmetic, requires 60 per cent. of correct answers, else the applicant is barred from further examination].

There being no further business, the Board, at 2 P. M. adjourned till the next regular term in November next.

CARD OF THANKS.—Mrs. E. M. Willis, manager in chief of the entertainment which came off Wednesday evening, requests space for the following, which explains itself: "MESSRS. EDITORS—Allow me, through the columns of THE INDEPENDENT, to express my thanks to the Board of Supervisors for granting the use of the court-room for the entertainment on the evening of the 18th instant; to the people of the place for the many favors shown and much valuable assistance freely given in the preparations, and to the public generally for their large attendance and liberal patronage, thereby making it a pleasant and profitable affair."

MINERALS.—Yesterday Mr. S. D. Woodhull was engaged re-arranging and extending his extensive collection of ores, at his asaay office. Pretty much all of the almost infinite variety of ores found in this country are represented, as well as those of many other noted points, through some late additions. It is well worth inspection by anyone interested in mining, and there are very few residents of Inyo who are not.

THE FINANCIAL PART.—The receipts of the entertainment, Wednesday evening, were $96.55; and the cash outlay was $16.30, leaving a net balance of $80.25, which is in excess of what was generally anticipated.

TO REBUILD.—J. G. Dodge, at Lone Pine, is grading the lot in the centre of the town, where was located the stable which was destroyed by fire. He is about building an entire new establishment.

COMPLETED.—D. Stubblefield yesterday completed his cantract of supplying piles and lumber for the Bend City bridge.

HERE.—Dr. M. W. Parsons, of Stockton, came to town from Bishop Creek to-day.

LETTER FROM LONE PINE.

LONE PINE, May 20th, 1881.

MESSRS. EDITORS—In lieu of any important news from Lone Pone, I thought I would drop you a line about a trip I had to Beveridge Diitrict.

I started from Lone Pine May 15th about 7 o'clock P. M. Arrived at Juarez camp at 1 o'clock A. M.; and started in company with Mr. Wemple, and Antonio Moreno to see the celebrated Keynot mine. It is situated about four miles northwest of Juarez camp on a very rough hillside. The mine is stripped for 600 feet, and dips to the west. There are eight or ten tunnels running on the ledge varying from thirty to seventy feet in length. I examined all of them. I measured the ledge at the deepest tunnel and I found that it was five feet from wall to wall and mostly decomposed quartz; in handling a great many of the pieces the gold would fall out of it. There is also a great deal of crystalized quartz in which gold can be seen, and according to the statement of Mr. Moreno, a great deal of it pays from $40 to $50 per cargo of 300 lbs. It is packed on mules from the mines to the srrastras. After satisfying our curiosity we started back to Juarez camp, and concluded that there was no exaggeration about the mine. I for one was like the Queen of Sheba in visiting Solomon's temple, the half of it had not been told, and I went off satisfied that Beveridge District was one of the richest on the coast. We got back to Juarez camp about 6 o'clock A. M. where we found Wm. Hamilton of the stage line, waiting for us with the necessary refreshments.

Juarez camp is situated in a cañon emptying in Saline valley, with plenty of good water for mining purposes. There are 22 arastras running steady by mule power, and for a mile up and down the cañon you can hear the word "macho" or "anola mula"! There are thirty to forty mules packing ore every day, making two trips daily. The next day we returned to Lone Pine. Mr. Hamilton started back to Mojave, very much delighted of his trip to Beveridge district. Since I have got back I understand they have discovered two more rich veins of the same nature as the Keynot mine but richer. There is a specimen in town but I have not seen it yet. Two month ago you could find plenty of vacant houses here, but to day they are all occupied, and I believe that the time is not far distant when we will hear quartz mills crushing our rich ores.

LONE PINE.

SAD.—The many friends of Dr. C. B. White, U. S. A., formerly of this Post, will regret to hear that he is afflicted with a disease of long standing which, he himself writes, will in a few weeks at farthermost end his earthly career. He is now in the city of New York, and for some months past, has had an indefinite leave of absence from duty in the army. We can only hope that he is mistaken as to his own condition and that his time may not come for many years yet—perhaps would not, were he again in this climate.

FOR TESTING ORES.—As completing the Keeler mill, so far as ingenuity and thorough knowledge of the business can suggest, Supt. Holt has just constructed a one-stamp battery and two small amalgamating pans. It is distinct from the regular works, and intended for crushing and testing all varieties of milling ores, in lots of 10 or 100 lbs. or more. It is a "prospect mill," destined to prove a very important auxiliary to the main concern.

STRUCK IT.—J. H. Ely, writing from Swansea, relates the discovery of "a world's wonder"—a quartz ledge within 200 yards of the edge of Owens Lake, near the old Dockweiler Station. The ore sent is lead sulphides, of a low grade. John's veracity is at stake in the matter and he wants the public to come and see the "wonder."

RICH ENOUGH.—Mr. Woodhull's assay of ore from the "Paddy Jack" discovery at Beveridge district, resulted in $361.67 gold, and $7.85 in silver; total, $367.52 per ton. This is one of the new properties and belongs to Dan. Crough, Jack Welsh, Nate Mount, Charley Hollenback and Judge Conklin.

SWANSEA SLAG.—From A. W. Eibeshutz, who returned from Cerro Gordo to-day, we hear that the Swansea Mining Company have been overhauling their immense slag pile at the old furnance on the lake, with astonishing results. Thousands of tons of rich, half-smelted ore and metal have been sorted out.

ON BUSINESS.—Deputy United States Marshal Dunlap was in town yesterday. So far as learned his business was in connection with some legal proceedings affecting the possession and ownership of the old Defiance mine at Darwin.

THE QUEEN.—Supt. Adams, of the Indian Queen property near Benton, says that the mine has sufficient ore in sight to assure, for eight or ten months to come, the company's regular dividends of $17,000 to $18,000 per month.

YGNACIO ORE.—Cameron's teams passed southward yesterday, going to Cerro Gordo to haul ore from the Ygnacio mine to the mill at Keeler. The ore is first class, and will amount to 200 tons or more in quantity.

A VISIT.—Supt. J. M. Dawley, mill and mining operator of Bodie, was during the week engaged in visiting the Brown Monster and Hirsch properties across the river and the Ygnacio at Cerro Gordo.

MAP.—We are under obligations to W. A. Greenly for a photographic copy of Seely's fine map of Deep Spring district. Some further references to it and that section will be made next week.

IN TOWN.—Dr. H. W. Gould, the well-known dentist of Cerro Gordo is in town and ready for business in his line.

BACK AGAIN.—Mr. H. C. Yager, the marble cutter returned to-day from San Bernardino and will resume operations in his line again at Big Pine. His advertisement will appear next week.

ASSESSMENT.—The Los Angeles Mining and Smelting Co., operating at Resting Springs, has levied an assessment of $1.75 per share; delinquent July 5th; day of sale, August 9th.

DISSOLVED.—One of the oldest mining and saloon firms in the county—Hughes & Williams—has dissolved partnership, just after getting splendidly fixed for a prosperous business at Lone Pine.

THE new public building now going up on the Government Square at Denver, Col., is to be one of the finest structures in the West. One wing is designed for a high school, the other for a free public library. There will also be a lecture hall, with a seating capacity of 1,000.

AN old mining camp with an abundance of gold ore has been discovered in the Ticolotina Mountains, fifteen miles from Las Vegas, New Mexico, at an altitude of 10,000 feet. Crude utensils for extracting and crushing the ore were found strewn about the place.

THE Prescott, Arizona, Miner, is requested by contractors to say that 1,000 to 2,000 men can find employment on the 35th parallel line of railway at wages ranging from $2.25 to $4 per day. Let the idle go to the front.

THE State Board of Equalization have assessed the railroads higher than last year. The Southern Pacific is valued at $16,500 per mile. The grand total of all the valuation is $34,873,999.

MR. NADEAU, the boss teamster of Southern California, presented himself in Bakersfield on Monday, and spent the day in overhauling the Bodie outfit of Sol. Simpson. Before the day closed he bought the whole works, consisting of fifty-six mules and oxen, seven sixteen mule wagons, harness, etc. The price paid was between ten and eleven thousand dollars. The teams started on Wednesday for Tombstone, via Los Angeles, where Nadeau will use them in the freighting business.—Kern County Gazette.

A JOURNAL in Holland is struggling to explain to its readers the intricacies of American politics. A foot-note to a long article says: Carpet bag—karpetzak reiszak Lieien, die slechts met een reiszak in't land hwamen; wij zouden zrggen; op edn saroowisch zejn komen annnrijveni." We trust that this will satisfy the rapacious tribe.

There is no doubt that at least one million feet of lumber will be needed in this county within the next three months, for the construction of granaries on ranches. Now is the opportunity for our local saw-mills.—Visalia Delta.

THE MINER'S SOLILOQUY.

To go or not to go; that is the question;
Whether 'tis wiser in the honest miner
To work persistently on fissure veins,
Or load a burro and absquatulate,
And by migration quit them. To go, to skip—
That's all—and by vamoosing say he strikes
The trail that leads to wealth and fills his purse
With glittering lucre; 'tis a consummation
Too gorgeous to expect. To go, to skip—
To toil, perchance to fail—aye, there's the rub;
For in that untried field what woes way come
When he has shuffled off the last red cent?
What man would pay the gorgeous royalty,
Or bear the pang of minimum assays,
When he himself might his own fortune make
With pick and shovel? Who would these trials bear?
To toil and wrestle with a doubtful lease,
But that the fear of running out of funds,
Before he strikes the contact, curbs his will
And rather makes him work the streak he has
Than tackle the one that may be twice as lean.
Experience makes philosphers of us all,
And oft a little wholesome hesitation
Bears fairer fruit than reckless resolution.
Thus enterprise needing scads and silver
Are bursted in the bud. Soft, you now,
Angelic reader. Nymyh of the hash-house table,
Be all my wants remembered!

—Tombstone Epitaph.

THE Virginia Evening "Chronicle" says that Governor Kinkead, of Nevada, thinks the scheme to take water into Candelaria will be a big success. The mines of that district are known to contain vast deposits of ore that will mill from $20 to $40 per ton. Under the present system these ores have to be hauled seven miles to Belleville, where $20 per ton is the price charged for reducing them. This leaves a small margin for profit. When the water is introduced Candelaria will be the liveliest camp on the Pacific Coast. The project is in the hands of a strong New York company, with which Gov. Kinkead is associated.

IT is quite evident that there may be a chance for serious trouble among the great Powers of Europe over the proposition of Germany and Russia to hold a European conference upon international measures for the general extradition of all persons accused of complicity in any way with Nihilism. The right of asylum is the most pronounced and cherished feature of the freedom of England, France, Switzerland, Italy, Belgium and the United States. Of course England will not agree to part with this privilege, nor will the United States. It will be very singular if either Italy or France should do so.

THE electric light is making great progress. One of the effects of the new illumination will probably be to change the working hours from day to night in the centers of population in hot regions. There is no heat from the electric light, and work can be accomplished quite as readily by its aid as during the day time. The tendency common to all civilized people, of turning night into day, for pleasure if not for business, will probably also be increased by the use of the electric light.

PERU is in a horrible condition. The country is overrun with banditti, who sally out from inaccessible intrenchments in the mountains and desolate the plantations. As if this were not enough, the Chileans impose enormous contributions on all proprietors who have anything left. The agriculturists have ceased to till their lands, but hang around the cities, and nothing can be more certain than that unsuccessful war will be followed by a terrible famine.

MR. W. G. SHANKS, city editor of the New York Tribune, recently lost $247,500. He sued a news company for $250,000 for circulating a paper containing libelous statements concerning him, and recovered a judgment for $2,500. Mr. Shanks places a very high figure on his reputation; but if he had collected even half the amount asked for, his wounds would no doubt have been healed.

THE marriage notice which White law Reid gets from the New York Sun is about the liveliest thing in that line that has ever seen print. It must be very entertaining to Mr. and Mrs. Reid.

MEXICO is undergoing a rapid transformation. In the incredible short space of seven months, $68,000,000 have been invested in railroad and mining enterprises by American capitalists.

IN society slang the rage just now is for nicknames for well known ladies. The ladies of title in England—a duchess, a countess and a viscountess—have been respectively dubbed ihe "World" the "Flesh" and the "Devil," and the three ladies well known in Newport. "Battle" "Murder" and "Sudden Death" are names given to three beautiful sisters, now all married, but who, a few years since, were slaying their tens of thousands by the potency of their charms. The eldest, who was, perhaps, the least attractive of the three, was supposed to do battle with her adorers, and in fair combat, to give them a chance to escape, although generally coming off victorious; the second to destroy them single handed, in cold blood; and the third, whose beauty was quite irresistible; to bring her victims down with swift and sudden shots.

THE last party of Government surveyors who came through this part of the country, says the Virginia "Chronicle," made a scientific examination of the Comstock lode, and after microscopic inspection gave the principal rocks their true names. The footwall, or western wall of the vein, they call diorite, and the hanging, or eastern wall, diabase. The vein matter is pronounced to be a mixture of diabase, diorite and quartz. Hereafter the Comstocker who desires to be strictly correct in his language must bid good bye to such old-fashioned expressions as bird's-eye porphyry, propolyte, syenite and the like.

A CERTAIN Dean of Ely was once at a dinner, when, just as the cloth was removed, the subject of discourse happened to be that of extraordinary mortality among lawyers. "We have lost," said a gentleman, "not less than seven eminent barristers in as many months." The Dean, who was very deaf, rose at the conclusion of these remarks, and gave the usual form of grace: "For this and every other mercy the Lord make us thankful."

LEGAL.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

BY VIRTUE OF AN EXECUTION ISSUED out of the Superior Court in and for the County of Inyo, State of California, in the suit of Joseph Waterman and C. F. O'Brion, partners doing business under the firm name and style of Waterman & O'Brion, Plaintiffs, against Frank S. Collins, Defendant, upon a judgment rendered in said Court on the Twenty-second day of April, A. D. 1881, for the sum of Two Thousand Three Hundred and Thirteen 33-100 Dollars in gold coin of the United States, besides costs amounting to the sum of Ninety-one 70-100 Dollars, duly attested the Twenty-second day of April, A. D. 1881, whereby I am commanded to make the amount of $2,405 03-100 in gold coin of the United States, besides accruing costs and interest, I have levied upon all the right, title and interest of the said Defendant in and to the following described real property, to-wit:

All those certain mines, lodes or leads known and designated as the Lighthouse mine, the Alpha mine, Hamlet or Panamint View mine, the St. Louis mine, the Atlantic mine, the Safety mine, the Dictator mine and the St. George mine. Also, that certain millsite and quartz mill known as the Snow Cañon Mill, together with all the machinery, buildings, offices, shops and appurtenances belonging thereto or in anywise appertaining. EXTRACTED HONEY.

THIS HONEY WAS REMOVED FROM THE comb by centrifugal force, with a machine made for the purpose. It is therefore virtually the same as honey in the comb, only you don't have to eat the bees-wax, which is indigestible and therefore disagrees with many persons. When first extracted the honey is liquid, but nearly all pure honey will candy or granulate in course of time, especially if exposed to the cold. Putting the cans in hot water for a short time will bring the honey to its fluid state without injury.

This Honey is put up in 10 pound cans, with patented screw tops, which renders it convenient for family use, and especially for the mines, to which it may be packed, even upside down, without leakage. A neat label on each can gives full directions.

Price, $1 50 per can, or 12½ cents per lb at the Apiary, if customers furnish their own receptacle. For sale at Harris & Rhine's, Independence, and at the Apiary, at Jacob Vagt's place, Camp Independence.

A NEW MOSES.

The Rev. George O. Barnes is styled in Kentucky the "Mountain Moses." He preaches in the wilderness and on the hillsides, holding services in courthouses during Winter and in the woods in warm weather. For eighteen months he has not missed preaching two sermons a day, and three on Sunday. His daughter plays on a small reed organ and assists him in work. He stays where he can. He will not take money from the poor. He makes no provision for the morrow, and preaches contentment with to-days health, food and happiness. An infidel whom he had converted sent a tailor to measure the preacher for a suit of clothes. "No," said he; "the present suit is good; when that is gone God will provide another." He asks for nothing and accepts only so much as he needs. A correspondent of the Louisville "Courier-Journal" states that Mr. Barnes has been preaching in Richmond, the rich and beautiful little capital of Madson County, for nearly three weeks. He had previously concluded meetings at Stanford and Lancaster, converting hundreds at each place and leaving the deepest impression on the people. At Richmond his progress has been slower. He has met an organized opposition, and it is only gradually that prejudice has given way before his irresistible simplicity and perseverance. At every meeting, however, the First Christian Church, where he preaches, is filled, and many are unable to gain admission. The building will hold about 650 persons, and for an hour before the service begins—in the evening, promptly at 7:12—a stream of people flows in. From his lips falls sayings like these: "Some orthodox Christians do not expect to go to Heaven on faith, but on the general principle of their high respectability on earth." "It does not take a club to mistreat your wife; you can cut her heart with an angry word." "The Bible says, 'Praise the Lord with gladness,' and Martin Luther, I think, did a very bad thing in setting 'Old Hundred' to such a lugubrious tune. It is impossible to praise the Lord with gladness in long meter." "The devil is always busy setting up a job on poor humanity, and he would rather get it into a hymnbook or catechism than anything else." "There are some things we do not know. Why God commanded baptism by water instead of cutting off a lock of hair is one of them. All we know of this is that it is Gods will." "A young minister named Minor, in Clark County, who was energetic and active, had a fine bluegrass farm of fifty acres, a herd of twenty-seven thoroughbred cattle and owned an interest in a flour mill. And he tried to preach the Gospel with all that about him. He has sold it all, bought an organ, and next week starts out with his young wife through the mountains of Virginia to save souls." "How does it come that ministers have only taken half the commission? They preach the Gospel but do not heal the sick. I do not tell any other brother what he shall do. From this day until I die, or am carried up to Christ (and I hope and expect to be carried up to Him without dying—though I do not fear death and am ready to die if he wills it)—I expect to carry with me a little bottle of oil, and whatever sister or brother believing in Christ's promise wants to be healed, I shall pray with them and do my part according to the commands of Jesus Christ."

Victor Hugo's Island.

Not the least picturesque among the countless sights of Guernsey, writes a correspondent, is its capital, St Peter's Port, which lies just where the stern, rocky hills of the parish of St. Martin suddenly break the monotony of the flat, pebblp beach that faces toward Sark. Seen from a distance, the quaint old town looks very much like a broad waterfall of buildings rushing over the edge of a high, bold ridge, in the midst of which a deep, narrow cleft seems to suck in greedily both houses and churches, only to cast them forth again lower down again in a confused welter of huts and houses, tall white hotels and traplike shops, tiny gardens and big, glass-roofed hothouses, which spread far along the edge of the harbor, and for want of any better name is called an esplanade. When you enter the town itself you find the steep, stairlike streets, the high, close-packed houses, the break-neck ascents and descents which characterize Oran, Algiers, Valetta, Corfu, Jaffa, Smyrna, and so many other seaports of the Meditteranian.

The caprices of the smaller streets are past all finding out, and woe to the unfortunate pedestrian who gets involved among them while posting back to his hotel to be in time for dinner. Some of these perverse thoroughfares zigzag so outrageously that in two minutes the traveler loses all idea of which way he is going as utterly as if he were alone in the heart of the Roman catacombs. Others tempt him by an insiduous turn downward toward his destinasion, and then, suddenly throwing off the mask, leads him right up the hill again. When he humbles himself at length to ask his way of the passers-by, their contradictory directions drive him to absolute lunacy. At last, just as his frenzy has subsided into a calm despair, and he is resigning himself to the idea of taking refuge for the night in the first hotel that may present itself, and resuming the search for his own next morning, he seems to slip suddenly down a kind of magnificent trapdoor, and lo! he is out upon the open quay, and quite close to the hotel itself.

What these paved precipices may be in Winter it is easy to imagine. True, it is but seldom that this favored island has either frost or snow enough to be worthy of mention; but the all-pervading cold of last January has left its mark even here, and given rise to countless amazing legends. One of these tells of a luckless promenader who, making a false step at the top of one of the steepest streets, went flying at railroad speed down its whole length, and plunged headforemost into a tailor's shop at the bottom, sweeping away, like a cannon ball, customers, stools, rolls of cloth, and everything else, whereupon the tailor remarked, with uncalled-for sarcasm, that, "as he seemed to be in a hurry he would be happy to serve him first." Another tradition recounts the making, by some frolicsome young men, of a snowball nine feet high, which, after trundling down the high street from top to bottom, rolled out upon the quay, and finally landed right against a stablekeeper's front door, which it blocked up so effectually that the luckless man was forced to make his exit next morning by the first floor window.

SHE was a Boston girl. She was visiting her Whitehall county cousins. While walking out, several butterflies passed her. "Oh, dear me, what charming little birds. They are perfectly exquisite." "They are not birds, my dear," replied her cousin, "they are butterflies." "Oh, you don't say so. Then these are the deah little creatures that fly from flower to flower and gather the sweet yellow butter that we use? They are too lovely for anything."

Industrial Secrets.

A century ago what a man discovered in the arts he concealed. Workmen were put upon an oath never to reveal the process used by their employers. Doors were kept closed, artisans going out were searched, visitors were rigorously excluded from admission, and false operations blinded the workmen themselves. The mysteries of every craft were hedged in by thick-set fences of empirical pretensions and judicial affirmation. The royal manufactories of porcelain, for example, were carried on in Europe with a spirit of jealous exclusiveness. His Majesty of Saxony was especially circumspect. Not content with the oath of secrecy imposed upon his workpeople, he would not abate his kingly suspicion in favor of a brother monarch. Neither king nor king's delegate might enter the tabooed walls of Meissen. What is erroneously called the Dresden porcelain—that exquisite pottery of which the world has never seen its like—was produced for two hundred years by a process so secret that neither the bribery of princes nor the garrulity of operatives revealed it. Other discoveries have been less successfully guarded, fortunately for the world. The manufacture of tinware in England originated in a stolen secret. Few readers need be informed that tinware is simply thin iron plated with tin by being dipped into the molten metal. In theory it is an easy matter to clean the surface of iron, dip it into a bath of boiling tin, remove it enveloped with a silvery metal to a place of cooling. In practice, however, the process is one of the most difficult in the arts. It was discovered in Holland, and guarded from publicity with the utmost vigilance for more than half a century. Engtried in vain to discover the secret, until James Sherman, a Cornish miner, insinuated himself master of the secret, and brought it home. The secret of manufacturing steel was also stealthily obtained, and is now within the reach of all artisans.

Railroads and Mining.

Few people realize, says the Stock Report, the benefits conferred upon the mining interest by the new railroads of this coast. These railroads are really doing more for mining than for agriculture or commerce. The grand trunk lines increase the facilities of trade in general, but the feeders, in almost every instance, tap one or more mining districts and are the direct means of drawing fresh capital into mining. It is practically impossible to build a branch road in California or Nevada without aiding the development of new mines, or mines that have been found unprofitable because of the lack of transportation facilities. The Virginia & Truckee Railroad hastened the development of the Comstock, the Eureka & Palisade Railroad helped to develop the great mining district of Eureka, the Carson & Colorado Railroad will bring the Columbus, Silver Peak, Gold Mountain, Lida Valley and other districts to the front, and the branch lines from the Southern Pacific and other southern roads will aid in opening up the mines of Arizona and New Mexico. Instead of the decline in mining which many newspapers have been predicting for years, and which they have tried to bring about, we shall have an increase of mining industries. The mining boom of the future will be on the Pacific coast, and it will be a big one.

THERE are now 73 engineers and 400 subordinate workmen of various grades engaged in making a detailed survey of the Panama Canal route. At the point where it is proposed to dam the Chagres River they have sunk a shaft 100 feet without finding bedrock, and are getting anxious, as no other foundation will be suitable for the great dam, which is to be the largest ever built.

WHEN you hear a mother calling to her son to "come here and shut the shutter," and hear him respond: "It is shut, mother, and I can't shut it any shutter," do you ever pause to analyze the delicate beauties of our language?

AN Illinois editor returns thanks for a centipede sent him by mail from Texas, it being the first cent of any kind that he has received for several weeks.

FACTS ABOUT SAHARA.—Recently Dr. Lenz, who has just returned from an expedition across the Sahara desert to Timbuctoo, gave a lecture before the Paris Geographical Society. Dr. Lenz decisively condemns as impracticable the project of flooding the Sahara. The fresh water fossils, which are met with in many places, shows that the Sahara is not the bottom of a dried up sea. The temperature is not nearly so hot as might be expected; wild beasts are rare, and the most formidable enemies to be met with are the Tonraeg tribes, who, according to report, have recently massacred the French Trans-Saharan Expedition. On the whole, the impression is conveyed that the Sahara is not half as black as it has been painted, and that it is entitled to an apology from the entire civilized world.

THE STATE LINE BONANZA.—Mr. F. F. Osbiston, who has recently visited the State Line mine, in the interest of Mr. Mackey, telegraphs to a prominent mining operator in New York that Mr. Taylor's reports and the statements of other experts are fully borne out by the facts. He coincides with them in the opinion that the property constitutes the greatest gold mine on this continent. The dispatch conveying this information has been witheld from the reporters of the press, but its effect was noticeable to-day on the rise in the stock, which seems now in a fair way to go steadily up.—[N. Y. Mining News.

THE instructions for making a gunpowder assay, which were published by the Chicago Mining Review some time since, and which have been extensively copied throughout the West, have been carried out to the letter by a number of Nevada miners, but failed to bring about the desired result. Pyramids of powder and rich chloride, a foot high, were erected and burned, but the metal did not melt, and, of course, the button was not in the ashes. Our esteemed contemporary will have to try again.—[N. Y. Stock Reporter.

A HUDSON citizen said to a young man who visited his daughter that he couldn't afford to have so much wood burned in the parlor stove evenings; the young man must come less often or quit earlier, or furnish his own wood. Next day two cords of nice wood were purchased by the young man and piled in the citizen's yard, with a big sign over the pile reading, "for use nights only." That young man means business.

NEW ORLEANS is stirred anew by an accrimonious discussion of the origin of the Creole families which hold social sway in that city. New Orleans was originally a military colony, and the first women brought over were from European houses of correction. Several later cargoes were of a better class. Not only were both sorts made wives by the French settlers, but Indian and negro girls readily found husbands. The present controversies arise from efforts to trace lineage back to the better emigrants, rather than to the convicts, the negroes or the natives.

THE steamer State of California, one of the finest and swiftest on this coast, was six days over due from Victoria to San Francisco, a fact that caused widespread uneasiness in the city and everywhere. A relief steamer was sent out, and soon found the missing vessel drifting helplessly along broadside to the wind, having broken her propeller shaft and rudder. She was safely towed into San Francisco on the 20th, where she and her passengers were received as warmly as if just from the bottom of the sea.

TALKING of public education, Whitelaw Reid, editor of the New York Tribune, lately said: "Strengthen the basis of the school system before you increase the superstructure. Teach few things, but teach them so they will be absolutely known. Make the course of studies more compact and manageable; postpone the accomplishments; banish every science and drawing, and first give the child what is essential for practical business of life, and a basis for self improvement.

WHERE two or more ledges cross or intersect each other, priority of title governs, and such prior location is entitled to all ore or mineral contained within the space of intersection, but the subsequent location has the right of way through the space of intersection for the purpose of the convenient working of the mine. And when two or more veins unite, the oldest or prior location takes the vein below the point of union, including all the space of intersection.

THE Record-Union of the 23d says: "Ice formed three inches thick on still water at Vallejo on Friday night"—which would do credit to Siberia. Then to fix it so outsiders will appreciate the wonders of our climate, another item in the same paper tells of the mercury standing at 96° in the shade up in Napa Valley, some 30 miles from Vallejo, and consideraby higher in altitude. There is a mistake somewhere.

THE Arizona Citizen states that grading on the Southern Pacific Railroad line is being pushed forward down the Rio Grande to meet the Galveston, Harrisburg and San Antonio Railroad, and a gap of about 300 miles only now exists between them. As building is going on from each end, the completion of a through route to Galveston is but a matter of a short time.

IT is supposed that the celebrated "Blue Bucket" diggings, of Oregon, have been re-discovered. The gold was found in 1845 by the Joe Meek emigrant party, and search has ever since been made for the spot. It is supposed that it is on the Malhuer reservation. The prospectors said to have found the place are very secret about it.

THE United States Senate adjourned its extraordinary session on the 20th. Mr. E. Chandler was defeated for Solicitor General, and Gorham and Riddleberger don't get elected to any office this time, and most likely, never will. Geo. C. is a "used up man," and the mourners are few, very few.

THE California Iron Company has expended $100,000 in erecting smelting works at its mine, Clipper Gap, Placer county, and will soon begin to make iron. This is an industry which should prosper. The importation of iron from the East and abroad is very large.

THE walking match in San Francisco closed on the night of the 20th with a good attendance and with the following scores: Dancer, 518 miles; Edwards, 510 miles; Guerero, 503 miles and one lap; Laton, 424 miles; Scott, 413 miles and five laps.

THE Chicago Times and Tribune published the revised edition of the New Testament in full last Sunday, it being telegraphed from New York. The world does move, sure.

THE third annual meeting of the Pacific Coast Press Association will be held in San Francisco, June 7th.

MR. EDISON took out his 301st patent on the 12th of March.

POLITICAL.

Interest in the Conkling and anti-Conkling business is becoming more and more intensified, now that Colonel Roscoe has announced his intention to go to Albany and work for his own and Platt's re-election to the Senate. He attended a conference of "stalwarts" in New York on the 22d, and there stated that if his friends insisted upon it he would go at once to Albany and make a personal canvass in his own and Platt's interest, but wanted it distinctly understood that his man Friday had to have his old seat, else he (Roscoe) would not accept anything for himself. By this it will be seen that Roscoe has become magnanimous for once in his life. Of course his "friends" said he must go, and so it was decided. Both factions have been industriously at work counting noses in Albany, and both claim they can count enough to give each side respectively the victory—which is not possible. But it is certain this contest will enhance the price of "noses" to a higher figure than they have attained since the elder Vanderbilt bought for railroad purposes.

Defeat means sack cloth and ashes, and political ruin to imperious Roscoe; his success means the verge of ruin to the Republican party, and put the merest shadow of a lasting triumph for himself so long as he poses as a leader of stalwarts. The conditions are anomalous: Conkling demands of Republicans a carte blanche commission to make war upon the head, body and tail of that very party. And there appears to be about an even chance that enough of them, together with a few Democrats will vote to so commission him, although it is an obvious fact that his course and pretensions are almost universally condemned by his party from one end of the Union to the other, and nowhere more strongly or more generally than in his own State. Nor, for so conspicuous a man, is there any politican before the people with so few warm personal friends as Roscoe Conkling. But for all that, he now as heretofore has a powerful bread and butter brigade tagging at his heels as well as certain other interests and influential individuals to back him up, and he is by no means a "dead duck" just yet.

The Democrats are delighted at the turn of affairs in the enemy's camp, as they have a right to be, and have no oil to spare to smooth the troubled waters. On the contrary, they are patting Roscoe on the back, and urging him to sail in and demolish the whole opposing outfit, not that he is so clearly right in his premises and claims, but because he is by far too great a man to be snubbed as he has been snubbed and not make a fuss about it. Gen. Grant thinks so, too, and he is going to help Roscoe make the fuss. Tilden also is going to bear a strong hand on the same side, probably more from personal than partisan motives. But foremost Tilden and Roscoe, both of whom he hates most cordially, comes Boss Kelly with a brand-new shillalah, all tuned up to concert pitch—and John can add much zest to shindys that interest him.

These things considered, we think if Roscoe and his man are not "vindicated" on the first ballot they never will be, and a dead-lock will ensue more lasting and full as distressing to the New York legislators as was the "slickens" trouble to our late California Solons.

THE Washington correspondent of the New York Times continues its exposures of the star-route service as conducted by the late Assistant Postmaster General Brady. Route No. 38,166, from Georgetown to Kokomo, Col., distance forty-four miles, service seven times per week from May to November, was awarded to James Stephenson of Omaha for $1,040. Stephenson offered to continue the service during the winter months, but was not allowed the opportunity to do so. The number of the route was changed, and without notice to Stephenson the service was arbitrarily given to James B. Colgrove for $14,760. The route from Ozark to Eureka Springs, Ark., eighty miles, six times per week, was let to John Cross, a friend of Senator Dorsey, without competition, for $14,400 per year. The route was subsequently let by contract to J. N. Miller of Springfield, Mo., for $48,000, Cross making a bid of $41,000. A number of similar instances are given by the Times correspondent.

CITY of Mexico advices state that the following official changes are rumored and generally believed: Zamacona, recalled; Mariscal to go to Washington; Emilio Velasco, Minister to France, to succeed Mariscal; Porfirio Diaz to go to France; General Pacheco to replace Diaz in the Department of Public Works; Senator Raymond Fernandes as Governor of the Federal District.

SCIENTISTS expect the activity of the sun's surface—shown by the number and size of the dark spots—to reach a maximum in 1882 or 1883. If caught in the track of a sun tempest a body like our earth would be swallowed up bodily and almost instantly.

THE NEW VERSION.

The revised version of the New Testament was offered for sale in London on the 17th instant, and was received with almost universal disapproval. Following is what the papers say in relation to it:

The public are astounded at the number and character of the changes in the authorized text. The Bishop of Gloucester, in presenting the work to the convention, announced that in the Gospel the changes average nine in each five verses, and in Epistles three changes to each verse. Elaborate criticisms appear in most of the daily papers, all condemnatory and accusing the revisers of a disregard of their pledges to introduce the fewest alterations possible. These articles quote a score of examples where the changes were purely frivolous and capricious, and denounce the self-opinionated scholarship of the motley combination of theologians and professors which has disfigured, mangled and made unrecognizable some of the noblest passages of the Bible. The Saturday Review complains of the childish pedantry of the revisers, and describes the new version as sadly inferior to the old one in general vigor and beauty of language. It predicts that it will never come into general use. Other papers express in similar terms their grief, astonishment and regret at the revisers' wanton disregard of the reverence and love felt by the English people of the existing text, saying that the revisers may know Greek, but not English, and protesting against defacing the noblest monument of English prose. It is understood that an Act of Parliament is required to enforce the use of the new version by the Established Church. The Government have no intention of proposing such an act. Meantime 2,000,000 copies have been sold. Cambridge and Oxford Universities, who own the copyright, are competing with each other in rather an undignified manner, but both are at present unable to supply the orders received after April. The Testament is published in various styles, at prices from one shilling to two pounds. The Cambridge edition is the better printed. In the popular judgment the tampering with a form of prayer familiar to every family in the land, is sufficient to condemn the entire work. The book sells for the moment, but the old version will hold its ground. The crowds at the distribution offices have been so great that traffic in the streets has been almost stopped. The Revision Committee on the Old Testament have closed its sixty-ninth session and carried the revision to the end of Solomons's Songs.

IT has been intimated that the attention of the Texas Legislature, soon to meet in extra session, will be called to the question of dividing that State into four. The Galveston News ridicules this idea, and says the session will be called to divide the State into Representative districts, and will go no further. In the last Legislature a resolution declaring that Texas relinquishes her right to divide her territory into four new additional States, as provided for in the article admitting the State into the Union, was voted down.

MAYOR KALLOCH, the veritable Isaac, of San Francisco and other places, is now in Indianapolis, Indiana, it is supposed for the purpose of representing, at the Baptist celebration, the faction of the church he claims to lead on this coast, and which split from the main body at the Conference held at Dixon, Solano county, a few weeks ago. A dispatch states that if he "seeks recognition to-morrow, there will be a breeze." Isaac is a nice old pill for decent Hoosiers to attempt to swallow.

THE example of the Western States in encouraging tree-planting has been followed by Massachusetts, and more lately by Connecticut. The last named State gives to every person who will plant and care for trees along any highway an annual bounty of $1 for each quarter of a mile so planted. The trees are to be elm, maple, tulip, basswood, ash, black walnut and hickory, the elms to be not more than 60 feet apart, and others not more than 30 feet apart.

IN the Empire mine, at Tombstone, on the 400-foot level, a well-defined vein six feet wide has been cut, the assays averaging $28,787. This is the only mine on the bonanza belt which has not heretofore proven a producer. It is a Boston incorporation. In the northwest working of the Goodenough, near the Virginia line, a four-foot vein of ore has been struck, averaging as high as $4,000. This is new ground, and a most important strike.

MINNESOTA has a new law permitting teachers in the public schools to give daily instruction in social science, good morals and patriotism. Thirty topics are specified, such as health, honesty and industry.

THERE is a river of ink in Algiers. It is formed by the union of two tributaries, one from a ferruginous tract of soil, the other from a peat country, bringing gallic acid.

CONKLING, Platt and Vice-President Arthur are all at the latest date, in Albany, pulling and hauling the unfortunate legislators about as hash-house runners were wont to pull wayfarers hither and yon on San Francisco wharves. Time was when Roscoe had only to say "Do this; do that," and "this" and "that" was immediately done. But now he has to come down to square buttonholing, the same as any scrub office-seeker. Secretary Blaine is in New York, and it is quite likely will be a zealous runner for the opposition house. The Democrats seem to have resolved to stand by a man of their own. Neither they nor either faction of the Republicans can alone elect, and a lasting dead-lock is a very probable contingency. Outside of the Legislature, public sentiment (Republican) seems to be almost universally against Roscoe and his man, also the officious Vice-President, who is Roscoe's most obedient.

ENGLAND is apt to carry things with a pretty high hand. This is the latest instance, so far as we are concerned, viz.: The Irish World, published in New York, is weeded out of the international mails, in violation of the "Universal Postal Union." The editor of the World has laid the matter before Secretary Blaine, in a forcible letter, referring, among other things, to the course of the London Times during our civil war, which sheet was not interfered with, though actual warfare was going on, and though the Postal Union did not then exist. The World claims to have 20,000 subscribers in Ireland. The suppression of that number of copies is, therefore, a very serious matter to the proprietors of the paper, as well as an unwarranted interference.

IN the latter part of 1862, Azariah Dougherty was murdered in his store in Princess Anne county, Maryland. Two negroes were arrested on suspicion, and a pocket knife owned by deceased was found in the possession of one of the accused. After repeated trials they were convicted on purely circumstantial evidence, and they were executed nearly four years after the murder, both men protesting their innocence up to the moment the fatal trap was sprung. Now Mrs. Patty A. Ward, of the same county, who is dying of cancer, confesses that she and her son (some years deceased) murdered Dougherty for his money.

THE Arizona Quarterly says of the Silver King mine: The most wonderful of all the sights beheld here is the effect of a recent blast, which has dislodged masses of quartz, tons of it being thrown out, beautiful and white, glittering and sprinkled with the dendritic virgin silver, ivy-like, infolding the bulky masses. Here can be seen native silver, silver copper glance, zinc-blende, galena, containing a great amount of antimony, copper pyrites and iron pyrites.

Two patients in an Illinois insane asylum, a man and a woman, escaped by means of a ladder, saddled horses in the stable of the institution, rode twenty miles to a clergyman, and by him were married in the morning, nothing in their manner at the time indicating that they were not sane. The pair continued their journey until in the afternoon, when each became convicted that the other was demented, and applied for protection.

JOB DRAPER, one of Mono county's most accomplished cutthroats, when arraigned for trial before Judge Wiggin at Bridgeport, Wednesday last, withdrew his plea of not guilty and substituted the plea of guilty of manslaughter, whereupon the Judge gave him the astonishingly severe sentence of four and a half years in the State Prison! Cold-blooded murder in Mono county begins to rate as nearly a bad a crime as stealing a three-year-old steer.

THE intolerance exhibited by the Russians towards the Jews cannot fail to impress the enlightened portion of the world with the belief that the capacity for self-government is not sufficiently developed in the Muscovite race to make it safe for them to throw their present ruler overboard. An intolerant people are not likely to be trustworthy custodians of a constitution.

ACCORDING to programme, two Kern county murderers were to give a final tight-rope exhibition yesterday in Bakersfield. Kern county is one of the least inviting in the State for manslayers—the only one in fact where they can't ply their vocation with impunity as regards law.

A SAN FRANCISCO paper thus alludes to Hugh Mohan: "Don't forget that the distinguished Pennsylvania exile, Hugh J. Mohan, will twist the British Lion's tail for the edification of the Land Leaguers this evening."

THE Supreme Court of Illinois has decided that stockholders in companies, whose capital has not all been paid up, are severally liable in case of the insolvency of the company.

The days are already passed for prospecting in the Wood River country—on horseback. Those who go to find mines must go prepared to dig under grass roots or sink on iron croppings for the rich deposits of galena which yield a return for all labor thus far rendered.

Gen. Gilmore, who sued Schurz for $200,000 damages for certain actions while Secretary of the Interior, has begun taking depositions to ascertain what property Schurz has in St. Louis. It is stated that unless checked a good deal of personal and political history will be drawn out.

The Suez canal is blocked up for the present by a sunken vessel. In time of war a canal would be a troublesome highway to keep open, supposing it were outside of the nation to whom it was important.

A PRESS dispatch from San Bernardino, May 22, says: Internal Revenue Agent E. E. Bean, who arrived to-day from Ivanpah, a mining camp about 200 miles from San Bernardino, reports as follows the killing of John McFarlane at that place on Tuesday last: The trouble arose from the Ivanpah Mill and Mining Company issuing scrip, upon which the United States Government demanded 10 per cent. The company failing to comply with this demand, Internal Revenue Agent Bean was dispatched to this county to seize the property. McFarlane and other miners had claims against the mine which had not been satisfied, and they determined to hold possession. When Bean arrived McFarlane signified his willingness to give up possession, but, at an opportune moment, he and a man named J. B. Cook attacked Bean and Hissom, Bean's assistant. McFarlane discharged a gun at Hissom and was also stabbing him in the neck with a knife, when Hissom fired blindly behind him, killing McFarlane instantly. Bean, in the meantime, had secured Cook. Hissom and Cook were both placed under arrest, and will arrive here to-morrow. McFarlane was formerly one of the principal owners of the Ivanpah mine, and was well known all over the State. His death is much regretted.

THE Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company has rented rooms in the Safe Dsposit building in the last week for the use of its engineers in this city. The Chief Engineer, Mr. Clement, yesterday informed a reporter of the Chronicle that the company was going to work in earnest to complete the road to this coast, and this office was opened as an auxiliary of that work. The grading westward was being pushed as rapidly as possible, being already completed fully 200 miles west of Albuquerque, N. M., which brings it across the boundary line into Arizona. A surveying party is now being equipped and will be started out from the office in this city early this week, to proceed to the point where the survey of the route crosses the Colorado, and continue the survey thence westward to this coast. As soon as the preliminary work is sufficiently advanced grading eastward will be begun to meet the operations in this direction. Mr. Clement said that the terminus of the road would be on the bay of San Francisco, but he declined to say what steps if any had been taken toward securing terminal facilities. Mr. Clement said they would probably reach this bay with their road within the next thirty months, but that it was too soon yet to ask for definite plans.—S. F. Chronicle.

AT Portland, Oregon, on the 13th inst. four boats, each occupied by two fishermen, were seen to pass over the breakers at the mouth of the Columbia. Three of the boats disappeared almost instantly, and it is surmised that the men must have perished. Tugs went out to the rescue, but only one boat was saved. As no dead bodies were recovered, doubtless they were swept out to sea by the remorseless waves.

WOULDN'T HAVE IT.—"What's wrong with you Sensendorffer?" said Judge Young, "Somebody must have hit you with a blacksmith shop. Why, you are all caved in and stove up. You look like an abandoned slaughter-house. I'm ashamed of you." "Well, Shudge, I tell how it vas. He vant to take my big casino vit de nine o' spades an I vouldn't haffit."—Reno Gazette.

PROGRESS OF THE RAILROAD.—But little can be learned of the real progress of the Carson and Colorado railroad. Different people state different things about it. From one it is learned the construction train is ten miles this way from Hawthorne. Another informant says enough iron for twelve miles is now on hand, and in four or six weeks another ship load will arrive when the road will be continued from the twelve mile point. Still another says the contruction of the road will be slow but steady, and that it will reach Candelaria in three months. The reader can take his choice from these statements and talk of what he knows of railroads.—Candelaria True Fissure.

THE great demand for labor and insufficient supply that we referred to in our last issue still continues. Farmers inform us that over 100 additional men will be required the coming harvest, and from present appearances they are not likely to be forthcoming. Loss and damage are apprehended in consequence. Crops are looking very fine and will exceed the average of last year.—Kern Co. Californian.

COL. ZINC BARNES and Charley Reed passed through Candelaria last Friday with a tip-top prospecting outfit, consisting of two horses and a light spring wagon. They are bound for Beveridge District or some place south of Gold Mountain.—Aurora Herald.

SATURDAY, MAY 28.....1881

GOLD MOUNTAIN.—A correspondent writing from Gold Mountain, under date of May 20. has the following to say regarding the camp and the "greatest gold mine on the continent:" I have now been here a little over a week, and I must confess that I have not seen anything that is favorable to the camp worth reporting. The town itself has improved but little in the last two months. It now consists of five saloons, two stores and two boarding houses, with a dance house about completed. The State Line Company is working about 40 or 50 men, divided as follows: Twelve or fifteen on the water ditch and pipe, seven or eight mechanics framing the timbers ready for the mill, and about a dozen in the mine, and about the same number grading the millsite. In the place of the company employing more men, they are discharging. They discharged four men day before yesterday, and employed none in their place. The company is sinking on three shafts; on the lower one at the depth of 80 feet the rock looks tolerably well, but nothing to boast of as much as is done on it. Near the old camp are a series of ledges belonging to the Oriental Company of New York, under the superintendancy of N. A. Garvin with no great developments to speak of. About 25 or 30 men are laying around waiting for something to turn up that will give the poor fellows something to do. So taking everything into consideration I must say that at the present prospect of affairs that it will be August or September before the mill is completed if then, and after having numerous conversations about the prospect with parties of experience, I conclude that they are forcing a deal on paper and not on the merits of the case. I write this to give you a glimpse of affairs that exists at the present, and to show that there is no inducements for men to come here to seek employment. I will go from here to Montezuma, and will write you from there.

PROF. ANDRESS' SHOW.—Prof. Andress gave an exhibition last night in Mairs' Hall, which, as a whole, was the neatest thing in the traveling show line we have ever had here. No part of the display but what was in itself highly pleasing to all; in legerdemain he is certainly "boss." But the principal and most enjoyed part of the entertainment was the remarkable performances of his large troupe or troop of trained birds of various sorts and sizes. We feel assured that a man who has the patience and ability to impart so much intelligence and obedience to birds is naturally possessed of noble attributes, and would have been a grand success as Principal, say of a girls' high school where, as everybody knows, there is an immense amount of perversity which can only be overcome by patience, kindness, persistence, etc., whereas, boys in like situations can be easily dociled by the birch-rod process mainly—in other words, no man can teach birds to do such wonderful things and not make a success in anything else he may undertake, and be thoroughgoing in whatever he undertakes; and so with this show: it is good throughout. Pretty much an entirely new programme will be presented to-night, including songs by Miss Drusilla Andress, music and the introduction of additional feathered artists. Exhibitions will be given next week at Bishop, and in due time, in all the neighboring towns to the north—and no one will be humbugged who attends, although they will see some tip-top humbuggery.

COMPLETE.—The new Bend City bridge is now complete and ready for business, save a little filling at the approaches and some side-track planking. It is to be hoped that the responsible officials will not permit this structure to go to desrtruction, as did the one it replaces, through neglect to provide against washing around the ends. The judicious expenditure of but a little money in time will avert all danger from that source, and the sooner the necessary precautions are taken the better and least costly will it be.

AT BISHOP.—Another Bodie party has been at Bishop Creek "experting" the Hypolite Galeron gold mine, and has succeeded in bonding it. The mine is now opened by a shaft 48 feet deep; the vein is five feet wide, the whole of which yields by arastra process $35 per ton in gold. Some day operators will make the astonishing discovery that mines of this character are worth as much in this county as they would be now were they situated near Bodie.

NEW SALOON.—By the advertisement elsewhere this week it will be noted that John R. Hughes has established himself in the saloon business at Lone Pine. He has purchased the Schulte property and so refitted and remodeled it that it is hardly recognizable. It has been metamorphosed into a very attractive resort, where John's old patrons will be pleased to meet him.

SHEEP.—Band after band of sheep continue to pass along the foot-hills on either side of us, going north, but whence they came or what their particular destination is more than we are able to say—but mutton on the block goes at 20 cents a pound, which implies that sheep are worth more than they were in times of drouth.

GOLD SPECIMEN.—We are indebted to Capt. H. H. Buckles for a very handsome specimen of gold ore from the County Line mine, which is owned by himself and J. B. Swearingen. The quartz is stained with brown oxide of iron, carries some silver and shows a plentiful sprinkling of free gold.

OX TEAMS.—Quite a number of heavy ox teams, the property of Jesse Summers, of Mono county, have passed here in the past few days, going north. They were taken to Tulare county last Fall to winter, and come back fat and sleek, but many of them quite foot sore.

FOR A VISIT.—Rev. F. M., and Mrs. Willis have gone for a few days' visit and recreation with Mr. (Uncle Billy) and Mrs. Wm. Walker at the foot of the lake. We have never been consulted with concerning Uncle Billy's chances for redemption, nor do we assume those chances are at issue now; but for fear we may be some day, we will anticipate and advise the following as the most hopeful course of procedure with very tough subjects, to wit: Turn loose say half a dozen newly graduated theological students at him, two at a time. By the time they are pretty well worn down with their labors, then let an experienced man take him in hand. If that method is not a success, saltpetre will be useless—brimstone comes next as a last and final resort. There are no charges for this advice.

WHERE?—Mr. E. K. Dodge, of Napa, writes in a letter addressed to "Supt. Hardscrabble Mill, Inyo county, Cal." to know about how far that institution is from Candelaria and the proposed line of the C. & C. railroad. Mr. Rhine, of Wells, Fargo & Co. express agency here, has given us the letter for reply. We cheerfully undertake to respond. The mill may be between one and one thousand miles from Candelaria—about. At least no one has ever heard of its existence, and we conclude that the figures given must be pretty near right.

ORE CONTRIBUTIONS.—Two splendid specimens of ore from the Hypolite mine at Bishop Creek were received this morning at the Independence assay office. One is a yellowish honeycombed quartz, freely besprinkled with fine gold. The other is a dark brown quartz mixed with iron oxide, showing a liberal quantity of free gold. The specimens weigh about six pounds each, and make a fine addition to the cabinet in the assay office.

SOHOOL STATISTICS.—As shown by the report of School Census Marshal Parker, the whole number of children of school age in Independence School District is 48, of whom 21 are boys and 27 girls. Of this total, all but 5 have attended school at some period during the year. In addition to the 48 of school age there are 30 under age, making 78 in all.

RICH LEAD ORE.—A large sample of lead ore weighing about ten pounds, taken from the Hirsch mine on the old Eclipse ledge, was deposited in Mr. Woodhull's office this week. An assay from the piece resulted as follows;—Gold, $461.94; silver, $171.32—total $633.27; lead 60 per cent.

MARBLE WORKS.—H. C. Yager has returned from San Bernardino and reloted at Big Pine, where he is prepared to execute all orders in his line. The bed of marble from which he works is pronounced first class in quality, even by such experts as Prof. Hanks.

AURORA IN 1864.—"Citizens of Aurora! You are requested to meet at the corner of Pine and Silver streets at 2 o'clock P. M. this day. Business of importance to be transacted. Tuesday, February 2, 1864." The above is the contents of a small poster, or dodger, which was unearthed by C. Novacovich while cleaning and arranging his cabinet in the Exchange saloon last Wednesday. It has a meaning. It called together the citizens of this place at the date mentioned, being the day when W. R. Johnson was murdered by Daly, Masterson, Buckley and McDowell, alias "Three-Fingered Jack." The history of the camp shows that three hundred determined men and good citizens of the town, several of whom yet reside here, answered the call. Seven days from that time (February 9, '64) the four desperadoes expiated their crime on the gallows, after a full investigation of the facts connected with one of the most cold blooded murders ever committed.—Aurora Herald.

A PRESS dispatch from Bodie, dated on the 24th says: Considerable excitement has been aroused here in regard to the employment of Chinese on the railroad line to Mono Lake. The company has put a few Chinamen to work at the further end of the line, and has advertised for 200 white laborers at $1 25 per day and board. A mass meeting was held to-night, at which a resolution was adopted that no Chinamen should be employed in Mono county. A meeting of the Miller's Union is being held to-night to consider the matter. At ten o'clock no result had been arrived at. The chances are that if any interference is indulged in, the railroad will be abandoned.

THE San Jose Mercury reports that $1,500 has been drawn from the widow Brown relief fund, and $1,372 applied in her behalf. The balance will be used in a few days. She has now a clear title to her mountain home. The entire John Brown fund now collected amounts to nearly $3,000.

THE Los Angeles real estate agent who some time ago put forth the claim of leading a sinless life for the past thirty years, was recently arrested and fined $30 for carrying on business without a license.

ANY informrtion concerning the whereabouts of John C. Williams, formerly of Chile Gulch, Calaveras county, would be thankfully received by Mrs. Ferguson at Mokelumne Hill.

AN Arkansas girl refused to marry her lover unless he performed some heroic deed. He was a game man, and eloped with her mother.

THE Malheur, W. T., Agency will be abandoned on or about the 1st of June, and the Government supplies turned over to "Father" Wilbur and removed to the Yakima Agency.

IT appears that letters addressed to Hawthorn do not reach the place at all, but are sent to the dead letter office. Letters must be sent by Wells-Fargo to reach the new town.

THE Mexican Congress is granting railroad concessions with an openhandedness that promises to soon gridiron the Republic with tracks.

One of our Girls.

Among the list of 187 graduates in the High School at San Francisco at the close of the term, we see the name of our Independence girl, Miss Alice Rhine, daughter of our esteemed townsman, Mr. N. Rhine. From the report of the commencement exercises we clip the following:

Miss Alice Rhine fairly brought down the house with her essay on "A Hundred Years Hence."—Alta.

The San Francisco Bulletin says:

"A HUNDRED YEARS HENCE."

Alice Rhine read a paper entitled "A Hundred Years Hence." The composition sparkled with the most delicate and delightful humor. It was a word picture of municipal perfection in San Francisco in 1981, when a City Hall would be in progress of construction at the corner of Valencia and Twenty-sixth streets, and when the present unfinished Hall would be used for a fish market. She read a supposed account in the press of 1981 of the hanging of a man for selling adulterated milk. The Chinese quarter was described as a section of the city containing magnificent buildings. The audience relished the essay and applauded it warmly.

And the Post remarks:

Miss Alice Rhine's essay on "A Hundred Years Hence," was a very amusing satirical sketch of the adventures of a couple of Smiths, who, in an aerial machine, travel around the world and drop into our city when she has 4,000,000 inhabitants, and the present New City Hall has been turned into a fish market, and a magnificent building has been erected in its stead at Twenty-sixth and Valencia streets. The city was then so prosperous that the lady's heroes stated that "the Chinese must have gone." This essay was frequently interrupted by applause and laughter, well earned by the many witty points made by the fair essayist.

We have known Miss Alice almost from her babyhood, and none can feel a greater gratification over her success than we, save, of course, her own parents. She has budded into maidenhood, pure in life, bright in hopes and expectations, brilliant in mind, and promising in life's results. Amiable in disposition, promising a high order of talent, and gifted with gentleness, she will attain an eminence of which her friends will all be proud. May greater success still be in store for her future, and if assiduity and merit can achieve it she will reach the goal and there find inscribed upon her banner "Excelsior."

A New District.

We overheard two old-time prospectors talking recently. Said one to the other:

"Do you know what became of old Si Slainfoot?"

"What, old Beans an' Croppins, as the boys used to call him?"

"Yes, he was always looking for croppin's and borrowin' beans."

"Oh yes, he's dead; died over in Los Cabezes 'bout six months ago."

"You don't say! what was the matter with him."

"Do' no, but he struck a stringer on religion just before he died, an' he kept tellin' us fellers that there was a new district up above, where the streets were paved with gold an' jasper, an'a whole lot of high grade, an' that he'd recorded his name in the great book. He kinder lost interest in beans and croppin's, ripped 'round the hills singin' sams, an' by gosh, some of the boys sed they saw him down on his marrer bones prayin', but I guess he was lookin' fer float. We tried to brace him up, an' get him over to the Huachucas, but he sed, 'Boys, I've got a bonanza up there; it's free millin' ore, don't need any smelter there, an' it's all pure truck,' an' bime by he died, an' the last thing he said was: 'Boys, I'll locate you on an extension."—Nugget.

IT is not generally known that Cap. Manuel E. Yzaguirre, commander of one of the vessels of the Mexican squadron now in our harbor, is the officer who so gallantly rescued the Captain, his wife and child and the sailors of the ill-fated vessel Teutonia when she went to pieces last December near Mazatlan. Our government has recognized this humane action, and, as a testimonial, Secretary of State Blaine has transmitted to the Mexican Navy, through the Mexican Minister at Washington, a gold-lined silver vase, appropriately inscribed to Captain Yzaguirre, and a sum of money to the sailors who assisted him. The Captain will not have the gift forwarded to him here, as he expects to sail with his ship in about four months for his country, and from Mazatian will travel inland to the capital, where he will receive the present, which was nobly earned. This is the first official act of the kind performed by Mr. Blaine.—S. F. Chronicle.

WHEN John Tinker and Joseph Stafford were put on trial in Chicago for selling counterfeit railroad tickets, Tinker declined to have counsel assigned him by the Court, but himself questioned the witnesses and addressed the jury. He not only conducted the case ably, showing a thorough legal training, but further excited surprise by endeavouring to fix the crime upon himself and save his companion. In this he succeeded, by convincing the jury that Stafford was his innocent tool. He is a son of a leading Ohio lawyer, and the nephew of a railroad President. "Oh, I don't murmur," he said after conviction, "I went into this thing with my eyes open, and I ought to be in the hole. I don't deserve any sympathy, and I don't ask any. It gives me no claim to favor that I secured a fine education, and had as good chances as any man in that court room."

IT was reported in well-informed circles last night that if any serious difficulty occurs as a result of the Chinese agitation, that every mine in the district from the Standard down, would be closed for about ninety days. As the Standard isthe only dividend paying mine at present in Bodie, it would be the only property suffering any immediate loss; and as the principal owners in that mine Seth and Dan Cook, are also the leading owners in the railroad, they might think it good policy to let their property remain in the ground for three or four months, or long enough to let the blood of the reformers thoroughly cool. In the meantime the whole community would get uncomfortably cool.—Bodie Free Press.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, MAY 28.....1881

ONLY THESE?

FOR THE INYO INDEPENDENT.

In a room of a lowly hovel,
So barren and cold and poor,
A woman and child are lying
On a pallet of s raw near the door!
The mother's bright eyes and pinched features
Tell plainly their terrible want,
While the babe's ashen face shows clearly
'Tis claimed by Death, grim and gaunt.

With great, hungry eyes, and eager
The woman turns off to the door,
Listening ever to catch a footfall
On the dirty, old creaking floor.
It comes not: her head falls heavy
On the rags that cover her bed,
And moaning with anguish she nestles
Still nearer her baby that's dead.

"Oh God," she pleads, "will he not come?
Thou hast taken my baby—and I—
What have I to live for but curses?—
He will not care now if I die!
How noble, how manly his bearing
When my young trusting heart he claimed,
Ere the Demon of Drink ensnared him,
And his frank, honest face inflamed!

"I lov'd him! How madly, how blindly!
Leaving all and clinging to him;—
This the reward for a woman's devotion?—
Dragged to poverty, misery and sin?
O God! I am dying! He comes not:—
Without a word to atone
He leaves me, starved, broken-hearted,
With my dead babe—to die here alone!"

Unclasped fall the hands so shrunken,
The large hollow eyes stare before,
As if—though her soul be resting—
She still watched for the form at the door.
No rustle is heard in the hovel,
Save the rats as they patter the floor,
And she, once so trusting and happy
Lies—a drunkard's wife—dead, by the door.

* * * * * * *

Up the road from a low corner tavern
With shuffling and tottering gait,
Eyes heavily bloodshot—form bloated,
Comes a being—and leans on the gate;
His hands, shaking worse than if palsied,
Try vainly to lift the rude latch
Which hangs from its rotten fastenings—
Disgracing the name of "catch."

'Tis opened at last—and reeling
Up the miserable, reed-grown walk
He enters the fallen doorway,
And begins his maudlin talk.
"Alice," he calls, "my sweet birdlin'
I'm home agin, my dear,
Come kiss me for the old time's sake.
Not a word!—that's kind o' queer!
Where is the gal? I wonder now
If she thinks I'll stand such ways,
She's a darn'd sight off her tackin',
And she'll carry my marks some days!

"Alice, I say, where are you?"
He steps to the inner room,
And straightening his loathsome figure
Peers wildly into the gloom.
No shrinking and shivering glances
Meet his but to waver and fall,
And with curses deep and rum-born
He steals to the bed by the wall.

He drops on his knees by the pallet,
With threatening and upraised fist,
He leans over and looks at the forms there—
As no devil ere looked, I wist.
His bleared eyes like coals of fire
Gleam fierce on the quiet dead.
And with oaths too deep for penning,
Deals her a blow on the head.

"Take that, yon minx, for your silence,
And answer me when I call!
Dont lie there huggin' th't youngster
With your face turned toward the wall
Not a word yet? You Alice, I'll kill you
If—Great God, how cold's her hand!
What makes it? It makes me shiver
Like a breath from the home of the damned!

"Alice, little wife, what's the matter?—
And baby, too, is so cold!—
Come nestle here on my breast, love
In the arms that loved you to enfold."
No sound: he starts and recoils
From these forms so silent and dead,
Then rises all trembling and white
With his hands wildly clasping his head.

He is sober now; at least
For the moment his reason returns,
And the truth through his drunken brain
Like the lightning flash deeply burns;
His eyes gleam madly around,
And he cries—but too late—in his woe,—
"I've killed her in truth! O my God!
What devil has made me do so?
What devil? God forgive—should I ask?
No, no! I know only too well:—
'Tis drink that has murdered my wife
And doomed me an inmate of hell!

"I know it and see it all now!
O Alice, my darling, forgive!—
'Twas not your husband dealt that blow—
Only say, dear, that you will forgive!
But no: she is gone,—my wife,
My Alice, so patient and sweet!
Have mercy, O God, on my soul!"—
He falls dead on the straw at her feet.

SOLITARIUS.

BENTON, May 17, 1881.

MRS. AMELIA DE YOUNG, the mother of the proprietor of the San Francisco "Chronicle," died in that city Thursday afternoon. She was a native of Bordeaux, France, and aged 72 years. The killing of her son Charles changed her from a woman of great spirit and buoyancy to a state of taciturnity and depression. The immediate cause of her death was congestion of the brain.

IT is funny, but a soft-palmed woman can pass a hot plate to her neighbor at the table with a smile as sweet as distilled honey, while a man, with a hand as horny as a crocodile's back, will drop it to the floor and howl around like a Sioux Indian at a scalp dance.

ALLEGHANY COUNTY, in which Pittsburg is located, is nearly done with the settlement of the riot losses. Up to this time $2,750,000 have been paid—$100,000 in cash and $2,650,000 for which bonds were issued. The unsettled claims amount to about $15,000.

SCENE in a college—Professor: "Who will see Mr B. before next Monday?" Lady student (hesitatting and blushing): "I shall see him Sunday night, probably."

A DISAGREEABLE old chap says that in the boarding houses those who have the loudest dinner bells have the weakest meals.

THE Keely motor has come again to the front. A public exhibition was given recently in Philadelphia, Commander Gorringe and others being present. The machine is described as an odd looking collection of globes and tubes, consisting of generators and engines. A glass of water poured into half a dozen funnel-topped tubes produced in 29 seconds pressure equal to 15,000 pounds to the square inch. This force applied to the engine caused rapid motion controlled by touching an iron disk or drawing a bow over a tightly stretched steel wire. The experiment, it is said, was satisfactory to the specialists present, and the public asks for particulars.

THE Southern California Railroad at San Diego has called for bids for 30 miles additional, making in all 82 miles let since last December 10th.

EXTRACTED HONEY.

THIS HONEY WAS REMOVED FROM THE comb by centrifugal force, with a machine made for the purpose. It is therefore virtually the same as honey in the comb, only you don't have to eat the bees wax, which is indigestible and therefore disagrees with many persons. When first extracted the honey is liquid, but nearly all pure honey will candy or granulate in course of time, especially if exposed to the cold. Putting the cans in hot water for a short time will bring the honey to its fluid state without injury.

This Honey is put up in 10 pound cans, with patented screw tops, which renders it convenient for family use, and especially for the mines, to which it may be packed, even upside down, without leakage. A neat label on each can gives full directions.

Price, $1 50 per can, or 12½ cents per lb at the Apiary, if customers furnish their own receptacle. For sale at Harris & Rhine's, Independence, and at the Apiary, at Jacob Vagt's place, Camp Independence.

MINING.

The Great Industry of the Future.

The Chicago "Mining Review" is publishing some well digested articles on the subject of the mining industry. We append the following from that excellent journal:

The rich promise that mining presents from every field is one of the most favorable and encouraging aspects in favor of its permanent future and its reliable importance that could be presented. Under the most thorough investigation and the most searching tests, our embryo mines and our bodies of mineral give the most satisfactory evidence of profit and permanence. Not only are the old locations, with the single exception of the Comstock, still showing the most reliable character of vein and ore, where improvement marks every step of development, but there seems to be no limit to the new fields, ready to be developed when a larger influx of miners or the demands of a new generation call for their development and their treasure. Some have calculated upon the result of an abnormal mining interest which would result in an unusual exodus of people to the mining districts, and an enormous production of precious metals resulting therefrom. When we take into consideration the fact that it requires both time and money to bring a mine to the productive point, and the production of precious metals in any great quantities is impossible without the expenditure of considerable capital and years of labor, it is easy to see that there is no danger ever to be apprehended from such a condition of affairs. There is a law, as certain in its workings as the law of gravitation, which, according to the ever varying forces of supply and demand, preserves the equilibrium so essential to safety and success. Many industries never can grow to magnitude and importance, but must always remain dwarfed in insignificance, from the fact that the field of operations is cramped and limited. Mining has two or three of the strongest and most substantial elements of permanence and success—foundations that insure its ultimate recognition by the right class of men, even if there should be a reaction and abandonment by the multitudes now seeking its treasure fields. All the mistakes of the past, present, and even of the future, although, for the time, they may seem disastrous, will prove in the end so many lights of experience shining upon the pathway of success.

It is a well established fact that the supply of precious metal, of gold and silver, does not reach the increasing demands of the world's commerce, and during the last decade has not kept pace with the growth and expanse of the growing trade of the commercial nations.

The product of this industry is so fixed by the wisdom of the Creator that it cannot be suddenly, in any great quantities, thrown in the channel of finance and disturb its slowly changing currents. It is well known that the mining industry in this country has a field, already occupied, broad enough to furnish full scope for years of healthy expansion and the boundaries of its territory has by no means been fixed. Another important fact is that its stores of wealth are vast and practically inexhaustible and will afford supplies for years of active development with undiminished product. Add to these the certainty of the constant and continued demand for what is produced, and the importance, the reliability, the profitableness, the necessity, and the immeasurable advantages of mining as a regular industry will be readily apparent, and its modest claims for attention and justice recognized.

ARTEMUS WARD.

Some of the Pranks of the Humorist.

I once shared his room and bed at a miserable tavern in Oxford County. The house was old and rickety, the windows rattled hideously in the casement, the chill November wind came through a couple of broken panes with too much force for comfort, and sleep was nearly impossible. After turning and tossing awhile in a vain endeavor to court forgetfulness, Artemus rose, and lifting the lamp made a most solemn survey of the room in every part. Presently he emerged from a deep closet in a corner with a dilapidated hoop-skirt in his hand, which he gravely hung up before the window. "Now what are you doing?" was asked of him. Artemus slowly placed the lamp on the floor, turned on me a look of pity, and with an argumentive gesture of his hand half muttered to himself: "'Twill keep out the coarsest of the cold, anyway."

I do not remember to have ever seen any notice of Artemus's happy use of pantomime in his humorous moods among his friends and associates. There was an unapproachable eloquence, sometimes, in it. He had a way of making quotation marks in the air with his left and right forefinger, on occasion, that was irrisistibly funny. Once he was engaged to fill an evening in the lecture course of a popular literary institution of a New England city. During the lecture an individual who occupied a seat on a front bench seemed determined to resist the speaker's efforts to make him laugh. Artemus soon discovered both the listener and his intention, and concentrated all his power on him. For a long time it seemed as if the man had the best of it; but by and by one of Brown's queer conceits took effect. The obstinate fellow gave way, laughed and kicked like a delighted schoolboy. Artemus celebrated his victory by coolly announcing to his audience: "Ladies and gentlemen, this will terminate the first act, and we will drop the curtain for a few moments; while the scenery is being arranged for the next act the lecturer will take occasion to go out and see a man." And with perfect sang froid he left the platform for the ante-room, where he quietly refreshed himself with—weak tea and a cracker, and gleefully told the story of his contest.

Half a dozen of his associates were sitting one day in his room at the village tavern where he boarded, when an old woman drove up to the store opposite with a pair of donkeys—a jack and a jenny—hitched to a little wagon. Jack was the noisiest brute in the country. He had a voice worse than the handle of a town pump on a frosty morning and was proud of it. In a minute his tail rose to a horizontal, his lips parted and the beast blew his infernal blast. A second and third time it was repeated. Artemus quietly thought "that thing might be fixed," and disappeared from the room. He went over and appeared to make a careful inspection of the forewheels of the wagon, the harness and the hitchup, and came back saying that the donkey was all right; the brute must have made a mistake about something. Presently there were indications of a movement on Jack's part; the neck was extended, the lips curled and the tail rose—to the pivotal point and no further. The trumpet didn't sound. Jack thought there was a mistake somewhere—hesitated—reflected—and tried again. The front part, some of it, was all right, but the equilibrium could not be reached. After a time another attempt was made but failed. Jack turned his head around to ascertain the cause of the failure, but couldn't see any. The fifth vain attempt to bray was followed by a spiteful kick at Jenny, but it didn't cure the matter. At last he gave it up and stood at that store door the most neglected looking, discontented donkey in existence. Meanwhile, Artemus enjoyed the fun and discharged a rattling fusilade of pungent humor and kept the company in a roar and made the whole affair one of the most ludicrous I ever experienced. Artemus had attached a heavy stone to the donkey's tail, leaving just play enough to the cord to allow the beast to get his tail nearly up to "concert pitch."

American Nabobs.

[From the Vienna Salonblatt.]

The Winter races at Pau gather the first sporting circles of France to a long sojourn. An organization of the best standing manages the trotting races, which, as the society for the encouragement of the nobler qualities of the horse, has met with great success. Pau has in consequence become a central point of sporting interest.

The Prince of Bearn has, besides, one of the best hunting ranges in France, and the hunts, to which every stranger is welcome, are naturally a conspicuous attraction for Pau.

James Gordon Bennett, a very rich American, has settled himself in the former residenc of Henry IV, and his extravagancies, made light by the ownership of millions, have not in any degree damaged Pau.

For example, Bennett engaged the Vienna Capelmeister Strauss, with his entire company, at an honorarium of 140,000 francs, to come to Pau, where he played a series of concerts at which all Pau were guests.

Mr. Mackay, the American nabob, who with his soirees, costumed balls, etc., has busied all Paris, came with his wife to Pau. To honor them Mr. Bennett arranged a ball, engaging private express trains, which brought from Paris and other cities, also from the neighborhood of Pau, a brilliant company. The people called this ball "the diamond ball," for at no opportunity save this and here was it possible to behold such a wealth of diamonds. "It was not mere dewdrops that sparkled and glanced, it was a Niagara of brilliants and diamonds," said a member of the company, who pitied Mrs. Mackay, because her treasures of jewelry almost weighted her down.

THE corner of Montgomery and Washington streets, San Francisco, where the cable railroad company is excavating for a terminal wheel, is historic beyond the fact that upon it stood the old Lyceum Theater. In the vicinity of this corner, in 1831, Charles Brown, who came here in 1829, on the whaler Helvetius, erected a frame building, which waa used as a saloon and blacksmith shop. The locality was considerably improves by Eugene L. Sullivan, who erected a three-story store on the lot in 1849. The buildings were consumed by fire in May, 1850. John V. Plume bought a lot, 18x49 feet, on the southwest corner of Montgomery and Washington, for $25,000, on which, in August, 1846, a brick building costing $100,000 was erected, and it vas burned the following year, and vas rebuilt at a cost of $15,000. The Bay in 1849 extended to the east side of Montgomery street, wile Pacific street was a ravine.

SCOTT rode fifty miles, in New Mexico, to oblige a friend by murdering Donovan. He found Donovan in a saloon, gained an introduction, and sat down to play an ostensibly amicable game of cards. But Donovan was an obserant man, and he saw that his comanion was more excited than the game warranted; so hesly ly dew his revolver, cocked it, and lai it across his knees under the tble. Consequently, when Scott cied "I've come here to kill you," and attempted to shoot, he receivd a death wound instead of givingone.

THE crown of the statue of Villiam Penn, which is to surmunt the tower of the new public hilding of Philadelphia, will be just 525 feet above the pavement. This is ten feet and one inch higherthan the highest towers of the Coogne cathedral.

Specimen Cruelties of the Late Czar.

The Abbe Sierocinski formerly Superior of the late convent of Basilicans at Overeous, took part in the Polish revolution. He was sent by Czar Nicholas to labor in the mines of Siberia, where he plotted with several others to effect their escape. For this he was condemned by the late Emperor to receive 7,000 lashes. The carrying out of the sentence was most horrible. In March, 1867, two battalions were drawn up in the great square of Ormsk, under orders of Gen. Galafejew, the cruel servant of a cruel master. Sierocinski and his companions were brought out, and the judgment was read aloud with the words, "without mercy," which it contained, being especially emphasized. The poor fellows were stripped to the waist, and their hands were tied behind to a bayonet. Each one, by turns, walked along the battalion, every soldier administering to him a blow with a rod with his full strength. A thousand blows fell, and then each miserable, torn bleeding victim, was sent back to receive another thousand.

On the third journey they all fell dead. Sieroeinski had been kept to the last, that he might behold the tortures suffered by his friends. A military surgeon tendered him a small vial containing some drops of cordial, which he refused, crying, "I want not your drops. Take my blood and drink it!" He started on his fearful journey, singing, "God be merciful!" and his wild accents were gradually lost in the thud of the sticks striking his bare flesh and in the loud words of command of the General shouting, "Strike harder, strike harder!" When Sierocinski received the first thousand blows he fell fainting, his blood dropping on the snow. He was placed upright on the sledge, and tied so as to expose his back to the full weight of the descending rods. The unfortunate man continued to groan until he was dragged four times before the battalion. He then became silent, and the last three thousand blows fell on a corpse.

We have searched the records to try to find the letter or telegram of condolence sent by the government of the United States to the family of the Abbe Sierocinski, but can not find it.—[House and Home.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, JUNE 4.....1881

LAST Saturday night at Bodie, officer Roberts shot and killed one John Myers in the Comstock saloon, a place where killers very frequently congregate. It seems that Myers was a quarreling scrub-about-town sort of a loafer, and that officer Roberts had made himself very obnoxious to Myers and all of his sort, because, as they stated it, "he would not give a rounder a chance to make a cent." On this account Myers took it upon himself to put Roberts "among the daisies." At least, that was Roberts' opinion, and when on the evening in question, he saw Myers circle into the saloon in a peculiar manner, he at once opened fire, and it was Myers who went among the daisies, though he lived long enough to fire one shot at the officer. It appears that he had come from Lundy expressly to attend to the officer's case, a fact of which the latter had been warned, hence his prompt action. Public opinion seems to sustain the officer. The Coroner's jury found that deceased had come to his death by a pistol shot fired by officer J. Roberts, but whether justifiably fired or not is not stated. Myers was a young man, aged about 23, and a native of Missouri.

CONGRESSMAN PAGE has preferred serious charges against Superintendent Dodge, of the San Francisco Mint. He produces a mass of documentary evidence to show that he dismissed a number of employes in the Mint because they had relatives who worked actively for the re-election of Page, thus making the Mint a political machine to punish his enemies and advance his own interests. He also charges that Dodge, by a system of favoritism, gave to the Anglo-Californian Bank a monopoly of the low-grade bullion sales to the Mint. The charges are to be investigated by the Treasury Department, and if substantiated, will doubtless result in Dodge's dismissal.

BODIE, by a large majority vote, has decided to levy a tax for the support of the fire department. And this brings to mind the suggestion that if our Inyo towns of Lone Pine, Independence and Bishop Creek do not wish to go up in a blaze like Darwin and Cerro Gordo, they had better endeavor to prevent such a catastrophe by organizing and equipping a fire company apiece.

THERE are mutterings of the 'Star route storm to burst next week. McVeagh and James are working steadily, and hope to issue all warrants and have the arrests made early in June. They expect to prove a huge conspiracy, and show to whom most of the stolen money was paid. Appeals and threats are going up to Garfield to stop the investigation.

CRUZ DOMINIC was hanged at Bakersfield last Friday for the murder of Francisco Cureo on the 18th of last February. He made a statement on the scaffold, declaring his innocence, and that the discharge of the pistol that killed him was accidental. He professed a resignation to his fate and preserved a cool demeanor.

THE State Board of Equalization has denied the application of railroad corporations which had asked for a reduction of assessments. They were nine in number, and was assessed by the Board in the aggregate $34,483,334, which the roads asked to have reduced to $13,867,811.

THE St. Joseph Gazette thinks that the salvation of the Democracy is in the nomination of Samuel J. Tilden for Governor of New York this Fall. It suggests that he would be elected and would then be in a condition to command a nomination and election to the Presidency in 1884.

IN Paris false ears are a new manufacture for the toilet. Ladies who think they have ears place these artistic productions under luxuriant tresses of false hair, fasten them to the ears, and wear them for show. False hair, false teeth, false hips, false calves, false ears—what next?

THE experiment of shipping California oranges to the East in large quantities is in course of trial. Four car loads arrived in Chicago in good condition, and there is a prospect of other loads being sent through to cities nearer the Atlantic sea-board.

A CINCINNATI lawyer has astonished even his professional brethren by charging only $20,000 for collecting $53,000. They expected him to charge at least $25,000.

THE Virginia Chronicle and the Los Angeles Express rank together as the ablest anti-monopoly papers on the Pacific Coast.

MORE TROUBLE AHEAD.

The San Francisco Chronicle, of May 31, again calls attention to the beautiful fix this State is in because no Legislative Apportionment bill was passed by the late Legislature. It is laid down as an indisputable fact that, by the clear terms of the Constitution, the present law fixing the Assembly and Senatorial Districts is a dead and buried law, therefore without a new apportionment by the Legislature chosen under the defunct law at the last election, it is not possible to elect a new Legislature; and if one such should be elected and proceeded to make laws at the proper time, not a single act would be legal; "the wheels of State machinery would stop. The Courts themselves would have to be closed, and the schools, too, for want of money to run them, and society will be forced to resolve itself into a general Vigilance Committee system for protection." That is the Chronicle's conclusion.

There is but one way out of the difficulty: That is to again convene the existing Legislature to enact an apportionment law. Such a remedy is extremely nauseating to contemplate, but we suspect it is the only hope. If brain fever was to carry off all of those light-weight "talking members" it wouldn't be so bad. Then it would be possible for a man of sense to give his views on the only matter to be considered without hearing "Yuba dam," the everlasting refrain of the pop-eyed anti-slickens choir, who ring "slickens," present and prospective, into everything—apportionment, road law, hog law, anything, everything. These pop-eyes want to save one-twentieth of one per cent. slickens tax, and will levy a four per cent. loss and waste to do it. That is their measure, and why it is that it will hardly be possible for a second extra session to pass an apportionment law. But "it is wood-chuck or no dinner"—an apportionment law, or no law of any kind, and another session of the same slickens Solons or no apportionment or other law. Gov. Perkins may as well order the rodeo as soon as the weather gets cooler.

THE Frenchmen are exceedingly shrewd in arranging exhibitions which will have world-wide interest, and they could have shown no greater shrewdness in that direction than by arranging the display of electricity which is to be made in Paris. The attention of the world is now given to the development of the utility of electricity more than to any other scientific problem, and the city that does the most to show the world what has been accomplished with electricity since Benjamin Franklin's great discovery makes itself conspicuous before all the world. The great hall of the Industrial Palace in Paris will contain as wonderful contrivances as were ever brought together in an exhibition of equal extent. Everything that has ever been done by electricity will be done at the Paris exhibition, and a suite of eight rooms is to be fitted up to show how the cooking of a household can be done by electricity, while the same force will be employed to send messages, operate clocks, move figures and perform innumerable other wonders. The exhibition would not be complete without an electric railway, and Prof. Siemens is to exhibit the electric motor which he is using on his new railway at Berlin.

J. A. WILLIAMSON, Commissioner of the General Land Office, has resigned, he having, as he says in his letter of resignation, "Secured employment at a salary much greater than that paid him as Commissioner." The position referred to is that of General Land Commissioner of the Atlantic and Pacific Railway Companies, on the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe branch of that road. United States Marshal Dunley, of Indiana, will probably be appointed as Williamson's successor.

THE French, not content with their occupation of Tunis, are determined to carry the war further into Africa, and with this purpose in view have fitted out an expedition of 700 men, mounted on camels, to punish the trans-Sahara murderers of Colonel Flatters and party.

THE appointment of ex-Senator Bruce, of Mississippi, to the responsible position of Register of the Treasury is unanimously confirmed. The Democratic Senators behaved handsomely, they following the noble example of Gen. Lamar, of Mississippi.

Two hundred and fifty thousand copies of the revised New Testament were sold in New York in one day, and Bob Ingersoll pretends to think that interest in the Bible is dying out.

"THE doctrine of eternal punishment is a libel on God," said Parson Brookman of a Montreal Baptist church. Having made this declaration, he lost no time in resigning.

GEN. WM. B. FRANKLIN says the expense of securing Gen. Hancock's nomination at Cincinnati cost only $1,250, and this was contributed by a few of his personal friends.

IRELAND.

A Times London cable special of May 28th says: The situation in Ireland begins to excite most serious apprehensions among all classes in England. The Conservative's organ last evening said: At no period in the history of the land agitation has the situation in Ireland been more deplorable than at present. From one end of the country to the other law has no abiding place. Every form of legal process or legal execution is openly resisted and deliberately defied in whole districts. The operation of the law of the land is suspended, and the law of the Land League is enforced in its stead. Whenever individuals more courageous than the multitude attempt to assert the service of summons for rent, it can only be effected by a species of guerrilla warfare. The sale of a farmer's cow under a legal execution is made the occasion for a local civil war. Process-servers are waylaid, beaten, stripped naked, hunted like wild animals, shot at like vermin. Police barracks are beseiged in open day by thousands of persons summoned by blowing horns from hill-tops. Nine policemen were thus attacked at the barracks of Mallow because they refused to give up to the people a law messenger who had claimed their protection. The barracks were shattered and several of the garrison injured before the overwhelming force of military constabulary could raise the siege. The hardships and sufferings of the Royal Irish constabulary are indescribable, and the honorable members who called for the return of the casualities of this force during the last twelve months would elicit startling statistics. The constabulary are of course an armed force.

The Daily News (Radical) says: "The condition of Ireland gives cause for greater anxiety from day to day. We seem to be coming nearer and nearer insurrectionary outbreaks and serious collisions between soldiers and the people. The universal opinion is that a general insurrection is simply a question of time. Conservative hatred of Ireland is so great that they openly express a wish for war, so that the damned Irish may be bayonetted into submission."

"THERE are to-day, in the State of Chihuahua," says El Frontrizo, six American companies engaged in working the mines. The mining company in Santa Eulalia owns the famous mines of that name, sixteen miles from the city of Chihuahua. In former years these mines paid $11,000,000. Although they have been worked for many years, they are still very rich. The Americans have been diiberating on piercing the mountains by a tunnel, and constructing a railroad as far as the confluence of the Sacramento and Chihuahua rivers, so as to place machinery there to work the metals. The Cosiquirlach mines were bought last year by a San Francisco company for $500,000."

AT Benson, Arizona, May 5th, Pat. Shea and C. H. Howard, alias "Off Wheeler," started out to kill a man known as Texas. Entering a saloon they had reason to believe Texas was, they inquired if their intended victim was there, and on being answered in the negative, they began firing through a canvas door into a rear room, shooting a cook and another man in the legs. While they were thus amusing themselves, Texas came to the front door with a shot gun, and poured a load of buckshot into Shea, killing him instantly.

JAMES WESTOVER'S young daughter, aged 16, living at Markesan, Wis., was poisoned, May 26th, by swalloving a large quantity of baking powder, sodine and strychnine, all because her father had forbidden the house to her lover, Danial Murphy, aged 18 years. The latter, learning of the girl's death, committed suicide with the same compound.

THE Daily Report says it transpires that the system of traction for propelling cars by an endless wire rope, which everybody thought was a San Francisco invention, was really invented some twelve years ago, by Gen. G. T. Beauregard, the ex-Confederate General, to whom the necessary letters patent have been issued.

A GIRL in Wisconsin committed suicide by swallowing a large quantity of baking powder. It is clear that she was not as hopeless as the average suicide, for she evidently expected to rise again. The various baking powder manufacturies are afforded an excellent opportunity to rise and explain by this incident.

THE first passenger train of the projected narrow gauge railroad from the Bay to Bridgeport and Bodie, via the Sonora Pass, has been run across San Antonio estuary from Alameda to Fifteenth street in Oakland. Work on the road is being actively prosecuted about Berkeley and in the Contra Costa hills this side.

ROSCOE.

Roscoe is having rather a tough time of it, notwithstanding that beautiful curl on his massive brow. Last Tuesday the New York Legislature voted by separate Houses to fill the vacancies occasioned by the resignation of Roscoe and his man Friday. In the Assembly Roscoe got 26 votes out of a possible 128, Jacobs, his principal opponent among the "half breeds," or anti-Conklingites, got 47; balance scattering among a dozen different candidates. In the Senate Roscoe got 9 "vindicates" out of a possible 32 in that body. His man Friday got 8 in the Senate and 21 in the Assembly. Kernan, (Dem) got 47. On the following day the two Houses were to vote in joint convention to fill these vacancies, but there is little or no probability that any one candidate will receive the requisite 81 votes to elect. The showing is bad, very bad, for Roscoe and still worse for Friday ever to get back to Washington by a vote of the present Legislature. And to make bad still worse for "Milord Conkey" he and his man have become the objects of cutting ridicule in the North, South, East and West—which is humiliating to an epicure whose delicate stomach demanded nothing less than a well cooked President for breakfast, with a Secretary of State for soup. Roscoe has made the loftiest tumble in the shortest time eve seen in American politics; but he says he is not dead nor badly injured nor dismayed nor yet begun to fight.

WHEN Harry George took his book, "Progress and Poverty," to his New York publishers, they refused to shoulder the dubious responsibility of publishing it without a certain sum paid down to guarantee them against loss. The author did not have the money, and asked them how much would be necessary if he furnished them with stereotyped plates. A much less sum was named, and the author went away. In a few months he drove a dray to the door of Appleton & Co.'s publishing house. It contained the stereotyped plates for the great work. He had set the type himself and prepared the plates with his own hands. They were all ready for the press. Now the book has become famous throughout the world, is being translated into foreign languages, and is yielding the author a handsome income. He won, because he had confidence in himself. A letter from a gentleman in New York, who knows the facts of the case, is authority for the above statement.

THE Bodie Free Press thus describes a serenading quintet which prowls the streets at nights: "Five of the heavy men of Bodie have associated themselves together as the 'Fat Men's Serenading Party,' and people rooming in second stories and having refuse water to dispose of by moonlight are hereby notified that it will take at least a barrel of fluid to go round with this club. Two hundred and sixty-three pounds of George Ellwood will pump up a powerful baritone, 226½ pounds of Tom Paddock will clash the cymbols, 229 pounds of Ned Reddy will gouge the guitar, 227½ pounds of Sime Ryan will wallup the snare drum, and 221 pounds of G. W. Green, Jr., will whale the base drum. Total weight of the serenaders, 1,170 pounds."

THE fig tree grows from cuttings, and bears the second year. Sometimes the first year after planting. The fig forms a very healthful article of food and is also good for feeding hogs. The genuine Smyrna fig, for drying, has been recently introduced at Pasadena, Los Angeles county, and we trust will be extensively cultivated throughout the State. It is one of the most delicious fruits in the world, and far superior to the Spanish and Italian figs.

IT has often been well said that nothing is held so cheap as human life. It is quite as true that few things are so cheap as reputation and character. A Western Postmaster has just sold himself to the penitentiary for a pitiful sum of a few hundred dollars coined out of forged money orders.

IT is admitted in England that the Irish Coercion Act is a failure. Certainly it has not effected anything in the way of restoring peace to Ireland, which seems to be in a more distressed state than ever.

THE heaviest mining sale ever made in southern New Mexico was the recent purchase of a number of mines in Lake Valley District for $450,000. George Q. Roberts, of New York, was the chief investor.

AT the recent Friend's meeting in Philadelphia, Lydia H. Price spoke earnestly against war, and cautioned parents against giving drums, swords, guns and other warlike playthings to their children.

IT is reported that Miss Blood, a daughter of Victoria Woodhull, is to marry a son of the Duke of Argyle. This will make her a sister-in-law of the Princess Louise.

The Success of the Revision.

The revised New Testament was used yesterday in the pulpits of some of the most scholarly preachers in New York, and it was the subject of sermons or remarks in nearly all the churches. It is probable that some mention was made of it in a large majority of all the Protestant pulpits of the United States, and the interest in the work is undoubtedly much the same in Canada and Australia, as well as in Great Britain. "The literary sensation of the century" is what a well-known New York minister declares the appearance of the revised New Testament to be. Calm consideration begets the conviction that he may not be guilty of exaggeration. The publication of King James' version 270 years ago was a greater literary event than any other that has happened since then until now, and it is hardly to be expected that any publication of the next hundred years will be more important than that of the revised New Testament last week. No other work ever had as large a sale the first week of its publication, and that fact, as the Evening Mail said Saturday, and as Dr. Storrs, the Brooklyn scholar and orator, said yesterday, shows that the interest of men in the Bible was never greater than at the present time.

It is unquestionable that the revised New Testament is at once to be very generally used in place of the King James version. Chancellor Crosby and other well-known ministers have taken it into their pulpits, and a vast number of people are waiting for leaders whom they may follow in the substitution of the new book for the old one. Conservatives are to be found who will delay the change for years, perhaps, but so great is confidence in the scholarship and piety of the 101 translators who have prepared the revision that there is an irresistable movement in favor of its adoption. We hazard nothing in predicting that ten years hence the revision will be used in every American pulpit. Doubtless the constitution of the Bible Society will soon be changed so as to permit the publication of the revised New Testament by that institution, and the General Convention of the Episcopal Church will authorize ministers of that denomination to use the revision in the pulpit. But, indisputably immediate as the success of the work is, we adhere to the opinion recently expressed that there will be a revision of the revision. Dr. Taylor of the Broadway Tabernacle, declared in his sermon yesterday morning that the American revisers urged changes which equal wisdom on the part of their British brethren would not have placed in appendix. Such an opinion from such a source indicates the existence of a feeling which will not be satisfied until the contents of the appendix are, in part at least, transferred to the text itself. Besides, there are some changes, such as the substitution of "love" for "charity" in one of the Apostle Paul's sublimest passages, which may not win general approval. For the purpose of making a few alterations, it would be well for the revisers who survive five years hence to hold a meeting. If there is to be a revision of the revision, the revisers themselves should do it.—New York Mail.

ON the 25th of December, 1880, a murder was committed by Joseph H. Martin at Placerville, Ouray county, Col. The cause of the crime was a dispute about a mining claim, in which Martin and two miners known as J. M. Hardin and E. J. Trotter were interested. The quarrel terminated by Martin killing Hardin and severely wounding Trotter. After accomplishing his bloody deed Martin escaped. A reward of $800 was offered for his arrest, but for some time no clew as to the whereabouts of the murderer could be found, The Sheriff of Arapahoe county, Col., took the matter in hand, and with the assistance of C. T. Linton, his Deputy Sheriff, whom he sent to this city a few weeks ago to work up the case, and aided by Captain Harry N. Morse of Morse's Detective Agency, succeeded last Monday in capturing Martin on a ranch situated about twenty miles from Davisville, Yolo county. It appears that the Sheriff of Ouray county, Col., learned several months ago that the bird had flown to California, and that he was living with his wife and relatives in this city. Detectives were put on his track, but before they could lay their hands upon him he became suspicious and sought localities more secluded, where detectives' shadows would not haunt him. For a few months he was an honest farmer, and buried the remorse of his crime in the quiet grain fields. In this place he firmly believed that he was safe from the law's clutches, and that it was but a matter of time and his crime would be forgotten. Such fortune was not his, for on Monday last he was arrested, and is now on his way to Placerville, Ouray county, Col., where he will be tried for murder. He was accompanied by Deputy Sheriff C. T. Linton.—S. F. Chronicle.

AGAINST THE LAW.—Woodchoppers would do well to bear in mind that it is against the law to remove wood and timber from the surface ground of mining claims. The timber is reserved by law for the benefit of the mines. The man who removes wood from a mine is subject to prosecution. Several owners of mines on Prospect Mountain have requested the Sentinel to call attention to the subject. They further say that they will make it their business to see that the law is enforced to the letter in the future. Woodchoppers and haulers are likely to get themselves into trouble if they are not careful how they trespass on mining claims.—Eureka Sentinel.

DURING the past twenty years the Comstock lode has shown sixteen bonanzas, from which 6,500,000 tons of ore have been extracted. The average assay value of this large mass was $56 per ton; it yielded in the mill $41 80, and from the treatment of sluices $5; total $46 90 per ton. The total value of the ore extracted was $363,671,605, yielding a net sum from the mills and sluices of $323,671,805. The average proportion of precious metals in value is forty-five per cent gold and fifty-five per cent silver.

THE Mussel Slough settlers confined in the San Jose jail, are made as comfortable as possible under the circumstances, and they enjoy the largest privileges compatible with the rules, which are doubtless greatly relaxed in their favor. Mr. Doyle's wife and babe are with him in his room-cell, and one of the incarcerated settlers acts as door keeper to the jail. The imprisoned settlers are not so much troubled about their captivity as they are about the fact that they are thereby prevented from providing for their families, and they are in a state of great suspense from the further fact that there is no telling when their imprisonment will end, as the sentence not only extends to the eight months pronounced by the court, but until the fine imposed and the costs of the trial (some $5,000) are paid. They have no means to meet this part of the sentence, and the prospect now is that they may be held for an indefinite term. This Mussel Slough episode, with the imprisonment of these men, is one of the blackest stains on the escutcheon of justice in this country. It shows that land wrongs of the most exasperating character can be perpetrated here, and that while we are bestowing our sympathies on the wrongs of the Irish peasantry we have here land questions to deal with fraught with as great injustice to the people as those occurring in Ireland.—Los Angeles Express.

THE National Mining Exposition to be held at Denver, Colorado, is rapidly assuming form and cohesiveness. Gov. Fremont has accepted the position as one of the Vice Presidents, and promises to have Arizona well represented. The rich and extensive mineral region embraced within the counties of Mono and Inyo in this State should also be specially and ably represented; and we should suggest that our mining men secure, if possible, the services of Joe Wasson for such occasion.—Bodie Free Press

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, JUNE 4 1881

PANAMINT.—Mr. A. W. Robinson was in town during the week from Panamint. Of the late run of the mill by Messrs. Pheby & Anthony he reports the following: Some 300 tons of ore were worked, about 120 tons coming from the Hemlock, 100 from the Wyoming and the balance from chloriders. On the 20th ultimo the mill shipped five bars of bullion weighing 355 pounds, 850 fine, and on the 27th four bars weighing 328 pounds. 960 fine. Mr. Robinson came in after quicksilver, and having secured about a ton, will return with it in time to complete the present run. It is on dit that a New York Company, which has recently invested heavily in the Pinney mines there, is about taking the entire property and starting up operations on a large scale. When this comes about we trust the place will not be so isolated from mail, expres and freight facilities as at present.

AT LONE PINE.—Mrs. Sara Stevens Heenan, a daughter of Col. Stevens, of Lone Pine, arrived there last evening, on a visit to the Colonel and the family. She came by steamer from New York to San Francisco. Mrs. Heenan is accorded high rank as an actress, while as a reader she has hardly an equal known to the public. Such, at least, is the reputation that precedes her, and as having been fairly earned upon the London as well as the New York boards. It is planned now to have the talented lady give readings in Lone Pine on the Fourth of July, and subsequently in this place and elsewhere in the county and throughout the State. This will doubtless prove the great attraction in celebrating the day at Lone Pine, whatever else may be on the programme.

WORK IN BEVERIDGE DISTRICT.—It is stated that the new trail being built by Mr. Hunter and the mill and mine owners, from Juarez camp to Taylor, McEvoy & Co's. mill in Freeborn cañon, will be completed next Monday. It comes a distance of four miles, and descends altogether from the mine to the mill about 4,000 feet, over one of the roughest regions outside of the moon. To get the auriferous quartz to the mill will require about 40 mules, to supply the requisite nine tons to keep the little 5-stamp mill in operation day and night. The owners of the Key Not have contracted to supply at least 250 tons of ore for the first run.

THE DEEP SPRING ROAD.—W. A. Greenly and other owners of the Deep Spring Toll Road, as appears by a notice printed elsewhere, have purchased the new section of road built last year by the Big Piners. This is a sensible action, and will remove all cause of complaint on the part of those traveling that way, to Deep Spring, Lida, Gold Mountain and all that country. We know that it was Mr. Greenly's intention to complete the purchased part of the road himself as soon as prospective business justified it, so that the conclusion is just as at first planned.

AT CERRO GORDO.—Mr. Geo. Center, formerly superintending smelter at the Union Con. works, has lately been studying up the property with a view to leasing and starting up work. We understand that he is ready to go ahead provided the company will make certain connections from the 900-level of the new shaft to the old works, which it is to be hoped they will do.

ANOTHER BRANCH BUSINESS.—Ex-County Treasurer Isaacs has established an extensive branch business at Willows, in Colusa county—a wholesale and retail general merchandise store. He will, however, keep his home in San Francisco and be always ready to attend to commissions from here.

"WAY UP."—Manufacture of beer at the Pioneer Brewery of this place now being carried on by a new hand at the place, but an experienced and skillful brewer withal. His product is such as to tickle the palates and earn the encomiums of the proprietor's many friends.

FOOT RACE.—Johnny Day, who ran here with Mr. Crough under the name of D. W. James, is pedestrianizing in Los Angeles. On the 29th ult. he was beaten by Ybarra, 100 yards in 10½ seconds, $500 a side. "A large amount of money changed hands."

VACATION.—Superior Judge John A. Hannah left on Thursday last on a trip to Napa county, where he will visit relatives and take in the springs for the benefit of his failing health, intending to remain some three or four weeks.

AT LONE PINE.—Chas. R. Barry, the well known young Inyo lawyer, is on a visit to his home in Lone Pine. He reports that Messrs. Reddy and Bennett will not be here as stated for some weeks yet.

DISSOLVED.—Drs. Bicknell & Howell have dissolved their co-partnership, as will be seen by the legal notice. Dr. Bicknell will be in town during the coming week.

AT WORK.—Billy Hedge has resigned the engineership of the Keeler mill, and with Capt. James will put in some time at work on his mine across the river.

WHEREFORE?—It does not appear, up to date, that the repair of the Court House roof—as per contract—is going on very rapidly, or has begun.

BACK AGAIN.—A. C. Kitchen and Jas. N. Rose are among the old-timers who have lately returned to Independence.

POSTPONED.—See notice of postponement of the sale of delinquent stock of the Swansea Mining Company.

F. & A. M.—Stated meeting of Inyo Lodge, No. 221, F. & A. M., on next Saturday night.

His Rejoinder.

We fully indorse the main points in what Uncle Billy Walker says in the following; in point of fact, we really think he stands as good a chance of reaching the Gates of Paradise, and as certain to have the right pass-word when he gets there, as any one whomsoever, unless a strict regard to established theological guide-boards is a prerequisite; that is where incorrigibility may cause trouble. Sometimes newspaper articles get mixed in the "make-up;" we begin to think that if we wrote an article actually assuming that anybody was past the saltpetre stage and a fit subject for the brimstone process, it was Roscoe, and there was a mix in the make-up. If it wasn't that way it was some other. Here is what Uncle Billy says about it:

OLANCHA, CAL., 1st June, 1881.

MESSRS. EDS.—Don't you think you might be a little, just a little, mistaken in regard to Uncle Billy's prospect for redemption? You are right, however, in one respect: You might turn loose all the theological students you could find, two at a time or four at a clip, and the impression they would make on Uncle Billy—after they were completely worn out—would hardly be discernible, and they might bring their saltpere and brimstone along. Still, Uncle Billy is not such a hard case. No one has a greater respect for a preacher that practices what he preaches; and when one of them is found, Uncle Billy's door is always open and the latch-string on the outside.

But I don't like to hear one pray
Who has cash loaned at two per cent.—
I fear some poor widow may lack bread,
And can't pay that pious fraud his rent.

I do not like to hear one pray
For grace to spend aright the hour,
Who knows that moment, as he prays,
Some neighbor's widow has no flour.

I do not like to hear one pray
For blessings on the widow's weed
Who never crossed that humble door
To find out if she lacked for bread.

I do not like to hear one pray
In jeweled hand and silken dress,
Whose servant-woman toils all day,
And then is asked to work for less.

But when I find an honest prayer
By honest men and women given,
Then Uncle Billy helps that kind
Upon their journey up to heaven.

And when old Gabriel toots his horn,
And all are rushing in, I think
You will find Uncle Billy there
Asking the righteous up to drink.

Your Uncle Billy,

WM. WALKER.

THE NAME.—The Mexican gold mine at Beveridge referred to as the "Key Not" needs perhaps a little explanation as to its proper nomenclature. It certainly was not intended to be called the "Keynote," as might be supposed, nor hardly what the name literally expresses now—"Not [the] key." As explained to us by Joe Kelley, shortly after he made the location, he had, in prospecting for the vein, found a place where it seemed to center into a knot. He had therefore discovered the key to the whole geological situation, and pronounced it the Key Knot, but in the official records orthographically omitted the K. Hence.

FOUND AGAIN.—For the past two weeks we have been upon the point of advertising the Hon. Jos. Wasson as "Lost," "Information Wanted," or something of that kind, having heard nothing of his whereabouts since the adjournment of the extra session. He turns up all right, however; in a note from San Francisco he mentions having just returned from a two weeks trip to Yosemite. Mr. Wasson has well earned the diversion and recreation. Our readers may expect to read something about it shortly.

NOTICE.—Notice is hereby given that the next man who inspects the working of our newspaper press—the old "Historical"—and who takes occasion to refer to the San Francisco Chronicle printing machinery, will die in his boots. We are getting tired of explaining how difficult it would be for the Chronicle to work off our immense edition. Besides, we intend getting one of the same machines next week. They only cost about $25,000 each, and our delinquent subscribers will readily pu tup that amount, on the merest hint.

THE CENTENNIAL.—The advertisement of Messrs. Von Briesen & Quinn, of the Centennial Brewery at Lone Pine, appears this week. The concern was established in '76 by Baron Louis Munzinger, the pioneer brewer of Inyo, and has just been thoroughly overhauled by the new firm. Competent judges pronounce their beer to be the very best, as to quality and flavor.

FOURTH OF JULY.—It is now proposed to get up a big ball at the Court House on tne night of the coming Fourth of July, with supper and good music, preceded by a display of fireworks.

PREACHING.—There will be preaching by the Rev. F. M. Willis, in the school house to-morrow evening at the usual hour.

THE business of copper mining is now rapidly reviving on this coast. The discovery and development of extensive copper mines in Arizona, has turned attention to many neglected properties in this State, being known, but never worked to a profit. It has been proven that ore could be worked here as well as abroad, and there are now several furnaces running in Arizona and making money. We expect to see, within the next few years, a very general reviving of this extensive interest. There are hundreds of good copper mines in California, which, if provided with suitable metallurgical appliances, would pay well. Cement copper in this city is now worth 15¾ cents for 100 fine.—Scientific Press.

MR. DAUGHERTY, of the Controller's office, has invented a new pencil sharpener, which is as convenient as his book rest. His book rest is being manufactured in the East, and he expects an installment here shortly.—Careon Appeal.

THE following graphic description of the late fiasco of Conkling and Platt, is put forth thusly by the New York Tribune:—One morning when the Show opened the Ring Master laid before the Animals a letter from the Giraffe, who said that in consequence of the Treatment he had received he felt compelled to leave the Show. Before the Excitement over this Announcement han subsided the Ring Master said he had letter from one of the Trick Mules, who also withdrew from the Show. At this there was a little Squirming among the Snakes, and one, a Copperhead spoke up; "Looks as though the Show was breaking up:" and a Fellow who had been kicked out once and crept in again under the Canvas, and was wanting to be appointed Scene Shifter, said: "It's a Cold Day for this Show when it gets left by that Noble Animal the Giraffe. To say nothing of the Trick Mule." The Show, however, went on, and the Giraffe and Trick Mule went away and waited for the Manager to send for them. After many days, curiosity as to what would become of the Circus gave way to solicitude for the Giraffe and Trick Mule. A Committee being sent out learned that the Trick Mule had hired out on the Tow Path, but that the Giraffe, having never done anything useful, sought Employment in Vain until a Village Engine Company utilized him as a Fire Escape, in which position he was able to do for others what he never could do for himself—let them down easy. Moral—No one Animal, or even two, can break up a whole Show.

THE Visalia Delta don't believe in flying machines, to judge from the following:

THE INYO INDEPENDENT gives an account of a model of an alleged flying machine, the outgrowth of Oscar Bacon's fertile imagination. This chimerical aeriel-moving idea revives the memory of the tortoise and the eagle. Mr. Bacon's invention has two principal changes from the old idea, and they consist in substituting thin sheet steel for silk in the construction of the gas-bag, and a peculiar cam action that regulates the motion of the paddles so that they revolve one-quarter around in the hub, presenting alternately a face and an edge to the air. Mr. Bacon seems to overlook the fact that his impossible steel gas-bag, being unyielding, will explode under a sudden raising of the temperature; and his wheel is a step backward from the screw. No one doubts that Mr. Bacon can save a great expense in manufacturing his own gas.

A DENVER dispatch, of May 31, tells the following tale of blood: At half-past 6 this evening F. L. Stickney, a mining man, entered a boarding-house at the corner of Seventeenth and Stout streets, while the boarders were seated at the table, pulled a revolver, and opened fire on M. T. Campau, a real estate agent. Two shots struck Campau, causing instant death, and another pierced Mrs. Devereaux through the heart. It is said that Campau has for some time had improper relations with Mrs. Stickney, but was drawn on by her for blackmailing purposes, and that two months ago he was compelled, at the point of a dagger, by Stickney, to sign notes amounting to $10,000; that he paid several, and then refused and could not be compelled to pay the remainder, because no consideration was stated in the notes. Since then Stickney has several times threatened Campau's life. The shooting of Mrs Devereaux was accidental. The murderer is in jail.

CURE FOR WARTS.—A correspondent of the Scientific American writes as follows: Some years since a corn doctor advised me to use coal oil. My hands were covered with them. Having a little faith I tried it, putting a drop on each of common kerosene and letting it absorb; where there was a hard crust, scraping it to facilitate absorption. In a fortnight after twice daily treating them, they began to lessen, and finally disappeared without a scar. Then the right hand, in part, leaving one which remained after all others had passed away, and then that one. Have advised others to try it, with like effect on persistent use. Simply softening the top, drop the oil on, and let it be for some minutes to absorb.

J. S. BROOKS of San Bernardino, while sinking an artesian well, struck a subterranean stream of remarkable force. A shower of rocks some of which weighed half a pound, were thrown out of the pipe by the power of the water with such force as to render it uncomfortable to work around it for some time. A joint of pipe over nine feet in length was then put on the top of the well, and the water flowed over it.

A SWARM of bees in the Sweetwater valley, San Diego county, settled on a rattlesnake measuring six feet, twelve inches in girth and having twenty-two rattles. They stung him violently, so that he was blinded, twisting and quivering, and was easily killed with a spade.

SPEAKING of a wood drive, the Benton (M. T.) Record says: It comes along in a solid mass, four miles from one end to the other. The water rises up the banks while the wood is passing any point, about a foot and a half. The drive moves down at the rate of about three miles per day.

FOR INYO.—Hon. P. Reddy, Paul W. Bennett and Charles R. Barry will shortly depart for Inyo county on professional business.—Bridgeport Union.

REMEDY FOR BURNS.—All kinds of burns, including scalds and sunburns, are almost immediately relieved by the application of a solution of soda to the burnt surface. It must be remembered that dry soda will not do unless it is surrounded with a cloth moist enough to dissolve it. This method of sprinkling it on and covering it with a wet cloth is often the very best. But it is sufficient to wash the wound sufficiently with a strong solution. It would be well to keep a bottle of it always on hand, made so strong that more or less settles on the bottom. This is what is called a saturated solution, and really such a solution as this is formed when the dry soda is sprinkled on and covered with a moistened cloth. It is thought by some that the pain of a burn is caused by the hardening of the flesh, which presses on the nerves, and that the soda dissolves the albumem and relieves the pressure. Others think that the burn generates an acrid acid, which the soda neutralizes.

A COLORED gentleman was busily engaged sawing some wood for a Southern gentleman. The "man and brother" had a large Masonic breastpin on his shirt bosom. "Do you colored Masons affiliate?"

"Don't fillyate wuff a cuss."

"What's the matter?"

"Dunno, boss, but I'se tried it. Dar is a bar-keeper in dis town what toted dis heah berry same emblem. I was in distress; hadn't had a dram all dat morning; I cum in and gib de distress signal."

"Did he respond?"

"He didn't respond right. He made a motion at de doah wid one hand and reached under de bar. I made de sign once moah and he fetched me between de shoulders wid de bungstarter, jess as I was getting out de doah."

DR. LENTZ, the traveler, reports having found singing sand in the Sahara. At certain times he heard low murmuring and plaintive sounds in the sand hills of the desert. These sounds would increase and decrease in intensity, and at last cease. He explains the phenomenon by differences in the temperature causing the loose grains of sand to hit against each other and causing the air to reverberate. Travelers often reported having fancied hearing a tolling of distant bells by the side of such sand hills, similar to the sounds produced by a river or waterfall.

"SAY, mister," said a man, as he entered his office, "is the editor in?" "Yes," replied that overworked individual, looking over his glasses. "Well, I thought you was the chap. I wanted to tell you about a boy of mine; you ought to have him; he's just the fellow you ought to have on your paper; he's the darndest fool I ever see."

A BEVY of children were telling what they got at school. The eldest got reading, spelling and definitions. "And what did you get, little one?" asked the father of a rosy-cheeked little fellow, who at the same time was driving a tenpenny nail into the door panel. "Me? I gets readin', spellin' and spankin'."

THE San Francisco Stock Report asks why Dennis Kearney is like a Peruvian lady? A correspondent of the Chicago Tribune answers the conundrum in one of his letters; he says: "The Peruvian ladies hate the Chileans. They are very brave, but generally keep in doors.

"L'Electricite" states that M. Dohrn has introduced the telephone in connection with his scientific experiments of the bed of the Bay of Naples. By its use the diver and the boatman overhead are able to communicate with each other quickly and intelligibly.

A WESTERN circus manager published an offer of $1,000,000 for the ugliest woman on earth, and Dr. Mary Walker offers $7,000,000 for information of the fiend who sent her a marked copy of the paper containing it.

EXTRACTED HONEY.

THIS HONEY WAS REMOVED FROM THE comb by centrifugal force, with a machine made for the purpose. It is therefore virtually the same as honey in the comb, only you don't have to eat the bees wax, which is indigestible and therefore disagrees with many persons. When first extracted the honey is liquid, but nearly all pure honey will candy or granulate in course of time, especially if exposed to the cold. Putting the cans in hot water for a short time will bring the honey to its fluid state without injury.

This Honey is put up in 10-pound cans, with patented screw tops, which renders it convenient for family use, and especially for the mines, to which it may be packed, even upside down, without leakage. A neat label on each can gives full directions.

Price, $1 50 per can, or 12½ cents per ℔, at the Apiary, if customers furnish their own receptacle. For sale at Harris & Rhine's, Independence, and at the Apiary, at Jacob Vagt's place, Camp Independence.

MODERN FLOURING MILLS.

The modern flouring mill is a huge structure, employing many men, and the wheat is turned into flour by the freight-train load daily. One of the monster mills in Minneapolis, Minn., covers an area of 380 by 80 feet, and is seven stories in hight. Its capacity is 4,200 bushels of wheat, or 50 car loads, to keep the mill in operation. It does not depend upon the old-fashioned bur mill-stones to convert the wheat into flour, but the process of manufacture is to first run the wheat through a brushing machine, the old-fashioned smut machine having been discarded. After the wheat has been cleansed by running through the brush machine it is run through corrugated iron rollers, which split the crease of the berry open, thus liberating the dust which lies in the crease, so that it can be removed by bolting. A very small percentage of low grade flour is made during the first reduction. The grain then passes through a process, technically known as a scalping reel, to remove the dirt and flour, after which it passes through a second set of corrugated rollers, by which it is further broken; then it is passed through a second reel, which removes the flour and middlings. The operation is repeated successively until the flour portion of the berry is entirely removed from the bran, the necessary separations being made after each reduction, sometimes requiring five or six. The middlings from the several operations are reduced to flour, after being run through the purifiers by successive reductions, on smooth iron or porcelain rollers. One of the principal objects sought by this system of grinding is to avoid all bruising of the grain; another to extract all the dirt from the crease of the berry, and a third to thoroughly free the bran from the flour in order to obtain as large a yield as possible.

There are in Minneapolis twenty eight of these huge merchant mills, making the largest flour manufacturing place in the world, and its products are sent to all parts of the earth. The growers of wheat no longer patronize the grist mill, but buys his flour of the retail dealer. The grist mills of the Eastern and Middle States are small and unpretentious concerns, only useful in grinding provender for the farmers of the neighborhood for the purpose of feeding their horses, stock and swine. And even now they are obliged to compete with large mills in the West and Northwest, which make a speciality of grinding feed by the car load and sending it to an Eastern market. The miller of ancient times, who used to be regarded as an important factor of society, is nearly obselete, and the time is not far distant when he and his toll-dish will be relegated to the domain of the flax-spinning-wheel, the hand-loom and the reaping sickle.

Hog Killing in Chicago.

Professor Sheldon was in this country last summer and visited the meat-packing establishment of Messrs. Armour & Co. in Chicago. The following notes are taken from an account he prepared for the London Stock Journal: This establishment is said to cover an area of over 20 acres, and is, of course, the largest of its kind in the world. An inclined and covered way leads from the stockyards to the upper story of the slaughter-house, and up this plane the pigs are driven direct from market. A pen holding about 50 of the doomed porkers is situated nearest the place where they are knifed, and outside this one are two or three others adjoining the top of the plane. In the pen first mentioned two men are posted, whose duty it is to slip a chain-noose around a hind leg of each pig; to this chain is attached a swivel, which hooks on and slides along a horizontal bar of iron overhead. Immediately a pig is noosed he is hoisted in the twinkling of an eye some three feet clear of the floor, by means of a chain and pulleys, the chain for the moment being hooked near the noose on the pig's leg. Here the swivel is placed on a bar of iron, and a shove is given to the pig, which travels a few yards along the bar of iron, clearing a low door which separates the pen from the slaughter-house proper. In the latter stands a man who is armed with a sure blade of steel, and, as the suspended animals glide past him, he gives each one of them the coup de grace with singular dexterity. In a moment the deed is done, and the pig glides along, beating the air with his helpless feet, the blood flowing ont in a stream against the sides of the pen, until he fetches up a few yards away against a whole gallowsful of earlier victims. Sometimes the man with the knife takes a flying shot, and again a pair of them, but each time his aim is deadly and instantaneous. It is considered a fair day's work for this man to stick 3,500 hogs, but he has done as many as 5,000 in a day. The earlier part of the process is indescribably revolting, with the yells of the dying pigs and the streams of blood which fly about in all directions; but the latter, after the disemboweling process, is conducted with all the decency and cleanliness possible in such a place. Here the men are cleanly in dress and person, whereas in the earlier stages such a condition is impossible. But everywhere system and order reign; and labor-saving appliances are used wherever possible.

SENATOR FAIR has evidently dropped his anchor in San Francisco, and means to hold on to the extent of his cable. Recently all of the tenants in the old Blumenberg building, at the corner of Pine and Sacramento street, were notified to vacate their holdings, and Col. Fair has signified his intention to tear down the structure and begin at once the erection of a handsome five-story business block on the ground. The building will be one of the most imposing structures in San Francisco, and, it is said, will cost over a million. This determination cannot but have a good effect, as indicating that another rich man besides Charles Crocker and James Phelan have an abiding faith in the future of the Pacific metropolis.

AT the splendid banquet recently given at the Tivoli Gardens, Mexico, in honor of Gen. Ord, there was placed on the table in front of the guest of the evening a novel confection, described on the menu as "La Boule du monde enchatee." This globe, which was decorated with great ingeuity, represented the different countries of the world, especial prominence being given to the geographical relations of Mexico and the United States. At the close of the banquet Gen. Ord was requested to break the crust of the globe. He did so, and to his perfect astonishment a number of tropical birds flew out and disappeared among the trees outside the summer house, where they began to sing delightfully.

THE experimental works in connection with the proposed tunnel of the English Channel, were begun on the 23d ult. Thus far, the stratum cut is composed of gray chalk, a formation decidedly favorable for the enterprise.

An Old Prospector Runs Across Rough Diamonds.

There is perhaps no mining district in the world that presents a greater variety of ores, minerals, etc., than Eureka. We have high and low grade ores, smelting and milling, free and base, in all their different grades and forms. We have gold, silver, lead, iron, antimony, copper, cinnabar, and in fact a trace at least of almost every thing in the mineral kingdom. Besides this we are not totally wanting in the way of precious stones. In some of our mines specimens of malachite are found; on old Diamond mountain garnets are quite plentiful, and moss and ordinary agates are by no means scarce; and now we have good reasons to believe that there may be diamonds in the district. This morning Pat Kelly, an old prospector, exhibited to us four or five small pebble-like stones that have every appearance of diamonds in the rough, and which are pronounced as such by local experts in this line. Pat says that he found them in the immediate neighborhood of Eureka; the exact locality he refuses to disclose. He fully believes they are diamonds, and will have them tested at once. The specimens shown us varied in size from that of a pin head to the size of a half pea, and had a peculiar milky or opal color of rough diamonds. We only hope that Pat's discovery is a bona fide one that he may strike a brilliant that will outrival the famous "Koh-i-noor."—[Eureka Leader.

WHEN the Southern Ocean was first opened to British enterprise by the discoveries of Captain Cook it teemed with animal life. Fur seals and hair seals abounded on the coast of Australia and New Zealand and on the outlying islands. They were at once set upon and killed, the slaughter being conducted without regard to sex or season. The result was the total extirpation of several species. "One might as soon expect to meet a sea lion on London bridge as on any one of the islands in Bass' Strait," was the reply of a New Zealand naturalist to an inquiry about the seal life that early voyagers had observed. The same result has happened at the Faulkland Islands, at Cape Horn, and on the Pacific seaboard of South America. A vessel called the Betsy took 1,000,000 skins from the Island of Masafuera at the beginning of the century, an exploit which left no survivors for future adventurers, and the island of Juan Fernandez, where, in Anson's time, there were seals in abundance, has now only a few stragglers to show. The same thing happened at the South Shetlands. In 1821-2 British sealers took away 220,000 skins for the two years, killing males and females indiscriminately, and leaving the young to die. The fate of the sperm whale might furnish a useful lesson in the same direction. It was once abundant in the Southern Ocean, but it is now all but extinct, from the very same causes that we have pointed out above in the case of the seals. The American whalers observed its maternal affection, and found it easier to kill a mother and her cub together than a mother alone. A few years of this policy, added to the use of steamers, armed with projectiles of cutting contrivance, and the fishery has to be given up as no longer profitable.

WE are sorry to learn that the wanton murder of a citizen in Eureka, Nev., caused intense excitement, that crowds collected on the streets, etc. We would rather have heard that the Eurekans remained quietly at their work, confident that the murderer would be captured by the officers of the law and dealt with according to law. Our opinion of Eurekans as dispensers of justice is not very high. They have one young man in the State Prison now whose imprisonment there is a disgrace to Eureka and to the whole State. He is not the prisoner of the people but of a railroad company, by which the people of Eureka are not ashamed of being dictated to. Until Chartz is freed, Nevada justice will be about as respectable in the eyes of those who know anything about it as Nevada politics.—[Stock Report.

THE Southern California Railroad Company, it is said, will have three thousand men employed in the work of construction before the first of next month.

THERE is an individual, collective, general and promiscuous "kick" in Bodie against the payment of a poll tax of $7 per toll—that is $2 poll tax, $2 road tax and $3 hospital tax. The miners are kicking, the firemen are kicking, and nearly everybody else is kicking, and a number talk of contesting the legality of the tax. A meeting of the Board of Fire Delegates was called for Saturday evening to take action in the matter, but as there was not a quorum present no action was taken.—[Free Press.

A GUN recently purchased by a Yuma, A. T., gunsmith, is of historic interest. One of the barrels is a smooth bore and the other is rifled. They are made of Damascus steel. The strap-hand is lifted by touching a spring and a bayonet is run out, springing into place of itself. Upon the gun, engraved in gold, is the lone star of Texas and the name of Gen. Joseph Green. There is also a golden eagle set into the stock.

RUTH PLATT to Naomi Conkling: "Entreat me not to leave thee or to return from following after thee: for whither thou goest I will go, and whither thou lodgest I will lodge; whither thou diest will I die, and there will I be buried; the Lord do so to me, and more also, if aught but death part thee and me." And both sent in their resignations on the same day.—[Cincinnati Enquirer.

A CABLE special to the New York World, from London says: "We shall again go to you for the larger part of our grain supply. The continued drought and cold east winds which have prevailed with little intermission since seeding time have ruined most of the cereal crops, except wheat, and that in most districts is poor and thin. I have been over the best agricultural sections in the southern and midland counties and the same doleful story is told everywhere. The hay crop will be almost a total failure. The farmers have been trusting to a good harvest this year to enable them to pay off the arrears of rent, which have grown up on them, owing to the wretched harvests of the last few years, and the partial failure which is now inevitable will ruin thousands of them. The misfortunes of the farmers have much to do with the prevailing industrial depression. We have had only two showers of rain since May 4th and the fields are parched and red as rust. Altogether farming in these islands is in a bad box between short harvests and American competition. Landlords are at their wits end. Hundreds of the farms are unoccupied. At least 70 per cent of the tenants are in arrears and owing to the general feeling of insecurity created by such drastic measures as the Land bill landed property is practically unsalable."

MILL sites may be located under the provisions of the mining act, and must be recorded. Locators of mining claims have the exclusive right of possession of the surface ground included within the lines of their locations, upon compliance with the laws of the United States, and with the State, Territorial and local regulations governing their possessory titles, where no adverse claim existed before May 10, 1872. But a mill site must be on non-mineral land. The owners of the mill site are entitled to the timber growing thereon. It is the rule in the General Land Office under Section 2,337 United States Revised Statutes, to require that mill sites shall be located and recorded in the same manner as a vein or lode, and in case of a mill site not held and worked in connection with a lode claim, the customary certificate that $500 worth of improvements have been placed upon the claim is demanded. Mill sites can only be five acres, and on no consideration can more be taken up.

THE San Jose Mercury relates that a worthy young woman was recently expelled from the Normal School. Her mother wanted to know why. The Preceptress told her that the charge was that her daughter "ran up and down stairs;" one of the Professors said she "talked too loud," and the Principal said that "she sometimes sneezed so loud as almost to raise the roof off the building." The real reason is alleged to be that the girl had written a letter to a friend in San Jose, in which she had questioned the veracity of one of the teachers in a certain matter. The letter fell into the hands of the step-father of the person to whom it was addressed, who forwarded it to to Gov. Perkins, who sent it to the Trustees, who gave it to the Principal. The Mercury denounces the expulsion and demands the girl's reinstatement.

THE largest railroad suit which ever came before the Courts of the United States has just been commenced at Santa Fe, New Mexico. It is between the Texas Pacific and Southern Pacific railroads of New Mexico. The suit is brought to recover all that portion of the Southern Pacific built upon the land grant of the Texas Pacific in New Mexico, which is over a district of country from Sansamon river, on the Arizona line, to within four miles of El Paso, a distance of 130 miles.

THE San Louis Obispo Tribune says that Hon. Romualdo Pacheco, Representative from this Congressional District, has been in the city of Mexico ever since the adjournment of Congress in the interest of a railroad company, lobbying a franchise through the Mexican Government. It is said that, if he succeeds, his fee will be large enough to make him independent for life.

ALONG the coast of Mendocino and Humboldt there is much life exhibited, and while the mill men are turning out immense quantities of lumber, the woods are ringing with the sounds of the ax and the continual passing to and fro of the hundreds of teams engaged in hauling out ties, shingles and bark.

THE Aurora Herald having received a copy of the revised New Testament, says: Any of our Bible sharps wishing to trace out the new-faugled trail to the diggings in the happy hunting grounds, may look over the guide book, now on file in this office.

AS TO A "BOOM."

We can't say that the prospects for the long expected "boom" for Inyo are particularly bright as yet, although sanguine people have fixed "next Spring" as the time for one to set in every season for ten years or more. But "next Spring" comes and goes, and the year's business closes as it begun so far as booms are concerned. The hopes on stilts for the Spring of 1881 may as well be laid aside for 1882, and subject to another postponement then, contingent upon one possible saving clause, which we shall presently mention. Though disappointed as to the boom, where is there a people more prosperous than those of Inyo, taken as a whole? Certainly, valley people have but little real cause for complaint that they are not prospering fairly; for the most part they will continue to do so though a general mining boom never comes. There will always be a sufficiency of mining operations going on somewheres in reach of this valley to insure reasonable prosperity and regular advancement in established interests for all time to come. And those who shape their operations on that modest basis, rather than upon that of hoped-for booming times, will act wisely. Don't forego efforts for steady improvement of farm, home and home institutions, thinking this but a temporary stopping place, which flush times will enable you to exchange for homes elsewhere. If such should come, you wouldn't quit if you could, and if they don't come, you couldn't quit if you would.

But that is not the point. It is as to the chances for a boom. Something of that kind is almost the sole hope of a large portion of our citizens—mining men, prospecting men, who for long, long years have held bravely on to the ragged edge of fortune, knowing it was almost in hand, and yet not quite—a boom, or something akin to it, was all that was needed to crown their hopes. It is needed yet as badly as ever. Its coming is a matter of the very first importance to that most deserving part of our population. To all the rest it is desirable, but not essentially important.

A railroad is about our only hope for a boom of solid proportions; without that, we needn't look for more than a little local stir here and there—not general, or wide spreading, but will average enough to keep the general business of the country up to its present standard, and to raise it somewhat as time passes. That is the heighth of our hopes till the locomotive comes.

Arizona, New Mexico, old Mexico, all that region is now booming because of railroads built and projected. So must ours inevitably under like conditions for transportation. The other day Gov. (we respectfully prefix that title now in view of future contingencies)—Gov. Stanford saw that it wonld be necessary to build a branch road from the Southern Pacific eighty miles to Port Isabel at the mouth of the Colorado, all to prevent a rival road from making a great port at Guaymas, Mexico. Before Winter comes that branch road will be in full operation. The Atlantic and Pacific road is being rapidly built straight for Walker's Pass and the Bay. That will take all the business of this inland country from here to Salt Lake from the Southern Pacific. The Governor won't stand that. We are told by a gentleman who claims to know that Stanford will in a few months if not in a few weeks order the construction of a railroad from Mohave to and through this valley to connections north. We give credence to this statement. And, anyway, we would attach immense importance to the turning of the first shovelful of earth in the construction of this road, if turned by Stanford's order, for that would mean a completed road, and without delay. And the day that shovelful is turned will be the day for the beginning for a real and permanent boom for this country, and we need not hope for much in that way till then, however far in the future it may be.

GEN. GRANT arrived at New Orleans on the 3d and, according to the telegraph, is credited with views as follows: "Gen. Grant is greatly irritated over the Conkling affair, and eagerly reads the dispatches. He says that Conkling has been shamefully treated, and should be re-elected to the Senate. He thinks the newspaper abuse of Conkling instigated by White House influence, but not by Garfield. He reaffirms his letter to Senator Jones, but will take no hand in the fight. He pronounced untrue Gov. Young's statement of his connection with the United States National Bank, and says there is no truth in the story of his lost jewelry."

A NEW evidence of the manner in which the very corners of the earth are being sympathetically united, is afforded by the fact that in Japan a movement has been initiated to raise funds to aid the people of Ireland in their present trouble. The statement will sound to many as incredible, but it is the case nevertheless.

NEWS comes from China that the Eastern Empress, senior of the two ladies who are known as the Empresses Regent, died suddenly of heart disease. Heart disease is hereditary in the family to which the late Empress belonged. Whenever a member of the family arrives at a position of influence they live in constant dread of that malady. The existence of the disease often is not known until the fatal attack is made. But they all know that they have it. The slightest negligence in matters of diet may develop a fatal case. The attack may be guarded against for a long time, but when it does set in it makes short work of its victim. The mystery in which the royal family of China is enveloped naturally gives rise to many curious rumors and to many suspicions, which are not true; and if, under such circumstances, some sudden deaths, which are attributed to heart disease, are believed to be the result of political intrigue, such conclusions can hardly be called uncharitable.

THE authorities at Honolulu acknowledge themselves beaten by the small-pox, neither the quarantine regulations nor vaccination seeming to furnish a barrier against its progress. Up to the middle of May, there has been 655 cases, of which 231, or about 35 per cent. has resulted fatally. The San Francisco papers, which publish frequent reports of the progress of the disease, attribute its spread and virulence to the practice of concealment on the part of the natives and Chinese, who will not report a case to the authorities until the patient is about to die on their hands, and subsequently makes it appear that the physicians of the Board of Health are responsible for his death. The public schools and all places of amusement are closed, but churches are kept open in spite of the fact that they have been the means of spreading the contagion.

THE Lyon county (Nevada) Times prints the scientific information that the wind recently blew so hard in Dayton "that the rays of light were deflected from their true course. This," the Times continues, in order to have no doubt of the genuineness of its statement, "was discovered by observing that the shadows cast by immovable objects vibrated on the ground. At first it was supposed that a post, firmly sunk in the ground, was shaken; but it was soon noticed that when the wind blew hardest, the shadow moved in a contrary direction, which showed that the rays were bent by the wind before they struck the post."

IT is said that at the time of his death, Colonel Tom Scott's fortune amounted to $13,000,000. He was married twice. His first wife, whom it is said, he married when he was receiving a salary of $50 a month, was the daughter of Gen. Stewart of Philadelphia. She died more than 20 years ago, leaving two children, James H. Scott and Mrs. Howard W. Bickler of Philadelphia. Shortly after the war broke out Colonel Scott married his second wife, Miss Anna Riddle of Pittsburg. Two children were born to them—Edgar Thomas, now about 8 years of age, and Mary, who is a few years younger than her brother.

THE New York Mining Record in its last issue contains the following concerning the lead market: "Sellers have accepted lower prices for common pig, about 1,300 tons have been sold at 4 3-8 down to 4 1-4 cents. Since then, however, the best bids obtainable from large buyers have been less than 4 1-4 cents, but there is still but little disposition for busines on the part of either buyer or seller, and the tone of the market has been weak with the tendency downward. Refined is nominally quoted 4 1-2 to 4 5-8 cents, but no business has transpired.

WHEN Mr. Eldridge returned to Columbus, Indiana, after a short absence, "all his friends were shouting at him with the full strength of their lungs," and, lightning-rod agent though he is, he was somewhat disconcerted. Explanations led to the discovery that a friend who loves a joke had caused to be printed in a local paper the announcement that Mr. Eldridge had had the misfortune to become nearly deaf.

THE 24th of May was the thirty-seventh anniversary of the demonstration in a public manner of the utility of the electric telegraph. Morse was in the chamber of the Supreme Court in Washington, and Alfred Vail, his coworker, was at the other end of the line, in the Mount Clare Depot, Baltimore. Annie Ellsworth dictated the message, "What God hath wrought?"

THE Eureka, Nevada, papers of the 3d say that they had the most teriffic wind storm that day that has been experienced since the place was settled. Dust and gravel filled the air and stopped business completely.

THE Candelaria True Fissure has entered on its second year, and is by odds; the best two-year old in the State.

The Bodie Killing.

In relation to the cause of the death of "Tex" or David T. Hitchell killed at Bodie last Tuesday, the Coroners jury returned a verdict to the effect that there was no evidence to show who fired the fatal shots; that deceased was 35 years of age, and a native of Ohio. The Free Press, in the course of its comments on the case remarks:

At the inquest held by Coroner Deal on Wednesday, as will be seen by the testimony given below, there was nothing elicited to show that Stockdale fired the fatal shots, as there was no one present when they were fired. Two men were present, however, a short time before the shooting, when Hitchell committed a brutal and unprovoked assault on Stockdale, simply because the latter proposed to leave the premises to avoid being present while Hitchell was abusing and trying to provoke a quarrel first with one and then the other of the two men present. It is a well-known fact, though not brought out before the Coroner, because of its irrelevancy, that "Tex" Hitchell had been on a spree and was thoroughly ugly and desperate on account of impecuniosity and a business and "domestic" disappointment—all coming together. He was "hunting for a fight" during the whole of the night previous to his tragic death, and was not particular as to whom he might provoke into resentment. He had dogged one or two others around during the same night. He finally got what he was looking for, and what he deserved.

THREE miners were suffocated by gas on the 400 level of the Andes mine in Virginia City, June 6th. Their names were James Malone, Gerald Sanders and Patrick Hunter. Jas. Malone was a widower, and 57 years old. He was also a native of Ireland. He was formerly Chief Engineer of the old Fire Department in Virginia. Gerald Landers was a nephew of John M. Landers of San Francisco, was 20 years old, and a native of California. He leaves a widowed mother in Berkley, Cal. Hunter was married, but had no children. He was a native of Ireland and about 40 years of age.

AT Bodie about six o'clock on the morning of the 7th James Stockdale shot Dave Hitchell a number of times, and managed to kill him, and now takes a place in the select circle of Bodie killers. It was in an opium den, and the victim was lying stupified with opium on a bunk, so that Mr. Stockdale could operate on him with great facility and without the least danger to himself. Opium does very well, but we think, it would be more refined if the Bodie killers were to administer chloroform to their intended victims before opening fire on them.

THE largest procession that has been seen in the United States since the great review in Washington at the close of the war was that of the Brooklyn Sunday-schools a few days ago. Fifty thousand of any kind of people in procession form an imposing sight, but an army of 50,000 children, nominally in league against Satan, must be more appalling to the champion mischief-maker than any equal number of men and women could be.

THE Kansas prohibitory liquor law has been declared unconstitutional by the District Court at Leavensworth, Kansas. Judge Crozier decided that a constitution cannot prohibit, but can only regulate, the sale of liquor for mechanical, scientific or medical purposes. Insomuch as the law undertook to prohibit the sale of the article, which under the amendment it could only regulate, it was unconstitutional.

MR SHERIDAN, who was removed from the office of Recorder of Deeds, in the District of Columbia, to make a place for Fred Douglass, is not pleased with his treatment. He says: "I liked the position, and told the President I wanted to keep it, although I was overworked. My office hours were from half-past 12 to a quarter of 1 every other Wednesday."

CALIFORNIA has been in American possession but 34 years, and its exports and imports are this year more than twice as great as those of the twenty-seven States and two Territories which compose the Mexican Republic, though California's population is less than one-twelfth and its area not more than one-fifth of hers.

AN incident of the recent floods in the West was the lifting of a church from its foundation by the water. In the steeple was a bell, and as the building rocked on the water, the tolling of the bell could be heard above the crashing of ice-fields and the roaring of the flood.

A PARTY of cowboys came into Bisbec, A. T., recently, and stated that they were the ones that buried the four men recently killed by Mexicans near Fonterras. They corroberated former reports as to the origin of the trouble.

IT is stated that taxes collected in San Francisco for the current year will amount to about five and one-half million of dollars.

ROSCOE is not yet a United States Senator by several dozen votes; no more is Mr. Platt. The deadlock seems permanent.

Experiments on Comstock Low-Grade Ores in New York.

Recent tests made at the New York City Metallurgical Works show that Comstock ores may be concentrated for $1 per ton. Ore from the Savage mine gave a result of $21.87; Hale & Norcross, $8.15; Con. Virginia and California, shipped under the direction of John W. Mackay, an average of $19.92. The concentration of one lot was made so that 100 tons, containing $1,885 silver and $302 gold, total $2,187, gave two tons of concentrations, assaying per ton, $578.24 silver and $108.06 gold—total, $686.30 per ton, or two tons, $1,372 60, equal to nearly 63 per cent. The second lot was concentrated so that 100 tons, containing $628 silver and $188 gold, total $816, gave one ton of concentrations, containing $422, equal to fifty-two per cent. Other trials resulted as follows: 100 tons, containing $911 silver and $1,081 gold, total, $1,992, yielded 2 78-100 tons of concentrations, which contain per ton $144 55 silver and $276 38 gold—total $420 93, or total value of 2 78-100 of concentrations $401 71 silver and $768 40 gold—total $1,170 11, or equal to about 58½ per cent. By the dry process 100 tons concentrated gave a result of $705 30 in silver and $1,085 81 in gold. The great saving to be effected is to be in the cost of milling. The method proposed is to concentrate 100 tons of $14 ore into three tons at a cost of $100 or $150 at the most. The concentrated ore could then be reduced at the usual cost. The ores sent to New York for concentration were from places in the mines where there are large deposits of the same character. If some method for working these ores successfully can be adopted on the Comstock, there is a chance for the permanence of the district. People would not then look forward so anxiously for the discovery of bonanzas. They would be just as welcome as ever, of course, but would not be so absolutely necessary for the support of the community as they now are.—Virginia Chronicle.

A DETROIT, Michigan doctor who has vaccinated over 500 persons, reports many odd experiences with subjects under the lancet. Not more than two men out of ten have it done in a straightforward way. They hesitate, make inquiries, and postpone it a few days. One insisted on being strapped fast to his chair while the operation was performed. Another wanted to take chloroform. A negro was one day seen to walk past the office several times, and the doctor finally stepped to the door and asked him if he wanted to be vaccinated. "Deed, sah, dat's what I cum for," he replied, "but de werry minit I turned dat corner de blamed thing quit aching!" As a rule the men, when they feel the lancet, cry "Woosh!" or "Thunder!" The women cry "Ouch!" generally, but now and then one screams "Oh, Lordy!" Children have to be flattered, coaxed or scared into submission.

"EVERY available person, man, woman and child, is at work," says a dispatch from O'Brien county, Iowa. It must be a prosperous and contented country where everybody is at work. Another dispatch from Omaha, Nebraska, tells something of the same story thus: Government homesteads and cheap farm lands are being rapidly taken up by settlers and capitalists. The tide of immigration is increasing, and all industries show a healthy, prosperous condition, with labor constantly in demand." These are evidences of solid prosperity, and, what is more, they are not confined to either of the States specified, but may be said to extend throughout the great Northwest.

ALTHOUGH the Dutch have, deservedly or not, a reputation of hard drinkers, a measure is now being favorably acted upon by their Parliament that would do credit to any body of practical temperance reformers. Licenses are to be granted in future only in proportion to the population, and the practice of hawking ardent spirits about the streets will be permitted no longer. Persons found drunk in public places are to be sent to prison, without the alternative of paying a fine, the system of money penalties never having been regarded with favor in Holland.

THE Iowa Republican State Convention will consist of over 1,000 delegates. Representation is based upon the vote at the last election, and the Republican vote of Iowa is so enormous that the convention is unwieldy.

APPLICATION FOR A PATENT

....TO THE....

SUMMIT NO. 2 MINE.

No. 192.

UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE, Bodie, Cal., June 6, 1881.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT A. R. Conklin, W. H. Jenkins and James Jenkins, whose postoffice address is Independence, Inyo county, California, have this day filed their application for a patent for fifteen hundred linear feet of the SUMMIT NO. 2 mine or vein bearing silver, with surface ground six hundred feet in width, situated in Cerro Gordo mining district, County of Inyo, State of California, and designated by the field notes and official plat on file in this office as Lot No. 40, in Township ——, Range ——of —— —— Meridian.

SURVEY OF LODE.

Said Lot No 40 being described as follows, to wit: Commenced at a post on S E. end of claim on lode line, marked the post "Post A. Summit Mine No 2." from which, with a variation 15 deg 55 min. E a pine bush 3 lks high, bears N. 88½ deg. E 43 lks; a pine bush 3 links high bears S. 45¾ deg. W. 31 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min E., N 40 deg. W 10 earth ridge bears W. 50 wagon road runs SW; commenced ascending 14 88 trail on ridge runs W.; commenced descending 18.39, trail runs W 20.17, tunnel 9 ft long on quartz vein. 22 72 "Post B, Summit Mine No. 2." on NW. end of lode, from which the Belshaw wagon road bears N. 45 deg. W. 45 links.

SURVEY OF CONNECTING LINE.

From "Post 7, Summit Mine No. 2" the Armagh U. S Mineral Monument bears N. 54 deg. E. 50 links by direct chain measurement.

SURVEY OF EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.

Commenced at a post set in mound of earth on S. cor. of claim; marked the post "Post 1, Summit Mine No. 2," from which, with a var. 15 deg 55 min. E., a pine tree 12 links high bears N. 39 deg. W. 49 links; a pine tree 3 links high bears N. 18½ deg. E 31 links; a pine bush 2 links high bears N. 84½ deg E. 36 links; a pine bush 2 links high bears S 19 deg 15 min. W 17 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E, (1) N. 40 deg. W. 2 54 brow of hill; commence descending; 10 36 gulch; runs W 12 21 wagon road; 13 64 "Post 2, Summit Mine No. 2." set in a mound of earth on S. boundary line of the Armagh mine, from which "Post 1, Armagh Mine," bears N. 79 deg. E 2 49 chains; 19.65 "Post 3, Summit Mine No. 2," set in mound of earth on south B L. of the Santa Niño mine; 20.31 trail runs E-W, commence descending; 21 21 wagon road runs N.-S.; 22 72 "Post 4, Summit Mine No. 2," set in mound of earth on W. cor. of claim, from which the entrance to the open cut leading into the Santa Niño tunnel bears S. 28½ deg. W 45 links. Thence, with a var 15 deg 55 min. E., (2) N. 50 deg. E. .74 intersection of the north B. L. of the Santa Niño mine; set a post in mound of earth in the bottom of an old prospecting cut; cut bears NW. & SE.; marked the post "Post 5, Summit Mine No. 2," from which "Post 18, Santa Niño mine," bears S. 80 deg W. 2.85 chains; 1.89 wagon road runs N. & S., 4.54 "Post B, Summit Mine No. 2," on northwest end of line of lode; 7.88 "Post 2, Summit Mine No. 2," standing in mound of earth at intersection of north boundary line of the Armagh mine, from which "Post 1, Armagh Mine," bears S. 11 deg. E. 11.76 chains; 9.09 "Post 7, Summit Mine No. 2," standing on N. cor. of claim, from which the Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument bears 54 deg. E., 50 links.

Description of Armagh U. S Mineral Monument as described in the field notes of survey of the Armagh mine: The Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument is built on the apex of a red rocky point at the intersection of Ygnacio Ravine and Cerro Gordo canon, and very precisely on the W. B. line of the Ygnacio mine (as surveyed for a patent in the year 1875 by Jas. Seely, U. S Dep. Min. Sur.), and distant 17 51 chains from the southwest corner stake of the Ygnacio mine.

At the point above given I drilled a hole in the rock to a depth of 9 inches, in which drove a piece of gas pipe 1 inch in dia. x16 inches long. On top of gas pipe, set a post 4x4 inches square, x4 feet long, around which built a monument of rocks 5 feet high x5 feet in dia. at its base; marked the top of post "U. S. Min'l Monument. Erected Jan'y 31, A. D. 1880, by Wm. Crapo, U. S. Dep. Min. Sur., under authority of the U. S. Sur Gen'l for Cal'a."

From said post in mineral monument, with a variation of 15 deg 55 min. E the extreme end of the bluff on which the monument is situated, bears N. 25 deg. W. 17 links. The east edge of ridge at the top of a vertical face of rock, 7½ feet high, bears N. 60 deg E 7 links. The NE. cor. of an old adobe vaso chimney bears S. 38 deg 16 min. W. 16 links. The middle of the Belshaw toll road at a point where it turns out of Cerro Gordo Canon bears N. 81¾ deg. W. 1 06 chains. The middle of Cerro Gordo Canon bears N. 62 chains. The NW. cor. of Rafael Diaz's house bears S. 28 deg. 33 min. E. 1.58 chains. An old well 30 feet deep on the north side of Cerro Gordo Canon bears N. 58 deg. 20 min. W. 1 93 chs. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E. (3) S. 40 deg. E. 93 W. boundary of Ygnacio mine. Set a post in mound of rocks and earth; marked post "Post 8, Summit Mine No. 2," from which the Armagh U. S. mineral monument bears N. 11 deg. W 1.03 chains. Thence, with a var. 15 deg 55 E. commence descending. (4) S. 11 deg. E. 3.36 intersection of N. B line of the Santa Niño mine at "Post 20, Santa Niño Mine;" marked the post "Post 9, Summit Mine No. 2." Post stands in mound of earth on top edge of Ygnacio dump. 3.66 W. edge of open cut at entrance to Ygnacio tunnel 6 39 post marked "Post 10, Santa Niño Mine" on south boundary line of Santa Niño mine; marked the post "Post 10, Summit Mine No. 2;" 8.15 trail on ridge; runs E. & W. 16 49 "Post No. 2, Ygnatio Mine," on southwest corner of Ygnacio mine marked the post "Post 11, Summit Mine No. 2," from which the entrance to the Summit tunnel at a point where the tunnel first enters ore, bears N. 33¾ deg. W. 98 links. Course of Summit tunnel for first 185 feet from mouth or entrance N. 50 deg. 6 min. E. The middle of wagon road in bottom of gulch bears S. 50 deg. W. 9 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg 55 min E., commence ascending. (5) N. 79 deg. E. 1 51, post marked "Post No. 7, Y. M.," standing on SE. cor. Ygnacio mine; marked the post "Post 12, Summit Mine No. 2," from which a pine tree 9 inches dia. x14 feet high bears S. 20 deg. E. 1.40 chains. Thence, with a var. 15 deg 55 min. E (6) N. 11 deg. W. 7.57 summit of ridge bears W. commence descending. 8 33 old dump at entrance to a tunnel runs E. 10.08 "Post 21, Santa Niño Mine" on south boundary line of Santa Niño mine; marked the post "Post 13, Summit Mine No. 2" 12.12 east edge of Ygnacio open cut. 13.11 "Post 22, Santa Niño Mine," on north boundary line of Santa Niño mine; marked the post "Post 14, Summit Mine No. 2." 13.75 set a post on east boundary line of Ygnacio mine; marked the post "Post 15, Summit Mine No. 2" from which the entrance to the "Hubbard tunnel" bears N. 20 deg. W. 25 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg 55 min E. commence ascending. (7) S. 40 deg. E. .76 intersection of north boundary line of Santa Niño mine. Set a post on slope of Ygnacio dump; marked the post "Post 16, Summit Mine No. 2." 3 13 intersection of the east boundary line of the Santa Niño mine, and the west boundary line of the Occident mine. Set a post in a mound of earth and marked the post "Post 17, Summit Mine No. 2;" from which the southwest corner of the Occident mine bears S. 11 deg. E 11.02 chains. 6 75 old prospecting cut on east side of summit of "Ygnacio Hill;" cut bears E. & W. 8 30 prospecting cut bears W.; commence descending. 9 13 west edge of old shaft. 11 40 coursing of wagon road runs south. 12.50 "Post 18, Summit Mine No. 2" standing on east boundary line of the Occident mine, from which "Post 5, Occident Mine," bears S. 11 deg. E. 2 83 chains. 15.72 gulch; runs south. 18.66 "Post 19, Summit Mine No. 2," standing in mound of earth on east corner of claim, from which a pine bush 3 links high bears S. 88 deg. E. 3 poles. Thence, with a var. of 15 deg. 55 min. E. (8) S. 50 deg. W. 4 54 "Post A, Summit Mine No. 2" on southeast end of lode line 5.00 gulch; runs west. 9.09 "Post 1, Summit Min No. 2," place of beginning.

Containing 18 34-100 acres.

The location of this mine is recorded in the Recorder's office of Cerro Gordo Mining District in Book "E," page 43 of said record. The adjoining claimants are George T. Hawley and W. A. Greenly.

Any and all persons claiming adversely any portion of said Summit Mine No. 2, as hereinbefore described are required to file their adverse claim with the Register of the United States Land Office at Bodie, in the State of California, during the sixty days period of publication hereof, or they will be barred by virtue of the provisions of the Statute.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, JUNE 11.....1881

FATAL ACCIDENT.—Last Sunday evening several young men of the town got to drinking and all became more or less intoxicated. About ten o'clock H. D. Gill and Antone Ybarro left the brewery on horseback. About all that is known regarding the affair is that when a short distance from the brewery, in the street back of Rothschild & Co's store, Ybarro's horse reared and fell back over on him, the horn of the saddle striking him in the bowels. It appears that he was left lying there until morning, when in great agony he managed to get to Dugal's place in the old Inyo House, where he laid down. Shortly afterward he was taken in charge by Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Huff, and Dr. Blair called in. The doctor found he had received serious internal injuries, but as he appeared to get better toward night it was supposed he would recover. He died, however, on Monday night. The deceased was a native of Yreka, Cal., about 22 years of age. He came to this country a year or two ago from Austin and Eureka, Nev., where he worked for a while in the Sentinel office. The sad affair should prove a warning to drunken riders who handle wild horses at such times with great cruelty and viciousness. A jury was summoned by Coroner Thompson, testimony taken and a verdict rendered according to facts stated.

ANOTHER OF OUR INYO GIRLS.—We find in the San Jose Times and also in the Mercury of June 1st a full account of the commencement exercises of the College of Notre Dame in that city, and it is gratification to note that another of "Our Inyo Girls," Miss Maggie Conklin, daughter of Judge Conklin, of this place, is accorded honors of which she and all who know her may well be proud. There was an immense attendance, and the entire affair seems to have been of a very imposing character, well calculated to try the nerves of the young ladies who for the first time had to appear before such a gathering. Yet Miss Maggie recited "Jeptha's Daughter" to elicit special notice in both papers and high praise from the audience, and to win a special prize for elocution. She also received "First Honors" in both first and second rhetoric classes, also the same in composition and book-keeping and is marked as "distinguished" in several other studies. And we do not doubt but there, as well as before leaving here, she was a great favorite with all school mates, to be won by agreeable manners, with the teachers who give real industry its due, and with all others who like these and beauty combined.

STATE LINE.—Following is an extract from a private business letter to Messrs. Harris & Rhine, referring among other things to the prospects of the State Line mine. We accept the statement as perfectly reliable: "I have been all through the mine since I have been here. There are four shafts sunk, the deepest 80 feet; level run 100 feet, all in good ore; ledge large—from nine to ten feet. I see tons of it that will go $1,000 per ton taken out and thrown with the rest in a pile of say 2,000 tons. The mine is a big thing, or I am no judge. The mill is well along; will be done soon, perhaps two months. It is good and solid; not fancy. The water is the drawback; the pipe is said to be a failure. About two-thirds of it is in place, but it leaks and some say will have to be replaced with other pipe; but I differ with them and believe that the present pipe can be made to carry the water. All work on it is stopped and hands discharged. All await Mr. Taylor's return, but when that will be is uncertain. He was in Washington City at last accounts."

HOME AGAIN.—Norman E., and Miss Maggie Conklin, the first of Santa Clara College, the latter of the College of Notre Dame at San Jose, arrived home here two or three days since to spend vacation. Mrs. Conklin went all the way to Mohave to meet and return with them. Mr. John Shepherd has gone to the same point to meet his daughter, Miss Eva, who has been attending school at Oakland, but, now, we believe, comes home to remain, having completed her course at school, and, we undertake to say, in a manner to give her a first place with "Our Inyo Girls" or representatives at those distant institutions of learning.

BEVERIDGE AGAIN HEARD FROM.—A clean up of the arastras after a three weeks' run, ending June 4th, has produced $13,000 in gold bullion; $5,000 of this amount has been shipped from Wells Fargo's office in this place, and $4,000 from the Lone Pine office, while $4,000 remain in the hands of the producers, yet to be disposed of. The Taylor mill start up on Keynot ore the first of next week, and, for at least a month to come the numerous arastras will continue to run as heretofore, so that we may expect returns in proportion—something worth speaking about, if the above is not satisfactory.

THE FOURTH.—It will be seen by notice elsewhere that the Lone Pine Glee Club propose to give a concert in that place on the evening of July Fourth, and that Mrs. Sara Stevens Heenan, late of New York and New Orleans theatres, has kindly volunteered to give some dramatic readings and recitations as part of the entertainment. Altogether, this will be an event well worth going long distances to witness.

LAW CARD.—Chas. R. Barry, Esq., presents his professional card in this issue, to which we invite the attention of all who may have need of the services of an attorney who is without doubt as able and zealous in his work as any practicing of his age in the State. His place of business is at Bodie, but will

FOR SALE.—As will be seen by advertisement elsewhere, Mrs. M. A. Barry offers the Lone Pine Hotel property, business and good will for sale. The terms are stated in the advertisement, and from what we know of the property in question, we will say we think them very reasonable.

FOR DEEP SPRING.—Mr. S. D. Woodhull starts to-morrow for Bishop, there to meet a party of gentlemen from San Francisco, who come to look at the mines in that vicinity and at Deep Spring. We have hopes something will come of this.

COURT HOUSE.—Work on the new Court House roof is progressing rapidly.

The Bonanza People and Others.

It is a curious circumstance that all four of the Bonanza people are Irishmen by birth—three Roman Catholics, while Fair is so much of a Protestant as to be called an Orangeman. It is remarkable, by the way, how many of the mine owners and mine superintendents are Irishmen. In more than two-thirds of the mines on the Pacific Coast the superintendent or his first assistant hails from the land of O'Connell and Parnell, and they are generally faithful if not ultra-pious Roman Catholics. The wholesale houses on the Pacific Coast are in the hands of the Jews. Americans are the politicians, the lawyers, the railroad men and the speculators. Although the best known millionaires are Americans, it is nevertheless true that more than half of the wealth of the Pacific Coast is in the hands of Irish Roman Catholics and Jews. The Irish spend their money freely and do not make good speculators, but they more than make up for it by their aptitude for practical mining.

James G. Fair was born in Clougher, Tyrone County, Ireland, in December, 1831. He came to this country in 1843, attended school at Geneva, Illinois, where some of his family still live. He was an original 46er. In that year he was at work on Long Bar, Feather River, California. He did not find it profitable, so he turned his attention to quartz mining. His first essay was at Angels, Calaveras County. He soon ranked high as a good judge of mines and as an operator. In 1865 he became superintendent of the Ophir mine, and in 1867 the Hale and Norcross mine came under his direction. It was the latter which gave Fair his start in the world. Soon after that he made a lucky guess. He surmised that certain ground might contain a great deal of rich ore. With the help of Flood he secured the claim, since grown so famous throughout the world as the Consolidated Virginia and California mines.

Senator Fair owns seventy acres of land in San Francisco and is the owner of a residence in Menlo Park, which is said to have cost $1,000,000. He is supposed to be worth $25,000,000. He has a wife and four children. Living so much underground in an unnatural atmosphere, he has been troubled with rheumatism and throat diseases, and once took a trip to Japan for his health. Fair is not as rich as either Mackey or Flood, for his possessions represent actual money taken from the mines rather than profits made on the Stock Exchange. Senator Fair is a Democrat in politics, but he is on the pleasantest terms with his associate, Senator Jones, who is a Republican.—The Hour.

A Great Enterprise.

The laying of the corner stone of the magnificent new Sugar Refinery, now being erected by our esteemed fellow citizen, Claus Spreckels, at the Portrero, took place on Saturday last in the presence of a large concourse of spectators. Eloquent speeches were made on the occasion by ex-Gov. F. F. Low, Claus Spreckels, Paul Neuman, Irving M. Scott and others. The whole affair was very pleasant. The new edifice, of which we shall speak more at length hereafter; is to be ten stories in height, and will cost in the neighborhood of $1,000,000 when finished and in operation, will give employment to over five hundred men. Mr. Spreckels is one of our exceptional rich men, investing his money as he does, in local manufacturing industries. He made money here, and expends it here in contributing to, and building up the material interests of the place and developing the great resources of the country. In his great enterprise he is associated with his sons, J. D. and A. B. Spreckels, who are imbued with the same progressive spirit that actuates their father. Claus Spreckels is a sound, practical, common sense business man; and has by patient industry and intelligent investments amassed a great fortune; in the disposition of which, aside from business demands, he is liberal and generous. The great house of which he is the senior is known throughout the world, and is justly celebrated for its enterprise and high commercial record. In the new refinery the very latest, most improved and expensive machinery will be used; and aside from the great manufacturing interest it is erected to subserve, it will be an ornament and a valuable aquisition to the metropolis, in whose midst it is erected.—S. F. Spirit of the Times.

A CINCINNATI man strangely disappeared. The shrewdest detectives were put on his track, and at the end of nine weeks they seemed to be no nearer him thon when they started. Then a close observer of human nature got the Mayor to appoint the missing man to a position in the city government. Two hours later the appointee, all out of breath, dashed into the Mayor's office to be sworn in.

ALTHOUGH the Morey letter has passed from the public mind, it is a fact that the Government law officers in New York have been very busy for some time in following clues they have obtained. It is known that they have met with signal success and fully expect to be able, at an early day, to fix the conspiracy and forgery upon the real culprit.

THE Washoe county flumes are all run to their fullest capacity. The timber is for the mines. It looks as if the managers expected to make a pretty big Knowing Mules.

In a country where animals are depended upon entirely, for all manner of transportation, the characteristics of each one in the large teams becomes quite well known to him who acts as teamster. A case in point is found in the Nevada Silver State, which goes on to state that as a general rule teamsters engaged in the freighting business have what they call a "bell mare" with each mule team. This animal travels behind the wagon, to which she is hitched, during the day, and at night is turned out with the mules. The mules hold tne bell mare, which is generally white or light color, in high esteem, and will follow wherever she leads, never for a moment losing sight of her. When the teamster starts out to find his team he listens to hear the bell, knowing that where the mare is there he will find the mules also. Now, mules are long-headed animals, and learn much by experience, as those who have come in contact with the business end of an old stager and survived the ordeal have cause to remember, and two or three knowing ones belonging to G. W. Baker's teams got it into their heads that the "bell" was a dead give away as to their whereabouts. One day, recently, they concluded to have a rest upon the Silver City road, near a station where grass and water were abundant. To accomplish this object it was necessary to keep the bell mare still, and the teamster, a thoroughly reliable and truthful man, as all teamsters are or should be, says when he found them after a two days search, the bell mare was lying down and two old mules were feeding her with choice bunches of grass, which they had plucked on the hill side, and carried several yards in their mouths to where the mare was lying, while a third mule stood by her side and kept off the flies with his tail, so that the mare did not have to shake her head or make the least noise with the bell.

Large Grant of Mineral Lands.

The immense tract of lands which has been granted by the Mexican Government to Samuel Brannon, a pioneer resident of California, in return for his assistance with men, money and arms during the invasion of Mexico by France, is a valuable one in minerals. The section is about 250 miles east of the port of Guaymas. It constitutes what has been known for years as the Yaqui country, and is justly regarded as the richest portion of Sonora. Within its confines are some of the fabulously rich silver mines which yielded so much revenue to the Spaniards prior to the earlier portion of this century. It is richly wooded and watered, contains very fine grazing and agricultural lands, and is conceded by those most conversant with the resources of Sonora to be the garden spot of northwestern Mexico.

Mr. Brannon expects to colonize the tract with Californians and Nevadans. He is to give 100 acres of land and a town lot to each one. By concession all goods for immigrants are to be free of duty and no tax or military duty will be called for for ten years. Mr. Brannon is now in San Francisco.

The Arizona Journal says that the land grant consists of 42 square leagues of land, at any point which Mr. Brannon may select in that portion of Sonora which lies between the Yaqui and Mayo rivers. This grant is to be supplemented by an additional 42 square leagues as soon as Mr. Brannon shall have settled up the first portion, making a total of 756 square miles of territory, a good sized principality of itself. To this has been added a franchise to construct a railroad from any point within the grant to any point on any railroad from El Paso to Guaymas that may be selected by Mr. Brannon, the franchise to exist for 99 years.

A Word of Warning.

As a text the New York Mining and Engineering Journal of May 28th says; "The interest in mining is growing rapidly in the East, and if the public in making investments will only exercise the same degree of prudence and care which are recognized as essential to success in other departments of industry, this interest in mining will continue to grow and become a permanent and important feature in our market; but if the public commences to invest wildly in worthless or vastly overvalued stock, we may expect the same reaction that followed the wild speculations of a year ago." The Journal then proceeds to preach a sermon against the prevalent lavish investments at "the most extravagant prices" in those "profusely puffed and most dangerous stocks" issued by the companies owning the State Line mines of Gold Mountain, Esmeralda county, Nevada. The Journal also gives the verbal statement of I. M. Taylor, general manager, as to the condition and prospects of these mines, and proceeds to show that the discrepancy between the estimated actual value of the mines and $9,300,000 (at which rate they are selling) is very great. The State Line group of mines will doubtless develop into valuable paying properties, but, as the Journal says, the present condition and prospects of the properties do not justify the prices at which the stock is selling, and the persistent puffing of the State Lines everywhere prevalent of late is, to say the least, suspicious.—Bodie Free Press.

IT is commendable in the Government to use its best efforts to discover the whereabouts of the Arctic exploring vessel Jeannette, for there is still a hope that she may be afloat and can be furnished relief. She has not been seen or heard of for so long that her safety is regarded with lively apprehension. The Rodgers will go in search of her, and for fear that the Rodgers may fail in her mission, Secretary of the Navy Hunt has ordered a second vessel, the Alliance, to be dispatched to the Arctic regions on a voyage of discovery. It is given out that the Alliance will proceed to the east coast of Greenland and to Spitzburgen, and work as far north as her commander thinks safe. If neither expedition finds any trace of the Jeannette, and the Summer passes by without tidings from her, she will be given up for lost, although a hope will still remain that she has not met with

GENERAL ITEMS.

The narrow guage cars of the South Pacific Coast Railroad commenced to run from the depot, corner of 14th and Webster Streets, Oakland, over the new bridge to the company's landing at the creek, making close connection with all Almeda local and Santa Cruz through trains, and with boats to and from San Francisco. The time from San Francisco to Oakland over the new route is 40 minutes.

It is rumored that the North Pacific Coast railroad, together with the rolling stock, real estate, the lease of the San Rafael and San Quentin branch, and all other appurtenances of the road, has been transferred to the bondholders of the road, who will hereafter operate the line. It has been known for some time past that such a course of action had been under consideration.

Rinici, Governor of the National bank, Greece, is negotiating with the government in the name of DeLesseps, with a view to constructing a ship canal through the Isthmus of Corinth, to connect the waters of the Gulf of Corinth Ægean sea. It is believed that the convention on the subject will shortly be signed.

Blossom's artesian well, lately sunk on his ranch near Battle Mountain, Nev., is pronounced the best in the State of Nevada. It is only 195 feet deep, still it throws the water to a hight of ten feet above the surface of the ground. The water is clear and pure, and flows at the rate of 50,000 gallons every 24 hours.

Pope is stationing troops at accessible points for service in case there should be trouble with the Ute Indians when their removal under the Ute treaty is to be consummated. Care is taken that no movements of the troops likely to excite the Indians is made.

The Santa Barbara Press states that 6,000 acres of land in that county have been disposed of at less than $2 per acre. The owners of large grants and ranches of from 10,000 to 50,000 acres, who heretofore would not sell, are now dividing their land and parting with it at low figures.

Charles and Thomas Gilchrist, with Thomas Sharpe, have secured the wood and timber contract from Bliss, Yerington & Co. for the Mono Lake timber business. The contract calls for 30,000 cords of wood and 7,000,000 ft. of lumber, to be delivered at Bodie before next winter.

The committee at Los Angeles who have examined the act of 1859, authorizing a division of the State of California, submitted their report Thursday, that said act is still valid, and that all there is needed to make it effective is the concurrence of Congress.

The Honest Prospector.

Some months ago several business and professional men of Bodie organized a prospecting syndicate, with a capital stock of $780. A large and powerful horse, a fine buckboard, harness, tools, provisions, blankets, arms, etc., were purchased, and these together with a well filled purse were placed in the hands of the chosen prospector and he at once moved upon the rich mineral region of Inyo county. After awhile the prospector drew upon the syndicate for more money, writing from Big Pine. The money was sent, but had scarcely reached its destination when the trusted prospector made another draft. This was repeated until the syndicate became bankrupt, and then the prospector became silent. Inquiry about the horse, harness and buckboard revealed the fact the "honest prospector" had "soaked" them at Big Pine and left for parts unknown, remarking as he left, that while he "didn't regard his prospecting expedition as an unqualified success, yet he'd had a hades sight of fun playing poker." The horse, harness and buckboard were redeemed, and on Saturday last Smith & Stevens sold them by auction for $100.—Free

A Case of Modesty.

The other night a policeman observed a man hanging around the entrance of a Michigan-avenue hall in a queer sort of way, and he asked if he belonged to the order in session up-stairs. The man replied that he did, and the officer inquired:

"Then why don't you go up?"

"Well, I was thinking of it."

"Haven't been expelled, have you?"

"Oh, no."

"Aern't afraid of anybody?"

"No."

"And you haven't lost your interest?"

"I might as well tell you," said the man after beating around awhile longer. "I went down to Toledo a few days ago, and somehow the story came back here that I was drowned. My lodge thereupon passed resolutions to the effect that I was honest, upright and liberal, and a shining ornament, and that what was its loss was my gain. I wasn't drowned, as you see, but I kind o' hate to walk in on 'em and bust them resolutions. I've tried it three times, and I can't get higher than the fifth stair before I weaken."

Railroad Sold.

The Winnemucca Silver State says it is reported that the Battle Mountain and Austin Railroad has been sold, and that Jay Gould is the purchaser. If such is the fact, Gould will undoubtedly extend it South, as it is not likely that he would care to own ninety miles of narrow gauge road wholly unconnected with any of the lines which he controls. It is said that the road is sold without doubt, though it is not certain that Gould is the purchaser.

THE Derby, the great English race, was won last week by Pierre Lorillard's American horse Iroquois—time 2:50; length of track, 1½ miles. This is the first American horse which ever before won even a place in that great equine contest. Our countrymen are said to have netted fabulous sums on the result, Lorillard's own winnings being stated at $2,000,000. Immediately upon the receipt of the news of his horse's triumph he is said to have telegraphed $20,000 to Archer, the English jockey who rode him. Iroquois was bred at the Chestnut Hill stud farm of Aristides Welsh, near Fairmount Park, Philadelphia, and is, we believe, a three-year-old.

THE New York legislature has just passed a bill making it an offence punishable by a fine of $25 for a hotel-keeper to refuse to entertain a Jew. This is a blow at Corbin, the proprietor of the Manhattan Beach hotel, who two years ago issued a decree that none of the tribe of Israel should have meat or drink within his gates. Corbin will now subside and Hilton will be likely to follow suit.

FRANCHISES ARE ASSESSABLE. The Assessor of San Jose assessed property of the gas company of that city and then deducted the value from that of the capital stock, assessing the difference as the value of the franchise. The Supreme Court sustained the Assessor. Growing crops are subject to attachment.

SIX trained horses on exhibition in San Francisco are remarkable for having been taught by kindly means. In proof of this the trainer uses no whip in making them do their tricks, and they will readily obey a stranger. The genenal belief of trainers of beasts is that they can only be controlled through fear.

A PENNSYLVANIA detective is on his way overland to California to arrest a young woman of nineteen on a charge of bigamy. She has had three husbands, deserting each after getting his money, and is now consorting with a commercial traveler in San Francisco—so the story goes.

THE Committee at Los Angeles who have examined the Act of 1859, authorizing a division of the State of California, report that said Act is still valid, and that all that is needed to make it effective is the concurrence of Congress.

A NEW YORK judge is quoted as saying, while on the bench, that "there is a certain sociability in going off with an umbrella from the house of a friend, but to steal one from the hat-room of a theatre is a different thing."

THE amount of cattle in Nevada is estimated at 250,000 head. Next to mining it is the principal industry of the State.

EXTRACTED HONEY.

THIS HONEY WAS REMOVED FROM THE comb by centrifugal force, with a machine made for the purpose. It is therefore virtually the same as honey in the comb, only you don't have to eat the bees wax, which is indigestible and therefore disagrees with many persons. When first extracted the honey is liquid, but nearly all pure honey will candy or granulate in course of time, especially if exposed to the cold. Putting the cans in hot water for a short time will bring the honey to its fluid state without injury.

This Honey is put up in 10-pound cans, with patented screw tops, which renders it convenient for family use, and especially for the mines, to which it may be packed, even upside down, without leakage. A neat label on each can gives full directions.

Price, $1 50 per can, or 12½ cents per ℔ at the Apiary, if customers furnish their own receptacle. For sale at Harris & Rhine's, Independence, and at the Apiary, at Jacob Vagt's place, Camp Independence.

What He Lost.

In his desperate contest for the control of the New York patronage, Senator Conkling had in view the practical control of 6,000 Federal appointments furnishing support to nearly 30,000 people. Few governments in Europe have larger emoluments at their disposal than the patronage of the State of New York. The collector of the port of New York has 953 distinct salaried places at his disposal. The Collector draws a salary of $17,000 a year, and many of the positions at his disposal are worth from $3,000 to $4,000. In the internal revenue branch a vast army is employed at similar rates of compensation. A correspondent who is familiar with the subject says that there are not far from 6,000 appointments under the United States Government within that State, all of which depend upon the Collector or the clique of politicians who make the Collector. There are about 3,000 appointments under the State Government, and a very large municipal patronage, which has been diverted by the Legislature from municipal officers to State officials. The police of New York City numbers 1,200. They are appointed by commissioners who derive their power from the Legislature, while the State offices pay salaries to 3,000 employes, having 15,000 dependent upon their earnings. The head center of this vast circle of officials, Federal, State and municipal, would be the New York Senators, under the rule Mr. Conkling contends for. We can from this rough estimate form some idea of what Mr. Conkling lost when the President appointed Robertson as Collector.—[Eureka Leader.

"Eloquent!" said the Chicago lawyer of his partner. "He's able to reason the kick out of a mule. Why here, awhile ago, business was dull, and he decided that Mrs. Dasher ought to have a divorce, and he'd go into court and get it for her, and then charge her for it. Somehow she heard of what was going on. She galloped down to the courthouse to stop him, as she did not want a divorce. She got there just as he was making his plea for her. And mind you, she was mad at him; but by Jove, Sir! she listened to him five minutes, and became so convinced that she ought to have a divorce that she walked right up to where the jury could see her and shed three pints of tears while he recited her wrongs. And when he won the case she embraced him and said he should conduct all her divorce cases in the future. I call that eloquence."

FRENCH savants have discovered that man is a venomous animal. Rabbits innoculated with the saliva taken from any child or an enraged man will die. The deduction is that parasites exist in the stomach which infect the saliva of young children, and also that of a grown person when the latter becomes angry.

The Muscular Priest.

A sanguinary tumult is reported as having taken place lately in the parish church of Sarno, near Salerno, Italy. It appears that the cure of San Francisco had caused a mechanical figure of the Saviour, the head and limbs of which were movable in obedience to springs, to be constructed with a view to its employment during Passion Week services. The figure when first exhibited for the first time to the congregation, caused such excitement among them that they crowded around the altar, eager to examine the startling novelty from the nearest available point of view. One of the assistant priests, a man of great stature and physical strength, ascended the pulpit and vehemently exhorted them to resume their places. As they paid no attention to him, he forced his way to the altar and, seizing the figure in his arms, proceeded to deal out indiscriminate blows with it upon disorderly parishioners. During the struggle that ensued he broke the effigy to pieces over the heads of his flock; a panic rose, and in an attempt to escape from this infuriate ecclesiastic through the narrow church door, a block was caused resulting in more or less dangerous injuries to between sixty and seventy persons of both sexes. Another coadjutor of the cure, in endeavoring to intervene between his colleague and the fugitives, received a blow from the former which fractured his jawbone.

WHAT BECAME OF THE OTHER DOLLAR?—This is how the "butcher" tortured us and added another twist to our over-tensioned brain the other day: "Oh, Major, I have got a conundrum for you." Now, if there is anything a newspaper man mentally cusses more than another it is a problem. Without noticing the gathering wrinkles on our massive brow, he continued: "A and B are rival grocers. A buys thirty geese, and sells them two for a dollar, thereby realizing $15. B also buys thirty geese, and sells them at the rate of three for a dollar, which nets him $10, or in other words, the sixty geese bring a total of $25. Now A and B go into partnership. They buy the same number of geese (sixty) and sell them as before—two for a dollar and three for a dollar—making five for two dollars. How much did they get for the geese?" "Twenty four dollars. Any child could tell that," said we. "Correct, my dear fellow. But how is it that they lose a dollar by pooling the geese? Rather a losing combination wasn't it?" And then the fiend walked out with a malicious grin on his countenance. As misery loves company, reader, we inflict the same punishment on you.—[New York paper.

IT is related of Colonel Thomas Scott that once, about ten years ago, when making one of the swift trips which he was in the habit of making over the lines under his control, his train was stopped by the wreck of a freight train. There were a dozen heavy laden box cars piled up on the road, and it would take a long time to get succor from the nearest accessible point, and probably hours more to get the track clear by mere force of labor. He surveyed the difficulty, made a rough calculation of the cost of a total destruction of the freight, and promptly made up his mind to burn the road clear. By the time the relief train came the flames had done their work, and nothing remained but to patch up a few injuries done to the track, so as to enable him to pursue his way.

GEN. STONEMAN is mentioned as the Democratic candidate for Governor. He is a strong anti-monopoly man, and will make excellent timber for a Governor. It behooves the Republicans to put up a man whose anti-railroad record is equally above reproach. The party cannot afford to take the risk of a misallience with Leland Standford.

JUDGE ROBERTSON, as collector of New York, will have the disposal of, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, 953 appointments. The salaries aggregate $1,400,000 a year.

THE New York Herald is displaying its usual enterprise by having three correspondents at Albany during the Senatorial struggle.

An Empress in Overalls.

A letter from Rio Janerio says from the 4th to the 6th of April emperor and empress of Brazil were at the famons gold mine of Morro Velho, in Minas Geraes. As the emperor is never satisfied without going to the bottom of everything, he and the empress donned brown linen overalls and leathern hats with a candle in front in proper mining fashion, and descended into the mine, which is already a quarter of a mile under the surface, and where solids and liquids were laid out and utilized in toasts to the gnomes and other distinguished miners, including the lawyers; but, whatever the emperor may have thought, it is certain that all the members of his suite blessed their stars fervently when they reached the surface and saw the sun again, for who could not be certain that some exalted Britisher or Brazillian of the Nihilist persuasion might not have the unlucky thought of firing a dymanite mine and giving royalty a golden grave in the bowels of the earth? Fortunately nothing of the kind happeued, and the only mishap was that as the emperor was riding off to another mine, some nine leagues away, his superstitious horse, alarmed at the meeting with an elderly lady of bewitching aspect, started suddenly and left his surprised majesty gasping for breath on the broad of his back on the dusty road.

Polite but Business-Like.

Mr. Thomas Allen returned from New York yesterday, having concluded his sale of stock in the Iron Mountain Railroad to Jay Gould. He went there after a telegram invited him to close the transaction. Having arrived in the Eastern metropolis, he made his way, after breakfast in the morning, to Jay Gould's office. There he met the railroad king and told him the exact number of shares he held. The figuring was only the work of a moment—so many shares at so much a share, amounted to so much.

Mr. Gould produced his checkbook and filled out a check for the full amount—something more than $2,000,000—which he handed to Mr. Allen.

Mr. Allen took the check, carefully examined it, and said: "This is a large amount to have in one bank. Is there this much to your credit there, Mr. Gould?"

"O," said Mr. Gould, "perhaps you would like to have it certified." "Well, yes" said Mr. Allen, "I think I would."

Mr. Gould sent his confidential clerk to the bank and the check was brought back in a few moments duly certified.

"Thanks," said Mr. Allen as he folded up the check, put it in his pocket book, and walked out of Mr. Gould's office.—[St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

JOSEPH BAUSEL, a Fulton, N. Y., machinist died the other day after a long and very painful sickness, which the doctors thought was cancer of the stomach but which turned out, upon post mortem examination to have been caused by iron-filings on the lungs. They were completely coated with them. The doctors said that other persons similarly engaged are likely to become similarly affected by inhaling steel and iron filings, and that the deposit on the lungs might and probably would be fatal, especially if the pulmonary organs were not strong, or the man exceptionally robust. Paralysis and enlargement of the heart complicated the case of Bausel, and resulted in his death.

IN Colusa county the grangers have become so exasperated over the destruction caused by slickens that they are organizing secret societies and threaten to raid the hydraulic miners with shot guns. Referring to this, the Grass Valley Free Lance says: "The Mississippi river this year has flooded a territory as wide as the State of Massachusetts and longer than from Boston to Omaha. Yet there are no hydraulic miners there to be killed with a shot gun. Water runs down hill and carries mud with it, is what is the matter on the Mississippi river and also in California."

GOV. CORNELL, of New York has signed a bill compelling shopkeepers to furnish the attendants in their shops with chairs for use when not actively engaged in waiting upon their customers.

AT the session of the Nevada Grand Lodge, I. O. O. F., in Eureka the special Committee on Constitution for subordinate Lodges presented a new Constitution, which was read and adopted. Among other important laws was one defining that weekly benefits shall not exceed one-half the amount of annual dues; members are prohibited the use of intoxicating liquors to such an extent as to neglect their business or family, under penalty of expulsion; a member holding membership for a period of 25 years in a Lodge may apply to another for membership before taking a withdrawal card; terms of subordinate Lodges are reduced from one year to six months.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, JUNE 18 1881

AN interesting statement is made by the Postmaster-General concerning postal cards. Under the contract ending June 30, 1881, the number will be about 900,000,000. Under the new contract, which will expire June 30, 1885, the estimated number will be 2,000,000,000, This latter number is so vast that few persons have an adequate conception of it. Some idea of the quantity of the cards to be thus furnished may be formed by the statement that it would require three men over sixty years to count them singly, working ten hours every day in the year, and counting at the rate of fifty a minute; for if the 2,000,000,000 cards could be placed end to end they would extend a distance of 164,000 miles, or more than six times the circumference of the earth.

AMONG the mining adventures now upon the English market, is one for the operation of the silver lead mines of Lidjessey, about fifty miles south of Port Kerasun, on the Black Sea, in the Province of Sivas, of Turkey in Asia. Some 3,000 tons of ore was raised, it is said, in the course of the last eighteen months that the mines were worked; of this, 750 tons roughly hand dressed, were shipped to England and there sold, yielding on an average 45 ounces of silver to the ton, with 63 per cent of lead, or about, 82.50 to the ton; the last consignment, 60 tons, having realized about $98 per ton. The district is claimed to have a number of these prospects.

THE present Summer would seem to be one of particularly active operations in the projecting and building of railroads in this State. The Genoa Courier of June 3d has an item encouraging the completion of a proposed line of rail. The Recorder of Douglas county recently placed on record a mortgage to the enormous amount of $3,000,000, between the Union Trust Company of New York and the Nevada and Oregon Railroad Company. The proposed road will commence at Aurora, run through Esmeralda, Douglas, Ormsby, Washoe and Roop counties, Nevada, and Sierra, Lassen and Modoc counties, California.

A TOPEKA dispatch says that a colonization company has been for three years enrolling colonists in all parts of the United States and expects to mass them upon the Rio Grande in Northern Chihuahua. The main body will perhaps take the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe to El Paso, while others will leave from California by the Southern Pacific, and from Texas by the Texas and Pacific Railroad, and unite in building one or more co-operative cities in Northern Mexico. No filibustering is intended. The laws of Mexico will be obeyed and the National Government supported.

THE Czar of Russia has now the comforting assurance from the Nihilists that he will be killed within the next thirty days unless he institutes constitutional reforms. He is in bad case in any event. A representative convention would be controlled by the revolutionists, and they would very likely follow in the wake of the French Jacobins of 1789. In politics as in physics, the rebound of a flexible object is in proportion to the pressure that has been exercised to keep it down. The rebound of the Russian people will be terrible.

A NAPA man is about to apply for a patent for the discovery that quicksilver injected into the trunks of fruit trees or vines will clear them of all bugs, flies and noxious insects. He bores a hole into the heart of the tree or vine at the base, pours a little quicksilver into it and then closes it up with putty. He declares that trees and vines thus treated are safe from the attacks of all kinds of insects.

THE lot of ore recently brought down from the new Takon mines, Alaska, was worked in San Francisco, and yielded at the rate of seventy-five cents per ton. The Virginia Enterprise says this shows they are on the right track. All they have to do now is to follow the streak back to the North Pole.

THE total assessment of the Central Pacific Railroad Company property within the State of California has been placed at $15,055,500. The road has been assessed at the rate of $25,000 per mile.

A BILL has been introduced in the Michigan Legislature imposing a fine of $1,000 and imprisonment for one year on any person publishing an account of a murder or hanging.

GEN. GRANT was elected President of the Texas Western Railroad on the 3d inst. The road is to be speedily pushed to the Rio Grande.

RAILROADS.

Last week we had an item in relation to a great lawsuit just entered in New Mexico by the Texas Pacific Railroad Company against the Southern Pacific. This suit is brought by the Texas Pacific to recover the whole track of the Southern Pacific through that Territory, involving over five millions ,and employing on the side of the Texas Pacific some of the most eminent legal talent in the country. But it means more than would appear upon its face. It means that Jay Gould, who is the Texas-Pacific himself, has determined to build a road or roads to this coast without regard to Stanford & Co.

The Los Angeles Express sums it up in this way: "He wants feeders for his northwestern railroads, and cannot afford to see the overland business of the Pacific Coast carried to New Orleans, thus escaping all tribute to his Atlantic railway network. This fact alone would urge him to push the Texas-Pacific through to this Coast. With that road having a terminus in California he could divert the traffic of this Coast to his Western lines by way of the Iron Mountain road, which cuts through the heart of Texas, passes through St. Louis, and thus on to the Toledo, Wabash and Western roads, which are his peculiar property. In this view of the situation, it would seem that Jay Gould has a much higher game to play for than any partial advantage which the Southern Pacific could give him by a compromise. This railroad giant is thus waging a double battle. He is determined to divide the business of this Coast with the Southern Pacific and steps into the arena in competition with the Boston Company."

There is no room to doubt but that Gould's recent purchase of the Nevada Central road is pursuant of his grand scheme to control the railroad business of this coast. That bit of a road of itself is of no value to him as it now is. It is altogether probable that he will extend it east and west, making the western terminus at Stockton in this State, to connect at the eastern end with the Union Pacific, and in due time with connecting lines from the Columbia on the north to the Texas-Pacific on the south. Gould means war to the knife. In the meantime he is building the Texas-Pacific at the rate of two miles a day towards El Paso, which point he anticipates reaching in August. Stanford will have to bestir himself, or he will soon be completely at Gould's mercy. He will have to build cross lines also, through this great interior. Among the first of these will be a road on the line surveyed for the Los Angeles and Independence railroad. And, anyway, unless Stanford surrenders on Gould's own terms, now that the war has begun in earnest, we will through one or both companies get a road through this section inside of two years, and in this belief, the big law suit above referred to portends something of material benefit to us. Let the suit go on.

THE Boston Economist says that it is an every-day occurrence for persons owning bank shares to sell them for the sake of investing in mining stocks that pay dividends. The transfer of money from one form of investment and another into mining shares is going on at a rate that would be incredible to most people. That, however, is what is always meant by the statement, repeated more and more frequently, that Eastern capital is engaging in the mining industry on a comprehensive scale, with the intent to establish it among the prime and permanent industries of the country. Boston and New England capital is going into it freely, its owners being fully pursuaded not only of the large rewards awaiting their enterprise, but of their certainty and permanency.

VENEZUELA, Columbia, Ecuador, Bolivia, Peru, Chile, Uruguay, Paraguay, and the Argentine Confederation, are to hold a Congress at Panama, in September, to see if some plan cannot be devised to unite all these republics in one grand federation. The disasters of the late war between Bolivia, Peru and Chile ought to teach them some experience; and, then, there is the example of the United States to sustain them in carrying out their design. Several journals suggest that our Government should have one or more representatives at the Congress.

THE Chicago Times dishes up the late Senator Platt in the following caustic fashion: Lord Roscoe had a little lamb, its name was Tommy Platt, and when Lord Roscoe rose to go, the lamb no longer sat. It followed him to school one day, it was Lord Roscoe's rule, and why it did it all can see, it was a little fool. "What makes the lamb love Roscoe so?" the togas all did cry; "because Lord Roscoe lams the lamb," the knowing did reply. And poor little Tommy Platt doth run about and bleat, for, having loved Lord Roscoe so, it's lost the public teat.

PRESIDENT GARFIELD'S life is insured for $250,000, for the benefit of his wife.

THERE is no material change in the Senatorial situation at Albany, save that a member named Bradley swears that he was given $2,500 by another member named Sessions to change his vote from Milord Conkey to Depew. Bradley's story, given before the Investigating Committee, is plausible, if not irrefutable. But Sessions swears it is all a lie, and believes it to be a part of a Conkling-Platt scheme to secure that "vindication" for which the pair are longing so intensely, yet hopelessly. The main thing in support of Session's story, as against Bradley's, is the fact that the former is an astute political manager of long experience, and never was fool enough to pay for tainted goods before delivery, and especially with no guarantee whatever. However plausible that may be, it is not entirely conclusive, and now Sessions and Bradley can join hands with Milord and "Me Too" in searching for that which is lost, namely, their reputations for the commonest kind of honesty and the commonest kind of common sense.

ANOTHER speculative mania has broken out in London, chiefly in the gold mines. The cause is the reported discovery of a rich vein of gold in an India mine worked by a Glasgow syndicate. The City of Glasgow Bank had a very large number of shares in this concern, which helped to break down the bank. The shares advanced last week from £10 to £65. New mining companies are started every day. Cornwall is flooded with new companies working old tin mines, and India promises to be the scene of a new gold fever. In the existing mines the rise in shares during the past few days ranges from 12 to 200 per cent. Two American mining companies ask for £1,000,000. The total amount applied for by the new companies this year is £112,000,000, and most of it has been subscribed.

THE now world-renowned American colt, Iroquois, won another great victory on the 14th, in running for the Prince of Wales cup at the Ascot races. This is the first time in the history of the English turf that the winner of the Derby also got away with the Ascot cup. A day or two prior to this Jim Keene's horse, Foxhall, beat the Johnny Crapauds in Paris even worse than Iroquois twice did it unto the Johnny Bulls, and now every Jonathan is, and by rights, ought to be almost as proud as if he had a pair of new red-topped boots.

THE geographical position of New Orleans is beginning to assert itself. It is now the second port of export in the country, and greater than the next two. For April the exports of New Orleans exceeded $11,000,000, the exports of Boston for that month being about $6,000,000. An occasional gleam of exultation is visible in the New Orleans papers; but, as a rule, they accept prosperity with a moderation equal to the fortitude with which they endured stagnation in the sad days of political agitation.

THE School Census Marshal of San Francisco has made his report. Total number of white children in the city and county, 54,925, of which boys number 27,367 and girls 28,550. Total number of children between five and seventeen years, 54,186; natives; 15,953; native, one parent foreign, 20,238; foreign born, 2,725. Number of births during the year—boys, 1,798; girls, 1,785. The census shows a decrease from 1880 of 3,263, which the Marshal attributes to mistakes in the former year.

THE Financial and Mining News of New York takes a very hopeful view of the mining share market in that city. It says: "If people will keep an eye on the New York market they will see a greater demand in a short time than there has been yet. The present decline is due to inside manipulations. The value of the leading stocks is genuine and everyone of them is worth from five to ten times its present market value. The boom is not ended; it has not even fully begun."

IT is said that tha Czar is completely broken down and that he ia a mere wreck of his former self. He holds himself in a state of siege through the terror of assassination, and his health has given way on account of his constant fear and anxiety. He is also superstitious, and firmly believes in the fulfilment of an old prophecy, that when Paul's column falls the rule of the Romanoffs will end. The column was blown down on the 4th of June.

THE Chicago Inter Ocean, a "stalwart" defender of Mr. Conkling, in eulogizing that gentleman, says: "He secured Ohio and Indiana without other help than his own voice." A few weeks ago a banquet was given to ex-Senator Dorsey for the reason that he was accredited with having carried Indiana for the Republicans. He was toasted to that effect, at any rate.

FIFTY-ONE metals are known to exist, of which thirty have been discovered during the present century.

WE are in receipt of the June number of Carpentry and Building, a publication that contains very much of interest to all who have anything to do with carpentry in whatever line. Its principal articles are "An English Cottage" (20 engravings), "Practical Stair Building" (3 engravings), "Modeling in Clay" (6 engravings), "Advantage of Business knowledge to the Builder," and several miscellaneous articles relating to building topics. The "Correspondence" department contains letters from some fifty practical men located in various sections of the country, on timely topics, illustrated by 22 engravings. This journal, which is a marvel of cheapness and enterprise, is published by David Williams, 83 Reade street, New York, at $1 per year.

THE suit of the Texas-Pacific railroad against the Southern Pacific, for trespass upon its grant in New Mexico, is now to be supplemented by a similar suit in Arizona, as will be seen by the subjoined from the Yuma Free Press of last Saturday:

Jay Gould, as President of the Texas and Pacific Railroad Company, has served notice on the agent for the Southern Pacific Company of Arizona, resident at Yuma, that the former claims the right of way and lands over which the latter company's road passes. This news is vouched for by said agent. The notice is probably the forerunner of a second suit.

THE latest novelty in inventions is what is known as Fryer's Marine Carriage. It is, as its name implies, a veritable carriage, that is, a vessel on wheels that roll over the surface of the water instead of ploughing through it like the hull of a vessel. The body of the ship is to be elevated upon a platform above the surface of the water the same as the body of a wagon or car above the earth, and will be propelled in a similar manner. Great things are claimed for it by the friends of the inventor.

SAN FRANCISCO dates of the 12th give the following account of what that egregious ass "Dr." O'Donnell, did in the buncombe line: "During the usual exercises at the sand lot to-day, Dr. O'Donnell, who runs every Sunday an opposition meeting to Kearney, in the course of his harangue, produced the British and Chinese flags, and rolling them into a bundle burned them on the platform."

OFFICIAL dispatches are reported to have been received from Mr. Evarts, delegate to the International Monetary Conference, to the effect that no satisfactory agreement is probable. There is no substantial good likely to come from the conference, but a number of respectable gentlemen have had a free trip to Europe all the same.

THERE is to be an election in San Francisco, and already there is talk of three or four municipal tickets to take the field. The metropolis of the Pacific Coast has too many politicians within its limits for its own good. Mayor Kalloch is to be a candidate for re-election, and the chances are that the delectable old saint will win.

DENVER, Colorado, has a population of less than 50,000, but includes six men who are worth from $1,000,000 to $5,000,000 each, twenty who are worth $500,000, and two hundred who represent $250,000 in their own right. Denver has, besides its batch of rich men, six widows whose combined fortunes aggregate $3,000,000.

THE Los Angeles Express announces that the Southern Pacific and Atchison Topeka and Santa Fe roads have agreed upon a rate of through freights, which will enable the orange shippers to send their product East by the direct route.

KERN COUNTY has a new weekly paper called the Record, John H. Lee, proprietor. It is a five-column, very neat, bright little paper, and proposes to sustain Republicanism for all that's out.

THE Stock Report thinks the news from the Comstock and that from St. Petersburg should be printed together. They are both official and usually equally reliable.

A PHILADELPHIA mining journal has a heading "Beavertide District," over an article on "Beaveride District," treating of matters in Beveridge Dis- in this county.

THE Rev. Henry Ward Beecher's first audience in Nashville, Tenn. last week was so slim that he refused to lecture in that city on the following night, as per agreement.

THREE Canadian newspapers, the St. Catherine News, Quebec Mercury and St. Johns Globe, have come out in favor of "annexation or independence."

THE brother of Pierre Lorillard is authority for the statement that the latter wins $2,000,000 on one bet made on the Derby race.

MR. CONKLING finds thae there is considerable difference between resigning and being resigned.

Terrible Storms in the Western States.

Special dispatches to the San Francisco Chronicle of the 14th, give accounts of the most terrific "blizzards" which swept through the Iowa, Kansas and Missouri on the Sunday previous.

The Des Moines, Iowa, dispatch says: One of the most destructive storms that has ever visited Central Iowa swept through here on Sunday afternoon, and at Peoria, in the northeastern part of Polk county. It broke much window glass, and in some instances hailstones crushed through weather boards and plastering. The hailstones, which were the size of goose eggs, also killed live stock. During the storm in Des Moines Sunday afternoon the Baptist church was struck by lightning and a hole burnt through the roof. Many trees were denuded of branches or torn up in this vicinity, and the crops were levelled to the ground. Near Rising Sun half a dozen houses were blown away; a man named Erickson was killed and his baby and wife blown a distance of a quarter of a mile. John Walter's house was demolished and his baby killed. Many families took refuge in their cellars. In Grant township, a child belonging to Douglas Johnson was killed and several houses were demolished. The damage by hail was great near Monteith. The wagon bridge at Summerset, Madison county, was demolished. A flouring mill at the same place was unroofed and six inches of hail fell. One house was swept away and another unroofed near Adair, Guthrie county. Robert Trowbridge and Herman Rathburn were killed by lightning.

Intelligences from Western Iowa, including Audubon, Cass, Pottawattamie and Guthrie counties, depicts the storm of Sunday as severe in the damage done by wind and hail. Calves, hogs, chickens, ducks, etc., were killed. Cattle are much bruised by hailstones, and go about with swollen eyes and flesh oozing blood. Buildings, trees and fences were blown down. The hailstones are represented in many places as the size and shape of door knobs, weighing a pound a piece, and covering the ground in places to the depth of six inches. A farmer coming into Atlantic, Cass county, this morning drove through a rift of hailstones two and a half feet deep. At Minden, Pottawattamie county, a train of cars was thrown from the track by the wind; the locomotive was overturned and much injured. Panes of glass were broken in Avoca. Telegrams to the Star Register from numerous towns tell similar experiences of windows, and shutters falling, and the storm being beaten in. Some farm residences and barns were completely demolished by the hail and wind near Adair, the Methodist Episcopal church of that place being sadly used up. The damage to the growing crops, which are almost obliterated in many places, is almost impossible to estimate.

A correspondent describing the scene near Olivet says: A horse was lifted out of the stable and carried over a high hill, and dashed upon the ground in a cornfield a mile away. Cattle were lifted from the ground and carried into the air and dashed to pieces. Powell's fine orchard was totally destroyed, the trees being torn out of the ground and twisted into a thousand fragments. Miss Tweed found the works of a gold watch a quarter of a mile from the house. Everything was carried away. The furniture was carried away, and all the bedclothes and wearing apparel entirely destroyed. Miss Tweed's clothes was torn off, and she has not a single dress left in the world. Her trunk was lifted out of the house, carried off, and has not yet been found. A large amount of property was destroyed, and a number of persons were killed and wounded in Sumner and Sedgwick counties in the same State.

Grasshopper Lore.

A Truckee Meadow ranchman, who has been studying the ways of the grasshopper for the past two years, says they have a touch of intelligence in them that must come from the devil. Among many things he tells about the hoppers in proof of their being endowed with fiendish smartness, his description of the manner in which the eggs of the female are planted in the ground is not the least curious. He says when the time for depositing the eggs arrives, the hoppers select a patch of ground that is somewhat soft, yet of firm texture. Here collect swarms of both male and females. The males set to work and bore a hole in the ground to the depth of about an inch, carefully smoothing the sides and rounding it. Five or six of them then seize a female and stand her on end in this hole waist deep. They then carefully tamp in fine dirt all about the lower part of her body, and thus securely fasten her in the ground from the waist up. When this operation is completed it is impossible for the female hopper to release herself; indeed our grasshopperologist says he has often tried to pull them out when so planted, and always found that they would pull in two, leaving the abdominal region (greatly distended with eggs) sticking fast in the ground. Once the female has rid herself of her load of eggs she can get out of the ground without the least difficulty.

Our ranchman philosopher says that on withdrawing herself from the hole in which she has deposited her eggs the female seals up the top of it with a saliva and dirt. In a short time this dries and the clay becomes as hard as cement. On digging out one of these cells after it has had time to dry it is found to be a sort of tube closely sealed at both ends, and able to withstand both moisture and cold.

The male hoppers that dig the hole in which the eggs are to be deposited evidently deposit in it the viscous matter that is to form the lower part of the egg case, leaving the female the task of closing it up as her part of the work.

It is only a patch of ground here and there that seems to fill all the conditions required by the hoppers in their egg-planting business. On these they swarm, and may be seen industriously at work on almost every square inch of ground, all the males at work like beavers at digging holes, boosting up and planting the egg-layers.—Virginia Enterprise.

"PRESIDENT GRANT"—of the Texas Western Narrow Gauge Railway.

FOR some time much dissatisfaction existed among the Piute Indians who were brought from the Malheur Agency to Yakima Reservation. At one time Secretary Schurz gave them permission to return to their own lands in Nevada, but through interference the permission was revoked and the consequence was the Piutes were compelled to remain. There was great dissatisfaction and matters have not since improved much. Jealousy and bad feeling also exists between them and the Yakima Indians. Recently some of the Piutes have disappeared off the reservation and it is supposed they have gone back to their own country.

AMERICA has scored another triumph. The horse Iroquois, owned by a New Yorker, carried off the honors at the Derby, and now Foxhall, the property of Mr. J. R. Keene, of San Francisco, wins the Grand Prize in Paris. It has heretofore been the custom to bring blood stock from abroad, but now we send the progency of our equine importations back to beat the best horses of the countries from which their progenitors came.

CAPTAIN SAM, the famous Piute Chief, was told by a Nevada man recently that the iron horse traveled all the time and ate neither hay nor barley. "What matter you 'bout that? S'pose he no eat um no hay, he drink heap water, eat um wagon-load wood before breakfas'. Pony, you turn um out. S'pose you want to ride, go ketchum. Who said 'bout Injun want um railroad? Damum railroad!"

ANOTHER Nihilist proclamation has been issued from the office of the Nihilist journal, the Will of the People, called "Trial and Torture," and declaring that the assassins of the late Czar were tortured before execution, Rousakoff having informed the crowd to that effect while on his way to the scaffold.

IT is stated that Miss Blood, Lord Colin Campbell's bride, is the daughter of Victoria Woodhull, who thus becomes a connection of "the Lorne's" and Queen Victoria. The aristocracy have doubtless tried to keep the fact of the Woodhull relationship secret, but Blood will tell.

GEN. GRANT has changed his mind as to going to Albany to help Conkey get to be Senator some more. The General goes to Chicago instead of Albany, alleging the sickness of his wife as the reason. But we will bet she is not half as sick as Milord, thus left to his fate.

IN Fresno county four horses were killed out of a band of thirteen by wire fence, and complaints are heard of it in many quarters.

IT is understood that the Whittaker verdict will be "guilty," with a recommendation for his dismissal from West Point.

FLOODED OUT.—News was brought into town this morning that in one of the tunnels now being run in the White Mountains at the head of the pipe line, for the purpose of developing more water, a stream had been cut which was so strong that it drove out the men in the face of the tunnel, and further operations in that place have been suspended. The tunnel has been extended only thirty feet. This fact is another evidence that the supply of water in the White Mountain range is ample for a line of pipe four times as large as the one being put in. In fact there is enough water now at the source of the ditch to fill one pipe, and with such strikes as that of this week the supply can be increased to any desired extent. —Candelaria True Fissure.

WE have been shown a letter from San Francisco, in which the writer says the Eureka and Colorado River Railroad is "a touch and a go," and that fifty miles of the road will be built this Summer.—Ward Reflex.

SATURDAY, JUNE 18.....1881

THE "PAJARO."—Such, we believe, is the particular name of the big gold mine at Bishop Creek belonging to Hypolite Galeron, et al. It is situated in the foot-hills of the White Mountains or Inyos, about six miles east of the town of Bishop Creek, with which place it is connected by a good wagon road. The property is rapidly proving itself to be first class. A shaft has been sunk to a depth of 100 feet, in ore of extraordinary richness from the surface down. The ore is a friable, decomposed and oxidized matter, consisting of lime and quartz stained with iron, some of it being beautifully honeycombed. No blasting has been necessary in the work of sinking. The shaft goes down in the middle of the ledge, leaving ore on both walls. The width at the bottom is undetermined, although exposed seven feet wide. There is no waste matter in the vein so far as explored—every pound being rich in gold. The metal is in a perfectly free condition, in a rather finely divided state and uniformly distributed. Altogether it is a most extraordinary showing, and competent judges express the opinion that the mine will prove of great value. About 100 tons of ore is now on the dump, every pound of which will show a splendid pr spect in the pan or horn, and a probable average value of $75 to $80 per ton. The mine has been examined during the week by Geo. Story of Bodie, Stephen Moore, of Grass Valley, and W. H. Lent, of San Francisco, with a view to its purchase. It is said that the property has been purchased by the above parties, but we have no positive authority for the statement. There are several other promising gold claims in the vicinity of the Pajaro, which will no doubt prove equally valuable when prospected. With this splendid property once in the hands of a live company, together with operations in Beveridge District, there is before us a prospect that the gold shipments will have the effect of setting this county where it really belongs in the mining world—as one of the foremost.

PERSONAL.—Miss Addie Lewis started on Monday last for San Francisco, where she proposes to spend a year or two with her sister, Mrs. Sarah Samuels....At the same time W. A. Greenly, who helped to build this country from the keel upwards, started for a first visit among relatives in New York and elsewhere. He goes by the Southern Overland, and will pay Tombstone and that section a visit en route. He designs to return here in about two months, or thereabouts.. M. A. Wheeler, of the Swansea M. & M. Co., paid us a visit last week, having spent several days in looking after company matters at the Lake. He has now gone to the city, but expects to return here in a week or two... Mr. and Mrs. James Shaw, of Bishop Creek, are visiting friends in this locality.

THE GRAND CONJUNCTION.—To-morrow morning at about 3 o'clock, comes the grand planetary conjunction, about which so much has been said, and upon which so many direful predictions have been predicated. Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn and Alcyone are all in a line upon one side of the sun, with nothing but the earth and moon to stand them off on the other side. Uranus takes position at right angles to the line from the earth to the other planets above named. In this position Uranus will be of very little or no help in pulling against the others. The question is, will the sun be able to keep in his track against all those big stars, with no outside help but our little earth and moon? Get up early in the morning and see about it.

A CHANGE.—The U. S. Stage Company has sold to Phil Keough the line between this place and Aurora, the transfer having been made on the 1st instant. The Bodie Free Press states that Phil has sold to S. L. McNaughton of Benton the part of the road from there to Aurora, but we have heard nothing of it here. Phil is a successful, rattling good stage man, and it is to be hoped that business will so improve as to permit of his making some radical changes on the route, in the way of new stock and stages. He employs none but the most careful and accommodating drivers and will undoubtedly make the line immensely more popular than it ever has been.

APPORTIONED.—There were $62 63 in the County School Fund, which Supt. Symmes yerterday apportioned to the several districts on the basis of best average attendance during the last preceeding term. Under this new law Independence district makes a better proportional showing than any other district in the county, and of the above sum receives $9 84; Bishop Creek, $14 76; Big Pine, $6 56; Cerro Gordo, nothing; Darwin, $2 29; Irving, $5 90; Lone Pine, $6 89; Milton, $7 54; Round Valley, $5 57; Union, $3 28—$62 63.

TIME EXPIRED.—Hamilton's preliminary bond on the Mexican gold mines in Beveridge District, through which he was to finally pay $110,000 for the property, expired on Thursday at 12 o'clock. Mr. Hamilton arrived at Lone Pine last night, but it is now considered doubtful whether the owners will sell at the figure named. It would be a most unfortunate set-back to the whole county should the sale fall through.

A TEMBLER.—In a note from George's Creek, dated the 11th, we have this: "We had a little tembler at 25 minutes past 5 this morning. It might have been caused by the lively times in Lone Pine, as it came from that direction."

NEEDS IT.—Now if the Board of Supervisors will provide for the repainting of the Court House they will complete a good work well begun. All the wood work, as well as the new roof, needs it badly.

Lone Pine Matters.

A friend, writing from Lone Pine, June 16, gives us the following review of matters and things in that locality: "Business seems to be lively; teams are coming in every day loaded with freight; farmers are bringing in all kinds of garden product; pack-trains go out every day loaded with supplies for Beveridge District.

We have here three hotels, two restaurants, four stores, two butcher shops, and one fruit store, and if we only had another blacksmith shop we would have opposition all around. To the above must be added a chop-house where you can have your beef-steak cooked Spanish style—plenty of chile carajo. There is also s Mexican who peddles tomales at a bit apiece—it is beef or chicken, cooked in corn husk, and well seasoned with the aforesaid chile carajo, and Messrs. Editors, if you would only eat one, you could sleep under a Tucson blanket all Winter, and need nothing else to keep youcomfortably warm all the time.

The miners at the Mexican camp are on a strike for higher wages, and the old Harry is to pay. Mr. W. L. Hunter reports the trail from the Keynot to Taylor & Co's mill as completed, and the first loaded train passed over it last Friday.

This place has been full of sports, fighting the tiger, wherever he may be found; around the saloons it looks like the days of '49 or Spring of '50.

We have a photographer here who is taking excellent pictures. Dr. Stevenson, formerly of Cerro Gordo, proposes to locate permanently in Lone Pine. He has proven himself an excellent surgeon and physician. Dr Gould, dentist, is pulling stumps, etc., and doing a lively business. Dodge's mammoth stable is nearly completed.

We are making prep a rations for the celebration on the Fourth, and you, Messrs. Editors, and the public generally, not excepting Pap Walker from the foot of the Lake, are cordially invited to attend on that occasion. To conclude, I must add that "our Dan" is about to start a new gin mill. Yours truly, LONE PINE."

LEFT US.—Dr. F. T. Bicknell left last Monday for Los Angeles, traveling with his buggy team. He will probably remain there for a few weeks, and goes thence to Wisconsin for an extended visit. The worthy doctor has, we are sorry to say, bid this country adieu indefinitely, and goes to seek a wider field of practice. About this matter there is a very general feeling of genuine regret throughout the county where Dr. Bicknell became known—regret at the loss of so successful a medical practitioner and such a thorough man and friend. His professional reputation here is a most enviable one, and the good wishes of our whole people go with him.

A DISPATCH.—As may be noted, Big Pine comes to the front with its accustomed note under the head of "Born." This week it is Sam Meredith, the colored man whose exploits in foot racing will be remembered by our townspeople, who is the happy parient. The news did not reach us in time for last week, notwithstanding Sam's efforts to get the "dispatch" here. With his eyes prominent as two full moons, he informed our correspondent: "Now, you jis rite to dat paper, quick as possible, and inform 'em dat my wife jis dis morning got a boy baby. Rite 'em quick, foh de papas's printed. Dat's all; Is'e in a hurry and mus' go back 'mejitly."

ECLIPSED.—Those who hadn't read up their Almanacs, Robinson Crusoes and the like, were somewhat surprised last Saturday night on seeing a black shade steadily creeping over the bright full moon. But the shade crept on and on until Luna's round face was totally obscured, and nothing was to be seen save a dark crimson patch in the sky, where, but for the intervention of Mother Earth, there would have been a bright, silvery and very round moon.

CORRALLED.—J. W. Day, the noted foot-racer, not altogether unknown in this section, is now in jail at Los Angeles on a charge of embezzling some $900 intrusted to him to bet on races. There are parties in this country who intrusted him with coin in considerable amounts for a like investment. They would be quite happy to recover the interest, saying nothing about the principal.

TO LEAVE.—We hear that S. W. Blaisdel proposes, on the close of his school at George's Cre', to remove with his family to Alameda county, there to make his home in future. Mr. Blaisdel is an educated gentleman, an excellent teacher, a first rate man and citizen in all respects, and we in common with all who know him, are truly sorry to lose such men from our midst.

PERSONAL.—We were favored with a call yesterday from A. E. Mitchell, Esq., of Sweetsburg, Province Quebec, Canada. He is here on a visit to his brothers-in-law, O. I. and J. D. Mairs. Mr. Mitchell is a practicing lawyer of Canada, and we are promised next week something from his pen regarding the general affairs of the Dominion Government, etc.

RETURNED.—Dr. W. H. George got home from his Kern county trip on Sunday last, looking quite as delicate, physically, as ever. We learn that he has purchased the old Inyo House property, which he will entirely overhaul and refit, intending to use it for an office and drug store.

FOR SALE.—The Whitney House, at Lone Pine, is advertised this week as for sale, by the proprietress. This is the prominent hotel of our neighboring town, where is located the stage, express and post offices.

TO CLOSE.—The school in this place closes for the term next Thursday. The next term will probably not be commenced until in the Fall.

HIS SUCCESSOR.—Dr. Bicknell, upon leaving, desired us to state to the good people of Bishop Creek, for him, that he considers his professional successor at that point, Dr. H. H. Howell, a thoroughly well qualified physician and surgeon, and a gentleman entitled to the confidence of the people.

HIS WHEREABOUTS.—Judge Hannah is at Bartlett Springs, near Napa City. He is recruiting slowly, but complains of a rough 75 mile stage ride in that region. It might appear that he ought to be used to that after going from here to the railroad.

How Officers Were Once Paid.

It is not a generally known historical fact, that from 1707 to 1784 the territory now known as Tennessee formed a part of North Carolina, and that in 1785 the Tennesseeans, becoming dissatisfied with the government, organized a government under the name of "Franklyn," which was maintained for some years. The State organization afterwards disbanded, and territorial Tennessee was again annexed to North Carolina. The following is among the laws passed by the legislature of the State of Franklyn. We copy it as found in a speech by Daniel Webster, on the currency, in 1837:

Be it enacted py the General Assembly of the State of Franklyn; and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, that from the first day of January, 1796, the salaries of the officers of this Commonwealth be as follows:

His Excellency, the Governor, per annum, 1,000 deer skins.

His Honor, the Chief Justice, 500 deer skins.

The Secretary of his Excellency the Governor, 500 racoon skins.

The Treasurer of the State, 450 racoon skins.

Each County Clerk, 350 Beaver skins.

Clerk of the House of Commons, 200 racoon skins.

Members of the Assembly, per diem, three racoon skins.

Justices' fee for signing a warrant, one musk-rat skin.

To the Constable for serving a warrant, one mink skin.

Enacted into a law the 18th of Oct. 1789, under the great seal of the State. —Ex.

Low-Grade Ores.

It is really encouraging to a mining man to read of the interest which is beginning to be manifested in the low-grade ores in many of our Western mining camps. There are thousands of tons of ore now lying on the waste dumps of some of our oldest mines which might be made to yield a profit to the owners if reduced. Many of the high-grade mines were in the habit of throwing on the waste dump, in their palmier days, ores which they now begin to think are not entirely beneath their notice, and they are consequently casting about them for some means of using these ores. The movement is one in the right direction, and one which we are confident will effect the very best results. An ore that will give a net profit of 50 cents a ton is not too poor to be treated, though it is not one that will make its owners millionaires in a few months or a year. "A dollar saved is a dollar earned" is just as applicable to mining as to any other industry, and is a very suitable maxim to be adopted by the owners of a low-grade mine or a quantity of low-grade ore.—Las Vegas Mining World.

SHOOTING ACCIDENT.—Last Sunday evening a serious accident occurred at Gold Mountain, old camp, from which Arthur George, an estimable young man, and well-known in this community, was painfully injured. Half a dozen persons were gathered at the bar in Ward's saloon, discussing the genuineness of a check, when by some unaccountable means the drawer of the bar was broken down and in its fall a pistol which was in it was discharged. For a moment no one seemed to be hurt, and each was asking his neighbor how it happened. Mr. George himself did not know he was hit until he attempted to move around when it was found that the bullet had passed through the canvas frout of the bar and had entered his leg half way between the knee and the ankle. The bullet struck squre on the tibia, or shin bone, passed through it and came out behind in the fleshy part of the leg. After the accident a wagon was procured and the injured man placed therein and brought to Candelaria. The journey was a fearful one, and necessarily very slow, occupying three days and three nights, and the injured man suffered very much. Kind friends accompanied him on the journey and he had all the attention possible. When the party arrived here Dr. Fetterman was called and dressed the wound. He pronounced it not dangerous but says it will confine George to the house eight or nine weeks, the bone being shattered. The best of care was taken of the wound on the long trip from Gold Mountain, the injured limb being packed in snow all the distance.—True Fissure, June 11,

THE more railroads Mono and Inyo counties have the better it will be for the country. A railroad means additional capital and cheap freights. Nearsighted peop'e will argue differently, but it is a fact, nevertheless. In Mono county, for instance, there is a vast field for prospecting. In the vicinity of Benton ledges of great width exist, and it is certain that there are other sections of the county equally rich in mineral. The more capital there is in the country the better, and no one should discourage men with money from investing.—Bodie Free Press.

HENRY PHILLIPS passed through Aurora last Tuesday morning for Benton, to look after the opening of the Comanche and Tower mines, which himself and other New York parties recently purchased. The two mines and the Vulcan mill have been consolidated. Mr. Phillips will move the hoisting works from the Comanche to the Tower, where he will sink a shaft to a depth of 400 feet, put in pumps, etc., and as soon as everything is in readiness the mill will be started up.—Aurora Herald.

ABE RUDOLPH shot Denny Ryan in the left breast, on Ruby Hill, last night, and inflicted a mortal wound. The quarrel was about Rudolph's wife, who, it is said, had been intimate with Ryan. Rudolph, immediately after the shooting, came to Eureka and gave himself up. Both are well known throughout Nevada as miners. This evening Ryan was sinking fast.—Eureka Leader, May 12.

FREDERICO GONZALES, for whom $700 has been offered, was seen at Panama, on the 23d of last month, and was making his way, it was supposed, to Inyo county.—Kern Co. Record, June 9.

PERSONS who wish to be "profane" must now use the words "cond—mn," and "had—s;" damn and hell are now no longer wicked.

EXTRACTED HONEY.

THIS HONEY WAS REMOVED FROM THE comb by centrifugal force, with a machine made for the purpose. It is therefore virtually the same as honey in the comb, only you don't have to eat the bees wax, which is indigestible and therefore disagrees with many persons. When first extracted the honey is liquid, but nearly all pure honey will candy or granulate in course of time, especially if exposed to the cold. Putting the cans in hot water for a short time will bring the honey to its fluid state without injury.

This Honey is put up in 10 pound cans, with patented screw tops, which renders it convenient for family use, and especially for the mines, to which it may be packed, even upside down, without leakage. A neat label on each can gives full directions.

Price, $1 50 per can, or 12½ cents per ℔ at the Apiary, if customers furnish their own receptacle. For sale at Harris & Rhine's, Independence, and at the Apiary, at Jacob Vagt's place, Camp Independence.

A small boy of Bath, Me., had just gone to bed, when he began to dream about cows. Some slight noise woke him up and he said, "Mamma, I saw some cows." "Where?" she asked. "Up there," said he pointing to the ceiling. His mother remarked that that was a queer place to see cows, and the little fellow got slightly angry and said "Well, I guess they could be angel cows, couldn't they?"

"UNCLE Tom's cabin" is now being played at the South for the first time. It is variously received. The company was driven from the stage by a shower of eggs at Griffin, Ga., and the performance was also stopped by a mob at Bradlaw, La. In most places, however, the audiences are orderly; but the sufferings os Uncle Tom do not produce tears anywhere, the negroes generally regarding him as a comic character, and laughing heartily when he gets whipped.

THE Daily Report representative had an opportunity of seeing the Pacific Coast Press Association in session, and has been much disappointed. Asked what he had expected, he said he had expected to see a full representation of the press of the Coast, whereas all he had seen was a small gathering of patent-outside editors bossed by Laura De Force Gordon.

GAMBETTA, when presiding in the French Chamber of Deputies, always keeps a glass of red wine on one side of his desk and what appears to be a glass of lemonade. He drinks from one or the other every few minutes. Besides this occupation, he is ringing a big bell or rapping with a heavy paper cutter every minute or two to keep the noisy Deputies in order. He has an opera glass on his desk, and now and then takes a long and sweeping look into the crowded galleries.

MENTAL arithmetic: A gentleman in the New York swamp met a rather "oncertain" acquaintance the other day, when the latter said: "I'm a little short and would like to ask you a conundrum in mental arithmetic." "Proceed," observed the gentleman. "Well," said the "short" man, "suppose you had $10 in your pocket and I should ask you for $5, how much would remain?" "Ten dollars," was the prompt answer.

AN Arizona miner says: To keep your drinking water cool, take any ordinary canvas sack (we use an ore sack) and suspend it where a draught will strike it. Fill it up with water after it has been soaked a bit. In a day or two it will leak no more than an olla, and I will guarantee to a dissiccative community you will have cooler water by ten degrees than by the old earthen jar.

CIRCUS joke: "This isn't a menagerie," sharply observed an irascible deacon to a man who was trying to force a passage through the crowd at a church doorway. "No, I presume not," returned the stranger, "or they wouldn't leave any of the animals to block up the entrance."

REMARK by Burnside: "I repeat I am not mad. But, bless your soul, please remember that I am a monsoon when I begin to expand. At this time, however, as you will perceive by the splinters around my desk, I am perfectly cool and collected, you infernal villain."

MINING.

APPLICATION FOR A PATENT

....TO THE....

SUMMIT NO. 2 MINE.

No. 192.

UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE, Bodie, Cal., June 6, 1881.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT A. R. Conklin, W. H. Jenkins and James Jenkins, whose postoffice address is Independence, Inyo county, California, have this day filed their application for a patent for fifteen hundred linear feet of the SUMMIT NO. 2 mine or vein bearing silver, with surface ground six hundred feet in width, situated in Cerro Gordo mining district, County of Inyo, State of California, and designated by the field notes and official plat on file in this office as Lot No. 40, in Township ——, Range ——— of —— —— Meridian.

SURVEY OF LODE.

Said Lot No. 40 being described as follows, to wit: Commenced at a post on S.E. end of claim on lode line, marked the post "Post A. Summit Mine No. 2," from which, with a variation 15 deg 55 min. E a pine bush 3 lks high, bears N. 88½ deg. E 43 lks; a pine bush 3 links high bears S. 45¾ deg. W. 31 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E., N 40 deg. Description of Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument as described in the field notes of survey of the Armagh mine: The Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument is built on the apex of a red rocky point at the intersection of Ygnacio Ravine and Cerro Gordo cañon, and very precisely on the W. B. line of the Ygnacio mine (as surveyed for a patent in the year 1875 by Jos. Seely, U. S. Dep. Min. Sur.), and distant 17 51 chains from the southwest corner stake of the Ygnacio mine.

At the point above given I drilled a hole in the rock to a depth of 9 inches, in which drove a piece of gas pipe 1 inch in dia. x16 inches long. On top of gas pipe, set a post 4x4 inches square, x4 feet long, a ound which built a monument of rocks 5 feet high x5 feet in dia at its base; marked the top of post "U. S. Min'l Monument. Erected Jan'y 3d, A. D. 1880, by Wm. Crapo, U. S. Dep. Min. Sur., under authority of the U. S. Sur. Gen'l for Cal'a."

From said post in mineral monument, with a variation of 15 deg 55 min. E the extreme end of the bluff on which the monument is situated, bears N. 25 deg W. 17 links. The east edge of ridge at the top of a vertical face of rock, 7½ feet high, bears N. 60 deg E 7 links. The NE. cor. of an old adobe vase chimney bears S. 38 deg 16 min. W. 16 links. The middle of the Belshaw toll road at a point where it turns out of Cerro Gordo Cañon bears N. 81¾ deg. W. 1 00 chains. The middle of Cerro Gordo Cañon bears N. 62 chains. The NW. cor. of Rafael Duz's house bears S. 28 deg. 33 min. E. 1.58 chains. An old well 30 feet deep on the north side of Cerro Gordo Cañon bears N. 58 deg. 20 min. W. 1 93 chs. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E. (3) S. 40 deg E. .93 W. boundary of Ygnacio mine. Set a post in mound of rocks and earth; marked post "Post 8, Summit Mine No. 2," from which the Armagh U. THE MATUTINAL COCKTAIL.

[From the Los Angeles Express.]

LOS ANGELES, June 13, '81.

EDITOR EXPRESS:—I have frequently remonstrated with patients against the common practice of taking a drink of liquor before breakfast. The following extracts from an article (in the last number of the Philadelphia Medical and Surgical Reporter) by Hugo Engel, A. M. M. D., a well known German writer, are so pregnant with important, practical facts that they should not be confined to the pages of a scientific magazine. Dr. Engel, although writing in such strong terms, is an advocate of the moderate drinking of wine or beer either with meals or immediately after eating.

Restpectfully,
WALTER LINDLEY.

Here we have only to do with the regular tippler, who, whatever else he may drink, imbibes daily a certain quantity of strong alcoholic liquor, without ever, perhaps, getting drunk.

The very first intimation of the tippler having reached that stage where he cannot well do without his habitual drink of alcohol, in some form or other, is a symptom which generally precedes for a long time those now about to be mentioned: It is a craving for a drink early in the morning, before any food has been taken, consequently on an empty stomach. This early stimulant, taken early in the beginning simply because there is a desire for it, soon becomes a necessity in order to "steady" the nerves, and further still, to "settle" the stomach. This drinking on an empty stomach is the most dangerous habit such men can adopt; it does more harm than all the other drinks of the day taken together, and all habitual tipplers crave for that one drink more than anything else. If such persons could be aware of the fact that in the morning, before the first meal, the absorbing vessels may be compared to dried sponges, which readily absorb any moisture they come in contact with, then they would know that these "morning drams" are absorbed in an almost unaltered state, and therefore, cause the greatest damage to the stomach, and, being carried along the portal system, to the liver. This direct introduction of the alcohol into the circulation is the cause of the nerves of the habitual drinker becoming so quickly "steadied" after this first drink in the morning, just as the direct stimulation of the ramifications of the pneumogastric and vasomotor nerves causes the "settling" of the stomach. I have observed inveterate drinkers endeavouring, with shaking hands, to carry the first morning dram to their lips; have seen them verify the old adage, "There is many a slip between the cup and the lip;" and a minute or two later have been astonished to see these once trembling persons delicately hold the second glass between their fingers and take the second drink with hands as steady as though it was the first liquor that had ever passed their lips. But this magical effect is just the reason that no warning will ever prevent them from gradually undermining their constitution more and more.

The early morning drink once having become an established habit, the other symptons soon make their appearance. The patient suffers from nausea in the morning, loses his appetite for breakfast especially, and complains of occasional sour eructation, and more frequently returning heartburn. Soon another sympton is added. The patient has a feeling of weight in the epigastrium after each meal, and the stomach becomes sensitive to the touch. The nausea soon changes to vomiting, and regularly every morning large quantities of glairy mucus, which have an exceedingly sour taste and smell, are ejected by the stomach. Frequent belchings takes place, which is always connected with a sour taste; the appetite becomes more and more irregular; the bowels incline to constipation, alternating sometimes with diarrhoea; the feeling of weight and distension increases in severity, as also the sensibility of the stomach to pressure and touch. And the feeling of weight is not only there after eating, and is not confined to the epigastric region alone; there is now a constant sensation of fulness in the right side of the abdomen; pain is experienced there more or less constantly and a physical examination reveals an increased area of liver dullness. Besides these symptoms there are inward fever, great thirst, headache, and all kinds of neuralgic pains. Hemorrholds generally make their appearance; the sleep is restless, disturbed by dreams; the muscles tremble in the morning; the face looks tumid, and the tongue is coated, indented at the teeth and red at the tip.

These symptons form, as a whole, a picture which is so frequently seen, and with few alterations—due to the peculiarities of the person—it is always the same, that it is easily recognized. The appearance of face, skin and tongue, the peculiar vomiting in the morning, the other dyspeptic symptoms in connection with the subjective sensations in the epigastrium and right side of the abdomen, the sensitiveness of the stomach to touch, no other disease presents the same group of symptons and signs. And no matter what else may ail the patient, no matter what organic disease may cause other phenomena of its own besides the symptoms mentioned, the latter always stand pre-eminently in the foreground and form a group for themselves.

But now, we ask ourselves, what is the pathological condition that produces this state, this train of symptoms? Chronic gastritis and a peculiar chronic inflamation of the liver.

The treatment is as follows: The patient must immediately omit all intoxicating liquor, not the smallest quantity is to be allowed him. Many contend that the liquor should be gradually withdrawn or dangerous symptoms may arise. This is theory; experience gives a different result. Goethe says truthfully:

"Grau, freund, ist alle theorie, doch grun des lebens bunter baum."

The liquor must absolutely be dispensed with from the very beginning; the patient must not permit a drop to pass his lips under any circumstances from the moment the treatment commences. The total stoppage of the usual stimulant is an absolute necessity.

The patient is also directed to take but three meals daily: say, for instances, at 7 A. M., 1:30, and 7:30 P. M.; that is, at regular and definite intervals, to give the stomach the so much needed rest; these meals to consist simply of several cups of milk (unboiled, hot, warm or cold), to which lime water is added (one part lime water to three parts of milk): a few slices of dry toasted wheat-bread and butter, and once a day—at noon—one, or at most, two soft-boiled eggs. A little barley gruel, some beef tea, bouillon, boiled rice, soups of any kind (but not fatty), or chocolate may occasionally take the place of the milk; and here and there, to interrupt the monotony of this bland diet, a mealy, mashed potato, or a little celery or radish, may be permitted. But any other diet must be strictly avoided; even the articles mentioned as substitutes or to change the taste slightly, should only be used when there seems to be an imperative demand for it. Some people insist that the milk makes them bilious, a fact or assertion of the truth of which I have had no proof where the milk was used according to directions. A whole cup of milk should not be emptied into the stomach at once, but the milk should be swallowed gradually and some toasted bread eaten between each mouthful of milk. I do admit, however, that there are persons who have an idiosyncrasy against milk. Such individuals must take some of the substitutes, but must never omit the milk totally. Happily, such cases among drinkers form a rare exception to the general rule. Milk is generally liked very much.

The patient is advised also to take a lukewarm bath every morning one hour and a half before breakfast, to stop only four or five minutes in the bath and to afterwards rub himself thoroughly dry with a coarse towel. Finally he must take daily walks in the fresh air for at least one hour and a half and give himself as much physical exercise as possible without fatiguing himself, and by no means take a nap during daytime. He should arise in the morning and go to bed every night at the same hours, say at 7 A. M., and 10 P. M. respectively. This is the hygienic method of treatment.

An Important Railroad Project.

THE Free Press dispatches bring the information that the Salt Lake and Western Railroad Company have filed articles of incorporation in the office of the Secretary of of Nevada. The road is to be run from Salt Lake to San Francisco through Nevada. The project is said to be backed by Jay Gould and Sidney Dillon, the principal owners in the Union Pacific. We are prepared to believe this from the fact that Mr. Dillon was traveling through Eastern Nevada a few days since, and was gathering all the information obtainable in regard to the country. At Austin he listened to quite a lecture from Mr. John M. Dormer, of the Candelaria True Fissure, who described to him the resources of his own section. It is quite probable that the proposed road will run through Candelaria and Columbus, and connect with the line which is to be run from Berkeley to Bridgeport by the Sonora Pass. Indeed it is believed that this latter line is part of the project. The South Pacific Coast Railroad is said to have been purchased by these same parties, thus giving them valuable ferry privileges between Alameda and San Francisco. Surveying parties are now out on this route. It is thus not unreasonable to anticipate that within two years a great trans-continental railroad will be running, if not directly through Bodie, at least within ten miles of this place.—[Bodie Free Press.

IN a late number of the Medical Record Dr. Hammond says that when you poke the end of your finger in your ear, the roaring noise you hear is the sound of the circulation in your finger, which is a fact, as any one can demonstrate for himself by first putting his fingers in his ears and then stopping them up with other substance. Try it, and think what a wonder of a machine your body is, that even the tips of your fingers are such busy workshops that they roar like a small Niagara. The roaring is probably more than the circulation of the blood. It is the voice of all the vital processes together—the tearing down and building up processes that are always going forward in every living body, from conception to death.

A NEW line of railroad will be built down the Santa Maria Valley, in San Louis Obispo county. The new line will be of great benefit to the residents of that locality, who consist of farmers and stock-raisers. Heretofore nothing but wheat has been raised, but the farmers will turn their attention to the cultivation of other cereals. It is expected that the road will be finished in four or five months.

IN speaking of a newly wedded pair, a gentleman said of the husband, "The trouble with John is, he has no mind of his own." "Oh, that will make no difference; Sarah will always be ready to give him a piece of hers!" responded a lady.

THE meanest man in the country lives in Missouri. He pleaded in a breach of promise suit that a contract made on Sunday night was not binding.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY, BY

CHALFANT & PARKER.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, JUNE 25.....1881

NEW VOLUME.

THE INYO INDEPENDENT this week begins its twelfth year—Vol. XII, No. 575. It has been issued with the regularity of clockwork every week since its establishment eleven years ago, and with the kind support of its patrons expects to so continue.

A MERITED COMPLIMENT.

The Bodie Free Press in its editorial correspondenc pays the following well deserved compliment to the joint Representative, in the past two Legislatures, from this district: "The State Mining Bureau, which has from its foundation been located in this building, is to be removed to the art rooms in the Grand Opera House, on Mission street. These rooms never have been used for the purpose originally intended. The Mining Bureau, by the way, is an institution of which Mono county has particular reason to be proud, as it owes its creation to our Representative in the Legislature, Hon. Joseph Wasson. If Mr. Wasson had never had succeeded in anything else—and as a legislator he was more successful in getting his measures through than nineteen-twentieths of his fellow members—he could safely lay his claims upon this valuable institution. Already thousands of specimens have been collected and classified, in an attractive manner, and any mining man can find it interesting and instructive to visit the Bureau. The correspondence is also of a very valuable character. Professor H. G. Hanks, who has charge of the Bureau, seems a man particularly well qualified for the position, being at once an eminent geologist and thoroughly practical and business-like in his methods."

Two hundred police are watching the palace at Peterhoff, besides soldiers. Photographs of railway officials have been lodged in the government department to aid in the detection of Nihilists disguised in railway costume. Strenuous efforts are being made to find a connecting link in order to give more unity to the trials, numerous and important, of the political prisoners which must be held next Autumn. Fortresses and prisons are crowded. It was observed in official circles that Russia cannot possibly make such an exhibition of herself before the world as to try a thousand or two of political offenders, and as something must be done with all these prisoners to make room for others, the only way to dispose of them quietly and expeditiously is by a system of administration which General Melikoff, late Minister of War, sought to abolish.

ACCORDING to the Argonaut the real Roger Charles Tichborne, the genuine long-lost heir to the celebrated Tichborne estates in England, has actually turned up at last in San Francisco. He has laid his case before Gen. W. H. L. Barnes, the well known lawyer of that city, and has written a long statement, giving a full account of himself, which seems to be very satisfactory. The Duke of Sutherland, when in San Francisco a few days ago, read the statement and became convinced of its probable truth. Measures are being taken to carry this case before the English courts. Next Sunday's Argonaut will contain an exclusive account of the man's history.

IT has been rough lines for the old-time and high-toned operators on Pine street for a long while now, and the effects are beginning to be seen. The other day Johnny Skae's fine residence on Van Ness Avenue was sold, bringing $75,000; Schultz, of Justice fame, has had to sell his palatial residence; Maurice Dore's fine house, on Sutter street, has also changed hands. And the Eureka (Nev.) Leader thinks it is a question whether "it is better to have loved and lost then never to have loved at all."

THE Virginia City Enterprise states that rails sufficient to extend the Carson and Colorado Railroad to Gold Mountain have been ordered from the East, and will arrive steadily as wanted for the extension of this road from the present terminus. The road will pass through a region rich in mines and minerals. It is said that there are indications of extensive deposits of nitrate of soda in those regions in which they have heretofore been extracting large quantities of salt, soda, borax, etc.

ON the so-called "desert" of the Gila bottom, and Southwest Arizona generally, beasts, birds and reptiles occur in quantities surprising to one who knows the scarcity of surface water. Rabbits, hares, coyotes, chipmunks, gophers and moles abound, and all live twenty miles or more from water.

MINING STATISTICS OF COUNTIES.

The Mint Bureau of the Treasury Department has authorized the Superintendent of the Mint in San Francisco to collect statistics of the production of the precious metals in the States and Territories of this coast. In accordance with this authority, circulars asking for information will be sent to every incorporated and private mine; to Well's, Fargo & Co's agents and to prominent merchants in mining localities for estimates of the production of the Chinese, small producers by arastras, the pan, etc., by which means it is hoped to receive returns to the entire production.

Circulars are sent from the Mint every six months—Jan. 1st and July 1st—for the reason that the production of the government fiscal year which ends June 30th is six months each of two years.

The production will be classified as to the manner or mode of production—whether argentiferous, lead ore, vein quartz, drift, placer, or hydraulic, etc. But what will be of most advantage to every county will be the publication for each fiscal year of the production of the precious metals for each county—only, however, in the aggregate of the totals. Individual returns will not be published, and are seen by no one but the Superintendent and his assistant, the statistician in charge, by whom any communication relative to the production of a mine will be safely guarded.

The publication of the yield by counties will be of benefit in attracting the attention of men of means who are each week arriving in San Francisco from all parts of the world, and who are often imbued with the desire to invest in mining property—of which we have so much awaiting the advent of capital—and who will naturally look for statistics of the production of gold and silver, and will in many instances go to those localities known to be productive. They can by this means often be induced to invest, and will thus help develop the main industry which has been the means of making us known to the world.

It is therefore hoped that every mining company, large or small, and every person receiving a circular of inquiry from the Mint, will promptly and freely make returns of productions, and impart such information as will give each county full credit for all it is entitled to, and by this means assist in aiding the mining industry of our country.

THE Albany situation persistently remains pretty much of a muchness. For the first time in his life, Milord Roscoe's intense egotism has evaporated sufficiently to enable him to obtain a remote glimpse of the truth, viz: that, among the so-called great men, he is the biggest fool in America. Even Gen. Grant finds it a task to reassure Roscoe on this point. But Roscoe has lost none of his vindictiveness, and thinks he is yet Sampson enough to pull down the temple and smash things. His highest ambition and only hope is to intrigue an adjournment before any election takes place. His devoted thirty-odd stick to him, but both his own and Platt's leading opponents, Depew and Wheeler, are gaining, and liable at time to be elected. Between these four, the latest ballot stood:—Conkling vacancy: Conkling, 32, Wheeler, 50; for the Platt vacancy: Platt, 27, Depew, 53. The bribery investigation progresses, but without notable results. Jacobs, the Democratic candidate for the Conkling vacancy, has been withdrawn for the assigned, but not intelligible reason, that "if elected, the Governor would declare his election void, and give the place to the next highest on the list"—on what grounds, does not appear. But, anyway, Clarkson N. Potter has been unanimously nominated in Jacobs' stead, and the Democratic hope, like Conkling's, lies in adjournment without an election.

TOMBSTONE, Arizona, was pretty nearly wiped out by fire on the night of the 22d. About 150 buildings were destroyed, and the loss foots up to nearly a quarter of a million, with about $60,000 on insurance. About 800 people are homeless, but the homes they lost were none of them real palaces. The fire originated in a saloon from opening a barrel of whisky, the fumes from which taking fire from a cigar lighter. This shows that the saloon man had neglected to water the stuff as customary to make it safe.

GOV. FREMONT is not well liked in Arizona and some of the people are trying to get him removed. The Pathfinder has always been more or less crooked, and if he is not popular in the tarantula country it is not surprising. These old-time army officers never do make good citizens.—Bodie Free Press.

That's a little rough on Gen. Grant, considering that the Free Press is one of his most stalwart supporters.

THE Santa Barbara Press estimates that there are in the neighborhood of 2,000 acres of flax within fifteen miles of Santa Barbara. The yield will be fully equal, if not better than any former year, averaging from 1,000 to 1,500 pounds to the acre.

THE STATE LINE'S DEAL.

A New York correspondent of the Chicago Mining Review lets loose as follows concerning the State Line property:

When the State Lines (Nev.) properties, or stocks, were launched on the New York market a few weeks since, with many a tale and flourish, wiser investors, and speculators the same, shook their heads, not only at the tales, and the flourishes, but particularly at the names of the men associated with the scheme—"old Californians," as they were called—"old birds" as they are proving to be.

The State Lines, No. 1, 2, 3, and 4, went up, up, up, at first, and then away they broke, down, down, down. All the stories of fabulous discoveries, and "gold in the clear," went for nothing, just what they probably represented, and the flimsy fabric was torn to tatters on the downward plunge. To-day, these stocks are cheap as the cheapest, and no doubt dear at that. People see what they should have seen before, that no good thing can come out of a crowd like the State Line gang.

The Oriental and Miller stock is of the same pattern as the State Lines, and there is a suspicion that the presently-to-be-foisted Bradshaw and Washington are of the same family. There are things which are good, and others that are good to be let alone, and those mentioned are they of the latter. "Look before you leap," is a good motto in life, and "look to the names," is the best motto in the special line of mining speculation. Good names are not usually put up to be slaughtered on poor mining grounds, when good grounds are so easy for good names to command. Look to the names!

THE INYO INDEPENDENT some weeks since broadly intimated that the State Line managers were working the New York market with vastly more energy than they were the mines. That the work of opening the principal mine and getting the "two 40-stamp mills" going has been a mere play, so far, has become notorious hereabouts, notwithstanding the heavy receipts of machinery and engineering supplies. Nevertheless, the mine is one of the best properties on the coast, and it now behooves the managers to begin legitimate work. Otherwise Esmeralda county gets another big black eye.

Concerning an Exchange Which is No Exchange.

The San Francisco Examiner is without doubt an excellent paper, and one that we would be pleased to receive as others of the big dailies. Why we don't receive it is explained in the following, from the Ventura Free Press, the facts stated by that paper being just as if written for THE INDEPENDENT:

MESSRS. Tevis, Hearst, Greathouse, Bagget, and the other millionaire owners of the S. F. Examiner, offer magnificently to exchange with us, provided we will always, in consideration, insert a great ugly advertisement of the aforesaid Examiner, which they send a copy of. We are awfully grateful—but decline. We receive in exchange the San Francisco Bulletin Post, Chronicle and Call, the Sacramento Record and Bee, the Los Angeles Commercial and Express, and lots of other dailies, the proprietors of which forward their papers to us out of the courtesy which invariably governs the profession. With all these excellent papers we have no use for the Examiner, and certainly won't pay for the privilege of seeing it.

AN Eastern paper furnishes the following morsel of California news: Fourteen years ago a Maine man left his wife and child at dinner and sauntered away. One day, ten years later, he sat in a hut under the comfortable shadow of Table Mountain, California, a tired, unlucky miner, and was eating his brunette bacon and beans. His wife and daughter (the latter grown to be a young lady) entered. He raised his eyes from his plate, said: "Ye've got here at last, have ye?" and continued his meal. Two years later the woman disappeared from that home. The other day the mother was fourth in a San Francisco walking match, credited with 398 miles, and the daughter, forsaken by a lover, tried to drown herself, was confined in Oakland while laboring under temporary insanity, and is now in care of her mother.

THE New York Times has a story from Batavia, N. Y., which says the town is thrown into an excitement over the discovery of what are believed to be the remains of Wm. Morgan, the man who betrayed the secrets of the Free Masons in his book entitled "Morgan's Illustrations of Masonry" fifty-five years ago, and who was abducted and made away with before the work was given to the public.

Now that the agony is all over a new York scientific man comes to the front and avers that this earth will not be destroyed for fifty millions of years to come. Let us wisely accept his as the correct prediction and give over further thought on the subject. Fifty millions of years hence few of us will care what turns up.

A YOUNG man named Frank Driver was killed by a pair of sheep shears while shearing sheep near Dalles, Oregon, on the 12th inst. A companion was using the shears near by, and the sheep he was at work upon kicked the shears from his hand and into Driver's abdomen.

EX-GOVERNOR Irwin is mentioned by some leading Democrats as a candidate for the Governorship.

A RATHER startling theory has been announced by a French writer to account for the number of disappearances that take place, and which seems to be on the increase. He maintains that death is actual dissolution; that the person without any premonitory symptoms fades suddenly into nothingness—evaporates, as it were. This daring theorist supports his opinion by the relation of a circumstance, which, he says, occurred under his own observation. He was out walking with a friend, engaged in a political discussion, when, presto! the friend disappeared never again to be seen by mortal eyes. A strong sulphurous smell pervaded the atmosphere where his friend had been, but that was all.

THE London papers are exhibiting enterprise. They are trying to vie with American papers in publishing cable news, and start out with a costly line of dispatches from the United States. These dispatches furnish some very startling information from this country, for instance, that most of the manufactories of the United States have shut up in consequence of English competition; that there are labor strikes in every direction; that the Fenians are openly preparing to commit all kinds of outrages against England, and that the whole country got drunk over the victory of Iroquois in the Derby.

IT is broadly insinuated that Wm. H. Vanderbilt is putting up the sinews of war for Conkling, the Senator being his attorney; and speaking of legislative bribery one of these mendacious prints ironically remarks that "it is highly improbable of course, that Vanderbilt and the New York Central Railroad Company would set about buying a Senatorship for one of their attorneys. They don't know how. They have never been in that sort of business."

JUDGE BRUNDAGE, of the Kern county Superior Court, has taken possession of the United States District Court-room to hear the case of Charles Lux, et al., vs. J. B. Haggin. The case is a test case, and has been in progress at Bakersfield, Kern county. It is said that the argument in the case will last ten days. The transcripts of testimony constitute a pile about four feet in height, and the fees of shorthand reporters will amount to about $10,000, it is said.

A CURIOUS story is told in Hartford of school children and public school teachers. It is charged that a number of the former have been detected in stealing beer stamps from kegs and selling them to school teachers, who have resold them to brewers and devoted the proceeds to building a school. The Internal Revenue authorities have been placed in possession of information which confirms this fact.

THE Sovereign Grand Lodge of F. and A. M. (Colored Masons) begun its session in Sacramento on the 20th. Ten Lodges are represented. Thus far, only routine business has been done, such as reception and reference of reports and the proving of credentials. The local Lodge was to give the Grand Lodge a grand ball last night.

THE Aurora Herald says the Mt. Diablo has leased the 20 stamp mill of the Northern Belle Co., and is working ore. A bullion shipment of $8,000 was made a few days since. It is reported that the Mt. Diablo has 2,000 tons of high grade ore on the dump. These facts probably account for the recent rise in the price of the stock.

IT is stated that the Tombstone Company have developed the largest and richest body of ore ever found. Their mine is filled with native silver, assaying as high as $12,000 per ton. It is estimated there is $1,250,000 in sight. The excitement over the strike, taken with other strikes the last week, makes the people much elated.

WHEN Bob Ingersoll went to Mexico to see his famous mine, he arranged if it was as good as had been represented to telegraph the name of some great infidel. The dispatch when it came was Bruno, Voltaire, and Spenoza, showing that it was three times better than represented.

IT is going to be war to the knife and the knife to the hilt between the miners and grangers of California. No goods, wares, merchandise or produce from Marysville and other anti-hydraulic points will be received or purchased by the people of the mining camps in Nevada county.

JUDGING from the following from the Carson Appeal, the dome of the Capitol is being painted black. It says: "The painters are now at work on the Capitol dome; and the color is to be emblamatical of the purity of the lawmakers who semi-annually gather beneath it."

IT is said that Haggin & Carr find it necessary to enlarge their immense warehouse near Bakersfield, by an addition of 200 feet in length, with sheds or verandahs along the north and south sides, under which grain may be piled temporarily.

THE DOMINION GOVERNMENT.

MESSRS. EDITORS—In pursuance to your request I will attempt to give you a brief outline of our governmental system, railroads, "annexation," etc.

In 1877 the colonies north of latitude 45, being then settled by the French and a few officers, disbanded soldiers and pensioners of the English Government, remained loyal to the British crown. For more than fifty years after our more enterprising neighbors had enjoyed the blessings of responsible government, the Canadians submitted to be governed by a few appointees of Downing street until the rapacity, corruption and insolence of what was known as the family compact roused the thinking portion of the population, and under the able leadership of the French patriot Papineau in Lower and Lyon McKenzie in Upper Canada, they demanded the abolition of the then system and a new form of government, nuder which the voice of the people could be heard. This agitation culminated in the Rebellion of 1837, and although it was put down by Great Britain, fortunately for the interests of Canada a man of enlightened views, Lord Durham, was appointed Governor, and he recommended that the Provinces of Upper and Lower Canada should be granted what they had demanded. This was carried out about 1856, and hence the present form of government. From this time until 1867 the various Provinces comprising British North America each had an independent government, when what is known as confederation was carried out and an act of the Imperial Parliament passed embodying the views of the Canadian delegates, which is now the Constitution of the Dominion of Canada. Under it the Imperial Government appoints the Governor-General of the Dominion, and in every other respect (with the exception of treaties with foreign nations) Canada is practically an independent State. The form of government is modelled after the British Constitution. The Governor, representing the Queen, the Senate, a body appointed by the Dominion Government, representing the House of Lords, and the House of Commons, composed of delegates from each county, representing the British House of Commons. There are 13 Ministers holding the different Government portfolios, the Minister of Justice, Postmaster-General, etc., who are directly responsible to the elective house and only hold their positions so long as they can command a majority therein. The Ministry are bound to initiate all measures affecting the finances of the country—the levying of duties—the expenditure of public monies, etc. Thus the ballot box controls the affairs of the country, as there the verdict of the people is recorded and the question is decided whether the party in power have managed the affairs of the country to the satisfaction of the voters or not. If not they must at once step down and out and give place to the popular party. The Governor-General can give no orders without the advice of his ministry, and must follow such advice, however unpleasant to himself personally, or resign, when the British Government are bound to replace him. But with a salary of $50,000 a year and perquisites, it becomes an easier matter to follow the advice of ministers than to resign. The Provinces of Quebec (heretofore known as Lower Canada) Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, have the same form of government as the Dominion, the Governor of each Province being appointed for five years by the Dominion Government. The other Provinces, viz., Ontario, Manitoba, Prince Edward Island and British Columbia have only the Lieut. Governor, an executive council or ministry, and a lsgislative assembly, thus doing away with the aristocratic branch—or what is known in the Province of Quebec as the fifth wheel to the State coach. In each of the other Provinces the legislative assembly have passed resolutions calling upon the respective legislative councils to resign, but these gentlemen stick to their places and salaries like leeches, as it requires that any measure should be confirmed by both houses to become a law. You will see that there is a difficult problem to be solved, but as the aristocrats have ever had to obey the will of the people, these gentlemen's days are unmbered, and it is the general opinion that in a few years the Dominion Senate will also be abolished. Such an institution is entirely unnecessary in a country where all are free and equal, and where there are no distinct classes with conflicting interests. The Dominion has made great progress during its existence and has spent large sums of money upon its canals, harbors, etc., besides having built a railroad from Halifax to Quebec, and from Ottawa west has built and placed under contract a railroad extending to Burrards Inlet, in British Columbia. This has been done at a great cost in money and a land grant exceeding in area the States of Vermont, New Hampshire and Connecticut. The Pacific Railway Syndicate are rapidly pushing on the construction of the railroad from Winnipeg west, and it will not be but a few years until there will be a railroad in Canadian Territory from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean, the western portion of which will run through what is claimed to be the future granary of the world, a land almost unlimited in extent, of the most fertile soil in the world—having no doubt a very cold Winter, but having on the other hand plenty of water, immense fields of coal and large areas of timber land, while the country north of Lake Superior is said to be rich in minerals, which will be extensively mined as soon as the country is opened up by the railroad,

Annexation forms the subject of private conversation and has a very limited number of supporters, but if any polittcian desired to commit political suicide, yes to erect a tombstone over his political grave, I know of no more effective way of so doing than for him to declare in favor of annexation. It is even dangerous to express oneself in favor of independence, as that is said to mean the same thing. As it is, the Canadian of to-day is as free a man as the sun shines upon, and while controlling the affairs of his country as he sees fit, he can always look to England, knowing that while it costs him nothing to fight her battles, when he gets into trouble he will have the whole power of the British Empire at his back.

A. E. MITCHELL.

A Mining Romance.

A year ago an American prospector of the better sort, understanding Spanish thoroughly, while looking over the archives of an old church near Magdalena, Sonora, discovered a manuscript report of a Jesuit priest who traveled over Arizona more than one hundred years ago. The brave missionary, in the cause of Christ, and in the interest of Spain, had traversed deserts, forded rivers, crossed mountains and battled with Indians. He was finely educated, particularly in mineralogy and geology. In the course of his travels he discovered rich mines, some of which he developed, and all of which he described. The manuscript describes the Silver King mine, and locates it, giving longitude and latitude exactly. It is said to be a mine richer than any yet discovered, but adds that in Sonora there is a mine as far ahead of Silver King as Silver King is ahead of ordinary mines. The longitude and latitude of this mine is given, and the paper adds that when this mine is developed untold wealth will be dug out, and silver will become a drug in the market.

It is also stated that this mine has been somewhat developed, and that the surface indications were surprising. From an examination of the data, Mr. John J. Carrillo, of Los Angeles, was led to hunt for the mine, and believes he has found it. He finds an old shaft at the exact locality. Large trees have grown up in it, and the dump is covered with vegetation. Ages have elapsed since the miners have been silenced in death. Unceasing vegetation has in a measure obliterated the work, but it is estimated that 3,000 tons of ore, averaging $100 to the ton, are on the dump. It would be strange if, in this iconoclastic age, an old Jesuit explorer should have left such a record as to unfold the story or untold wealth in a Sonora bonanza for a Californian to enrich himself with. It is to be hoped that the religious enthusiast may have contributed his mite toward enriching the present, and that his science may have done something for the progress of the American Republic.

ELEVEN miles of railroad track have been laid this side, or south of Hawthorne. This exhausts all the iron on hand.

THE Pope has directed the Irish Clergy to adopt pacificatory measures, and to accept the land bill.

NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT.

NEW COSO MINING COMPANY

Location of Principal Place of Business, San Francisco, California

Location of Works, Coso Mining District, Inyo County, California.

Notice is hereby given, that at a meeting of the Board of Directors, held on the Fifteenth day of June, 1881, an assessment (No. 11) of Five (5) Cents per share was levied upon the capital stock of the corporation, payable immediately, in U. S. Gold Coin, to the Secretary, at the office of the Company, Room 6, No. 327 Pine street, San Francisco, California.

Any stock upon which this assessment shall remain unpaid on the twenty-second day of July, 1881, will be delinquent, and advertised for sale at public auction; and unless payment is made before, will be sold on MONDAY, the FIFTEENTH (15th) day of AUGUST, 1881, to pay the delinquent assessment, together with cost of advertising and expenses of sale. By order of the Board of Directors.

D. B. CHISHOLM, Secretary.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, JUNE 25.....1881

COMETS.—Last night, about 8, quite a number of our amateur star-gazers unexpectedly lit upon a comet of a very pronounced type, up in the northern heavens, four or five degrees west of the north star. Soon after 9 the mysterious visitor disappeared from view, but only to reappear again at 3 this morning in the northeast—a circumstance that leads some to think there are two of these erratic stars rushing in upon us on converging lines. The Bodie Press, printed yesterday morning, files a claim on this comet by right of discovery, having discovered and located it at 3 o'clock on Thursday morning. Its discovery claim upon the morning flyer appears to be good as against those of all other comet-seekers the world over, for its discovery was not telegraphed from elsewhere till the following night. But so far as yet appears, we here are the first to sight the evening visitor, and may therefore maintain an extension claim, if not an original one. Astronomers for several weeks past have been predicting the appearance of two monster comets, and have offered a reward of $200 to the person who first sights and reports either of them. The fact of this one eluding all the thousands of telescopes which nightly scan every quarter of the heavens in search of the unknown, and that it should reveal itself first to the naked eye, and that of a blinking Bodieite, is as remarkable as the visit is sudden. There is no doubt but this comet is a flyer among comets—but his name; whence he came; whither he goeth; his business—the untutored Piute can tell as much about him as the most learned astronomer, so far as yet appears. In short, this comet is an utter stranger in our parts, and will bear watching.

THE CHAMPION CROP.—After a personal inspection of his fields, we venture to say that Supervisor E. Robinson has the finest field of wheat in the country; we have never seen better anywhere in the State. There is one patch, mostly on new ground, containing about eleven acres, where the grain is as thick as it can grow, each stalk with a very long head full of plump grain to the very tip, and all standing four and five feet high. It is of the Australia variety, and will, we think, certainly go fifty bushels to the acre right through. The intention is to ascertain exact results when the grain is threshed out. It is now beginning to ripen. His barley crop promises at least a ton to the acre. Now, if any of those Round Valley brag wheat raisers think they will have something to show up on, as against this, let them come right on after threshing is done with accurate figures.

MARRIED.—The San Francisco Chronicle of the 20th contained an interesting report of a very fashionable wedding in that city on the evening of June 15, when Miss Myra Augusta Cowles was joined in wedlock to Joseph D. Redding. The fair bride is a sister of our Inyo boys, Sam. and Ed. Cowles, formerly of Cerro Gordo. The usually dreary record of metropolitan society affairs, as given by the bay papers, become interesting sometimes, as in this case, where the parties are prominent and well known here.

TEACHER'S REPORT.—Following is the sum of Mr. Crough's report for the six months' term of the Independence public school, ending Thursday last: Number of days taught, 120; whole number of days' attendance, 4,662; whole number of days' absence, 246; total number enrolled, 53—28 girls and 25 boys; average number belonging, 40.9; average daily attendance, 38.85; percentage of attendance on average number belonging, 94.9. It will be observed that the percentage of attendance is remarkably high.

MINING SALE.—The Pajaro or Hypolite gold mine at Bishop Creek has been finally sold—the purchasing parties being Mr. Lent, of San Francisco, and the price paid $30,000. Two Wells, Fargo & Co. messengers accompanied the money to Bishop Creek yesterday. It is rumored that the owners and parties interested in the sale are likely to get into a jangle over the division of the money, when, doubtless, the lawyers will begin to get their work in.

PERSONAL.—Mr. James Bell, of Sonora, a gentleman who needs no introduction to any old Tuolumnite resident in this county, is now here visiting his brother, Mr. A. N. Bell and other relatives.....Mr. Daniel Crough mounted a broncho yesterday morning and started for a visit to the other side of the mountains, via Bridgeport and Yo Semite.

FOR BISHOP.—Rev. F. M. and Mrs. Willis start to Bishop Creek to-day, where they expect to remain two or three weeks and assist in getting up another festival, the proceeds to be applied in liquidating the indebtedness on the church building in that place.

BULLION SHIPMENTS.—The O. S. M & M. Co., shipped bullion from their mill at Keeler as follows: June 13, two bars, weighing 131 pounds; 16th 1 bar, 63 pounds; 18th 1 bar, 82 pounds; 20th 1 bar, 83¾ pounds; the whole valued at $6,000

COURT.—Judge Hannah has sent up an order adjourning the Superior Court from the first Monday in July to the first Monday in August. The Judge is too unwell to return now, but says he is slowly gaining health and strength.

TAKING IT IN.—Mr. S. D. Woodhull, accompanied by Mr. Smith, a new York mining man and capitalist, is now at Cerro Gordo and Swansea, and will take in all of the promising mining properties of that region.

FOR THE STATE LINE.—C. X. Hobbs, of San Jose, and A. A. Hickox, of New York, have gone out to view the State Line mine.

MINING LOCATIONS.

BISHOP CREEK, June 20.

MESSRS. EDITORS—Please hand this to the "devil"—I have no copy of the Revision and do not know the new word—and tell him to "set 'em up:"

"Miners' location notices should not be held to technical accuracy, but are sufficient if they put an honest inquirer in the way of finding the lode.—Landowner, Vol. 2 p. 2.

"The question to be considered in case of a somewhat indefinite notice is this: Was or could anybody be misled by the notice?"—Ibid.

"The law makes no distinction in the matter of locating mining claims on account of sex."—Ibid.

If THE INDEPENDENT will insert the above it may be the cause of preventing a few "cases of "salt and battery" and probably a battery or two without the salt. We are almost within hearing of the "Iron Horse," and his civilizing scream must and will compel the shotgun and rope element to "take a walk."

RAILROAD.

THE CLOSE.—The closing exercises of Mr. Daniel Crough's school here on Thursday consisted entirely of declamations or recitations by pupils and a few others. The school house was pretty well filled during the afternoon by interested spectators, and everything passed off agreeably. Elocution is not at all a part of the regular course in this or any of our public schools, and so it comes that the children spoke their pieces a naturel so far as regular training was concerned. Nevertheless, it was observable that some of the smaller ones, especially, had improved considerably since their appearance at the late Sunday School entertainment — now pronouncing distinctly and with fair emphasis. But we shall not particularize further than to say that the efforts of Misses Carrie Willis and Minnie Harris and little Pierce Johnson won more than ordinary applause. By special request, Miss Maggie Conklin, at home on vacation from Notre Dame College, rendered "Jeptha's Daughter" in a manner to prove that she is possessed of real histrionic ability, and, as an apt scholar, has taken lessons from a thorough elocutionist during her brief sojourn at the San Jose institution. The rendition of this impressive Bible story told in verse was an episode highly appreciated by all present.

RE-ENLISTED.—A San Francisco society note contains a detailed account of the marriage of a popular military officer formerly of Camp Independence—from which we extract: "Among the weddings which occurred on Wednesday of last week, the first was that of Lieut. H. L. Haskell of the Twelfth Infantry, Aide-de-Camp to Gen. Wilcox, and Miss May Fourgeaud, daughter of the late Dr. V. J. Fourgeaud, who was a pioneer. The ceremony, which was conducted by the Rev. Dr. Beers, took place in room 70 of the suite occupied by Mrs. Fourgeaud in the Grand Hotel. There were very many magnificent presents, but they were not exhibited. The most appreciated was one of the gifts from Mrs. Fourgeaud to her daughter, which consisted of an old heirloom which had been in the family for over one hundred and fifty years, and has passed down from one generation to another until it has reached the present bride. It is a necklace of garnet beads of the most unique and antique cutting and exceedingly valuable. Lieutenant Haskell, who is now on leave of absence, expects to go to Prescott with his wife some time in August next."

CERRO GORDO.—From Ed. Steers and Reub. Speers, Cerro Gordoites who have been here within two or three days, we learn that there are now about thirty men on the Hill. Of these, John Ely has six employed on the north hill, in the Smoky mine. The Ygnacio has employed seven men, working day and night. M. A. Wheeler has four men on the Italy and Garibaldi mines. Chris. Crohn is steadily pushing his long tunnel on the Perseverance, now in about 600 feet and all in ore. Mr. Crohn has been one of the main standbys of Cerro Gordo since its earliest days, and if ever a man deserves a big mining stake he does. Wm. Crapo is crosscutting, at a depth of 100 feet, his mine on the great Buena Vista ledge. There are no idlers about the camp, while there are several chances for the new boom to begin. We hope, next week, to give a full description of the several properties now being developed.

DIED.—On the 15th instant, in San Francisco, Moses C. Andross paid the last debt of nature. The deceased represented this Senatorial district in the State Legislature in 1872 and '4, and subsequently held positions in the San Francisco mint and was receiver of the Visalia Land Office. He was formerly a well-known resident of Tuolumne county—a genial, wholesouled man. He was a native of Vermont, and 44 years of age. He was buried by the Masonic fraternity, of which he was a high member, on Sunday last.

THE PROGRAMME.—The new advertisements of this week show the Fourth of July programme at Lone Pine—the races, concert and dance—and doubtless the whole will be highly enjoyable. The town will be crowded with representatives from Darwin, Cerro Gordo, Olancha, Beveridge, Georges Creek and Independence. Lone Pine is "flush," proposes to have a gala day and we are glad of it.

ASSESSMENT.—The New Coso Company has levied an assessment of five cents per share, delinquent July 22.

IT now transpires that Pat Holland, poet, fighter and journalist, still lives. A lady in this city lately received a letter from him dated June 11th. As he was reported to be killed on the 8th, there must have been some mistake about his death. If the good die young, Pat Holland will be a safe investment for a life insurance company for some years yet.—Carson Appeal.

Reward Offered for a Murderer.

The following, which explains itself, is a copy of a circular addressed to Sheriff Smith of this county by W. J. Oaks, Sheriff of San Louis Obispo county. The murderer, as mentioned last week, is supposed to have made his way into this county. He would be a good subject for some marksman to practice on.

$500 REWARD—For the arrest and delivery to me of the body of Frederico Gonzales at any jail or prison in the United States or Mexico. Gonzales murdered Sebastian Ortega near San Luis Obispo, May 21st, 1881.

DESCRIPTION.—Gonzales is a native of Guaymus, Mexico; 22 or 23 years of age; about five feet five inches in height; medium build; weighs about 140 pounds; dark complexion, small mustache, coarse, straight, black hair; some of the fingers on the right hand disfigured; has a hole or sunk place in one cheek out of which there is a little hair growing; also, is said to have a scar on one side of the neck. Gonzales took a small, bay mare branded thus: I B on left hip, branded high up and large, also a new red saddle, Los Angeles tree, branded on seat "Concord Harness Shop, San Luis Obispo;" also a large sized, nickel plated, 50 calibre cartridge Colt's six-shooter; spring rod on side of barrel to remove empty cartridge shells from cylinder. Mare, saddle and pistol were taken from the murdered man. Gonzales plays the guitar and sings well.

The above reward will be paid by me on receipt of Gonzales, I taking all chances of conviction and collection of any State reward that may be offered. Any citizen can arrest him. I hold warrant.

Gonzales is a dangerous man to be at large. Ortega was a Deputy Sheriff and in the discharge of duty when killed.

All information should be sent to Magnetic Separation of Ore.

A Belgian company, who work a zinc mine in Spain, met with ore containing a mixture of Calamine and sparry iron, which they could not separate by any preliminary treatment. They accordingly applied to Siemens and Halske, the eminent electricians, of Berlin, who devised an appliance capable of separating 20 tons of ore daily. It consists of an inclined steel shaft, fitted with an endless screw of brass, and surrounded by a brass tube open at its upper surface. The tube is mounted inside a hollow cylinder composed of a series of parallel iron disks, separated by brass hoops and connected by iron rods. This constitutes a series of magnets, the annular poles of which form the inside of the cylinder. It is here that the magnetic particles yield to the attraction of the annular magnets, and are carried, by the rotary motion, to the upper portion of the cylindrical surface, until they meet a baffle plate, which deflects them on to the screw. Falling through the slot on the upper surface of the tube, they are carried along by the revolving endless screw, and pass out at a shoot in the end. The particles which are not magnetic slip along the bottom of the hollow cylinder without being attracted by the magnets, and pass out by a separate shoot.

Nevada Masonic and Odd Fellows' Elections.

The Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons of the State of Nevada closed its annual Grand Convocation in Virginia City the first of last week. The following Grand Officers were elected to serve for the ensuing Masonic year, and were duly installed by M. E., David E. Bailey: M. E., Frank Bell of Reno, Grand High Priest; R. E. S. W. Chubbuck of Gold Hill, Deputy Grand High Priest; R. E. William Timson of Hamilton, Grand King; R. E., Charles Knust of Reno, Grand Treasurer; R. E., John D. Hammond of Carson, Grand Secretary; E., William M. Thornton of Virginia, Grand Captain of the Host; E., T. A. Menary of Gold Hill, Grand Royal Arch Captain.

The Grand Lodge I. O. O. F. elected the following officers to serve for the ensuing term: Grand Master, Richard Kirman of Virginia City; Deputy Grand Master, A. E. Shannon of Eureka; Garnd Warden, J. S. Shoemaker of Reno; Grand Secretary, W. H. Hill of Virginia; Grand Treasurer, George Tufly of Carson; Grand Representative, C. C. Batterman.

An Old Timer Dead.

Word reached Bodie yesterday, that Pat Holland, one of the best known men on the coast, had been killed near Tombstone by being thrown from a buggy. The accident occurred on the 8th of June. Mr. Holland and a saloon keeper were out riding, when the horses took fright and ran off the grade. Both men were thrown out, but Holland struck against a rock, and was so severely injured that he expired soon after being taken to town. The deceased was an old timer on the coast, and had been in every mining camp discovered. He was a pressman by profession, and had been a newspaper man for many years. While in Bodie he conducted the Union, an advertising sheet. He owned the first newspaper in Pioche, and also ran a paper in Virginia City. As a joker, Pat had no equal. Many friends in California and Nevada will regret to learn of his violent death.—Bodie Free Press, June 16.

A NEW FIRM.—Messrs. Bennett and Reddy, two well known lawyers, have formed a copartnership and will practice their profession jointly. Elegant offices are being fixed on the corner of Main and Mill streets. They will make a very strong team, to use an expression of the street.—Bodie Free Press.

THE King of Spain has sent word to the Spanish Minister at Constantinople that he will gladly receive in his dominions all persecuted Hebrews, to compensate the race for the severities of his predecessors toward them. The world moves.

THEY have a negro minstrel, likewise a baseball player, both professionals, as candidates for the San Francisco Board of Education.

A FEW miles from Phœnix are the ruins of two or three towns and the remains of two stupendous canals, one of which is forty feet wide, and in former times drew its supply of water from the river near the mountains twenty miles distant.

EXTRACTED HONEY.

THIS HONEY WAS REMOVED FROM THE comb by centrifugal force, with a machine made for the purpose. It is therefore virtually the same as honey in the comb, only you don't have to eat the bees wax, which is indigestible and therefore disagrees with many persons. When first extracted the honey is liquid, but nearly all pure honey will candy or granulate in course of time, especially if exposed to the cold. Putting the cans in hot water for a short time will bring the honey to its fluid state without injury.

This Honey is put up in 10 pound cans, with patented screw tops, which renders it convenient for family use, and especially for the mines, to which it may be packed, even upside down, without leakage. A neat label on each can gives full directions.

Price, $1 50 per can, or 12½ cents per ℔ at the Apiary, if customers furnish their own receptacle. For sale at Harris & Rhine's, Independence, and at the Apiary, at Jacob Vagt's place, Camp Independence.

SATURDAY, JUNE 25.....1881

THE EARLY VIOLET.

While seated on a grassy mound,
I heard a soft, low, murmuring sound,
'Twas from a violet at my feet—
These are the words it did repeat:

"Why do I yearn to see the light?
To rise above this darksome night?
To breathe the life-inspiring air?
To bloom with other flowers so fair?

"The winds are blowing hard and chill,
These may my life and fragrance kill;
Yet, in my heart the bright sun's ray
Has burst the fetters of this clay.

"I will awake from my long sleep
And greet the Spring, and slyly peep
Above the sod, that has so long
Kept me withia the prison bond.

"The Summer time is drawing near,
When there will be no frosts to fear
My breath will then the air perfume,
And earth rejoice I come so soon."

[Carson Appeal.

Now that every newspaper in the land is contributing little reminiscences of Carlyle to the general fund, the Appeal has taken the pains to gather up several anecdotes of the great man that has never seen print.

About five years ago the Prince of Wales called at Carlyle's house and was asked to dinner. The great critic gave the Prince a bowl of mush and molasses, reserving quail on toast, frogs' legs and a bottle of Budweiser for himself. The Prince said:

"I don't like mush."

"Then gnaw the toothpicks, you d—d impudent rascal; who the devil invited you to my house, anyway?"

The Prince was quite delighted with the sturdy old Scotchman's bluntness, and when he got home laughed quite heartily over it.

One day Olive Harper (correspondent of the Alta) called to spend the afternoon, and begged Carlyle to give his opinion of the great writers.

"I hope you adore Dickens?" she asked.

"Never read the idiot's books."

"Thackeray, of course you—"

"A stupid ass. I tell you don't mention Thackeray to me, or I'll brain you with a poker!"

"Walter Scott?"

"The —— —— ——!"

"Of course you've read my sprightly letters to the Alta?"

"I read one. It came to me wrapped around a bottle of California wine, only worse—nothing but dregs. Here, Jeemes, kick this wowan out of the house."

Miss Harper afterwards wrote a column letter to the Alta describing her charming evening with the great man.

When Daniel Webster was in England he met Carlyle on the street and introduced himself. Mistaking him for Noah Webster he gathered a brick and knocked five front teeth in, shouting savagely:

"Are you the —— —— who destroyed the English ladguage?"

Finding next day that he had made a mistake and hit the orator, he was very sorry he had not known it at the time, and calling at the hotel with a shotgun, filled Dan. with No. 6 goose shot. Webster was very fond of telling this story, which he thought was very amusing, and gave the shot to his friends as souvenirs of the meeting.

THE University of California seems to be in a bad way according to the Californian, which says:

There seems to be a total demoralization, and lack of organization—a sort of "a go as you please" system in each department. Now, it is only a few years ago the University was inaugurated with great eclat. A princely endowment was settled on it. The leading citizens of the State were its sponsors. It was published to the world that here at last, in this State of California, a great university had thrown open its doors and invited students, regardless of race or sex, to enter without money and without price. Many availed themselves of the opportunity. The classes filled rapidly. For a while it seemed as if an institution of learning had been founded, that for all time should be a reservoir of intellectual inspiration for a great people. How has this promise been fulfilled? What have we now? An academy afflicted with the dry rot.

A FAMOUS surgeon advises one of his patients to undergo an operation. "Is it very severe?" asked the patient. "Not for the patient," says the doctor; "we put him to sleep; but it's very hard on the operator." "How so?" "We suffer terribly from anxiety. Just think, it only succeeds once in a hundred times."

KEEP up with the procession of life, young man; close up to the band. If you ever fall to the rear, where the elephants are, you are apt to get trod on.

A New Railroad.

Yesterday articles of incorporation of the Salt Lake and Western Railroad were filed at the capitol building by Boliver Roberts, James Little and Perley Williams, for a new road which will pass through the State of Nevada. The incorporators deposited $50,000 with the Controller. The road will start from Salt Lake, pass through Eureka, tap the Carson and Colorado and reach San Francisco by a route not yet determined upon.

The proposition to build the road grew out of trouble between the Union Pacific and Central Pacific. Sydney Dillon and Jay Gould are backing the enterprise and propose to build a competitive line from Utah to San Francisco and cripple the power of the C. P. to rob the State of Nevada. The road will be pushed forward with millions of capital and by connecting with the C. & C. road will enable Carson to reap the benefits of an enormous freight reduction. The building of this road means better times for Nevada and will make every business in the State double in valuation.—[Carson Appeal, June 18.

IN Walker county, Alabama, is a natural bridge said to rival that of Virginia. It is in the sandstone called millstone grit, which underlies the coal formation. It spans about 120 feet and its height is about 60 feet. A smaller bridge connects it with the bridge beyond. The lines of stratification of the sandstone give the structure the appearance of having been artificially built up with massive blocks. It is in the midst of a region of wild and romantic beauty, high escarpments of the same sandstone being seen standing out in the face of the hills around.

IN his "Reminiscences," Carlyle tells how he once rode sixty miles to Edinburgh, "to consult a doctor, having at last reduced my complexities to a single question. Is this disease curable by medicine? or is it chronic, incurable except by regimen, if even so? This question I earnestly put; got response: 'It is all tobacco, Sir; give up tobacco.' Gave it instantly and strictly up. Found, after long months, that I might as well have ridden sixty miles the other way, and poured my sorrows into the long, hairy ear of the first jackass I came upon, as into this select medical man's, whose name I will not mention."

MINING.

APPLICATION FOR A PATENT

....TO THE....

SUMMIT NO. 2 MINE.

No. 192.

UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE,
Bodie, Cal., June 6, 1881.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT A. R. Conklin, W. H. Jenkins and James Jenkins, whose postoffice address is Independence, Inyo county, California, have this day filed their application for a patent for fifteen hundred linear feet of the SUMMIT NO. 2 mine or vein bearing silver, with surface ground six hundred feet in width, situated in Cerro Gordo mining district, County of Inyo, State of California, and designated by the field notes and official plat on file in this office as Lot No. 40, in Township ——, Range ——of —— —— Meridian.

SURVEY OF LODE.

Said Lot No. 40 being described as follows, to wit: Commenced at a post on SE. end of claim on lode line, marked the post "Post A. Summit Mine No. 2," from which, with a variation 15 deg 55 min. E. a pine bush 3 lks high, bears N. 88½ deg. E. 43 lks; a pine bush 3 links high bears S. 45¾ deg. W., 31 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E., N 40 deg. W. 10 earth ridge bears W. .50 wagon road runs SW.; commenced ascending 14.88 trail on ridge runs W.; commenced descending 18.39, trail runs W. 20.17 tunnel 9 ft long on quartz vein. 22.72 "Post B, Summit Mine No. 2," on NW. end of lode, from which the Belshaw wagon road bears N. 45 deg. W. 45 links.

SURVEY OF CONNECTING LINE.

From "Post 7, Summit Mine No. 2" the Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument bears N. 54 deg. E. 50 links by direct chain measurement.

SURVEY OF EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.

Commenced at a post set in mound of earth on S. cor. of claim; marked the post "Post 1, Summit Mine No. 2," from which, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E., a pine tree 12 links high bears N. 39 deg. W. 49 links; a pine tree 3 links high bears N. 18½ deg. E. 31 links; a pine bush 2 links high bears N. 84½ deg. E. 36 links; a pine bush 2 links high bears S. 19 deg. 15 min. W. 17 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E., (1) N. 40 deg. W. 2.54 brow of hill; commence descending; 10.36 gulch; runs W. 12.21 wagon road; 13.64 "Post 2, Summit Mine No. 2," set in a mound of earth on S. boundary line of the Armagh mine, from which "Post 1, Armagh Mine," bears N. 79 deg. E. 2.49 chains; 19.65 "Post 3, Summit Mine No. 2," set in mound of earth on south B. L. of the Santa Niño mine; 20.31 trail runs E-W., commence descending; 21.21 wagon road runs N.-S.; 22.72 "Post 4, Summit Mine No. 2," set in mound of earth on W. cor. of claim, from which the entrance to the open cut leading into the Santa Niño tunnel bears S. 28½ deg. W. 45 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E., (2) N. 50 deg. E. .74 intersection of the north B. L. of the Santa Niño mine; set a post in mound of earth in the bottom of an old prospecting cut; cut bears NW. & SE.; marked the post "Post 5, Summit Mine No. 2," from which "Post 18, Santa Niño Mine," bears S. 80 deg. W. 2.85 chains; 1.89 wagon road runs N. & S.. 4.54 "Post B, Summit Mine No. 2," on northwest end of line of lode; 7.88 "Post 2, Summit Mine No. 2," standing in mound of earth at intersection of north boundary line of the Armagh mine, from which "Post 1, Armagh Mine," bears S. 11 deg. E. 11.76 chains; 9.09 "Post 7, Summit Mine No. 2," standing on N. cor. of claim, from which the Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument bears 54 deg. E. 50 links.

Description of Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument as described in the field notes of survey of the Armagh mine: The Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument is built on the apex of a red rocky point at the intersection of Ygnacio Ravine and Cerro Gordo cañon, and very precisely on the W. B. line of the Ygnacio mine (as surveyed for a patent in the year 1875 by Jos. Seely, U. S. Dep. Min. Sur.), and distant 17.51 chains from the southwest corner stake of the Ygnacio mine.

At the point above given I drilled a hole in the rock to a depth of 9 inches, in which drove a piece of gas pipe 1 inch in dia. x16 inches long. On top of gas pipe, set a post 4x4 inches square, x4 feet long, around which built a monument of rocks 5 feet high x5 feet in dia. at its base; marked the top of post "U. S. Min'l Monument. Erected Jan'y 31, A. D. 1880, by Wm. Trape, U. S. Dep. Min. Sur., under authority of the U. S. Sur. G'n'l for Cal'a."

From said post in mineral monument, with a variation of 15 deg. 55 min. E. the extreme end of the bluff on which the monument is situated, bears N. 25 deg. W. 17 links. The east edge of ridge at the top of a vertical face of rock, 7½ feet high, bears N. 60 deg. E. 7 links. The NE. cor. of an old adobe vaso chimney bears S. 38 deg. 16 min. W. 16 links. The middle of the Belshaw toll road at a point where it turns out of Cerro Gordo Cañon bears N. 81¾ deg. W. 1.06 chains. The middle of Cerro Gordo Cañon bears N. 62 chains. The NW. cor. of Rafael Diaz's house bears S. 28 deg. 33 min. E. 3.58 chains. An old well 30 feet deep on the north side of Cerro Gordo Cañon bears N. 58 deg. 20 min. W. 1.93 chs. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E. (3) S. 40 deg. E. .93 W. boundary of Ygnacio mine. Set a post in mound of rocks and earth; marked post "Post 8, Summit Mine No. 2," from which the Armagh U. S. mineral monument bears N. 11 deg. W. 1.03 chains. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 E. commence descending. (4) S. 11 deg. E. 3.36 intersection of N. B. line of the Santa Niño mine at "Post 20, Santa Niño Mine;" marked the post "Post 9, Summit Mine No. 2." Post stands in mound of earth on top edge of Ygnacio dump. 3.66 W. edge of open cut at entrance to Ygnacio tunnel. 6.39 post marked "Post 10, Santa Niño Mine" on south boundary line of Santa Niño mine; marked the post "Post 10, Summit Mine No. 2;" 8.15 trail on ridge; runs E. & W. 16.49 "Post No. 2, Ygnatio Mine," on southwest corner of Ynacio mine; marked the post "Post 11, Summit Mine No. 2," from which the entrance to the Summit tunnel at a point where the tunnel first enters ore, bears N. 33¾ deg. W. 98 links. Course of Summit tunnel for first 185 feet from mouth or entrance N. 59 deg. 6 min. E. The middle of wagon road in bottom of gulch bears S. 50 deg. W. 9 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E., commence ascending. (5) N. 79 deg. E. 1.51, post marked "Post No. 7, Y. M.," standing on SE. cor. Ygnacio mine; marked the post "Post 12, Summit Mine No. 2," from which a pine tree 9 inches dia. x14 feet high bears S. 20 deg. E. 1.40 chains. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E. (6) N. 11 deg. W. 7.57 summit of ridge bears W. commence descending. 8.33 old dump at entrance to a tunnel runs E. 10.08 "Post 21, Santa Niño Mine" on south boundary line of Santa Niño mine; marked the post "Post 13, Summit Mine No. 2." 12.12 east edge of Ygnacio open cut. 13.11 "Post 22, Santa Niño Mine," on north boundary line of Santa Niño mine; marked the post "Post 14, Summit Mine No. 2." 13.75 set a post on east boundary line of Ygnacio mine; marked the post "Post 15, Summit Mine No. 2" from which the entrance to the "Hubbard tunnel" bears N. 20 deg. W. 25 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E. commence ascending. (7) S. 40 deg. E. .76 intersection of north boundary line of Santa Niño mine. Set a post on slope of Ygnacio dump; marked the post "Post 16, Summit Mine No. 2." 3.13 intersection of the east boundary line of the Santa Niño mine, and the west boundary line of the Occident mine. Set a post in a mound of earth and marked the post "Post 17, Summit Mine No. 2," from which the southwest corner of the Occident mine bears S. 11 deg. E. 11.02 chains. 6.75 old prospecting cut on east side of summit of "Ygnacio Hill;" cut bears E. & W. 8.30 prospecting cut bears W.; commence descending. 9.14 west edge of old shaft. 11.40 coursing of wagon road runs south. 12.50 "Post 18, Summit Mine No. 2" standing on east boundary line of the Occident mine, from which "Post 5, Occident Mine," bears S. 11 deg. E. 2.83 chains. 15.72 gulch; runs south. 18.66 "Post 19, Summit Mine No. 2," standing in mound of earth on east corner of claim, from which a pine bush 3 links high bears S. 68 deg. E. 3 poles. Thence, with a var. of 15 deg. 55 min. E. (8) S. 50 deg. W. 4.54 "Post A, Summit Mine No. 2" on southeast end of lode line. 5.00 gulch; runs west. 9.09 "Post 1, Summit Mine No. 2," place of beginning.

Containing 18.34-100 acres.

The location of this mine is recorded in the Recorder's office of Cerro Gordo Mining District in Book "F," page 43 of said record. The adjoining claimants are George T. Hawley and W. A. Greenly.

Any and all persons claiming adversely any portion of said Summit Mine No. 2, as hereinbefore described are required to file their adverse claim with the Register of the United States Land Office at Bodie, in the State of California, during the sixty days period of publication hereof, or they will be barred by virtue of the provisions of the Statute.

NEVADA RAILROAD TALK.

According to the Chronicle, the preliminary surveys for the narrow gauge railroad from Hawthorne to Candelaria, a distance of 53 miles, were long since completed. Eleven miles of track is laid beyond Hawthorne up to Monday, which exhausts all of the iron available. Further shipments of rails and trimmings are expected daily. As soon as the material arrives track-laying will be actively resumed, and the road finished to Candelaria within two months at the outside from the time of again beginning work. The line runs in a southeasterly direction from Hawthorne, and at a point 25 miles out will be turned due south. The line has now reached the New Boston Pass, so-called. Fourteen miles further on the road will connect with a wagon road from Grantsville, 50 miles distant. As Grantsville is 65 miles from Austin, the Carson and Colorado will be sure to get all the freight now shipped to Austin. At this point connection will also be had with Downieville, 30 miles distant. It is probable that the Wadsworth trade of Grantsville will be diverted to the narrow-gauge. The extension of the line even to its present distance from Hawthorne, 11 miles, makes a considerable saving of the time required to haul freight from Bodie, Aurora, Hawthorne, etc., to Candelaria and the rich Gold Mountain country, now coming into prominence. About 75 track-layers and graders are in the employ of the Carson and Colorado Railroad Company, mostly white men. The locations for the track are made by James Oliver, Chief Engineer of the road, and assistants, who keep two miles in advance of the track-layers. The 11 miles of rail out from Hawthorne, just completed, are laid through a sandy desert, of unusual depth and dreariness. It is the intention of the company to continue track-laying at least 100 miles beyond Candelaria, and probably much further.

INCREASED TRAFFIC.

Travel on the Virginia and Truckee has considerably increased during the past two weeks. The Central Pacific is doing a heavy passenger traffic. The railroad boom has not reached the Carson and Colorado, which road can boast of but ten to twelve passengers daily on each through train. The incoming trains carry fewer passengers than those going out, owing to the very low rates offerred by the fast freight stage lines from Bodie to Mound House.

WAGES ON LOCAL RAILROADS.

Train men on the Carson and Colorado receive wages based on about the same tariff as that of the Central Pacific. Engineers are paid at the rate of $110 per month; conductors $90; firemen $75; and brakemen $70. These rates are considerably lower than those which prevail on the Virginia and Truckee. That company pays engineers $5; conductors $4; firemen $3 50, and brakemen $3 25 per day.

BUILT AND BUILDING.

The Gazette published on Monday an account of the recent election in New York whereby the Nevada Central Railway from Battle Mountain to Austin passed under the management of Jay Gould. It is now rumored, with some color of truth, that a broad gauge road is to be built across Nevada from Salt Lake City to Stockton, California.

There are three surveying parties in the field in Eureka county locating proposed extensions of the E. & P. and mapping out routes for the new lines which are projected southward.

The Lewis railroad, connecting that thriving camp with central lines of transportation, was finished some time since.

The Bodie and Mono road, 36 miles long, is now in process of construction, and will be completed as fast as capital and labor can push it. The iron is expected by the middle of July and the road will be completed on or before September 1st.

The Gazette has published heretofore the progress of the N. & O. R. R., which is eventually to connect Reno with the Dalles, Oregon, and tap a magnificent belt of country. The road is a certainty, and it seems to have as good prospects as any.

It will be seen from the above notes that railroad building is going on south, east and north of Reno and all within the State. Sagedom is to be marked on the map in all directions with lines of railroads, and the natural resources of the State never had a better promise of speedy and thorough development.—[Reno Gazette, June 21.

Markets for Mines.

The complaint is made that the Eastern cities offer a better market for mines than San Francisco. If this be well-founded, it shows a state of affairs which should not exist. There is no lack af capital in this city, and some of the largest and best founded fortunes here have been made directly and indirectly by mining. We do not see why a good mine should go begging here; but the trouble that besets mine-owners is that a poor mine can be sold in the East and only a good mine can find a purchaser in San Francisco. There are many men who own prospects which they have deceived themselves into considering mines. They believe they are mines and think they are doing a capitalist a favor in offering the properties to him at high prices. But the capitalist and his money is not soon parted. If such were not the case, wherefore would the man of shekels be a capitalist? A man will come here from one of the mining districts offering to sell what he considers a good mine; he has no acquaintances, but is possessed with the idea that everybody ought to see the thing just as he does, and because moneyed men refuse to take him without a grain of salt he declares that San Francisco is no market for mines. But let him make it known that he has got a property of merit—make it known through newspapers that make mines and mining a speciality—and ask a reasonable price for the property and he need not go farther than San Francisco for a customer.—[Stock Report.

Things Learned by Experience.

If your coal fire is low, throw on a tablespoonful of salt, and it will help it very much. A little ginger put into sausage meat improves the flavor. In icing cakes dip the knife frequently into cold water. In boiling meat for soup, use cold water to extract the juices; if the meat is wanted for itself alone, plunge in boiling water at once. You can get a bottle or barrel of oil off any carpet or woollen stuff by applying buckwheat plentifully and faithfully; never put water to such a grease spot, or liquid of any kind. Broil steak without salting. Salt draws the juices in cooking; it is desirable to keep them in if possible. Cook over a hot fire, turning frequently, searing on both sides. Place on a platter; salt and pepper to taste. Beef having a tendency to be tough, can be made very palatable by stewing very gently two hours, pepper and salt, taking out about a pint of liquid when done, and letting the rest boil into the meat. Brown the meat in the pot. After taking up, make a gravy of the liquid saved. A small piece of charcoal in the pot with boiling cabbage removes the smell. Clean oilcloth with milk and water; a brush and soap will ruin it. Tumblers that have had milk in them should never be put in hot water. The skin of a boiled egg is the most effacious remedy that can be applied to a boil. Peel it carefully, wet and apply it to the part affected. It will draw off the matter and relieve the soreness in a few hours.

Remarkable Marksmanship of a Ten-Year-Old Girl.

The exhibition of rifle-shooting given in the Rink, Saturday evening, by Miss Lillie F. Smith, drew a fair house. The majority went out of curiosity to see the girl shoot, scarcely thinking she could accomplish the feats advertised. She is not large for her age (ten years), is self-possessed, dark complexioned, and of strong physique. Her first act was to break twelve balls in twelve shots, the balls being placed on pegs in a row. She broke every one. Next she was to break ten balls, on the same pegs, in a minute. She broke twelve in 56 seconds, and did her own loading. Next she fired fourteen shots at a mark in 61 seconds, doing her own loading. This she followed with the famous Austin brothers' mirror feat. She stood about ten paces from the balls (twelve in a row), and holding a very small hand glass in her left hand, steadied and shot the rifle, which rested on her right shoulder, with her left hand. The first and second balls she broke. The third and fourth were missed, but the remaining ten balls were broken right out, thus breaking twelve balls in fourteen shots. In the afternoon exhibition she broke the twelve straight out. When the size of the child, her hands, the glass, and the 7½ pound rifle are considered, her performance is marvellous, and is superior to the Austin brothers' act. Her next feat was to break balls swinging rapidly in a circle about ten feet in diameter. The background for this shooting was dark, hence the light was poor, yet she broke the balls with ease. Her last act was to break balls thrown in the air by hand. The balls were thrown at a white screen, and were difficult to hit, yet she made an excellent score. Many old rifle shots who were present, wondered that she could hit one of them. Her fast shooting, toward the close, was excellent, and proved her an accurate and rapid shot. After this exhibition a dance was given. Miss Smith is truly a wonderful rifle shot, and while we feel confident she has no equal in the world of her age, we doubt whether Carver could beat her in an out-door match. She is perfectly cool before an audience, attends strictly to her work, and shows not the slightest nervousness. She is a prodigy who will yet make a furore in sporting circles.—[Watsonville Pajaronian.

THE Census Bureau is in a bad mess. The appropriation and an extra appropriation have been exhausted and yet the work is not nearly done. General Walker, the Chief of the Bureau, has, it appears, been too "good natured," and Congressmen have been too selfish. In other words, General Walker, having exhausted the original appropriation and been obliged to apply to Congress for an extra sum had to promise to Congressmen the nomination of clerks in the Bureau in exchange for their votes. The consequence was that the Bureau was filled with the relatives and hangers on of Congressmen, not with the intention on their part of aiding the work of compiling the census but of drawing salaries out of the extra appropriation. This they did with such effectiveness that, as the telegraph stated the other day, briefly and without explanation, the work will have to be laid over till next Winter to be done by volunteer clerks, taking their chances of getting their pay sooner or later from Congress. The improvidence of the General and the rapacity of Congressmen have thus put the Nation in a rather silly, not to say, humiliating, position.

THE new elevator just completed near South Ferry, Brooklyn, is described as the largest in the country It has been over a year in building, and has cost nearly $2,000,000. It has a storage capacity of 2,500,000 bushels, besides superior transfer facilities and dockage for half a dozen vessels, which can load at one time. The machinery is contained in an independent engine house and three enormous towers. The warehouse proper consists of a large number of separate fireproof stores.

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY, BY

CHALFANT & PARKER.

J. E. PARKER. P. A. CHALFANT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, JULY 2.....1881

THE following comes from Portland, Oregon, June 28: The articles of incorporation were filed yesterday with the County Clerk by Artemus H. Holmes, J. N. Dolpe, R. Koehler, C. H. Prescott, Paul Chulze, George J. Ainsworth and Joseph Simon, who have associated themselves as a corporation, under the name of the Oregon and Transcontinental Cnmpany, the duration of which is to be perpetual, the business of the corporation to be to construct and operate railroad and telegraph lines and branches, and to carry freight and passengers thereon, and to receive tolls for the same as follows: Between Portland and Umatilla, from Umatilla to Pendleton, thence via Baker City to the eastern boundary of the State, near Boise City, up Snake and Bear river valleys to the Northern Pacific Railroad, near Granger station; a line from Umatilla via Wallula to Walla Walla, and a branch to Weston; thence to the Umatilla and Pendleton line from Walla Walla northeasterly to Snake river, with a branch to Dayton and Pataha, W. T. and Lewiston, I. T.; a line near the mouth of Palouse river to the head waters of Spokane to Seattle; a line from at or near Wallulu to a point on Lake Superior at or near the town of Duluth; a line from Portland to Astoria; a line from Portland up the Willamite valley through Umpqua and Rogue river valleys to the connection with the railroad system of California. The principal office of this corporation is to be at Portland, and the capital stock will be $50,000,000.

WE find the following in last Saturday's Salt Lake Tribune: "Parties from Salt Lake have filed articles of association in Nevada for the Salt Lake and Western Railroad Company, which is a western extension of the present Utah & Nevada Narrow Guage Railway, which is in turn the old Utah Western. The local corporation in Nevada is organized in the interest of the present company to comply with the laws of the State of Nevada, and to secure all rights to the company which are available under the Nevada statutes. The route of the proposed extension is stated in general terms by the corporators to be from a point where the 40th parallel of latitude would strike the east border of Nevada, thence in a course south of west through the State, to a point where the 38th parallel would strike the western border. The general direction would take the extension from Stockton, the present terminus, through by St. Johns, Rock Springs, Granite Mountain and Deep Creek, Utah; thence to Nevada past Antelope Springs, Cherry Creek, Warm Springs and Eureka; thence along Monitor Valley to Belmont, San Antonio, and the great Salt Basin, leaving the State just west of the latter locality. With regard to the extension in California, which is probable in time, there is just now no definite route selected, but it is presumed that the route will be through by Mono Lake, and thence to the Pacific at San Francisco or some more southerly seaport, as circumstances may determine." Circumstances and the nature of the country will doubtless determine that the new grand trunk will run through this valley.

A DISPATCH from Ottawa, Canada, brings encouragement to flying machine inventors, as follows: Ex-Alderman Clancey of this city gave an exhibition to-day in the presence of thousands of spectators of his recently invented flying machine, which is worked by a crank and has wings. Starting from St. Anne's church he managed to keep in the air at the average height of twelve feet for a quarter of a mile. The exhibition created considerable excitement, and the inventor is proud of his success and boasts that he will be able shortly to accomplish the desired results. He proposes flying across the Ottawa river on Dominion Day from the tower of the Parliament building. Clancey has been at work for thirty years at his machine, which he will have at once patented.

THE State Mining Bureau has acquired the "Chilcat" meteor, so named because it was seen by the Chilcat Indians of Alaska to fall 100 years ago, and has been preserved by them. It is an aerolite, weighing 1,600 ounces, and was brought the notice of Professor Hanks by John Muir, the well-known scientist some 8 months ago. Through the Northwest Trading Company, the Mining Bureau succeeded in negotiating for its purchase.

COMET LORE.

The San Francisco Chronicle, unable to send a brassy-cheeked reporter to personally interview the big comet up north, does the next best thing, and furnishes us with a good deal of interesting book information about comets in general. This compilation is worth reading, and we hereby appropriate it, as follows:

The comet now visible near the eastern horizon from 3 to 4 A. M. is, like all comets visible from the earth, approaching the sun, or coming within the solar system from the outward realms of space, and must therefore increase in apparent size within a few days or weeks and present a more interesting study for astronomers. Comets are of two classes: those visible to the unaided eye, and those smaller or more remote ones that can only be seen by the aid of the telescope. The greater ones are composed of three parts: the nucleus, the coma and the tail. From coma, the latin for hair, comes the name comet. It is the mass of bright clouds surrounding the nucleus or eye of the comet. The tail is an apparant elongation of the coma. The nucleus of Newton's comet of 1680 had the form of a star, with a dark-blue central eye. That of 1837 (Halley's) which is believed to travel its full circuit and to return every 76½ years, had a central eye, with a bright crescent on either side of it, the whole nucleus presenting something like the shape of a serpent's head. The tails of some comets appear straight, of others curved; some seem to have several tails, and some are without apparant tails. In their approach towards the sun the tail is, as all proper tails should be, behind; but on rounding the sun they are always reversed, the tail being in front.

It was the opinion of the eminent astronomer Kepler that the celestial space is as full of comets as the sea of fish, and that an infinitesimally small part of them ever come in range of the telescope. Yet it is a fact that over 500 comets have been seen from this earth with the naked eye since the beginning of the Christian era and about 200 others by telescope. It is a theory among astronomers that the planet Jupiter exercises a power of repulsion over comets that comes within the orbits of his sateitites fatal to their reappearance. Lexell's comet, last seen in 1770, was one of these unfortunate erratics. Coming too close to Jupiter, it was seized by his repelling power, turned out of the solar system into illimitable space, and has never been seen since, though its former appearance has been every five and a half years. Of course, there will be many and different conjectures as to the indentity of the celestial stranger now paying us a visit. It is not Biela's, for that has been lost. It is not Newton's, for that returns only once in 575 years to the sight of the earth. It is not Halley's, for that appears but once in 76 years: paid its last respects to us in November, 1835, and is not again due until 1911. It is not Donati's (the great comet of 1858, visible here for two months), for that has an orbit which it requires 1950 years to complete, and will not be seen again until the year 3808 or thereabouts.

In 1843, in the month of February, a great comet, an entire stranger to the astronomers, like the one now visible suddenly burst into view near the sun. It was plainly visible in broad daylight. It was seen for two months, and Prof. Newcomb of the United States Naval Observatory mentions of it that "it passed nearer the sun than any other known body—so near it, in fact, that with a very slight change in the direction of its original motion it would have struck the sun." Its orbit has been calculated at 530 years. So that cannot be our stranger now in sight. Nor can it be Encke's, for this is much larger than Encke's. In short it would seem to be a comet whereof there is no record. Probably one of the innumerables mentioned by Kepler as keeping their lines of march in outer space, but turned aside from its old orbit by some such comet repeller as Jupiter.

Whatever it is, astronomy has reached a point so reliable in its calculations of the motions of all celestial bodies, comets included, that we may be sure its orbit will be calculated and the time of its return predicted within a year or two at farthest. On the average we should be visited by one of these celestial erratics every 3¾ years, or every 1370 days. That is, a comet visible without the aid of a telescope. Of this quality of comets 502 have been recorded either in history or astronomy, or both, from the year 1 to the year 1875 of the Christian era. The century which produced most comets was the third—201 to 300—after Christ, when 44 were seen—a comet every 830 days. This was the century in which Constantine organized the Christian Church and made it the religion of the Roman Empire. The average for the first 1800 years after Christ was 27 comets a century. Up to 1875 this century has seen but 16 comets not of the telescopic order. We are therefore entitled to 11 more before the year 1901, to equal the average. In the century ending with 800 there were but 16 recorded, but as that was a "dark" century some may have been missed in the record; but in the sixteenth century, when Newton lived, there is a record of only 12, and in the sixth century, when the Emperor Justinian reigned at Constantinople—the era of the great plague in Europe, which lasted 52 years and, as Pocopius tells us, killed 100,000,000 people—there were but 16 comets seen, but they were great ones, and cause of much alarm to mankind, because at that time the world was as ignorant of astronomy and the laws which govern the motion of celestial bodies as the natives of Central Africa now are.

THE United States District Court has decided that "where prospectors are assisted or outfitted for the purpose of hunting mines and making mining locations, it makes no difference whether they locate them with the parties so assisting, in order for them to claim equal interest in the property located. Those contributing to the prospecting fund are, in the eyes of the law, co-partners in the property located, whether one or all be named in the location notice, and their interests can, under no circumstances be disposed of but by and with their knowledge and consent." The decision involves the principle that shall never avail the perpetrator anything when exposed and made apparent. The Judge in rendering his decision, closed as follows: "Not unfrequently impecunious individuals have with fraudulent intent, procured assistance and then betrayed the rest by placing only their own names on the location notice; and that it was the province of the Court to rectify the wrong. Therefore, the Court awards the plaintiff an equal interest in the mine located, and instructs defendants to make a deed conveying said interest, or to be held in contempt for non-compliance."

NEWSPAPERS published in cities lying on the Mississippi are confidently claiming that the advantages of the river route will attract the bulk of the grain transportation that way. The railroads, however, are not disposed to let the business go without an effort to retain it. There are some indications that the railroad lines will reduce freights to the lowest possible point, in the hope to set the movement that way. The St. Louis Republican says of these efforts, that the railroads will have to charge less than nine cents from Chicago to New York, and increase their speed to about three times what it now is, before they will get to the point where competition with the river is possible, in the matter either of cost or time of transit.

THEY are having a terrible time with the small-pox in Honolulu. The number of persons quarantined so far has been between two and three thousand. The disease has raged for months, and during that time the cases in hospital have averaged about one hundred and thirty, and the deaths about twenty a week. The expenses have run up to a hundred thousand dollars, having averaged almost a thousand dollars a day. In the city 66 places are quarantined, and 98 special policemen are employed to watch them. Besides these there are the general hospital and quarantine attendants, making a very big company and an enormous expense for a city like Honolulu, of only 15,000 inhabitants.

ANOTHER ship, the Alliance, has sailed for the far Northern seas in search of the Jeannette. She expects to be gone about four months. She is to pursue her voyage between Norway and Spitzburgen, or possibly Eastern Greenland, in the expectation that the Jeannette has either drifted backward in Nordenskjold's track or forward by Maclure's route toward the Atlantic. This vessel, like the Rodgers, is dispatched by the Navy Department, at the expense of the Government. And it is said that the War Department colony, to be established in Lady Franklin Bay, has also orders to keep a look out for Lieutenant De Long and his companions in the approaches to Baffin's Bay.

IT has not been declared officially, but is understood that the court martial in the case of Whitttaker, the colored West Pointer, have found him guilty of the assault made upon himself and recommended his dismissal from the academy.

IT is stated that Attorney-General McVeagh is to retire from the cabinet and that Wm. E. Chandler is to take his place. It is reported that Blaine advocates a change on account of McVeagh's laxity in the star-route matter.

THE Ohio Republican Convention renominated Charles Foster for Governor, and selected S. G. Richards, of Jefferson county, for Lieutedant-Governor, and Nicholas Longworth, of Cincinnati, for Supreme Judge.

A SOUTHERN says thousands of people who never read the Bible in its old form are kicking up a fuss about it being revised.

SAN FRANCISCO GOSSIP.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 27.

MESSRS. EDITORS—A few days ago I committed a piece of extravagance. With two little ones in charge I took a ride out to the Park. Proudly refusing the loan of a carriage and pair placed at my disposal for the occasion and disdaining a $15 ride behind a pair of livery-blooded-stock, I, in a democratic-republican mood, strolled to the bottom of Geary street, selected front seats in an open car attached to the "dummy" and was soon gliding along amid a crowd of well-dressed, good natured people like myself, toward Lone Mountain, at which place we change for steam cars and are soon landed at the entrance of Golden Gate Park. Distance, 5 miles; fare 5 cents; time 30 minutes.

This is undoubtedly the most favorite resort for all classes on fine days, Sundays especially so, for here Nature assisted by Art is seen apparaled in its gayest robes at this time of the year. The conservatory is resplendent with its wealth of immense tropical plants water lilies, flower beds and shrubbery of the most beautiful and variegated colors and forms. Birds warbling, fountains playing, lovely young girls laughing in their very exuberance of health and spirits, children wildly romping—all combined form such a pleasant picture, that for the time being we cannot help thinking that the wicked people of San Francisco are not so very wicked after all. It is the proper thing to do and not at all in bad taste when you do it, to take your wife, little ones and a lunch basket well filled with good things and repair to the Rustic Pavilion, where tables and benches are plentiful, and there dine en famille. The sea breeze that wafts its way from the Golden Gate will help your appetite more than half a dozen cocktails, and the chances of suffering from indigestion are slim.

THE WEATHER

In the city at present is simply delightful, and brings forth for the view of the idler or paragraphist everything admirable in nature and art. Nature is profusely represented in the markets by the beautiful display of flowers, fruits and vegetables. Such varieties! such richness! such exquisite, delicious monstrosities I have never before witnessed. Peaches, cherries, currants, blackberries, raspberries, mangoes, bananas, green figs and almonds, vegetables innumerable—all ripe, luscious, tempting and some of extraordinary size.

IN THE MARKET AND ON THE STREETS.

Art, in the shape of living pictures, is exhibited during the fashionable hours as to form a panorama to be by no means despised, and deserving of mention. Pretty young girls, pretty young women, middle aged women who try to appear pretty and old ladies who desperately attempt the same impossibility, all out in all the splendor of the latest styles, colors, tints of dress, hats and cloaks. Diamonds flash on their uncovered hands and blaze on their well formed necks and busts. Parasols, latest from Paris (price $30) protect the complexions of the fair damsels, and such as sport no diamonds don the sixteen-buttoned fashionable colored kids. The panorama is occasionally marred by the appearance of some poor blind man playing a hand organ, or an unsightly cripple soliciting alms. But pshaw! these trifles matter not—everybody being too wrapped up in their own business or pleasure to attend to them.

POLITICS

Are beginning to "bile." The fat offices of the city are to let next September. Rents are high, but tenants innumerable are outbidding each other for their occupancy and the chances are that the biggest rascals with most money will be the successful competitors for the choice residences.

THEATRICALS

Are booming just now. Imagine in this city of 40,000 voters, there is now in full blast and in paying order one grand Italian Opera, three English Operas, three theatres and a half dozen variety performances. The Snell-Baker's Majestic Troupe at the Standard theatre advertise very positively "No Ladies Admitted." Now as this place of amusement since their initial performance has had good houses it naturally follows that many males do there congregate. Such performances backed by such an advertisement is simply "duck soup" for the hoodlums, fast young bucks about town, and lastly but not least, the married men. As a faithful reporter of what goes on in this great city by day, and by night for that matter, I sauntered forth to view the artistic performance of the Majestic Snell-Bakers and will report briefly thus: While the entertainment was keenly relished by the aforesaid hoodlums and city bucks, the married men pronounced it decidedly tame, for the simple reason that it was "not outre enough."

BUSINESS

Is dull. So say the wholesale merchants. Well, they are always complaining. Still, no matter how dull business really is, 'tis comical to see how well they stand it, keeping up their magnificent houses on Van Ness Avenue and other fashionable neighborhoods, driving cozy teams and engaging private boxes at the opera. Oh dear! don't I wish I had such dull times.

Speaking of the wholesale merchants I witnessed a very pleasant little episode the other day. It made so deep an impression on my mind that I cannot complete my already too-long letter without making mention of it. Mr. Greenebaum of the noted and favorably known manufacturing firm of Greenebaum, Sachs & Freeman, gave his employes, consisting chiefly of young girls, sixty in number, a treat, in shape of a picnic. A boat was chartered to Sausilito, a fine dinner prepared, prizes given for competitors in merry feminine games and everything that could be done by a whole-souled gentleman to make the employes happy on this occasion was done—and done thoroughly by Mr. G. They returned to the city refreshed by this pleasant break in their hum-drum labors—pleased and with such gratified feelings that they gave vent to them the next day in the following manner. About noon, Pat—their porter—brought word to Mr. Greenebaum that the girls up in the factory room desired to see him. Mr. G. thought something wrong was up. A strike for higher wages or some unpleasantness that had taken place at the picnic for which he was held responsible. Taking the elevator to the regions above he stepped off into the factory room, when he was greeted by some seventy feminine voices (good ones at that) singing "Hail to the Chief." After the song the prettiest and most oratorical of the charming conspirators stepped forward and in a neat speech presented Mr. Greenebaum with a magnificent floral offering—arch-shaped and around the edge of which in delicate natural flowers were worked the word "THANKS." Mr. G., having recovered somewhat from the surprise, responded in a neat speech, amid the hearty cheers of those grateful and apparently happy young girls. He had the floral tribute photographed and presented each employe with one, and for the "phun" of it I enclose an extra copy for yourselves, to show how some employers appreciate goodness and worth when found in those engaged by them.

EXCOTTISH NOTES.

A. M. Loomis is living here with his family. Rockwell, his brother, is at El Paso, dabbling in real estate and from what I learn making a real success of it. Bob Burnham, in answer to a telegram from an eastern mining company started off a week ago for Colorado to take charge of some property—salary $300 per month and all expenses. V. Hoff, formerly of Lone Pine and Cerro Gordo, has engaged in business at Grangeville in the Mussel Slough country. C. F. Stoughtenborough is employed at the railroad office at Walla Walla. E. T. Heath is with a hardware firm at Portland, Oregon. Louis Cohn, formerly partner of L. Wood of your town, called upon me a short time ago. He owns and is carrying on quite succesfully two large mercantile establishments, one in Mendocino the other in Ukiah. He labored under the impression that at one time I did him some favor, and was silly enough to endeavor to show some gratitude by treating me like a prince. What a fool to so far forget himself in this "Worldly World." So forth and so on.

OLD INYOITE.

The Mines at Benton.

Of late much interest has been taken in the mines at or near Benton, California. Some of them have been bullion producers and from some cause have had a period of idleness peculiar to all mining camps. The Daily Report says of that portion of Mono county, California, and Esmeralda county, Nevada, of which Benton, in this State, is the postal centre has, during the past dozen years, yielded at intervals upwards of two millions in silver bullion. Since the Montgomery District excitement of 1864, part and parcel of that of Aurora, work thereabouts has been steady and quiet, and generally carried on by a few individuals. A German named Partz was a pioneer in the reduction of ores, the little town of Partzwick, where the Comanche Company's ten-stamp mill is located, preceding the town of Benton, almost adjacent. Albert Mack, the most successful operator in that section, realized a handsome fortune and still sticks to the country. At Benton, the Diana Company's mill of five-stamps, chiefly owned and run by John M. Creaser, is located. The locality was originally known as Hot Springs, a very large spring of that character near by serving the mills and residents with excellent water. The bulk of the bullion yield came from Blind Springs District, immediately south and east of Benton. Next to this, the Indian Queen mine, just over the line in Nevada, has yielded most, and is now in the dividend list. It is located in the extreme north end of the great White range, which blends south into the Inyos. Third in the producing districts is Indian, a few miles south and west of Benton, where the Tower mine has been worked on a limited scale for over two or three years past. It is in a range of mountains distant from Blind Springs as the latter is from the White, yet all are close to Benton. The Comanche Company's affairs got into bad shape, and a new company called the Vulcan was organized, comprehending the Blind Springs and Indian District mines. The Tower mine was further developed, but a year or so ago all work, including the mill, was shut down, excess of water and an incline shaft were the cause. It was chiefly in the control of W. M. Lent, until recently, when Henry Phillips of this city, took hold of it. He re-incorporated it in New York under the name of the Tower Consolidated Company, and raised a sufficient capital to start work anew on a substantial scale. He has been on the ground for some days past, returning yesterday, and the programme is to sink a new shaft at the Tower and otherwise continue the developments of the property. There is certain steam machinery, as hoisting works, pumps, etc., besides the ten-stamp mill, included, and when properly placed and utilized, the chances are very much in favor of a substantial bullion out-put at no distant day. The ores of Indian District are rich in silver, as are all in the vicinity of Benton, and if systematic work was generally inaugurated, the country would possess a new lease of life of a permanent character. There is little or no snow to interfere, fuel and timber are abundant and convenient. The climate healthy at all seasons, and altogether it is an excellent place to carry on ligitimate mining. Messrs. Mack & Creaser have re-incorporated the Diana interests and are regularly shipping bullion from Blind Springs District. The Carson and Colorado railroad has materially shortened the distance of wagon travel to Benton, and the future of the country is encouraging and gratifying. D. P. Tarpy, a former resident of Candelaria, has been appointed Superintendent of the Tower mine, and from the energy possessed by him a good report may be looked for from that property.

IN England you can use a postage stamp on a check or the other way. It should be so here.

A CONSOLIDATION has been effected of the Utah Central, Utah Southern and Utah Extension railroads. Jay Gould, Sydney Dillon, John Sharp and other capitalists connected with the Union Pacific are directors in the new company. The entire line will hereafter be known by the name of the Utah Central. It extends from Ogden to Frisco, a distance of 280 miles, and the probability is that the line will be extended southward to make railway connections in Arizona.

SPEAKING of stock panics the San Francisco Stock Report says the time was in San Francisco when stocks would have to fall twenty dollars a minute for twenty minutes running before anybody would think of uttering such a word as panic; now, if they drop twenty cents an hour the chippers set up a howl that the stock market is smashed as flat as an opera hat.

ACCORDING to the San Francisco Post the bonanza triad—Flood, Fair and Mackay—are said to be holding long consultations daily, to which, of course, reporters are not admitted. Pine street insists that "something big" is in the wind, or that at least a new programme is being arranged.

CONKLING says of Blaine: "He is the only President we have ever had who has never been inaugurated." And Blaine replies: "My relations with Mr. Conkling are the pleasantest imaginable; I have not spoken to him for ten years."

IT is said that Senator Sharon has now the largest interest in certain of the Gold Hill mines than at any time in three years.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, JULY 2.....1881

C. G. FREIGHTING CO.—Mr. Lott, of of the Cerro Gordo Freighting Co., gave our town his customary visit this morning, collecting freight bills. He says that the Company has twenty-seven teams in Arizona, with headquarters at Tombstone, where Mr. Nadeau and Mr. Halstead now are. There are eleven teams on this road--from the railroad to Bishop Creek—and he states that the regular time is eight days from Mojave here. "General" O. S. Stacey, formerly at Stoutenborough's, in Bishop Creek, some time ago assumed Mr. Halstead's place at the railroad shipping point. Mr. Lott says that the main reason why freights have not been delivered here more promptly is that "they didn't order any." However, it is evident that independent teams on this route have been cutting considerably into the Company's business.

PERSONAL.—W. S. Woodhull, J. W. Murphy, P. Clinton and others are down from the Ygnacio. Mr. W. E. Smith, of New York, and S. D. Woodhull returned yesterday from the Hill, and are looking at the Mazourka cañon mines to-day. Mr. A. H. Griswold of San Francisco and Capt. H. H. Todd, of Alameda, are among the new arrivals, and will start to-morrow for Deep Spring District. Supt. J. H. Holt, of the O. L. M. Co's mill at the lake was in town and left this morning for Beveridge District, to examine some mines which he has under bond. Geo. K. Phillips and Harvey Mills are up from Keeler.

THE DEEDS.—Five deeds have been placed on the records by the County Recorder, conveying the Pajaro mine at Bishop Creek to Wm. H. Lent. They convey to the purchaser all the interests and titles therein of C. C. Wainright, Hypolite Galeron, John Clark, R. M. Aldridge, Juan Sasunta, H. Galeron, Jr., Manuel Preciado, Jesus Peña, Antonio Barcelona and Promocino Sanchez. The consideration of $30,000 is named in each.

ANOTHER STAGE CHANGE.—Mr. S. L. McNaughton, of Benton, has bought out Phil Keough in the Aurora and Independence stage line, and becomes sole proprietor. Phil will continue in the employ of the U. S. Stage Company, and is going shortly to Los Angeles county to attend to some routes there.

REMOVED.—Dr. W. H. George, after a deal of worriment which reduced his weight some two hundred pounds more or less, has succeeded in refitting the old Inyo House, where he has established his office and drug store, where he will be found comfortably fixed under his own vine and locust trees.

OLANCHA.—Cartago and Olancha have hitched teams for celebration purposes next Monday. All hands will assemble at Walkes's place, where Uncle Billy will orate (he should be the poet), and Dick Glenn will act as chaplain, assisted by other officers of the day to suit.

A GALE.—The wind has been blowing steadily from the south for several days past, whcih must result in considerable damage to grain and cornfields, as well as fruit. It is something unusual this time of the year, and it would well enough to stop that comet.

TO MEET.—The Board of Supervisors will assemble in adjourned meeting next Tuesday, pass upon the Bend City bridge bills and resolve into a Board of Equalization.

BULLION.—Messrs. Taylor and Hunter arrived from Beveridge this afternoon with 420 ounces of gold—the result of a run of 11 days on 60 tons of Keynot ore.

AT BIG PINE.—The Fourth programme at Big Pine includes a grand picnic at McMurry's hotel, horse and foot races, and a big dance at night.

HERE.—Phil Keough and S. L. McNaughton, of the Independence and Aurora Stage line were in town to-day.

REFERRING to the Salt Lake & Western Railroad, articles of incorporation for which were filed at Carson City last Friday, the Salt Lake Herald says: It is not to be, as anticipated, an extension of the Utah and Nevada Railway, but is entirely a new line. The road will be a standard guage, and commence, as near as we can learn, somewhere about Lehi, and construct westward to Nevada, entering that State on the fortieth parallel; and passing through Nevada, will run in a southwesterly direction and enter California about the thirty-eight parallel. From this point it will strike the nearest possible direction for San Francisco. It is believed the work will begin immediately, engineers being already in the field.

AN attempt will probably be made in Congress next session to pass a national bankruptcy law. The measure is being promoted by the manufacturers and wholesale merchants in Eastern cities, and an expression of opinion has been invited from commercial organizations and merchants generally. The Louisville Board of Trade has reported against a national bankruptcy law on the ground that business methods differ in various sections, and that, on the whole, State laws which suit local requirements are best. The San Francisco Board of Trade will probably consider the subject.

MONTEZUMA DISTRICT.

MONTEZUMA, ESMERALDA CO., NEV.
June 23, 1881.

MESSRS. EDITORS—I shook the dust from my feet at the town among the casitas, climbed the hill, and faced the country north. The glittering rays of the morning sun, shone plainly on ths St. Antonio desert. But as my destination was not quite so far, the thoughts of its horrors did not trouble me. Arrived at this place, my destination, about sundown the same day. I had traveled about 40 miles, through a country destitute of any vegetation. However, I found some friends and acquaintances from Bishop Creek, who had preceeded me, all of whom seemed to be satisfied with their new location, though temporarily it may be.

MONTEZUMA.

On inquiry I learned that the camp for many years had been lying idle, for some cause which no one seemed to know. But things have now taken a new start and the place is on a fair road to be one of the most successful mining camps in the State. The mountains, which bear the same name as the place, were discovered by a party of prospectors from Austin as early as 1867, and several valuable ledges were found which proved on being developed of sufficient value to attract the attention of capitalists, who erected a ten-stamp mill in 1870. The principal mine found, proved on being more fully developed, to contain smelting ore. This required the building of a smelting furnace to make it pay, and yet matters lay idle for some time for want of capital. Last Fall the Shawmut Milling and Mining Company was incorporated in Boston to operate in Esmeralda county, Nevada. This company took hold of matters and began to push things ahead, but during the Winter months very little could be accomplished, owing to the inclemency of the weather. Since Spring has opened, however, under the superintendency of Mr. John Howell, well known to many of your readers as a thoroughly good mining man, assisted by Mr. I. M. Taylor, also a practical miner of many years experience, matters have been pushed forward as fast as men and money could do the work. Good lumber could not be obtained in time in suitable quantities from other sources, therefore a platform was at once erected and saws put in order to commence sawing their own lumber, which was done, out of what is called nut pine. Sufficient lumber of this kind was soon sawed to answer the building purposes of the company very well. The first building to be erected was the smelting furnace. At the same time mines must be worked, good wagon roads made to them, boarding houses and other necessary buildings for the use of the company must be built—and all of which in so short a time has been successfully accomplished.

All things being ready and put in good running order, the furnace—which for the last few days has been under the immediate direction of Mr. Thomas, a gentleman of vast experience in such matters—started up last Sunday, the 21st. It was so successful that it surprised the most sanguine hopes of those who had helped at other places. Every part of the machinery was running like a top. Therefore, inside of four hours from the time the fire was first kindled, bullion was run into bars from the raw ore. In twenty-four hours more than seventy bars of bullion were run out and piled up near the furnace, where every one could see for himself. Each bar weighed near 100 pounds. The capacity of the furnace when running at its full speed is said to be 26 tons. Where is there a better showing on the Pacific Coast than this has been so far, as indicating a successful mining camp? Yet the outside world does not seem to be aware that there is such a place in existence--that a mining camp is about to "spring up like mush-rooms in June," and all without the aid of any newspaper boom, as has been the case with several of its sister camps, on information which said papers called perfectly reliable. I think that the prospects are very flattering indeed for this to be a lively mining camp before the Summer months expire. All of which will add industry and enterprise to a section of country which for years has been laying dormant, for the want of capital to prove that they are working on their merits. A shipment of bullion will be made in a day or so, perhaps to-morrow.

Every day the axe is heard in the surrounding hills, chopping wood. The smoke can be seen circling its winding way up the different cañons, giving evidence of numerous coal pits in the vicinity. The company at present is employing about 50 men, besides those who are burning coal on contract. The company furnishes wood, brush, etc., delivered to the parties, and pay eight cents per bushel for burning. At some future time I will try and write you again, when I will give you a description of the different mines, their developments and other things about the camp. In closing I will say the boys from Bishop Creek have a valuable piece of property which they call the "Belle of Montezuma." It will be a good mine when fully developed, and no doubt they will try to make it yield a handsome "divi."

INYO.

A ROMAN CATHOLIC paper says that had the church retained all her children there should now be in the country from 20,000,000 to 25,000,000 members of that church, whereas there are now less than 7,000,000. It attributes the great losses to the influence of the public schools.

THE INYO INDEPENDENT has entred on its twelfth volume. Although the INDEPENDENT is published in an out of the way section, it is always full of reliable local news. Its publishers are competent and industrious gentlemen. When Inyo county "comes out," Parker and Chalfant will meet their real reward.—Free Press.

MR. MACLEARAN, of the Treasury Department, who accompanied Commissioner French on his recent tour of inspection of the Pacific railroads, reports that the greatest difficulty is experienced by those who are constructing railroads in the West in obtaining laborers. There is not only a scarcity of white laborers, but a sufficient number of Chinese cannot be found to meet the pressing demand. On the Atlantic and Pacific road Indians are being employed and paid $2 per day. On the line of the Northern Pacific road the scarcity of laboring men is even greater than on lines in course of construction in the Southwest. This company is prepared to build several hundred miles of new road, but their operations are retarded by their inability to obtain laborers, and to overcome this a Commissioner is said to have been sent to China to arrange for procuring laborers from there. In view of this great demand for laborers, it is singular that efforts have not been made to obtain help from the large cities of the East, in many of which large numbers of idle men might be found.

A PRESS dispatch says: Sheriff McElhaney of Neosho, Mo., by dint of adroit management, induced a member of a gang of horse-thieves to give the whole thing away, and the result is very astonishing, to say the least. According to the statement there is a regularly organized band of horse-thieves, with their headquarters in Arkansas, Southwest Misssouri and Southeast Kansas. They have regular signals, grips, passwords and organization, the whole cemented by the most diabolical oath enforcing secrecy. They have a line for running out stock, extending the entire distance from Fort Scott to Fort Smith, with friendly houses at Short creek, Joplin, Neosho, Granby, Farewell, Bentonville and Fayetteville. The officers have descriptions of 75 stolen animals, and it is said are making arrangements to begin a pursuit of the thieves, which is to have no ending until the desperadoes are brought to justice. Owing to the great number of stolen horses in the portion of territory named, it is not considered safe to buy or sell stock.

THE Cincinnati Commercial tells this story: "A rusty hatchet has been dug up on the site of Washington's birthplace and presented to the Mount Vernon's Ladies Association. It is supposed to be the hatchet with which he cut down his father's favorite cherry tree, and goes to confirm the tale told by Wirt in his 'Life of Washington,' and which those who sit in the seat of the scornful have sneered at as too truly good. If the stump of the cherry tree should next be dug up, it will be conclusive that the tale of early piety and probity had its foundation in fact." The stump is there or thereabouts, and the scoffers are put down.

THE San Francisco News Letter says: "That's a novel church enterprise we read of in Brooklyn. A church edifice is to be erected with a dining hall attached, also dormitories and rooms for industrial pursuits. Fancy the church looking after the bodies of its communicants! Fancy a church secular enough to feed the hungry, clothe the naked, and shelter the homeless! Fancy a church looking after the material interests of its worshippers by supplying them work? Fancy such practical humanitarian work in a church! Surely the world is moving."

THE poet John C. Saxe is a confirmed and obstinate hypochondriac. He believes he is a hopeless invalid; grieves over his loss of political power and imagines a weakness and all sorts of diseases that physicians cannot determine. He has refused to go into company since the death of his daughter, Solace Saxe, on June 5, and even refused to go to the cemetery to bury her. He is no more the gay, witty and charming conversationalist, and cannot be prevailed on to take advice and prescriptions. His mind is apparantly clouded by his grief.

VARIOUS rumors regarding the changes in railroads are in order again, owing to the presence in New York of officials of the Union and Central roads. It is now said that the long talked-of consolidation of these roads is about to be consummated, and that when it is accomplished there will be a change in the personal of representatives at this end. That this is needed badly will be vouched for by all California shippers.

PROF. DRAPER, of New York, says that the value of this comet lies in the fact that it can be photographed, and is capable of spectral analysis. Not the faintest danger is to be apprehended from its proximity.

THE British have 35,000 soldiers in Ireland trying to conciliate the Irish people, and make them love extortionate landlords, and bless the Government that imprisons, starves and shoots them.

MY BABY.

All you weary mothers, ere you sleep to-night,
Pause beside each pillow; kiss each face good-night.
And should no babe be missing from out its warm white nest,
Smile at all life's sorrows, and know that you are blest;
But if there be one pillow unruffled, smooth and white,
Whereon no little curly head shall rest to-night—
And if to you the world looks darker, sadder, on each coming morrow,
Then from my heart I'd pity you, for I should know your sorrow.
For I've a baby I shall never see through all life's coming years;
I shall never hear his laughter, never dry his baby tears—
Never hear his sweet voice lisping, "Mamma, you're so good!"
But O! my God, I'd give a life-time if I only could.

If I could only kiss his little face to-night,
And hold him in my arms so close and tight;
If I could only feel his sweet lips pressed to mine,
As 'round my neck his baby arms entwine;
If I could only kiss his little dimpled hand,
There'd be no mother half so proud in all the land;
If I could only smooth the curls upon his head—
Undress my little boy, and put him into bed.
But, O! my God, it cannot be; my little boy is dead,
And on his pillow next my own there rests no curly head.
Great God! my heart is breaking, breaking with its pain—
I shall never hold or kiss him, never see his face again.

BERYL STAR.

TO THE COMET.

Thou flaming orb of the beyond,
On thy swift journey to the sun:
What mission hast thou to fulfill—
Of wars, pestilence or deadly ill
To Earth or its its inhabitants?
Or, may be, help it to advance
By stirring thought in dormant minds
To search for Nature's wise designs?

Thou mayest be an ærial car,
Bearing messengers from star to star—
Suns only stations on the way,
While worlds along thy pathway stray;
A lightning train from distant space,
Once sadly feared by the human race,
Believing many evils dire
Were shaken from thy train of fire.

Perhaps thou artan infant world,
From cold to heat needst to be hurled,
'Ere gasses can rightly combine
To form a more congenial clime,
Round out and smooth thy rugged form
Until a new world shall be born,
And life another circuit run
Eternal ages 'round the sun.

LUNA.

A Mine Seller on Pine Street.

He came down here to sell a mine. He said it was a "well-confined" ledge with porphyry for the hanging-wall and quartzite on the under side, with float running in a straight streak from the foot of the canyon to the summit of the hill. He had some chunks of the rock in his pockets, which were covered with fluff and tobacco dust. An old gentleman who had herded a stove in a Comstock saloon in '60 said the specks of fluff and tobacco were sulpherets; a German gentleman who had passed through Freiburg while on his way to America said they were "iron byrites" imbregnated mit sulpherets of silfer; a Comstock miner said the chunks entire were birdseye porphyry, and a Pine street stock-sharp remarked that it looked like the rock from the Ophir when the big cave showed up the ore they sacked and sent to London.

"Is the mine for sale?" asked a man whose coat would have made good material for soup in the What Cheer restaurant.

"That's what I'm on," said the mine owner.

Just then Prof. Price, the well-known metallurgist came along and pushed into the crowd.

"Professor what do you think of this stuff?" said a man who could buy two or three mines if he wanted to.

"Grindstone," said the jolly Professor.

The crowd sadly adjourned, and the miner said this was no place for an honest miner and he hoped he might be "condemned" (new version) if he didn't go to New York, or Bosting, or Philadelphia, where people knew something about mines, and would take a man's word on a mine pervidin' he showed up a map and an expert's report.

A Life-Preserver.

We have fallen upon a practical age. One by one the fond illusions cherished from childhood are ventilated and exploded by the iconoclasts of the press. The New York Graphic ruthlessly tears away the veil of romance with which the traditions of years have invested the Newfoundland dog as a saver of human life. It says:

The Newfoundland dog is very fond of pulling children out of the water, and will watch around a mill-pond for days at a time for an opportunity to win a medal from the Humane Society. A friend of ours once bought a Newfoundland dog to look out for his children, and he lived near a pond of water. Every once and awhile the dog would come bounding up to the house, dragging a dripping child along by its teeth that it had evidently rescued from a watery grave. Then the dog would be petted and caressed and feasted and made a great deal of, "Neptune," however, assumed an appearance of great indifference, as though saving a young one from drowning was one of the most ordinary events of his life, scarcely worth speaking about—nothing at all, in fact, to what he had done in the "Old Country," where he had often rescued two or three families before breakfast. But this thing of bringing drenched children home got to be too numerously frequent, as Carlyle would say, and our friend concluded to watch the devoted and faithful Newfoundland and see how he did it. He waited events. At length a couple of his little ones came there to play accompanied by "Nep," who barked vigorously to warn them that they musn't go too near the water. Then he saw the dog look cautiously around to see if he was observed, evidently, and satisfied on that point, he bounded against one of the children that was near the edge of the pond, and knocked it in, kersouse! Then he plunged in with ostentatious zeal, caught its dress in his teeth, swam ashore, and went loping to the house to receive the congratulations of the family. That day the Newfoundland dog was discharged, and that too, without a recommendation from his last master.

A Narrow Gauge Road.

One of the most curious railroads in the world is the ten-inch narrow guage road running from North Bellerica, Mass., to Bedford. It was first hooted at by the people, but the road was comp'eted, making about eight and a half miles. There are eleven bridges on the road, one of which is over 100 feet long. The rails weigh 25 pounds to the yard. The road is well built and equipped. One grade is of 125 feet. The cars and engines will at first create wonder and admiration. Their perfect proportions give them a handsome appearance. The cars have an aisle with one seat on each side, in the same manner as ordinary cars have two seats, each person having a seat to himself. The cars are supplied with closets, water tanks, and heated by steam, and have all the modern improvements. They weigh but four and a half tons, ordinary cars weighing on an average eighteen tons. The train runs at the rate of twenty miles an hour with perfect safety. The engine is placed behind the tender, giving it greater adhesion to the track. They weigh eight tons, and draw two passenger and one freight cars. The cost of the railroad was $4,500 per mile.

THE Kern county Californian thinks that the numerous irrigating canals in that valley have greatly raised the general water level, and there is no doubt, even if none of the water they carry had been used for irrigation, that they would have entirely changed the character of the country for the better. Wherever the country is not cultivated there is seen a luxuriant growth of the more nutritious grasses and a thrifty, vigorous appearance of the trees and other vegetation.

THE astronomer of the Bodie Free Press has discovered a new star about thirty degrees to the left and southward of the moon. It can be seen at midday and the reporter has figured it out that it is no other than the star of Bethlehem, which disappeared from the earth after the birth of Christ and has not since been seen. Bodie seems so far to be the only place vouchsafed a view of the remarkable planet.

APPLICATION FOR A PATENT

....TO THE....

SUMMIT NO. 2 MINE.

No. 192.

UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE,
Bodie, Cal., June 6, 1881.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT A. R. Conklin, W. H. Jenkins and James Jenkins, whose postoffice address is Independence, Inyo county, California, have this day filed their application for a patent for fifteen hundred linear feet of the SUMMIT NO. 2 mine or vein bearing silver, with surface ground six hundred feet in width, situated in Cerro Gordo mining district, County of Inyo, State of California, and designated by the field notes and official plat on file in this office as Lot No. 40, in Township ——, Range ——of —— —— Meridian.

SURVEY OF LODE.

Said Lot No. 40 being described as follows, to wit: Commenced at a post on S. end of claim on lode line, marked the post "Post A, Summit Mine No. 2," from which, with a variation 15 deg. 55 min. E. a pine bush 3 lks high, bears N. 88½ deg. E. 43 lks; a pine bush 3 links high bears S. 45¾ deg. W. 31 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E., N. 40 deg. W. 10 north ridge bears W. 50 wagon road runs S. W.; commenced ascending 14.88 trail on ridge runs W.; commenced descending 18.59, trail runs W. 20.17 tunnel 9.11 long on quartz vein. 22.72 "Post B, Summit Mine No. 2," on NW. end of lode, from which the Belshaw wagon road bears N. 45 deg. W. 45 links.

SURVEY OF CONNECTING LINE.

From "Post 7, Summit Mine No. 2" the Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument bears N. 54 deg. E. 50 links by direct chain measurement.

SURVEY OF EXTERIOR BOUNDLINES.

Commenced at a post set in mound of earth on S. cor. of claim; marked the post "Post 1, Summit Mine No. 2" from which, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E., a pine tree 12 links high bears N. 39 deg. W. 49 links; a pine tree 3 links high bears N. 18½ deg. E. 31 links; a pine bush 2 links high bears N. 84½ deg. E. 36 links; a pine bush 2 links high bears S. 19 deg. 15 min. W. 17 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E. (1) N. 40 deg. W. 2.54 brow of hill; commence descending; 10.36 gulch; runs W. 12.21 wagon road; 13.64 "Post 2, Summit Mine No. 2," set in a mound of earth on S. boundary line of the Armagh mine, from which "Post 1, Armagh Mine," bears N. 79 deg. E. 2.49 chains; 19.65 "Post 3, Summit Mine No. 2," set in mound of earth on south B. L. of the Santa Niño mine; 20.31 trail runs E-W., commence descending; 21.21 wagon road runs N.-S.; 22.72 "Post 4, Summit Mine No. 2," set in mound of earth on W. cor. of claim, from which the entrance to the open cut leading into the Santa Niño tunnel bears S. 28½ deg. W. 45 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E. (2) N. 50 deg. E. .74 intersection of the north B. L. of the Santa Niño mine; set a post in mound of earth in the bottom of an old prospecting cut; cut bears NW. & SE.; marked the post "Post 5, Summit Mine No. 2," from which "Post 18, Santa Niño mine," bears S. 8 deg. W. 2.85 chains; 1.89 wagon road runs N. & S.. 4.54 "Post B, Summit Mine No. 2," on northwest end of line of lode; 7.88 "Post 2, Summit Mine No. 2," standing in mound of earth at intersection of north boundary line of the Armagh mine, from which "Post 1, Armagh Mine," bears S. 11 deg. E. 11.76 chains; 9.09 "Post 7, Summit Mine No. 2," standing on N. cor. of claim, from which the Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument bears 54 deg. E. 50 links.

Description of Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument as described in the field notes of survey of the Armagh mine: The Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument is built on the apex of a red rocky point at the intersection of Ygnacio Ravine and Cerro Gordo cañon, and very precisely on the W. B. line of the Ygnacio mine (as surveyed for a patent in the year 1875 by Jos. Seely, U. S. Dep. Min. Sur.), and distant 17.51 chains from the southwest corner stake of the Ygnacio mine.

At the point above given I drilled a hole in the rock to a depth of 9 inches, in which drove a piece of gas pipe 1 inch in dia. x16 inches long. On top of gas pipe, set a post 4x4 inches square, x4 feet long, around which built a monument of rocks 5 feet high x5 feet in dia. at its base; marked the top of post "U. S. Min'l Monument. Erected Jan'y 3d, A. D. 1880, by Wm. Crapo, U. S. Dep. Min. Sur., under authority of the U. S. Sur. Gen'l for Cal'a."

From said post in mineral monument, with a variation of 15 deg. 55 min. E. the extreme end of the bluff on which the monument is situated, bears N. 25 deg. W. 17 links. The east edge of ridge at the top of a vertical face of rock, 7½ feet high, bears N. 60 deg. E. 7 links. The NE. cor. of an old adobe vaso chimney bears S. 38 deg. 16 min. W. 16 links. The middle of the Belshaw toll road at a point where it turns out of Cerro Gordo Cañon bears N. 81¾ deg. W. 1.06 chains. The middle of Cerro Gordo Cañon bears N. .62 chains. The NW. cor. of Rafael Diaz's house bears S. 28 deg. 33 min. E. 1.58 chains. An old well 30 feet deep on the north side of Cerro Gordo Cañon bears N. 58 deg. 20 min. W. 1.93 chs. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E. (3) S. 40 deg. E. .93 W. boundary of Ygnacio mine. Set a post in mound of rocks and earth; marked post "Post 8, Summit Mine No. 2," from which the Armagh U. S. mineral monument bears N. 11 deg. W. 1.03 chains. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 E. commence descending. (4) S. 11 deg. E. 3.36 intersection of N. B. line of the Santa Niño mine at "Post 20, Santa Niño Mine;" marked the post "Post 9, Summit Mine No. 2." Post stands in mound of earth on top edge of Ygnacio dump. 3.66 W. edge of open cut at entrance to Ygnacio tunnel. 6.39 post marked "Post 10, Santa Niño Mine" on south boundary line of Santa Niño mine; marked the post "Post 10, Summit Mine No. 2;" 8.15 trail on ridge; runs E. & W. 16.49 "Post No. 2, Ygnatio Mine," on southwest corner of Ygnacio mine; marked the post "Post 11, Summit Mine No. 2," from which the entrance to the Summit tunnel at a point where the tunnel first enters ore, bears N. 33¾ deg. W. 98 links. Course of Summit tunnel for first 185 feet from mouth or entrance N. 59 deg. 6 min. E. The middle of wagon road in bottom of gulch bears S. 50 deg. W. 9 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E., commence ascending. (5) N. 79 deg. E. 1.51, post marked "Post No. 7, Y. M.," standing on SE. cor. Ygnacio mine; marked the post "Post 12, Summit Mine No. 2," from which a pine tree 9 inches dia. x14 feet high bears S. 20 deg. E. 1.40 chains. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E. (6) N. 11 deg. W. 7.57 summit of ridge bears W. commence descending. 8.33 old dump at entrance to a tunnel runs E. 19.08 "Post 21, Santa Niño Mine" on south boundary line of Santa Niño mine; marked the post "Post 13, Summit Mine No. 2" 12.12 east edge of Ygnacio open cut. 13.11 "Post 22, Santa Niño Mine," on north boundary line of Santa Niño mine; marked the post "Post 14, Summit Mine No. 2." 13.75 set a post on east boundary line of Ygnacio mine; marked the post "Post 15, Summit Mine No. 2" from which the entrance to the "Hubbard tunnel" bears N. 20 deg. W. 25 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E. commence ascending. (7) S. 40 deg. E. .76 intersection of north boundary line of Santa Niño mine. Set a post on slope of Ygnacio dump; marked the post "Post 16, Summit Mine No. 2." 3.13 intersection of the east boundary line of the Santa Niño mine, and the west boundary line of the Occident mine. Set a post in a mound of earth and marked the post "Post 17, Summit Mine No. 2," from which the southwest corner of the Occident mine bears S. 11 deg. E. 11.02 chains. 6.75 old prospecting cut on east side of summit of "Ygnacio Hill;" cut bears E. & W. 8.30 prospecting cut bears W.; commence descending. 9.14 west edge of old shaft. 11.40 coursing of wagon road runs south. 12.50 "Post 18, Summit Mine No. 2" standing on east boundary line of the Occident mine, from which "Post 5, Occident Mine," bears S. 11 deg. E. 2.83 chains. 15.72 gulch; runs south. 18.66 "Post 19, Summit Mine No. 2," standing in mound of earth on east corner of claim, from which a pine bush 3 links high bears S. 68 deg. E. 3 poles. Thence, with a var. of 15 deg. 55 min. E. (8) S. 50 deg. W. 4.54 "Post A, Summit Mine No. 2" on southeast end of lode line. 5.00 gulch; runs west. 9.09 "Post 1, Summit Mine No. 2," place of beginning.

Containing 18.34-100 acres.

The location of this mine is recorded in the Recorder's office of Cerro Gordo Mining District in Book "E," pag. 43 of said record. The adj ining claimants are George T. Hawley and W. A. Greenly.

Any and all persons claiming adversely any portion of said Summit Mine No. 2, as hereinbefore described are required to file their adverse claim with the Register of the United States Land Office at Bodie, in the State of California, during the sixty days period of publication hereof, or they will be barred by virtue of the provisions of the Statute.

To Make Butter to Keep.

Following is an extract from an article written for the New York Tribune by an experienced butter maker: The milk must be kept while the cream is rising in a situation to resist a too rapid change. The many excellent methods of cold setting now in use make this part of the work an easy matter. The churning and working, too, must be done rightly, so that the grain of the butter shall not be broken. We do not know just how the butter globule is constructed, but it is evident from the effects of handling it that the different fats of which it is composed have an arrangement as definite as the different parts of an egg, and that breaking this arrangement is about as fatal to preservation in the case of the globule as in that of the egg. It is a matter, therefore, of the first importance to keep the grain of the butter sound if it is to be preserved any considerable length of time. To do this the churning must be done in a way that will not wear out the grain by friction, but every impulse made upon the cream should operate on all of it at once and alike. It will then all come at the same time, and the granules will not be broken, nor a part of them worn out while the rest are churning.

For the best effect for long keeping, butter should not, when it has come, be gathered in a solid mass nor into large lumps, because in this shape it requires working to get the buttermilk out. It is better to gather it in granules not larger than grains of wheat, or at most, not larger than peas. When thus gathered the buttermilk can be washed out without any working and with the least possible handling. To make butter gather in granules the operator should notice that when it is about ready to gather into a mass the butter will all float upon the buttermilk and appear like a very thick cream. At this stage there should be turned into the churn, at two or three times with short intervals between, cold water enough, or what is better, cold brine enough, to reduce the temperature to 54 degrees, or at least 57 degrees, churning moderately the while. It will then form into granules and the lower the temperature the smaller they will be. The butter may then be taken from the churn and rinsed with brine till the brine runs off clear—twice rinsing is generally enough—and it is thus ready to put away to keep.

If a small quantity is to be preserved it may be kept in self-sealing fruit jars by putting the granulated butter into the jars and then filling them with brine made from the best butter-salt and as strong as it can be. The jars should not be filled quite full of butter, and before filling them exactly full with brine some bleached muslin should be laid over the butter and then the little space above filled with salt will keep the top of the brine from growing weak. If the jars are in readiness beforehand and are filled while the granules are hard, they will remain detached instead of adhering in a mass, as they would if allowed to get soft before filling. Thus put up the jars can be kept anywhere it would appear proper to keep canned fruit and the butter retain the freshness and aroma it had when it came out of the churn almost indefinitely. Some brine should be put into the jars before filling them with butter and if there is an excess of salt in it so that some of it will not be dissolved, it will assure a full strength of brine and do no harm to the butter.

No one need to be afraid of getting the butter too salt put up this way. If the granulated butter is taken from the jars after standing six months, and the brine rinsed off with cold water, the butter will be found just as fresh in all respects as when it came out of the churn, and will need as much salt to season it. Contrary to what would naturally be expected, butter fats take no salt from brine. To make butter take salt it must be worked into it. Salt has a stronger affinity for water than for any fat, and no matter how strong brine it may be, the salt in it will not leave the water to go into a fat. The only thing about butter that will take up salt is the trace of flesh-forming matter contained, and this is so small that all of the salt it can absorb will hardly affect the taste. If the granules, when taken from the brine, are pressed into a solid form without rinsing, the salt in the brine which will adhere to their surfaces will be about equal to one half ounce to a pound of butter. If more salt than this is desired it should be sprinkled into the granules before pressing them into form for use on the table.

MILAN W. HOPSON, a small market gardener of Fort Atkinson, Wis., saved all his cabbage last year by use of fine middlings. Sift the middlings on when the plants are damp and wet, so that the middlings will adhere to the leaves. The middlings are not poison, but the worms eating of them are destroyed by indigestion.

A CURIOUS apostrophe to Colonel Tom Scott is thus made by the Wilmington, N. C., Star: "Peace to the spirit of Tom Scott! May good angels attend him! He gave of his goods to aid the education of the South and he voted for General Hancock."

LEO XIII. has been applying himself with assiduity to the study of English, and not only can read it well, but recently made a very neat speech in that language to some English ladies who had visited the Vatican.

AN OLD SLANDER REVIVED.

The New York World publishes the following: The Times has revived the old slander of more than half a century ago against the Masonic fraternity, which for political purposes was then charged with aiding as an "order" in the kidnapping and supposed murder of William Morgan, to punish him for a betrayal of Masonic secrets. The occasion for reviving the slander was the discovery near Morgan's former residence of a skeleton, of a silver ring marked "W. M." and of a tobacco box containing a paper inscribed with the words, "Masons," "Liar," "Poison," "Kill," and "Henry Brown"—Henry Brown being the name of a Mason who, at the time of Morgan's disappearance, was suspected of his murder. A skeleton with a tobacco-box is certainly a new thing in romance, and the incident should interest Wilkie Collins. It is strange, however, that the word "Walker" as well as the word "Brown" should not have been found inscribed on the paper contained in the box. The testimony of tradition is that Morgan probably committed suicide. One local legend is that he leaped into Niagara Falls. An aged citizen of Albany in his dying moments once declared his belief that Thurlow Weed killed Morgan, but this was no doubt treated as an antimortem hallucination. It may have originated in the curious neglect of Mr. Weed, admitted by Mr. Weed himself, to turn over to the criminal authorities a man named Whitney, who confessed to Mr. Weed, as Mr. Weed states, that he was the murderer of Morgan. It is rather late in the century for a journal to set about stirring up the dead embers of a discreditable political agitation organized originally by unscrupulous traders in the prejudices of a past generation against an institution so respectable and so beneficient as the Masonic order.

SPEAKING of the twaddle that has been going the rounds of the papers in regard to the supposed attitude and feeling of Gen. Grant toward President Garfield, arising from the Conkling-Robertson affair, the Chicago Times pertinently says: All this worry of Conkling, Grant et al. concerning the President and their supposed relations to that functionary is very absurd. The President is the head of the Constitution. What is the relation of Conkling and Grant to the Constitution? It is simply that of private citizens. The President has no more to do with them, or either of them, than he has to do with Citizen Tilden or Citizen Hendricks, or the citizen who keeps the tavern where these citizens lodge. He is not accountable for his Presidential course to that tavern-keeper, nor to any of his lodgers. By what right shall one of his lodgers more than another require the President to apologize or satisfactorily explain to him his Presidential course, on pain of the refusal of that lodger to consider himself as standing in amicable relations with the President? What possible difference will it make to the President whether that lodger supposes that the relations between them is amicable or not amicable?

A SAN FRANCISCO dispatch says: S. H. Squire, a merchant at Gold Mountain, Nev., just arrived in this city, is highly pleased with the outlook for that district. He inspected the State Line mines before leaving five days ago. He states that there is sufficient ore developed to supply a 40-stamp mill for two years. If the continuation of the incline shows the same quality of ore to the next level, it will give the mines a value above any other gold mines on the continent.

THE LATEST.

Advices received by the mail from the north this morning, gives Washington dates up to half-past two o'clock of the afternoon of the 6th, at which time the prospect for the President's recovery was considered good, though by no means positively assured. The weather was exceedingly warm, and every available device was being tried to reduce the temperature in the sick room, upon which much depended.

WITHDRAWS.

Platt, Conkling's man Friday, on the 1st instant, formerly withdrew from the Senatorial fight, at which Conkling and Arthur were much displeased. The dispatch says:

"Platt's withdrawal is alleged to be due to the effect produced by his escapade with a woman at the Delavan House on Thursday night. The woman came to the hotel in the afternoon, and was assigned to room 113, which Platt was seen to enter at 11 o'clock that night. Senator Woodin, Assembiyman Husted, Steele and Skinner, and several other persons, by means of a step-ladder, succeeded in looking through the transom of the room and securing undeniable evidence against Platt. A note was then slipped under the door giving Platt ten minutes to get to his room, which he did, though not without running the gauntlet of many watchful members of the Legislature who had secured rooms in the neighborhood. The woman remained in the room until noon on Friday, when she slipped out and was driven rapidly away in a carriage. Her indentity was not discovered."

The New York times says: "The withdrawal of Platt can hardly fail to have an important effect upon the Senatorial contest, however much his former supporters may strive to make Crowley fill his place as an exact substitute. If the long-term vacancy can be filled by a man not specially identified with either side of the contest of the last six weeks, but acceptable to both, that will be a great gain, but there should be in such a choice no seeds of a compromise, contemplating in any contingency, however remote, the revival of the dead claims of Conkling. His defeat should in any and every case be regarded as the ultimatum. Platt is out of the way, and his place should be promptly filled, so that the vacancy caused by Conkling's resignation may be dealt with alone, then the lines of responsibility will be drawn still more closely and the question whether the Republican party is to be defeated by Republicans will have to be settled."

PROF. JAMES ORTON says silver is usually found with lead ore and native copper. Slates and sandstones intersected by igneous rocks, as trap and porphyry, are good localities. Pure silver is often found in and near iron ores, and the dark brown zinc blende. The New Mexico silver ores are porous at the surface, and colored more or less red and green. Any rock suspected of containing silver should be powdered and dissolved in acid. Pour off the liquid and add to it a solution of salt. If a white powder falls to the bottom, which, upon exposure turns black, there is silver in it. Silver mines increase in value as in depth, whereas gold diminishes as we descend.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY UPTON has been permitted to resign, and has left for a little European trip. He ought to have been dismissed in disgrace, and sent to prison. He was one of the leading executive officers of the Treasury-robbers' band, of which Custodian Pitney was the willing tool. Upton leaves behind him many friends, who owe their walnut secretaries, costly furniture, frescoed walls, gorgeous carpets, and many other articles of beauty and utility, to his shrewdness and complaisance. They will not forget his kindness in giving them all this out of the Treasury Contingent fund, and in consenting to be made one of their scape-goats.

A MAINE paper says that Judge Smith should not be Governor of that State because he is a bachelor, and adds: "If a man has not enough sense to get married, where there are so many charming women as in Maine, he should not be eligible for fence-viewer in a back township."

GEO. S. SPAULDING, a Past Master of a Masonic Lodge at Point Arena, committed suicide in the Masonic Temple at San Francisco, July 3d, by taking strychnine. He left a note stating it to be his deliberate act, and other facts, but assigning no cause.

IT is estimated that in the last 18 months $200,000,000 have been expended in railroad work in this country.

THE STORY OF THE ASSASSINATION.

No one within the bounds of civilization but has, ere this, heard the dreadful news of the shooting of President Garfield, yet the full particulars of the occurrence should be told in these columns, and are as follows:

On the morning of July 2d the President stepped from his carriage to board the train at the Baltimore and Potomac railroad depot. A man walking up behind him within three or four feet, fired two shots at the President. The first of them took effect in his shoulder, the second in the small of the back, passing through the liver as was afterwards ascertained. The President was afterward taken to the White House. Secretary Blaine went to the depot to see the President off, and says of the terrible affair:

Secretary Blaine was not going with the party, but merely went down to bid the President good-bye. He said:

"The President and I were walking arm in arm toward the train. I heard two shots and saw a man run. I started after him, but seeing that he was grabbed, just as he got out of the room, I went back to the President and found him lying on the floor, which was already covered with the President's blood. A number of people had gathered around shortly afterwards and had some of that blood on their persons. I think I know the party who fired the shots. I think his name is Gitteau."

This Gitteau is well known as a shyster Chicago lawyer, and is undoubtedly a monomaniac in regard to politics as well as religious matters. He used an English bull-dog, calibre 44 pistol. When the officers got hold of him, and were taking him to police headquarters, he said voluntarily to them: "I did it, and will go to jail for it. I am a stalwart, and Arthur will be President." He had a letter in his hand, and wanted the officer to take it to General Sherman, saying it would be all right. The prisoner made no resistance, saying that he had contemplated the killing of the President, and it was for the "good of the country." Subsequently, he repeated the remark, adding that it was to "save the Republican party." Also, "I am a stalwart among stalwarts. With Garfield out of the way we can carry all the Northern States, and with him in the way we can't carry a single one." He then said to McElfresh: "You stick to me and have me put in the third story front at the jail, and General Sherman is coming down to take charge. Arthur and all those men are my friends, and I'll have you made Chief of Police. When you go back to the depot you will find that I left a bundle of papers at the news-stand, which will explain all."

The President fell to the floor almost immediately after receiving the second shot. He was soon after taken up stairs, death marking every lineament of his face. He said not a word until he was laid down. He asked that his shoes be taken off, saying he felt pain in his feet. As soon as the shoes were removed he said to Secretary Windom: "Go right away, and send a telegram to Mrs. Garfield, saying that I feel considerably better, and if she feels well enough, tell her to come to Washington immediately." The dispatch was sent, and a special train was at once sent to Long Branch for Mrs. Garfield.

After his removal to the White House, he rallied considerably, and at times, assumed almost a jocose tone in his remarks. About the time he began to rally he said to Dr. Bliss: "Doctor, what are the indications?" Dr. Bliss replied: "There is a chance of recovery." "Well, then," replied the President, cheerfully, "We will take that chance." Up to the very last he continued brave and cheerful, saying that though desiring to live he was not afraid of death.

The foregoing was written immediately after the news was received that Garfield could not live but a few hours at the most. We, in common with all civilization, thank God most heartily that the presumption of death was disappointed. The life of no man that ever lived was ever more generally prayed for the world over than is that of President Garfield.

THE PATENT OFFICE.

We read that an effort will be made, next Winter, to push through Congress a bill separating the Patent Office from the Interior Department, and reorganizing it thoroughly. Every Commissioner of Patents for a generation past has complained of a lack of sufficient appropriations to carry on his work satisfactorily, and the conviction is now general that the niggardliness of Congress would cease if the work of the office were presented separately instead of as a part of that of the Interior Department. The truth is that the office, instead of being an expense to the Government, yields to it a handsome annual revenue, and has never failed to do so. Out of this revenue the handsome building was constructed in which the Interior Department is located, and in which the Patent office itself has very inadequate quarters. There is a steady increase in the amount of business before the office, and in a few years the whole building will be needed for its operations.

Before and After.

The following appears in the dispatches:

Robert, the President's colored driver who drove to the depot with the President's sons, was terribly excited over the affair. He says that somebody came out of the depot and said that the President was shot. "I felt that sick I almost fainted away. I said to Mr. Secretary Brown, 'What will they do with that man that shot him?' Mr. Brown said he supposed they would lock him up for life as a dangerous lunatic. Is dat all dey goin' to do wid him? Just let 'em turn him over to me, and I tell yon what I do. I'de take four horses out of de stable, hitch 'em one to each arm and leg, and then, O, Lordy, wouldn't I love to drive those teams until there wasn't a shred left of that devil to pull to pieces."

Inside the White House, after 6 P. M., every formality was waived. In one window stood Blaine, Kirkwood, Tucker and the Portugese Minister. Blaine related how he had called in a carriage to take the President to the depot. The President said: "You have no idea how happy I am this morning. I feel like a boy again. Everything seems to go well. Funding operations are successful, and I think we have gotten through our hard times. The people seem to be with us, and I think we can look forward to having a very successful administration. I am so well satisfied with the past that I can go to New England and just have a boy's frolic. I intend to forget that I am President, and all about past troubles and have a good wholesome rest." He said further, "I have now completed four months of my administration. The Cabinet is each day becoming more welded together. There never to this day has been an unkind word said across the Cabinet table," and, said Blaine, "The President's plans were broad, comprehensive and just. He had commenced what would have been a brilliant Administration. He proposed to do equal justice to every man, and I know had not an unkind thought in his life against any woman, man or child." Blaine did not believe that Guitteau was the tool of any conspiracy, and had no such thought.

Judge Swayne, who broke the news to Mrs. Garfield at Long Branch, says he went to her with fear and trembling, intending to break it gently, but soon felt like a criminal under skilful cross-examination, so direct and cool was her manner before he spoke. She said, "What is the matter?" He replied, "The President has met with an accident." Mrs. G. asked at once, "Is he dead?" He said, "No." "What was the accident?" Judge Swayne as deliberately as possible, replied, I "think he was shot probably in some accidental way. He, I think, must have been fooling with a pistol, and doubtless he shot himself. I cannot think it is anything serious." Mrs. Garfield said, "It is impossible that he could have shot himself. He has been shot. Tell me the truth." He saw it was useless to evade her, and when she learned all, she gave directions as coolly as an executive officer of a ship could have prepared for action.

Dr. Bliss says: "From the very first the President has been plucky, brave, and at times, indeed, in almost a frolicsome mood. Never in all my experience have I met such a patient. I have never seen such nerve, coolness and self-possession, the President discussing the case with me. It has been, 'Bliss, how is it?' ever since the tragedy." Drs. Frank H. Hamilton, of New York, and Dr. H. Agnew, of Philadelphia, have been requested by telegraph to come to Washington by the fret train. to a consultation with the attendant physicians.

THE following, from the New York Sun, referred to a recent case in San Francisco, and appeared before the murderous act of Guiteau gave point to it, and set a whole nation in mourning. It will be a good day for the country when "crazy" murderers, are either hung outright or sent for life to an insane asylum without appeal. She Sun says:

The point made by Judge Ferral in this case is one that in these days of frequent homicides committed under the influence of temporary emotional insanity; and of successful defences on that plea, offers food for reflection in other States than California. A man who has once committed a homicide, and been adjudged, whether by reason of hereditary taint or otherwise, to be subject to fits of mental aberration, during which he is liable to take the lives of his fellow men, enjoys the power to murder without fear of punishment. It is highly improbable that a man once adjudged insane under such circumstances would by another jury, upon the perpetration of a second homicide, be adjudged sane. The second crime would only confirm the correctness of the first verdict; and the greater the number of homicides, the clearer would be the evidence of the mental derangement. There is only one safe rule to follow in such cases. Prisoners acquitted of homicide on the plea ought to be confined for life in retreats for the insane. It is possible to conceive of cases in which this might be a hardship, but it is necessary for the public safety.

THE latest fashionable female folly in England is powdering the hair with gold dust, or bronze. It is not likely to last long, however, for gentlemen complain that it is not pretty to look at and in dancing it flies into their eyes and also acts as snuff. As a consequence the prettiest girls get no partners because they are "too dusty."

THE Mining and Scientific Press has has just begun its 22d year. Every mining man ought to take the Press, and it is as good a family paper as this coast affords.

A COLORADO man amused himself by throwing his revolver in the air and catching it. His funeral was one of the most recherche affairs ever witnessed in the State.

Pension Circular.

War Department, Adjudant-General's Office, Washington, May 16, 1881. There being now pending in this Department great numbers of volunteer pension claims which cannot be satisfactorily verified for want of information which missing records of discontinued volunteer commands would afford, and it having transpired in many instances that officers of the late volunteer forces have still in their possession or under their control books and other records pertaining to their corps, divisions, brigades, regiments, and companies, their attention is called to the fact that all such books and records should be deposited with this office, and they are earnestly requested to cause the same to be forwarded without delay to the Adjutant General of the Army, at Washington, District of Columbia.

No expense, other than postage or proper express charges (when packages exceed four pounds, the limits for mail parcels), can be paid by the Government.

In the interest of the great number of widows, orphans, and disabled soldiers whose claims are involved, the newspapers of the country are requested to give the substance of this circular the greatest publicity.

By order of the Secretary of War.

Death of Major Conklin.

Judge A. R. Conklin received word last week of the death of his aged father, Major L. C. Conklin, of Tunkhannock, Pennsylvania, of whom the Tunkhannock Republican of June 24th, speaks as follows: Maj. L. C. Conklin, one of our oldest, best known and most respected citizens, died at his residence yesterday morning at twenty minutes past five o'clock. The immediate cause of his death was paralysis, though he had long been suffering from a complication of diseases. His life has been extended to over eighty years (that birthday having occurred on the 9th of November last) and gradual decay has smoothed the way to a painless passing from earth. He leaves an aged widow and several children to remember rather than sorrow for the departure of one for whom life must soon have become a heavy burden and to whom death came as a blessing. Major Conklin was a member of the Presbyterian church and in its edifice the funeral services will take place on Sabbath afternoon at half-past two o'clock. To those of his family who remain the sympathies of our citizens are bountifully given and upon his grave kind hands and generous hearts will ever strew the asphodel of love and the amaranth of appreciative memory.

A GREAT deal is said by the Stockton papers, and those of the San Joaquin valley generally, about a prospectus just issued by a projected standard-guage railroad from some point on Suisun Bay, thence by the most feasible line to Stockton, and from that city, southerly, skirting along the foothills on the eastern verge of the valley to Bakersfield, and to continue southward across the Southern Pacific track to the south end of Kern valley. Senator Sharon, Wm. C. Carr and Robert Burton of San Francisco are named as Directors, with six chosen in the East. It is said that each of the six Directors in the East control capital enough to build the road without any outside assistance. If Mr. Carr is connected with the enterprise we have good basis for the hope that it is more than talk, and will be successfully carried through. Much may safely be predicted on his energy and the influence he is able to exert over the minds of men. Should he take hold of the matter in earnest, a widespread enthusiasm would soon be stirred up and the bonds of the company be eagerly taken above par.—Kern Co, Californian.

THE State will soon attack the practical part of its bag making enterprise at the State prison at San Quentin. A correspondent of the San Rafael Journal gives the latest information on the subject. It says that the new factory is a building 240 ft. long by 140 ft. wide, of brick, one story high with concrete floor, to hold machinery consisting of 100 looms and 44 other machines, such as spinning frames, dressers, warp winders, dry spinners, dampers, measures, sack cutters, and finishers. All these are for the manufacture of jute burlaps from the raw material, which at present must be imported from Calcutta, and of which 500 tons have already arrived and are in store at San Francisco. The building now in course of construction will have an inside frame work of heavy trussed timbers with gable roofs running laterally, and to be covered with tin. The machinery, which was manufactured in England, is due at San Francisco the latter part of this month, and there is no doubt but that by the last of September, the factory will be in full operation and giving steady work to 400 prisoners.

THE Detroit Free Press states that "while the circus with 'the most beautiful woman in America' was parading through Chicago, the other day, the absurd cry was raised by a practical joker, 'The $10,000 beauty has got loose!' The crowd ran in every direction. Some women fainted, and one was thrown through a window, nearly killing a telephone operator." Those who have seen "the most beautiful" think the people were justified in being panic-stricken.

IT is said that smuggling has greatly increased on the Mexican border near Tucson, and that the Government will make stronger efforts than before to suppress it.

Now that the comet has come every savant is eager to express his opinion of it. One Professor Klein claims that he discovered it in September last, and that it is the comet of 1783. He is of the opinion that the earth passed through the tail of this comet, and that its vapors so permeated the atmosphere as to be the direct cause of the recent unprecedented rainfall all over the country. He attributes many recent hurricanes and cyclones to the same cause. If the comet has not given any extraordinary satisfaction to the people, it at least, has granted to all scientific persons an opportunity to air their opinions.

VERY little is allowed to transpire in regard to the great suit between the Texas Pacific and Southern Pacific railroads. Issue was joined on the 24th ult., at Santa Fe, and we infer from rather indefinite references in eastern telegrams that the case has been argued and submitted, and that the defendant tendered $6,000 for the right of way. Should the decision be in favor of the plaintiff, the latter offers to pay the Southern Pacific Railroad the value of the track, as determined by the Court, and tenders $1,000,000 as a deposit with the Court as guarantee of good faith.

WE are in receipt of the July number of that splendid publication, the Resources of California, and find in it so much of valuable information relating to our State and the Coast generally, that we can most heartily commend it to all, more especially to those who wish to keep non-resident friends posted in relation to the real opportunities offered by this country. It is published by J. H. P. Wentworth, 320 Sansome street, San Francisco, at $2 per annum. It is a 16-page, beautifully printed and illustrated monthly.

THE Visalia Delta says that in consequence of the discriminations in freight charges against that place their large surplus of fine fruit is rotting on the ground. The agent of a Louisiana colony will soon examine a tract of ten thousand acres of land in that county, to pass upon its adaption for their purposes. They expect to engage in the cultivation of the vine. Tom Fowler is in full possession of the Mineral King mine, but is not pushing work with any remarkable degree of vigor.

A ST. LOUIS dispatch of July 1st says: Information has been received here from J. F. Goddard, General Freight Agent of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad at Boston, that all difficulties relating to traffic between that road and the Southern Pacific have been amicably adjusted, and that freight to all points in New Mexico, Arizona and Southern California, as well as San Francisco, will be taken from and after to-day at the old tariff rates.

JEFF DAVIS denies the oft-told story that at their interview at Hampton Roads, just before the close of the war, President Lincoln intimated that the Government would pay $400,000,000 for the liberation of the slaves. He says Lincoln had no authority to make such an offer, and that he himself could not have accepted it if it had been made.

WE are indebted to I. W. Taber & Co. No. 8, Montgomery street, San Francisco, for a number of the finest photographs of persons, buildings, etc., we have ever seen. This firm have recently adopted all the very latest improvements in photography, and their work will show for itself against any in the world, to judge from our specimens.

Secretary Hunt proposes to present to the next Congress a report on the pressing need of the navy for proper vessels and for that purpose has appointed an advisory boasd of officers to consult and reconcile opinions and unite in recommending such measures as Congress would be likely to approve.

THE San Francisco Chronicle remarks: "The unanimity of the press in declaring that the act of Guiteau was destitute of any political relations is very marked and is worthy of note. It is one of the few things which give any consolation in this deplorable tragedy."

THE bones of William Penn are to remain in their English grave. The Pall Mall Gazette says that no ground of equal appropriateness could be found in America for his bones to rest in—that he is in the company of those with whom he agreed in religious belief.

GUITEAU, among other accomplishments, possesses that of making political slates. Among his papers was his sketch of an ideal stalwart Cabinet, with Conkling in the chief place and Logan as Secretary of War.

A COMPANY has been formed in New York called the Central Northern Pacific and Oregon River Navigation Co. Villard is President of it. Its capital stock is $50,000,000.

A MOVEMENT looking to General Hancock's renomination has already been started in Democratic circles.

MRS. LINCOLN, whose reason has long been impaired, is now stricken with an illness from which it is feared she will never recover. We find this item concerning her in an Eastern paper:

Senator David Davis has been summoned to the sick bed of Mrs. Abraham Lincoln, at Springfield, Illinois. David Davis was the life-long friend of Lincoln, the executor of his estate, and he is now called in to regulate the widow's estate. The devotion to the memory of Lincoln, which the nation would have gladly shown in testimonies to his widow, have been unhappily prevented by mental abberation, that has made it impossible always to remember the unfortunate lady as the relict of the most lamented statesman that ever directed the affairs of a nation.

ALUM WATER FOR VERMIN.—Millers and others, who are troubled with bugs and worms investing crevices in the bolting chests and other machinery, are recommended to try hot alum water, which is suggested by high scientific authority, as a good method of destroying creeping bugs. Take two pounds of alum and place it in three quarts of warm water (or in that proportion), and let it stand on the stove until the alum disappears. Apply while hot with a brush to the crevices and other places that conceal the insects, or use it as the exigencies of the case requires.

THE INYO INDEPENDENT has entered upon a new volume and the twelfth year of its existence. THE INDEPENDENT has been an able advocate of the interests of its region of the country, and an energetic gatherer of news. Through all these years it has faithfully labored for the good of Inyo county, and, although its proprietors have not become millionaires they give their patrons a paper which for real worth and merit should make them such.—Candelaria True Fissure.

THE INYO INDEPENDENT has drifted into its twelfth year of service. THE INDEPENDENT is a bright, newsy paper, and as it grows in age loses none of its energy or usefulness.—Esmeralda Herald.

PROPOSALS FOR PAINTING COURT HOUSE.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT SEALED Proposals will be received by the Board of Supervisors of Inyo county, at the office of the County Clerk, until MONDAY, AUGUST 1st, 1881, at 12 o'clock M., for the painting of the Court House, as follows:

The outside walls, veranda, balcony and outside doors with three coats of paint; the Court House roof with two coats of fire proof paint; also, the painting of the inside of County Clerk's office and the Court room with two coats of paint. The county to furnish all materials, such as paints, oils, and putty; the contractors to furnish their own brushes and tools. Size of said building being about 40x60 feet. The contractor will also be required to nail any board or cornice that may be loose, the same to be considered in the contract price.

The person or persons to whom said contract shall be awarded will be required to give a good and sufficient bond in double the amount of such contract price for the faithful performance of said contract. Payments to be made by warrants drawn on the Expense Fund. Proposals must be endorsed: "Proposals for Painting of Court House." And the same will be opened between the hours of 1 o'clock and 2 o'clock P. M. on said 1st day of August 1881.

And the right is reserved by said Board of Supervisors to reject any and all bids.

JOHN CROUGH,
Clerk of the Board of Supervisors.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, JULY 9.....1881

AT BISHOP.—From Mrs. E. M. Willis, just returned from Bishop Creek, we have the following in relation to matters in that locality: The receipts for the late Fair and Festival were $110; above expenditures, $83. The flowers were admired by all though they were not abundant, because of the lateness of the season. All the bouquets were sold, one going at $3. The attendance was good and the liberality of the people can better be appreciated when it is known that this was the second church social in less than a week, the Baptists having given one a few days previously to raise funds to procure new seats for that church, and which festival was liberally patronized. Mrs. W. says a kinder or more accommodating people never lived than those of Bishop Creek. The new church has found its place in the affections and pride of the people, and they are willing to pay for it all in good time. It will be hurried on to completion and will be ready for dedication soon. The contractor has given receipts for more than $1,000 paid him—other subscriptions are due when the building is completed. The Board of Church Extension of the M. E. Church will give several hundred dollars, thereby reducing the debt to an amount that can be easily provided for, more especially since arrangements have been made to the effect that no interest shall be paid for one year on any remaining indebtedness.

A FINE ENTERTAINMENT IN PROSPECT. Mrs. Sara Stevens Heenan, assisted by Miss Zelia Meysan, Miss M. Stevens, Mr. Geo. Gregory and Mr. Wm. Barrows (who have kindly consented to sing for the occasion at Independence) will give an entertainment consisting of dramatic readings and recitations, songs, duetts, etc., at Independence, Wednesday evening, July 13th, Big Pine, July 14th, and Bishop Creek, July 15. We will undertake to say that the promised entertainment is worthy the attendance of every person in reach. The object of these several entertainments, in its financial aspect, is to raise funds to be applied in paying for the fine new piano recently purchased for society uses in the Lone Pine school house.

BULLION SHIPMENT.—June 29th, the O. L. M. & M. Co., shipped one bar of bullion, weighing 92½ pounds, valued at $1,800. The mill at Keeler is now shut down and hands discharged, but it is not the intention to permit this state of affairs to continue but a few weeks at the most. The mill is, we believe, one of the very best in the State, and up to date, has made a splendid and paying record, with J. H. Holt in direct charge, and Capt. Keeler for general manager.

AN OPINION.—An old friend submits the following observation: "It is nothing new under the sun, but for all that, people sometimes wonder how 'tis that some folks are very liberal and trusting when they have poor goods for sale; and all at once, they have new and better goods as ever before they turn around and don't know their old customers except they lay down the cash beforehand."

AT DEEP SPRING.—Jas. E., the junior of this paper, accompanied Messrs. Griswold and Todd on their tour of inspection of the mining properties and chances over at Deep Springs, starting Sunday last. Mr. Hedge came in last Thursday, and reports the party well pleased with the outlook in general, but intending to remain several days yet so as to see it all as near as may be before returning.

THE KEARSARGE.—Recent developments in the deepest workings, (some 600 feet under ground) of the Kearsarge are of such an encouraging character as to warrant us in saying that active work will, ere long, be inaugurated on the deep or "big" tunnel, by which alone can the real value of the famous old mine be satisfactorily determined.

FOR THE EAST.—Mrs A. R. Conklin, and youngest child, started on the 5th for a trip East, the Judge occompanying them as far as Mohave. Mrs. C. expects to be gone two or three months, starting at this time on account of the recent death of Major Conkling, the Judge's aged father, of whose death mention is made elsewhere.

PERSONAL.—Mr. Jas. M. Pike, of Sierra county, and family are now visiting Mrs. P's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Walker of Olancha. Mr. Pike has for years past been engaged in extensive hydraulic mining in Sierra county. With Mr. Walker, he is now in this place, designing to take a look at our country generally.

TO BE ABANDONED.—The Resting Spring mines, located in the southeastern corner of this county), are to be abandoned. A few days since some of the owners of those mines were sent out from Los Angeles with instructions to clean up the amalgam to date, sell the mill, discharge the men and abandon work.

DR. HOWELL.—Dr. H. H. Howell's professional card appears in this issue, it heretofore appearing as Bicknell & Howell. We are assured that the doctor is a most worthy gentleman and physician.

RESIGNED.—We understand that I. M. Taylor has resigned the superintendency of the State Line mines, and that Frank Obiston, of Virginia City, takes his place.

A CHANCE.—There is a chance now for some painter to get a contract to repaint the Court House. See notice for proposals.

STATED MEETING.—The stated meeting of Inyo Lodge, No 221, F. & A. M.' takes place this evening.

At Lone Pine.

A dozen or two of Independence representatives, including a number of ladies, went to Lone Pine Monday to assist in the proposed festivities at that lively burg. Among these was an INDEPENDENT "commissioner"—a very discreet person, who would not expose anybody. Nothing in the way of a regular Fourth of July celebration—orating, reading original patriotic poetry fresh from the old authors, marching in procession, or anything of that kind, was contemplated or undertaken; so no one was tired out, and every one, being free to choose his own amusement, bent his energies to sociability, and there were none but were well pleased with the result—far better than common on such occasions. The

INCIDENTS

Of the day worth special mentioning were not numerous or striking; neither did the aforesaid "commissioner" go there to fret and worry himself in the capacity of a reporter—neither will he. But it is his duty to record the fact that discretion in a couple of instances and bad marksmanship in another averted the spilling of about

THREE BUCKETS OF BLOOD,

More or less. The stories of the contemplated tragedies by which the above quantity of gore might have been extracted came to us second-handed, and therefore are incomplete except as to the main facts They are as follows: First came two young Mexicans, both of whom suddenly became all "swolled" up with chivalry and mutual animosity, the latter largely predominating. It at once became painfully obvious that nothing short of blood or sugar could restore them to their normal condition. It was agreed that they would repair to the plaza, and fix the thing up according to the code, save that the shooting was to commence immediately after the two swollen knights had crossed the smooth-running little irrigating ditch that marked the plaza boundary. Arrived at this Rubicon with a crowd at their heels, ere crossing o'er, the two Cæsars paused, cogitated, simultaneously saw it would hurt, and decided that sugar suited their cases better than blood—so they went back and took the sugar. Subsequently, a gentleman of the same nationality got exceedingly wroth at the way his horse was being ridden by another. Each emphatically held that the other was of a canine descent in the direct line on the maternal side, which interchange irritated the tall gentleman to that degree that he rushed furiously off to get his gun whereby to exterminate the other on sight. This produced no particular panic. It was remembered that the gentleman had gone for his gun in a similar manner on previous occasions, but never finding it when needed, always got back in a comparatively placid frame of mind. There was no blood spilled that time, either. To close this gory tale, we now pass for a moment to the afternoon of July 5, at which time the sun was beating down as if to burn a hole in the earth; it was no time or place for anybody to quarrel themselves into additional heat. Nevertheless, three gallons of lager encased in two ex-subjects of Kaiser Wilhelm, created such a heated difference of views between the two as to cause some actual shooting—two shots by the larger receptacle at the smaller, and one shot by the latter for home. No blood. There was some

HORSE RACING

As part of the regular programme for both the Fourth and the following day. The race on the Fourth attracted quite a large crowd, but in itself was not a very important event. It was for saddle horses only, distance, 440 yards. There were but two entries—Sutcliffe's Gray Pete and "Roeper's mare." It was judged at the outcome only, and adjudged a tie—no harm done. We undertake an account of the race on the 5th with some misgivings, since our information in relation to this as well as the preceding came second-handed, though direct from a prominent actor, Mr. Begole, who devoted some hours in explaining certain details. There would have been no trouble in obtaining a clear understanding of what was related over and over again but for this fact, namely: There were three prominent mining gentlemen helping to understand how it was. In all the ordinary affairs of life we accord to these gentlemen a good deal more than average intelligence; but from their failure in holding to the thread of Mr. B.'s graphic account of this race, it is evident these gentlemen could not be relied upon for newspaper reporters, since none of them professed to understand how the thing was done, though they were told time and again. We can commiserate their obtuseness in cases of this kind but can't condone it inasmuch as their varied understandings of the same plain story only tended to confuse the above mentioned commissioner to such a degree that he don't feel that he can devote the space necessary for Mr. B.'s lucid account in detail. Suffice it to say that Mr. Begole, as turner, handled Nellie Brown, the filly that won the purse and race, in a manner to give her an admirable send-off; that Wake-up-Jake took to the sagebrush, losing some sixty feet and probably the race thereby; that the third entry, name unknown, got through the six hundred yards in excellent time and shape, but not quite soon enough to win anything.

The principal feature of the celebration was the concert, described elsewhere, which was followed by

A GRAND BALL AND SUPPER.

The dancing hall was large and exceedingly well adapted for its present purpose; the music of four pieces led by Mr. Glenn, of Bishop, was superb, being highly lauded by all; the attendance was large, but not so much so as to detract from the pleasure of a sufficiency of room and a fair chance for every one; the ladies rather predominated in numbers, and of these, by far the larger portion were young—and handsome, too, we would assert but for reasons every married man will understand and appreciate. The supper at the Whitney House was good enough for anybody's marriage feast, and the whole affair was enjoyable and creditable to a high degree.

MINUTES BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

TUESDAY, July 5, 1881.

Board of Supervisors met persuant to adjournment (May meeting) at 2 o'clock P. M., and adjourned till Wednesday, July 6th, 1881, at 10 o'clock A. M.

The Independence Sunday School.

MESSRS. EDITORS—All interested in the Independence Sunday School will be proud of our report for the 13 weeks ending with the 26th of June. The average for each Sabbath reaches 43—being greater than the average for any other quarter. The school owns a good organ, a good library and has lesson books and papers paid for to the close of the year and is free from debt. Pupils, teachers and all lovers of good music are indebted to Miss Nettie Thompson who is promptly at the organ each Sabbath furnishing excellent music and thereby greatly improving the singing. Much encouraged we look for increased prosperity in the future.

E. M. WILLIS.

Independence, July 9, 1881.

THE BOOM AT HAND.—The following, dated July 4th from a reliable correspondent at Bishop Creek, conveys pleasing and probably highly important information: "Allow me to say," the child is born, and is double named, the Mountain Chief and the Valley Queen. These are two locations made in the old Antelope District near the Golden Wedge, which was discovered and worked 18 years ago. The find was by Alvin Brooks. The rock is identical with the Hypolite mine and located about ten miles from it, almost due north. Now let the old residents take the line, this ledge is certainly continuous. If so the Comstock was only half length. The "boom" is here. Go to the hills, boys, and find the ledge. It does not crop out under the shade trees at Bishop Creek, nor do the croakers cover it on the hills. Hurrah for Inyo! She's a bigger man than old Grant."

A MINER.

The Lone Pine Concert.

The commodious school house at Lone Pine was crowded to its utmost capacity by local residents and visitors from other localities, attracted thither to witness the concert advertised to be given on the evening of the Fourth. A leading, perhaps the principal attraction, was to hear the dramatic readings by Mrs. Sara Stevens Heenan.

It was a beautiful tableau, that presented when the curtain rose for the opening song. At the left of the stage sat Mrs. Heenan, magnificently dressed in white silk with flowing train, at the grand piano, now to be tried for the first time, having been received but a few hours before. Standing in proper order upon the stage were five young ladies, and two gentlemen, the front rank of the former all in tasty white, and all neat and attractive. In due order, the following programme was presented:

Song—"Columbia, the Land of the Brave;" by the entire Club—Misses Blanche, Mary and Zelia Meysan, Miss Marcia Stevens, Miss Minnie Lasky, Messrs. Geo. Gregory and T. Richards, Mrs. Heenan, contralto and piano.

Duet and chorus—"We come again to greet you;" by the Club.

Recitation—"Building of the ship;" by Mrs. Heenan.

Duet—"Summer Evening;" Misses Zelia Meysan and Marcia Stevens.

Song—"Stop that knocking at the door;" Miss M. Stevens, Mrs. Heenan, Messrs. Gregory and Richards.

Recitation—"Song of the Shirt," in costume, by Mrs. Heenan.

Quartette—"Come where my love lies dreaming;" by the Club.

Duet—"Oh, could I teach yon warbling bird;" Miss Marcia Stevens and Geo. Gregory.

Recitation—"Little Edith's modest request;" Mrs. Heenan.

Duet—Mrs. Heenan and Miss M. Stevens.

"America" (and close)—by the Club.

The Club had practiced exclusively with organ accompaniment; changing at once, without any previous practice whatever, to the piano tended in some degree to shake the confidence of some of the singers in themselves, and doubtless detracted something from the effect. But the Club acquitted themselves most excellently; they may well be proud of their success. Mr. Gregory is a fine tenor, Miss Zelia Meysan has a beautiful voice. But there were no solos to give opportunity to judge the powers of the respective singers, individually considered. The object of the entertainment, as well as of others to come, was and is to raise funds to pay for the fine new piano, purchased for society purposes. Its total cost approximates $300. To close with this part, we may say that of the musical presentations, "Summer Evening," and "Stop that knocking," were particularly fine, and well received.

Mrs. Sara Stevens Heenan is an artist par excellence. As a lady elocutionist, we doubt if she has a superior in the United States. We fancy, too, that in appropriate characters, she would take the highest rank as an actress. Her "Launching of the ship" was a master piece of elocution, though less pleasing in its nature than "Little Edith's Request." Socially, she is a lady to attact warm friendships and esteem wherever she may be. We commend her to the good offices of all our friends, and hope that all may avail themselves of coming opportunities to pass upon this and her professional abilities, as well as of those with whom she is now to be briefly associated, in these entertainments.

WATER RIGHTS.

BISHOP CREEK, June 30, 1881.

MESSRS. EDITORS—A great many people believe that Balaam's ass didn't talk; if any one doubts the story let them go along the Inyo range of the White Mountains. They will occasionally see "two" of the lenial descendants; one with a pair of blankets; the other on the end of a rope in the possession of a "water right," with the following inscription—either on a board or in the head of the one at the end of the rope—"For Sale, price $10,000." If these two asses have failed to comply with either of the following requirements they should pull the picket pin—roll the blankets and go to the Rosiling Center (saloon) and convince any doubting Thomas of their ability to talk. Must post a notice at the place of diversion stating therein:

1. That he claims the water to the extent of giving the number of inches measured under a four inch pressure.

2. The purpose for which he claims it, and the place of intended use.

3. The means by which he intends to divert it, and the size of the flume, ditch, pipe or aqueduct in which he intends to divert it; and must be on record at the County Recorders in ten days.

4. Within 60 days he must commence the work and prosecute diligently and uninterruptedly to completion—to the place of intended use.

Persons who have heretofore claimed the right to water, and have not complied with these requirements must within 20 days do so or their right ceases.

If any of the descendants of this ancient line should hear some gentleman read this, don't mention the shot-gun—please—that's just as nice as we can say it.

JEFF DAVIS' CAPTURE.

From Mr. Davis' Forthcoming Book

After a short time I was hailed by a voice which I recognized as that of my private secretary, who informed me that the marauders had been hanging around the camp, and that he and others were on post around it and were expecting an assault as soon as the moon went down. A silly story had got abroad that it was a treasure train, and auri sacra fames had probably instigated these marauders, as it subsequently stimulated Gen. J. H. Wilson to send out a large force to capture the same train. For the protection of my family I traveled with them two or three days, when beleiving they had passed out of the region of marauders, I determined to leave their encampment at nightfall to execute my original purpose. My horse and those of my party proper were saddled preparatory to a start, when one of my staff, who had ridden into a neighboring village, returned and told me that he had heard that a marauding party intended attacking the camp that night. This decided me to wait long enough to see whether there was any truth in the rumor, which I supposed would be ascertained in a few hours. My horse remained saddled and my pistols in the holsters, and I lay down, fully dressed, to rest. Nothing occurred to rouse me till just before dawn, when my coachman, a free colored man, who faithfully clung to our fortunes, came up and told me that there was firing on the other side of the branch, just behind our encampment. I stepped out of my wife's tent and saw some horsemen whom I immediately recognized as cavalry, deploying around the encampment. I turned back and told my wife these were not the expected marauders, but regular troopers. She implored me to leave her at once. I hesitated, from unwillingness to do so, and lost a few precious moments before yielding to her importunity. My horse and arms were near the road on which I expected to leave, and down which the cavalry approached; it was, therefore, impracticable to reach them, and I was compelled to start in an opposite direction. As it was quite dark in the tent, I picked up what was supposed to be "my raglan," a water-proof light overcoat, without sleeves; it was subsequently found to be my wife's, so much like my own as to be mistaken for it. As I started, my wife thoughtfully threw over my head and shoulders a shawl. I had gone perhaps fifteen or twenty yards when a trooper galloped up and ordered me to halt and surrender, to which I gave a defiant answer, and, dropping the shawl and raglan from my shoulders, advanced toward him. He levelled his carbine at me but I expected if he fired he would miss me, and my intention was in that event to put my hand under his foot and tumble him off on the other side, spring into the saddle and attempt to escape. My wife, who had been watching, when she saw the soldier aim his carbine at me, ran forward and threw her arms around me. Success depended upon instantaneous action, and recognizing that the opportunity had been lost, I turned back, and the morning being damp and chilly, passed on to a fire beyond the tent. Our pursuers had taken different roads and approached our camp from different directions; they encountered each other and commenced firing, both supposing they had met our armed escort, and some casualities occurred from their conflict with an imaginary body of Confederate troops. During the confusion, while attention was concentrated upon myself, except by those who were engaged in pillage, one of my aides, Colonel J. Taylor Wood, with Lieut. Barnwell, walked off unobserved. His daring exploits on the sea had made him on the part of the Federal Government an object of special hostility and rendered it quite proper that he should avail himself of every means of escape. Colonel Pritchard went over to their battle-field and I did not see him for a long time, surely more than an hour after my capture. He subsequently claimed credit, in a conversation with me, for the forbearance shown by his men in not shooting me when I refused to surrender.

Wilson and others have uttered many falsehoods in regard to my capture, which have been exposed in publications by persons there present—by Secretary Reagan, by members of my personal staff, and by the colored coachman, Jim Jones—which must have been convincing to all who were not given over to believe a lie. For this reason I will postpone, to some other time and more appropriate place, any further notice of the story and its variations, all the spawn of a malignity that shames the civilization of the age. We were, when prisoners, subjected to petty pillage.

SOME reasons for tree planting worth repeating: They modify the temperature, promoting coolness in summer and warmth in winter. They exhale oxygen and absorb deleterious gasses, thereby conferring great benefit on unhealthy or overcrowded districts. By their roots they purify the soil below as well as the atmosphere above by their leaves. Their individual influence is surprisingly great. It has been estimated that a good-sized elm tree would produce adout 700,000 leaves, equal to about 200,000 square feet of surface.

FEW of the thousands of people who travel daily on the cars have any idea what an ordinary passenger car costs, and the wildest guesses are often heard, ranging from $500 to an indefinite number of thousands. The average brice of a passenger car is about $4'500; Pullman cars average from $6,000 to $10,000, a locomotive spoils $11-000 to $12,000, while an ordinary freight or box car cost about $625.

H. A. SPEARS, a well-known Colorado mining engineer, recently sent out to examine the State Line properties in the interests of New York capitalists, telegraphed to his principals from Gold Mountain, Nev.: "After careful examination of the State Line mines, I find them true fissure-veins, with an immense body of high-grade, free-milling ore, fully up to what they claimed it to be."

STATE LINES 1 and 4 and Oriental and Miller are being hammered down in order to enable the insiders to pick up State Lines 2 and 3 as cheap as possible. It is needless to say that 1 and 4 must increase in value in proportion with 2 and 3 and the public will do wisely to buy them at their present figures. —[New York Mining News.

Description of Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument as described in the field notes of survey of the Armagh mine: The Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument is built on the apex of a red rocky point at the intersection of Ygnacio Ravine and Cerro Gordo cañon, and very precisely on the W. B. line of the Ygnacio mine (as surveyed for a patent in the year 1875 by Jos. Seey, U. S. Dep. Min. Sur.), and distant 17 51 chains from the southwest corner stake of the Ygnacio mine.

At the point above given I drilled a hole in the rock to a depth of 9 inches, in which I drove a piece of gas pipe 1 inch in dia. x16 inches long. On top of gas pipe, set a post 4x4 inches square, 84 feet long, around which built a mound of rocks 5 feet high x5 feet in dia. at its base; marked the top of post "U. S. Mineral Monument Erected June 3d, A. D. 1880, by Wm. Crapo, U. S. Dep. Min. Sur., under authority of the U. S. Surveyor Gen'l for Cal."

From said post in mineral monument, with a variation of 15 deg. 55 min. E. the extreme end of the bluff on which the monument is situated, bears N. 25 deg. W. 17 links. The east edge of ridge at the top of a vertical face of rock, 7½ feet high, bears N. 60 deg. E. 7 links. The NE. cor. of an old adobe vase chimney bears S. 38 deg. 16 min. W. 16 links. SIDE LIGHTS ON IRELAND.

The episodes of the agrarian conflict in Ireland are as interesting as the debates in the Commons are wearisome. A special correspondent of the Telegraph, of London, has been using his eyes to good purpose in some of the centres of discontent and agitation. The scenes which he describes are instructive from the light which is thrown upon the side issues of the main controversy. For example, the account which he gives of a land auction in Cork Court-house illustrates the use that is made of the money collected on this side of the ocean and the active interest taken by the parochial clergy in the work of the Land League.

The proceeding was a common one—a landlord's sale of a tenant's interest for the recovery of rent. The landlord, after receiving for a long period £280 a year for eighty six acres, gave notice to his tenant that he must pay £300 a year for seventy-five acres. This was an aggravated case of landlord oppression. The tenant would not pay six months arrears of rent at the advance rate, and, acting under the instructions of the Land League, compelled the landlord to take the case into court. This was done on an application for the sale of the interest which the tenant legally had in the land, in order that the landlord might recover what was due. The process caused so much excitement that the approaches to the court-house had to be guarded and the court-room itself lined with policemen; yet the menace of helmet and carbine did not deter the populace from manifesting a sullen displeasure that rapidly swelled into passionate indignation as the bidding went on. A start was made at $25, with advances of $25 by the landlord and $2 by the parish priest who represented the Land League, until $200 was reached. This was the sum required—$150 for the arrears of rent and $50 for the cost of the action. This sum is paid by the priest and his client, and the action is closed, the landlord being greeted with hisses in the court-room and outside.

Let us analyze the outcome of this singular transaction. The landlord virtually collects his arrears of rent on his own terms. The tenant purchases his own interest in the land for $150 and calls upon the agent of the League to pay the legal costs, amounting to $50. The intervention of the League is of no avail, as the rent is paid without deduction. The tenant is no better off than he would have been if he had paid the rent without a murmur. What, then, has been gained for the class of tenant farmers to which he belongs? The landlord has been taught that he cannot get the money without going to court with two hundred policemen and facing an audience bent on intimidating him. The League has succeeded in widening the breach between landlord and tenant, adding to the vexation and annoyance to the one without affording the other either redress for the past or relief for the future. There has been an exciting scene in court, and the landlord with the money in his belt has sneaked out of the way of an infuriated audience, convinced that in future he must hire a pair of constables to dog his steps whenever he goes about the country. When the next rent day comes he will be forced to appear again in court and bid up his land to the level of the arrears and costs. The Land League considers this scene cheap at $50, and that amount is charged to the general fund collected from America from over-paid servant girls and under-paid laborers.

A great deal of good can be done for $50 in a blighted district of Ireland. It is possible that the parish priest, thinking of sickness in one and starvation in another wretched hovel, sighed when he paid the costs of the action. He must have known that the surplus earnings of Irish emigrants could be put to better use than in enabling an oppressive landlord to rack-rent a tenant at the expense of a scene at court and a sense of personal insecurity. He must have realized that under the Land bill, which Mr. Parnell and his League have done their utmost to defeat, such grievances as the tenant's in this case would be intelligently and thoroughly redressed; that the tenant could appeal under that act to a special tribunal empowered to restore to him the eleven acres of which he had been arbitrarily deprived, to scale down the rent to the old tenure for a whole generation. Yet the parish priest conducted the case for the Land League, making the bids, paying the costs and smiling when the crowd hissed. His sympathies were with the class from which he himself sprang. He made it a duty to indentify himself with the popular movement, thereby doing what he could to obstruct a great remedial measure and to array class against class, man against man, in life, litigation and blood. —[New York Tribune.

Catalpa Trees.

Answering the queries of a correspondent in relation to the catalpa tree, the "Pacific Rural Press" says:

There has been several interesting pamphlets on the catalpa written by the late Mr. Carney, of Dayton, Ohio. They give all the points of the growth of the trees in the Western States. The conclusion reached, as nearly as we can recall them, were, that of all the trees suggested as adapted to the formation of timber plantations in the Eastern States, the catalpa stands pre-eminent. Its exceedingly rapid growth; its adaptation to almost all soils and situations; its wide range of latitude, extending from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico; its extraordinary success on the Western and Northwestern prairies; the ease and certainty with which it is transplanted; its strong vitality and freedom from diseases and insects; the incomparable value of its timber for the most important as well as minor uses for which timber is needed; the most imperishable nature of the wood when used for posts, railroad cross-ties, and in other exposed situations, to say nothing of its handsome and stately appearance and the unrivalled beauty of its flowers—all are cited to point to the catalpa as the tree to plant. These remarks apply to the hardy, Western, early-blooming "Speciosa" catalpa, and not in any degree to the common "C. Bignonioides, "which," unfortunately, is the one generally met with in cultivation in the Western States.

Although these points seem to indicate great value in the right kind of catalpa for Eastern situations, what is most needed by California inquirers is the local experience. We are not aware that there has been any general collection of information on this point, although the trees have already been introduced in different parts of the State. We would like to have all readers send us their experience and observation concerning the growth of the tree under California conditions.

We believe the trees are easily grown from the seed—at least they are produced in large quantities and at low price by the Western nurserymen. Whoever has the seed for sale, or knows who has it, may address our correspondent.

Hints for Writers.

Write on one side of the sheet only. Why? Because it is often necessary to cut the page into "takes" for the compositors, and this cannot be done when both sides are written upon.

Write clearly and distinctly, being particularly careful in the matter of proper names, and words from foreign languages.

Don't write in a microscopic hand. Why? Because the compositor has to read it across his case, at a distance of nearly two feet; also, because the editor often wants to make additions and other changes.

Never roll your manuscript. Why? Bacause it maddens and exasperates everyone that touches it—editor, compositor and proof-reader.

Always write your full name and address plainly at the end of your letter. Why? Because it will often happen that the editor will want to communicate with you, and because he needs to know the writer's name as a guarantee of good faith. If you use a pseudonym or initials, write your name and address below it; it will never be divulged.

A PORTLAND, Oregon dispatch says: It has just been ascertained that the youngest daughter of Wm. Morgan, who, it is claimed, was put out of the way by reason of having divulged Masonic secrets some years ago, is living in this State. She is quite an elderly lady, and is the wife of Capt. Wm. Smith. They both reside in Marion county. Mrs. Smith says her father was drowned by five men who took him out one night into the lake. She states that one of the five men who assisted in the drowning for many years resided in Portland, Oregon, but is now dead.

THE people of a Western town are so fearfully lazy that when the wife of a minister who had just settled in that town asked a prominent citizen if the inhabitants generally respected the Sabbath and refrained from business, he replied: "Confound it, ma'am, they don't do enough work in a whole week to break the Sabbath, if it was all done on that day."

A NEWSPAPER canvassing agent, being told by an old lady that it was no use to subscribe for the newspapers now, as Mother Shipton said the world was coming to an end this year, said, "But won't you want to read an account of the whole affair, as soon as it's over?" "That I will," answered the lady, and she subscribed.

A NOTED Arizona cowboy has just went over the Jordan, having been pulled across by a strong rope. He left an affectionate note to "Curly Bill," who is also a cowboy, in which he cautioned Bill about the handy use of his gun. If this advice had been taken the cowboy that was might still be stealing cattle and horses.

"MOTHER sent me," said a little girl to a neighbor, "to ask you to come and have a cup of tea with her thit evening." "Did she say at what time, my dear?" "No ma'am; she only said she would ask you, and then the thing would be off her miud. That was all she said."

A STORY is told of a German shoemaker, who, having made a pair of boots for a gentleman whose financial integrity he had considerable doubt, made the following reply to him when he called for the articles: "Der boots ish not quite done, but der bill ish made out."

A STUDENT at Oxford University, on being asked "Who was Esau?" replied: "Esau was a man who wrote fables, and sold his copyright for a mess of potash."

A PHILADELPHIA man who has found a bed of remarkably fine clay on his premises in the suburbs, is undecided whether to start a brick yard or candy shop.

A YOUNG lady graduate may in after years forget the title of her essay, but she will always remember how her white dress was made and trimmed.

WE hear of a man who has made a fortune by attending to his own business. This is authentic. But then he had few competitors.

SIGNIFICANT declarations were made at the sitting of the Monetary Conference on Saturday last. Thurman, the American delegate, expressed the conviction that the offers of England and Germany would not warrant the United States in allowing the free coinage of silver. The United States did not insist on an immediate and unqualified bi-metalism, but were ready to accept approaches thereto, believing it would eventually prevail.—[Ex.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, JULY 16 1881

IN the course of on oration before the alumni of Rochester University recently, Judge Tourgee said: "Another shadow of the past that seems to cloud our future is the necessity that we grapple with and understand some of the limits which may be appled to corporate power and privilege. Our indebtedness to the corporations of this country cannot be overstated. We owe not a little of our National development and advancement to this thing that we choose to call a soulless corporation, but there is not even a politician who ever had half a minute of common sense who does not know that our Government must soon meet the question as to how and to what extent these great agencies can best be limited. The Standard Oil Company has only to add five cents to the cost of a measure of material it produces, and in so doing it will tax this whole nation $10,000,000 a week. We can stand this thing a little longer, perhaps, but we can't stand it long."

THE Russian Government continues to rely on repression rather than reform. Although the jails and fortresses are filled with prisoners, it has just appointed a commission to draw up a new law to add to its arbitrary powers. The Czar appears to have learned little from the misfortunes of his father. With wisdom, he might raise Russia to a degree of greatness which would fill the world with wonder. At the same time the head that wears the Crown might rest more easily undisturbed by visions of dynamite or nitro-glycerine. There might also be some hope for the continuation of the present dynasty. Nihilism is the worst thing in the world; but it is very obstinate and has as many lives as a New York Senator.

THE question of who discovered the present comet has become a most momentous one. Over 500 persons have laid claim to the honor and the Warner prize of $200, and all of them are within comparatively the same time. It is desirable that no injustice be done in this matter, and to this end all parties who saw the comet during the week ending June 25th, or previously, will please forward their claims without delay to Prof. Swift, Director of the Warner Observatory, Rochester, N. Y. It is certain that the discovery was made by a private individual, but who that individual is remains to be seen.

THE members of the New York Chamber of Commerce proposes to raise $250,000 to be invested in United States bonds and deposited with the United States Trust Company: the income to be paid to Mrs. Garfield during her life, and after her death to go equally to her children, in appreciation of the noble character of the President. Jay Gould, S. B. Chittenden, C. P. Huntington, D. Willis, James Drexel, Morgan & Co. and Cyrus W. Field have each subscribed $5,000, and a large number have subscribed $1,000. Supscriptions may be sent to the Chamber of Commerce.

NEW YORK, July 9.—The Tribune says: A large amount of the handsome subscription to Mrs. Garfield was to-day by mail, and more by telegraph. With little canvassing the whole amount ($250,000) might have been secured by night. Julian S. Morgan, the American banker in London, and John H. Deane have subscribed $5,000 each. Vanderbilt has promised $5,000 if the President dies. It is probable that the whole country will be invited to contribute and that the fund may be raised to $500,000. No difficulty is anticipated in raising a quarter of a million.

NEW YORK, July 7.—The Post Washington special says: It is said on good authority that a proclamation convening Congress in special session was prepared yesterday or earlier and signed by the President, with the approval of the Cabinet and Vice President, to be issued in the event of the President's illness taking an unfavorable and necessarily fatal turn. The object is to provide against any possible contingency. The session would be called to elect a President of the Senate pro tem. and a Speaker of the House of Representatives.

A WRITER claims that England's boast that the sun never sets in her domain is no more than can be truthfully said of his own country by the patriotic citizen of the United States. Before the sun's rays disappear from the American flag at the most westerly point of the Aleutian Islands, he claims they touch it again at Calais, Maine.

A LARGE majority of the representative Democrats of Ohio insist that the platform to be adopted at the State Convention must say nothing on the tariff question.

THE ALBANY CAUCUS NOMINEES.

There is now a reasonable probability that the present New York Legislature will elect Senators to fill the places vacated by Conkling and Platt—but the new Senators will not be either Roscoe or any man of his naming. All the Republican members other than the Conkling spoils hunters, met in caucus and agreed on new men whose names and something of their antecedents are given below. The ballotings in joint convention still showed the spoils hunters held by the old ties, voting solidly for Conkling and Crowley. But it is believed that as soon as the hunters are satisfied that Garfield will not die and that by default of same that Arthur will not become President, that they or a portion of them will vote for the caucus nominees and elect them. In that probable event the following in relation to the nominees, hitherto unknown to the general public, will be of interest:

Warner Miller, one of their nominees is a native of Herkimer county, New York, and forty-two years of age. He is a graduate of Union College, and, previous to 1861, was engaged in teaching at the Fort Edward Collegiate Seminary. Upon the breaking out of the war he resigned his position there and enlisted as a private in the Fifth New York Cavalry. He rose to the rank of Lieutenant, but at the battle of Winchester was captured, and served some time in a rebel prison. Upon being exchanged, he returned to the village of Herkimer, where he soon became engaged in the manufacture of paper with Addison H. Loflin at that time member of Congress for the Herkimer District, and afterwards Naval Officer at New York. His first entrance into politics was in 1872, when he was sent as a delegate to the Republican National Convention at Philadelphia. In 1874 he was elected to the Assembly, and again in 1875. In 1879 he was elected a member of Congress for the Twenty-second District.

Elbert Gerry Lapham, the other nominee, is a resident of Canandaigua, and at present represents the Twenty-seventh District in the lower house of Congress. He was born at Farmington, Ontario county, in 1814. His early boyhood was passed upon his father's farm, attending the district school during the winter months. He subsequently entered the Canandaigua Acadamy, where he was a class-mate of Stephen A. Douglas. Upon graduating from that institution, he devoted several years of his life to civil engineering, and was employed upon the preliminary survey of the Michigan Southern Railroad line. He finally bid adieu to the level and transit, and returning to Canandaigua began the study of law. He was admitted to the bar in 1844, and remained in the practice of his profession continuously to 1867, when he was elected a member of the convention to revise the Constitution of the State.

Here he at once took position among the leading men of that body, which contained the ablest and brightest minds of the Empire State. In 1874 he was nominated by the Republicans as a delegate to the Forty-fourth Congress, and elected by a majority of over 1,000 votes. He was returned to the Forty-fifth and again to the Forty-sixth Congress. His services in the House have been creditable to himself and honorable to his party, and during the last session he was looked upon as a leader. As a lawyer, Mr. Lapham has for years ranked with the leading advocates of Western New York; in the criminal law he stands especially high. Personally he is one of the most genial of men. It is certain that if he enters the United States Senate the great State of New York will be represented by an honest, able and conscientious public servant.

A PROMINENT lawyer of St. Louis, who is represented as leading counsel in the Star route cases for the defendants, hopes to get his clients clear on the grounds that when Congress passed the appropriation for the expedited routes, it relieved the officials from legal responsibility in the matter. The plea is, that the Courts cannot inquire into the acts of officials after Congress, by special legislation, has given its approval. If this plea holds good, the next proposition will be that if two men, instead of one, are employed in an unlawful transaction, the responsibility will be so divided between them that no legal wrong will attach to either. It may be an ingenious plea, but that is a desperate case which requires that kind of a defence.

A PROVISION of a new liquor law which went into effect in Rhode Island on July 1 is that no licenses shall be granted to sell liquors within four hundred feet of a public school. It remains to be seen whether the hotels or the school-houses will be moved out of the State.

DURING the administration of Gov. Irwin that official pardoned and commuted the sentences of 355 prisoners. In the same ratio, Gov. Perkins, during his term, will do likewise to the number of about 112.

MINING RULINGS.

The acting Commissioner of the Land Office, in reply to a Nevada inquirer, says:

First—A location of a mining claim may be made by an agent.

Second—The certificate of a recorder of a mining district that work to the value of $100 has been performed on a lode claim is merely prima facie evidence of such work. When a conflict arises between an original locator and one who relocates upon an alleged failure to make the required annual expenditures, the question of the true value of such expenditures is one of fact, to be determined in a suitable action before the proper legal tribunal.

Third—This office has no authority to regulate the fees of mining district recorders, or to decide when such fees are reasonable and when excessive.

Fourth—Section 2, of the act of January 22, 1880, provides "that the period within which the work required to be done annually on all unpatented mineral claims shall commence on the first day of January succeeding the date of location of said claim." Hence a claim located on the first day of Janutry, 1881, is not subject to relocation, for failure to perform the required annual labor, until the first of January succeeding the date of the original location, viz: on the first day of January, 1882.

Two experimental shafts for the proposed tunnel under the English Channel have been sunk on the English side, and two on the French side, and from one of the shafts sunk in English soil a gallery twenty-one feet in diameter and some twenty-five hundred feet long has been driven. It has been found that the earth there is impermeable to water, and it is estimated that the tunnel heading could be carried along at the rate of two miles a year. Similar experiments on the French side justify the same conclusions. It is said that the English and the French tunnel companies have agreed to bore a mile further each, when they expect to have sufficient information at hand to enable them to arrive at a treaty for the completion of the work.

A POST that is dreaded by telegraph operators is a railroad office at Limestone Gap, in the Choctaw Nation. It is said that not less than a hundred operators have been sent to that lonesome spot, and that none remained more than two weeks. Those who have tried it return with blood-curdling stories of the nightly orgies of spooks of the lowest grade. After an operator has seen a week's service there, he is regarded by the men along the line as a veteran.

A LABORER on a railroad in Iowa, upon hearing that Garfield was shot, sent up a yell of approval, whereupon a companion immediately brained him. This was a good move on the part of the man who made the assault. If he could have brought the man to life and killed him again it would have been all the better.

THERE are twenty-five societies in the United States engaged in the prevention of cruelty to children. In many of the States the societies protect both animals and children, but it certainly would seem that there was work enough of such a nature to provide employment for separate organizations.

A CONSIDERABLE amount of American mining machinery is on its way to Mexico to develop the mines in that country. In consequence of the great distance of the mines from the railroads, the expense of transportation has been found to be, in many cases, greater than the cost of the machinery.

HENRY VILLARD, the latest railroad king who has sprung into notoriety was formerly a newspaper reporter. America has one advantage over all other countries on the face of the earth: a man can spring from the very lowest walk in life to be the greatest capitalist of the age.

IN the three hundred thousand dollar foreclosure case of A. J. Donahue vs. the Marshall Land and Mining Company, Judge Evans of the Superior Court made an order of attachment against the late receiver—Meyers—returnable July 22d.

NEARLY 150 cattle from the finest herds in England and Scotland are on their way to this country. At this rate the angular, osseus "long horn," peculiar to America will soon be as hard to find as the buffalo.

THE Government has spent $240,000 in investigating the locust, army worm and grasshopper, and the only result thus far reported is that none of them wear spectacles.

D. O. MILLS leaves seventy-five thousand dollars to the University of California to endow a chair of intellectual and mental philosophy and civil politics.

NORTHERN BELLE has declared a dividend of fifty cents, and an extra dividend of twenty-five cents.

New York Mining News.

New York dispatches of the 10th speak as follows in relation to mining matters:

The California colony is much depressed at the dullness in mining operations. So many rose-colored promises have failed to be realized that the public is not disposed to invest largely in ventures of this character. Prince & Whiteley in their weekly circular say: The Mining Board having adjourned from Friday afternoon of last week to Tuesday morning of this week, caused a general departure of mining speculators and brokers from the city for the purpose of spending the intervening holidays. The market closed on Friday dull and weak, and opened on Tuesday in a similar condition, with a slim attendance on the floor. The transactions during the three days past have consequently been very limited in volume and absolutely devoid of any special significance or interest one way or the other. It is entirely appropriate to say, however, that no improvement is possible in the market, but, on the contrary, the tendency of prices continue downwards, with, certainly, no immediate prospect of an upward turn.

The cause which operates to produce this state of affairs is apparent to every one who is at all familiar with the events of the past two months. In the absence of support on the part of larger speculators, the public can hardly be expected to come to the rescue, and the fact that the former are heavily loaded with stocks, and the high price of several weeks ago, affords an excellent excuse for their hesitation at the present time. Little can be looked for, therefore, in the way of a healthy rise until news from the various mines gives assurance of profits from production. In the meantime, rose-colored reports from different mining districts must be accepted, in general, as possessing little on which to base an accurate estimate of the value of any particular property.

The setback in State Line and Oriental stocks continues, with no apparant disposition on the part of promoters of those enterprises to advance the price of stocks at the present time. The resignation of the superintendent of those mines has just been announced. It is claimed that his successor, already selected, but not yet appointed, is a practical man of large experience, in whose skill and energy the managers have great confidence. Meanwhile the stock is being gradually disposed of, and is falling into the hands of large holders in anticipation of a promised rise as soon as the mill shall have commenced operations. Reports from the Dunkin mine are very discouraging.

Yesterday's market witnessed a marked rise in Central Arizona, of which there has been some very large buying. Unless there are some sudden developments in the mining regions of extraordinary promise, there is nothing in the present situation to indicate an approaching activity of the market. With the advancing heat of the season and in the absence of speculative interest a dull market for mining shares is anticipated for some time to come.

OBSERVATIONS made lately at the Davidson Observatory show that the comet in the northern sky is rapidly speeding away from the vicinity of the earth. It no longer disappears below the horizon, but retains its position high in the northern heavens all night. The spectrum shows the same peculiarities of composition as formerly. In the morning skies Venus, Jupiter, Mars and Saturn still form a brilliant galaxy, with Capella to the northward and the comet apparently flying from the Pole star.

DURING the fiscal year just closed nearly 350,000,000 postal cards have been issued by the post office authorities at Washington. What a deal of labor must have been imposed on the postmasters, postmistresses and the various employees in the multitude of post offices scattered over our great country, in the faithful reading of these cards.

THE Commissioners appointed by the Governor have entered upon the discharge of their duties, in the investigation of State Prison affairs. The Commissioners are W. H. Mills, (President) Robert Watt and F. A. Gibbs. It promises to be a lengthy and tedious affair, and the sittings of the Commissioners are at San Quentin.

THE statement of the annual coinage of the mints, just made public, shows the largest production of coin for any one year in the history of the Government. The gold coinage amounts to $78,733,864, the silver $27,649,066 75 and the base coin to $405,108 75; making a total for the year of $106,180,966 70.

MRS. GARFIELD has been notified by the Secretary of the New York Chamber of Commerce that that body has subscribed $250,000 to be presented to her for the use of herself and children.

GEN. CONNOR, authority in mining matters, says Butte City, Montana, is the best mining district on the continent.

ESMERALDA mining district has yielded about $15,000,000, and yet not even respectable gopher holes show for it.

THE purchasing rate of silver bullion at the Carson Mint is $1 11¾—a reduction of two cents and one-half per ounce since last week.

Two million hobby horses were made in the United States last year. This is on an average of two and a half to a politician.

A NUGGET of gold, weighing three and one-half ounces it is reported, has been found in Putnam county Tennessee.

ARIZONA TALK.

MESSRS. EDITORS—Thinking your subscribers, the number of whom I know to be far less than that of your readers, might wish to know something of two or three places in Southern Arizona, I thought I would tell them a little about it.

TUCSON.

This is the chief commercial city of the Territory. The buildings are mostly one story adobes and present a very poor appearance; but in some of them there is a vast deal of business carried on. The Mexican State of Sonora does most all of her American trade through the business houses of this place, and it is the place where the different mining districts of southeastern Arizona get their supplies from. It is the end of two railroad divisions, and, therefore, does a good deal of business with railroad men. The old inhabitants claim that they have the third oldest settlement in the United States, St. Augustine in Florida and Santa Fe in New Mexico being older. About seven miles from the city is San Xavier church, which the priest who is in charge claims to be very near three centuries old, but a man need not believe that unless he wants to. At any rate, it is a very old place. There are a great many images made of clay, some of which have their toes broken off, and others are without noses, also some old paintings. On the whole it is quite an interesting place to visit. Forty-six miles by rail and twenty-five by a horrible, dusty stage road is

TOMBSTONE,

The mining centre of the Territory. Here everything is the reverse of Tucson. Nice wide streets and a good many large buildings. In the evening a person hears pianos sounding and voices singing, and if he goes into the saloon he can see the tiger in his glory, also monte, keno and other gambling games, all seeming to be well patronized. At the same time he can go out on the street and a stranger will ask him for four bits, saying he has not eaten to-day. There are more men than there is work for. There are thirteen hoisting works, and the majority of them are hoisting ore, and I believe three companies are paying dividends. The ore is hauled to mills situated on the San Pedro river about twelve miles distant. The ore wagons (some of which have the mark C. G F. Co.) go down one of the main streets and have cut it up so that the dust is six or eight inches deep, and every slight breeze sends it all over town. The water supply is short, and therefore it cannot be helped at present, but I believe the freighters are going to build a road around the town. I saw in Tombstone a few old Inyoites. Bob Hatch, formerly of Darwin, has a large billiard room, and Joyce and Palmer of Lookout, had one of the finest saloons in town (since burned down) Cal. Ekeland of Darwin was also burned out. From Tombstone I went to

BISBEE

Which is fifty-five miles by stage road and twenty-five by trail. It is situated in the Mule Mountains and the country around it reminds one of the lower Sierra Nevada's, excepting that water is scarce. This is the place where the Copper Queen mine is situated. It is in a cañon and has one narrow street. The ore is dumped from the mine into a chute which carries it to the feed floor of the furnace, so they have no ore-hauling account. They have turned out from one small furnace something over 1,200 tons of copper in six months, and have created a copper prospecting fever in the whole Territory. Almost every prospector is after a copper mine now, and if he finds it he can dispose of it for a good figure, because the capitalists have the fever too. It is said there are several more copper mines here, but they have not commenced to turn out bullion yet. The last place I shall tell of this time is Hareshaw. It is situated in the Patagonia mountains and is next to Tombstone, the best bullion producer in the Territory. It is a pretty little place with plenty of oak trees surrounding it, but here again is a lack of water for part of the year. When I was there the mill was running only half its capacity, but as the summer rains have since commenced, I suppose it is running full force again. There are several mines around here turning out more or less ore, but only one, the Hermosa, has a mill.

FISHER.

SOMEBODY has revived a story that was current a year or two ago, when work was about to be resumed on the Washington monument, that it had sunken on one side and would topple over if additional weight was placed on its summit. At that time competent engineers made a thorough examination and reported that there was no immediate indication that the column of marble would tumble. But they advised that the earth underlying the structure be tunneled and a solid foundation of cement be substituted in order to make it perfectly secure. This work was undertaken and accomplished after months of labor. The earth was honeycombed and tons of cement forced under the base of the monument. Since that date the monument has grown twenty-five feet in hight, although to the ordinary observer it does not appear to be higher than the width of one block of marble than it was twenty years ago. The increase may be noted, however, by the difference in the color of the marble above and below the line that marked the summit for so many years.

WORK on the Nevada and Oregon never progressed more finely than it does now. The graders are at work on the ninth mile, the tenth mile will require six weeks to finish on account of a large cut that has to be made. Over two hundred men are at work, and Holmes is just pushing things. The locomotive will be here on the 15th of July, and track-laying on the second 5 miles will commence on the 20th.—Reno Journal.

A New Railroad.

Engineers are now at work in the Coast Range, preparatory to pushing a narrow-guage railroad—the California and Nevada—from Berkeley to Livermore, thence to Modesto, thence to Calaveras Big Trees, thence across the Sierras, and in to Arizona. The road will be pushed vigorously. A prominent gentleman of this county saw Jno. T. Davis, President of the road, the other day, when Mr. Davis stated, upon the gentleman's showing for this county, that he would be here with his engineer within ten days from that time, the probability being that he will run a branch road from Modesto to Visalia into the Mussel Slough country. There is little doubt that this branch from Modesto will be built. It will give the people of this section a water front at Berkeley, where grain can be loaded for foreign ports. This company is antagonistic to the Southern Pacific and the Central Pacific. Its local traffic between San Francisco and Berkeley will seriously interfere with the Central Pacific traffic, while the business it will find in the San Joaquin Valley will be taken from the Southern Pacific. The same gentleman who saw Mr. Davis says that he also saw parties connected with the Atlantic and Pacific who almost assured him that that road will also pass through the valley. Surely there is a bright prospect ahead for Tulare county.—Visalia Delta.

THE MONO ASSESSMENT ROLL.—The Board of Supervisors have been in session as a Board of Equalization and fixed the assessment roll. As matters stand now our taxes this year will be $2 50 on the $100. This is $1 50 less than last year. The roll foots up $3,115,000, an increase over last year, notwithstanding that property has decreased greatly in value. The law requires that property be put in according to its real value, and when a man is worth $20,000 and he says it is only good for $2,000 he does what is not right. But conscience in most all cases is like an elastic garter—it stands stretching, and is stretched to a great extent.—Free Press.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

College of Notre Dame

SAN JOSE, CALIFORNIA.

THIS INSTITUTION, OFFERING PECULIAR advantages to young ladies wishing to receive a solid and refined education, was founded in 1851. In 1855 it was incorporated by the State Legislature, and subsequently the same body so extended the original Charter as to confer all the rights and privileges of Collegiate Institutions.

It occupies large buildings, with extensive playgrounds; and possesses everything to make science familiar and attractive. The course of instruction is thorough, in all the Departments. Every facility will be afforded to students who may find it desirable to to devote their whole attention to music or the study of the languages.

The scholastic year begins on the first Monday in August and closes about the first week in June. Pupils are received at any period of the year.

NEW BUSINESS

....AND....

NEW STYLE OF DOING IT

TO THE RESIDENTS OF INYO COUNTY in general, but more particularly to those living in the town of Independence and vicinity:

I have made arrangements with the best mercantile houses in this city to purchase goods of any and every description, on the most advantageous terms, and am ready to fill all orders that may be sent to me, for a small charge as commission. No matter how large or how small the order, it will receive my careful attention, and I will guarantee satisfaction.

Orders can be left with Geo. H. Hardy, Postoffice Building at Independence, or addressed to the undersigned—517½ Taylor Street, San Francisco.

A select assortment of General Merchandise will be found at the Postoffice Building—CHEAP, FOR CASH ONLY.

SATURDAY, JULY 16.....1881

GILBERT'S RANCH.—The central stopping point for everybody in Deep Spring valley is Gilbert's, as every one knows who is at all acquainted with the geography of the northeastern part of the county. In 1871 Mr. Gilbert located 160 acres, and by means of appropriating the water of Wyman Creek and conducting it diagonally across the valley for some four miles, he has succeeded in cultivating about 60 acres. He will this year put up some 80 tons alfalfa besides potatoes and vegetables sufficient for the station. Originally he had about 500 inches, but there has been an irregular decrease in the flow from the creek so that now, or especially during very warm days, the evaporation and seepage is such that the water reaches the ranch but an hour or two at a time. A well 110 feet deep sunk along the line of the ditch discovered no water at all. The remedy, which Mr. Gilbert intends applying soon as possible, is to pipe the water about three miles across the sand—thus leaving him plenty and enough besides for a steam quartz mill, if it shall be wanted. Mr. Gilbert is one of the best cooks in the country, and a most indefatigable host. He has been for some time and is now very seriously ill, a fact we regret to state; but if he will leave his post for a while doubtless a change to the care of a good doctor in this valley will bring him out all right. In the meantime Scott Broder and Billy Lake have charge of the general affairs of the ranch.

THE ENTERTAINMENT.—The entertainment Wednesday evening by the Lone Pine Glee Club gave great satisfaction to all who were present. The volunteer aid by Miss Maggie Conklin in her superior rendering of "Jeptha's Daughter," by Mr. Barrows in completing the quartette of singers and by Mr. S. V. Stevens in his reading of "The Cortin'," was, altogether of material value, and greatly appreciated by the Club members as well as the audience. It is to be regretted that these same volunteers could not have also assisted at the entertainments given on the two following evenings at Big Pine and Bishop Creek respectively. We have heretofore spoken of the eminent dramatic powers of Mrs. Sara Stevens Heenan and the musical abilities of other members of the club, and need now only say that the singing was even better than at the first exhibition at Lone Pine, and that Miss Zelia Meysan and Miss Marcia Stevens aquitted themselves in a manner to elicit especial commendation.

AN OFFICIAL DELINQUENCY.—Our county officials and citizens generally were on Tuesday last considerably excited over the sudden disappearance of Assessor Thomas May, who had failed to make a settlement with the Auditor and Treasurer. Up to date he has not reported himself, and it transpires from examination that he is delinquent from fifteen to sixteen hundred dollars. His official bondsmen are J. L. Woods, Jas. Olds, A. W. H. Smith and Thomas Webb for $500 each, and Fred Albers in the sum of $1,000. There is a profound feeling of regret all around, and especially deep symyathy with his young wife and family. Many, however, believe that Mr. May will yet return and make everything right. Upon a complaint charging him with embezzlement, sworn out by the County Treasurer, a warrant has been issued for his arrest.

DEEP SPRINGS—After six days of hard work in examining the very numerous fine mining properties of Deep Spring District, Capt. H. H. Todd and Mr. A. H. Griswold left by the Northern line on Tuesday last. They took with them complete samples from every point, for assaying at Benton and San Francisco. They have gone to Columbus to examine a mill there, with a view to its immediate removal to Deep Spring. Dr. Griswold of Benton and our Junior accompanied the party on the trip, some accounts of which will be given in due time.

PANAMINT.—During last week a great water spout broke in Panamint cañon, destroying six miles of the fine and costly grade, so that it became necessary to build a trail to get a pack-mule over it. The water, which has been decreasing in the cañon for a long time, is now more plentiful. A party of Eastern men, headed by Geo. M. Pinney, is expected in the camp. Messrs. Pheby & Anthony shipped silver bullion to the amount of $6,000 last Tuesday.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—At Darwin, last week, a Portugese whose name we could not obtain was accidentally killed. It appears that he, accompanied by Johnny Feidler, were bathing in the water tanks of the old Papoose furnace, one of which was erected above the other. The upper one fell, crushing the unfortunate man to death.

NOTRE DAME.—The announcement of the College of Notre Dame, of San José, will be noted elsewhere this week. This is one of the most famed educational institutions on the Coast, and offers the most superior attractions to young ladies. See the advertisement for terms, etc.

THANKS.—The late inspecting party at Deep Springs acknowledge the universal courtesy and favors extended them by the boys of that region, and to none less than D. P. Macarter, of Big Pine, who, we believe, intends building a store and locating in that country.

COMING.—Col. Frank Osbiston and Hank Smith, the noted mine operators, will be in Lone Pine to-morrow night. They are bent on a tour of observation to Cerro Gordo and Beveridge.

COUNTY STATISTICS.

We excerpt the following from the County Assessor's tabular report to the State Board of Equalization showing the quantiiy and classes of real estate, improvements and personal property for 1881:

Value of Real Estate.....	$625,360 00
" " Personal Property	432,035 00
Total.....	$1,057,395 00

This total shows reduction from that of last year [$1,263,689 00] of $206,294 00—a deficit not easily accounted for, as it would appear that the increase of property values in the valley settlements should at least offset the decadence of Darwin and Cerro Gordo. In the towns named the decadence is due to temporary suspension of mining operations consequent upon the political agitation, to conflagrations and lessened value of town lots. Meanwhile, all the property in the valley has to all appearance been steadily improving, if not actually enhancing in value.

The statement shows: Value of real estate (farms, etc.) $166,000; improvements thereon assessed to same owner, $182,380. Town lots, $24,465; improvements thereon, $87,815; improvements on property assessed to others than owners of land, $6,768. Mining claims foot up to an assessed valuation of $47,270, and the improvements thereon $44,450.

The "actual cash value" of a mine is an undetermined thing; there are in the county claims held at $100,000, and one recently sold at $30,000 which was perhaps not assessed at all. Others which have yielded millions are put down at nominal figures.

Of land valuations there are nineteen properties consisting of 0 to 10 acres, of the average value of $47.18-19; 12 from 10 to 40 acres, average 6.57½; 24 from 40 to 60 acres, average $2.52½; 52 from 60 to 100 acres, average $2.16 2-13; 143 from 100 to 160 acres, averaging $3.45 97-143; 62 between 160 and 240 acres, assessed at $9.15 43 62; 4 from 240 to 320, worth $2.75; 18 from 320 to 400, averaging $3.83 4-9, and 15 between 400 and 640, assessed at $1.73 per acre. There are two lots of greater acreage put down at $1.87½.

Thirty-five miles of toll roads in all have a total assessed value of $1,550. There are 59 trust deeds and mortgages, footing up to $66,212. All the County scrip reported amounts to $4,909. [The county indebtedness, exclusive of $26,500 bonds as per last statement of Auditor Crough—April 30th—amounts to $37,909 20. It therefore appears that $33,000 of the outstanding warrants are not assessed, and must (?) be held in other counties.]

OTHER FACTS.

The statement proceeds to show that there are $7,021 on hand or in special deposit. There is a refreshing accuracy about this, as it amounts to about $7,020 more than we have seen for a year or so past.

Of bee-hives there are 538, worth $3,722; liquors 1,330 gallons, of the value of $1,109. Two bits a drink, "or three for a half," Calves, 347, worth $6.49 each, or $2,212. Stock cattle 4,837—average assessment $10.36, amounting to $50,113. Colts, 368 in number, assessed at $11.36 and worth $4,183. Cows, 905 at $0.40, amounting to $18,463. There are 145 fire-arms valued at $14.31 apiece, worth altogether $2,076. Fixtures of business places, $5,230; furniture, $13-775. Nine hundred goats are reported, at $900. The valuation of goods, wares and merchandise (including THE INDEPENDENT printing material—an essential item, of course) is placed at $82,912. Grain, 379 tons, at $44,32, amounting to $16,800. Harness and saddles, $116.14; hay, 852 tons at $3.36—$4,895; honey, 380 pounds at 9 14-19 cts, $37; thoroughbred horses, 7 at $207 1-7, $1,450; graded horses, 2,609 at $25.63, $66,889; American horses, 165 at $37—$6,105; jacks and jennies, 21 at $20.47—$430. The jewelry and plate item foots up to $615, and libraries to $555. Sixty-five thousand feet of lumber was assessed at $24.86, amounting to $1,615. Machinery is valued at $9,439, and the total mule power (kicks not counted) is placed at 485 in number, worth for taxation purposes $47.03 apiece and consequently add $22,811 to the roll. There are $1,884 worth of musical instruments, and the next item shows 196 oxen at $34.50, worth $6,763—somewhat exceeding the value of pianos and fiddles. Five hundred and sixteen dozen of chickens cackle $2,622 worth. Quicksilver, $200. Sewing machines, 151—$2,836. Common sheep, 5,337 at $1,37½—$7,394; hogs, 1,456, valued at $3 36—$4.896. Solvent credits, $21,283. Water crafts, $500. Wagons, etc., 488, at an average of $64.85—$31.635. The county time is regulated by 137 watches, supposed to be worth $28.16 per turnip, and amount in value to $3,858. There are 250 cords of wood, assessed at $4,13, which make the value of this commodity $1,034.

The amount of land enclosed in 1880 was 16,251 acres, of which 7,100 were cultivated. Out of this 1,020¾ acres of wheat produced 28,714 bushels; 1,235½ acres of barley produced 24,833 bushels; oats 989½ acres, 29,822 bushels; corn, 1581 acres, 33,500 bushels; beans, 25½ acres, 900 bushels; potatoes, 102½ acres, 363½ tons. An acre of onions is shown to have produced 200 bushels. There were 4,299 acres of hay land, cutting 7,228 tons. Butter produced, 25,054 pounds; honey, 14,695 pounds. 500 gallons of wine were made and 5,310 gallons of beer.

FRUIT.

Bearing trees: apple, 1,101; pear, 261; fig, 2; plum, 288; peach, 3,645; quince, 35; grape vines, 25 acres; value of fruit crop, $3,445.

IMPROVEMENTS.

There are three water-power gristmills, running 6 buhrs. They produced 4,150 barrels of flour and ground 2,933 bushels of corn. There are 3 water-power saw mills, which cut 400,000 feet of lumber. Eight quartz mills crushed only 700 tons of ore. There are five irrigating ditches, aggergating 30 miles in length, which supplied water to 12,370 acres of land.

MINES BONDED.—Bonds for deeds to mining property were placed upon the County records July 11th as follows: The New Year and Golden Wedge mines, by Messrs Swearingen, Wainright and Buckles, to Ed Loose; consideration $7,500, to be paid November 30. Also, the Red Cloud and 200 feet of the Emmett mine, by Jos. and Jas. Rowan to C. E. Loose and R. A. Russell; consideration of deed $10,000, the bonding parties to carry on such work of development as they please in the meanwhile. The property is situated in the Bishop Creek District, near Antelope Springs, and are said to be valuable mines, bearing mostly gold.

THE PAJARO.—We hear that it is the intention of Messrs. Storey and Ford, resident managers of the big gold mine at Bishop Creek, to prosecute the work of development from 250 to 300 feet in depth as rapidly as possible. Reduction works will then be placed upon the property on a scale commensurate with the showing of ore.

THRESHING.—An advertisement elsewhere notifies our farming people that R. Hessian, of Big Pine, has a complete machine in the field. It will start work on George's Creek and make its way northward. The boys in charge are well up in the business and will undoubtedly do good work.

GOOD.—The feat of sending down 22-foot lumber and timbers has been accomplished in the long flume of the Black Rock saw mill.

PREACHING.—Rev. F. M. Willis will hold services in the school house tomorrow evening at the usual hour.

THE LATEST.

The President is still making gratifying progress toward recovery. His symptoms do nor differ materially from those of the last few days. He partakes of considerable nourishment, which is retained without inconvenience. The cooling apparatus now works satisfactorily, and the temperature of the sick room is maintained at 75 degrees. At the President's request, his boys, Harry and James, have resumed their studies. The consulting surgeons in New York express themselves as satisfied with the condition of the patient. Dr. S. D. Weiss has created considerable indignation by his experiments in firing bullets into a dead body in order to determine the direction taken by the would-be-assassin's pistol ball. Guiteau was formerly a member of a Bible class in Plymouth church, Brooklyn.

DRAINING RIVER BEDS.—One of the most promising features for the production of the precious metals in this country, is the organization of capital for the systematic drainage of the river beds in California, so as to lay bare the auriferous gravel deposits known to exist in extensive river reaches hitherto unattainable. One of the most extensive of these undertakings is that of a company, said to be of Eastern origin, having for their object the t orough drainage of the Feather river, known as the Great Bend—a perfect horse shoe in form. The drainage is to be effected by a tunnel of about 12,000 feet of sufficient dimensions and fall to carry the whole stream through it. At the head of the tunnel a permanent dam in part of the masonry, will be constructed around the old river bed. While in this way the main stream will be diverted and its ore bed virtually exposed, several small affluent streams will supply the water needed for the hydraulic treatment of the gravel thus exposed, in the most improved methods now known. These gravel beds are known to be deep and rich. In the same immediate quarter the "cape claim," in one season, 3,440 feet of the river was exposed by flumes and dam, yielded in 42 working days as much as $681,000 in gold, and only one third of the ground worked. As to the actual richness of the ground in question, there are hardly any grounds for question.—Nevada City Transcript.

A PENNSYLVANIA railroad has in use an automatic track-tester which discovers fault in the track not ordinary appreciable to the naked eye, and makes a record of them which indicates their precise locality, and all the while the machine is passing over the road at from fifteen to twenty-five miles an hour. It has the external appearance of a baggage car but inside is fitted up with self-registering apparatus, electric clocks, etc. A bad joint between the rails registers itself by the jolt it gives to the delicately hung car. Errors of level in the tracks are recorded by pencils on ruled paper, and so nicely arranged that the variations of an eighth of an inch are made manifest. If the gauge is too narrow or the rails have spread, the fact is noted by another apparatus. An ingenious time and distance register enables the observer to locate the distance recorded. A machine of this kind kept constantly going over a railroad would be scarcely less careful than the track-walker in discovering sources of danger to travel.

WE learn that the work of extending the railroad to San Pedro is proceeding so rapidly as to justify the officers of the Company in anticipating the running of trains to deep water in a few weeks. Quite a lively settlement is springing up at the terminus, and many of the business houses of Wilmington are moving to the new marine town. Great activity is exhibited all along the harbor, and a very large force of men are at work making the wharf improvements planned by the Southern Pacific.—Los Angeles Express.

WHEN a Washoe Indian starts out to go hunting he says: "Mebbe me shootum buck. Bad day guess me get slagehen, me tak' 'em hlook and fine and fline some pish mebbe tlout, mebbe slucker, but if me no find buck, slagehen, tlout or slucker, me catch em labbity sure."—Carson Appeal.

THE baby didn't feel very good anyway, poor little thing; the car was cold and the road was rough and everybody else was cross and glum, and the baby had only one way in which to express its emotion, so it cried. And how it did cry! Twenty-eight miles of it, and no sign of a let up, and the tired mother just smothering it with baby talk and rocking the little thing in her arms. Presently a testy-looking man, an old bachelor if there ever was one, turned in his seat and snarled, "Can't you shut that child up?" The light that gleamed from her eye was dangerous, as she hugged the baby a little closer, and fired back at him. "I can shut you up a great deal quicker." The howl of approbation went up all over the car and he "shut up."

THE Talbot brothers, of Marysville, Missouri, charged with the murder of their father, have confessed that they murdered him for kicking their mother and threatening to kill her. They say their father forgave them and begged iorgiveness of them. He wanted them to deny complicity in the murder and claim it was an assassin hired by the national banks because of his denunciation of them. He urged that suspicion be kept from his family, and to make the defense sure he would make an equal division of property. The father was often cruel, of desperate temper and unreasonable. All these facts have been concealed to preserve the family name. The accused say that two of the witnesses against them were perjurers.

TARTARIC ACID IN DIPHTHERIA. The topical use of tartaric acid in diphtheria has been successfully resorted to by M. Vidal, who, in one of the foreign medical journals, remarks upon the necessity of thus making use of topical agents against the false membrane, as it has a great tendency to spread by a sort of auto-inoculation, comparable to what occurs in certain cutaneous affections. His formula is ten parts, by weight, of tartaric acid, fifteen of glycerine, and twenty-five of mint-water. The acid acts upon the false membrane, converting it into a geletanous mass, and favors its expulsion.

CARRIAGE building is becoming one of the most extensive interests in the country. Something like 1,000,000 carriages, representing a value of over $100,000,000, is about the average of our annual production. It may not be generally known that more carriages are annually made in the United States than are turned out by Great Britain, France, Italy and Germany together. Since carriages are kept only by the smaller portion of our well-to-do citizens, the vast number in use speaks volumes in regard to the general wealth and prosperity of the American people.

PRINCE MILAN, of Servia, apparently thinks that he can become a King as well as other people—as the Prince of Roumania for example. It is believed that he will put on that new dignity in August or September.

THE Methodist conference for Arizona is in session at Tucson, Bishop Bowman, of St. Lonis, presiding. Nine ministers are in attendance, constituting the first organized body of ministers in that territory.

REPORTS from Camas prairie, Idaho, are to the effect that the cattle are recovering from the terrible epidemic with which they have been afflicted. Over 250 have died from blackleg out of a herd of 5,000.

AN English official will come to America in the Autumn to conclude a consular convention with the United States in order to cope with the crimping of British sailors in America.

ISAIAS W HELLMAN, President of the Farmers' and Merchants' bank of Los Angeles, has been appointed by the Governor as a Regent of the University, in place of D. O. Mills, resigned.

THE Oregon Astorian says: The other day one man returned to the West Coast cannery with three salmon among his lot that weighed 183 pounds, an average of 61 pounds each.

THE Arizona people want a Governor who will stay in the Territory and attend to its business. Therefore they want Gen. Fremont removed to give place to such a man.

AN engaged young man is late in paying his regular visit to the dwelling of his musically inclined betrothed. The young lady is anxious; the family sympathize with her anxiety. Suddenly the bell rings, and the calm blue sky of peace reappears on the young girl's eyes as she exclaims rapturously but ungramatically: "That's him! How exquisite his technique is on the bell pull, and—oh, the breadth of his ring!"

L. J. ROSE's new barn, Los Angeles county, Cal., is the finest in that portion of the State. It is 50x135 feet in dimensions, two stories in hight, with lofty ceilings. On the ground floor are about thirty stalls. Then there are rooms for feed and harness, lodgings for grooms and stands for wagons and carriages. The cost of the building was $12,000.

A NEW and stringent liquor law went into effect in Rhode Island on July 1st. One of its provisions is that no license shall be granted for any place within 400 feet of a public school. It is probable that this clause will compel the removal of a number of hotels.

A ST. LOUIS paper philosophically remarks: "We can very well stand the heat in St. Louis as long as we are assured that it is very hot in Chicago. We could be comfortable at 103 here if we know it was 104 at the other end of a portion of our great St. Louis railroad system."

THEY have a locomotive in Austin, Nev., called the "Mule's Relief," which hauls a car heavily loaded with ore up a grade of 400 feet to the mile with ease and rapidity.

EXTRACTED HONEY.

THIS HONEY WAS REMOVED FROM THE comb by centrifugal force, with a machine made for the purpose. It is therefore virtually the same as honey in the comb, only you don't have to eat the bees wax, which is indigestible and therefore disagrees with many persons. When first extracted the honey is liquid, but nearly all pure honey will candy or granulate in course of time, especially if exposed to the cold. Putting the cans in hot water for a short time will bring the honey to its fluid state without injury.

This Honey is put up in 10 pound cans, with patented screw tops, which renders it convenient for family use, and especially for the mines, to which it may be packed, even upside down, without leakage. A neat label on each can gives full directions.

Price, $1 50 per can, or 12½ cents per lb at the Apiary, if customers furnish their own receptacle. For sale at Harris & Raine's, Independence, and at the Apiary, at Jacob Vagt's place, Camp Independence.

APPLICATION FOR A PATENT

....TO THE....

SUMMIT NO. 2 MINE.

No. 192.

UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE,
Bodie, Cal., June 6, 1881.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT A. R. Conklin, W. H. Jenkins and James Jenkins, whose postoffice address is Independence, Inyo county, California, have this day filed their application for a patent for fifteen hundred linear feet of the SUMMIT NO. 2 mine or vein bearing silver, with surface ground six hundred feet in width, situated in Cerro Gordo mining district, County of Inyo, State of California, and designated by the field notes and official plat on file in this office as Lot No. 40, in Township ——, Range ——of—— —— Meridian.

SURVEY OF LODE.

Said Lot No. 40 being described as follows, to wit: Commenced at a post on SE. end of claim on lode line, marked the post "Post A, Summit Mine No 2," from which, with a variation 15 deg 55 min. E a pine bush 3 lks high, bears N. 88½ deg. E 43 lks; a pine bush 3 links high bears S. 45¾ deg. W. 31 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E., N 40 deg. W .10 earth ridge bears W. .50 wagon road runs SW; commenced ascending 14 88 trail on ridge runs W.; commenced descending 18.39, trail runs W. 20.17 tunnel 9 ft long on quartz vein. 22 72 "Post B, Summit Mine No. 2," on NW. end of lode, from which the Belshaw wagon road bears N. 45 deg. W. 45 links.

SURVEY OF CONNECTING LINE.

From "Post 7, Summit Mine No. 2" the Armagh U. S Mineral Monument bears N. 54 deg. E. 50 links by direct chain measurement.

SURVEY OF EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.

Commenced at a post set in mound of earth on S. cor. of claim; marked the post "Post 1, Summit Mine No. 2" from which, with a var. 15 deg 55 min. E., a pine tree 12 links high bears N. 39 deg. W. 49 links; a pine tree 3 links high bears N. 18½ deg. E. 31 links; a pine bush 2 links high bears N. 84½ deg. E. 36 links; a pine bush 2 links high bears S 19 deg 15 min. W 17 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg 55 min. E, (1) N. 40 deg. W. 2 54 brow of hill; commence descending; 10 36 gulch; runs W 12 21 wagon road; 13 64 "Post 2, Summit Mine No. 2," set in a mound of earth on S boundary line of the Armagh mine, from which "Post 1, Armagh Mine," bears N 79 deg. E. 2 49 chains; 19.65 "Post 3, Summit Mine No. 2," set in mound of earth on south B. L. of the Santa Niño mine; 20.31 trail runs E-W, commence descending; 21 21 wagon road runs N-S.; 22 72 "Post 4, Summit Mine No. 2," set in mound of earth on W. cor of claim, from which the entrance to the open cut leading into the Santa Niño tunnel bears S. 28½ deg W 45 links Thence, with a var 15 deg 55 min. E., (2) N 50 deg E. .74 intersection of the north B. E. 11.76 chains; 9.09 "Post 7, Summit Mine No 2," standing on N. cor. of claim, from which the Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument bears 54 deg E. 50 links.

Description of Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument as described in the field notes of survey of the Armagh mine: The Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument is built on the apex of a red rocky point at the intersection of Ygnacio Ravine and Cerro Gordo cañon, and very precisely on the W. B. line of the Ygnacio mine (as surveyed for a patent in the year 1875 by J. S. Seely, U. S. Dep. Min. Sur.), and distant 17 51 chains from the southwest corner stake of the Ygnacio mine.

At the point above given I drilled a hole in the rock to a depth of 9 inches, in which drove a piece of gas pipe 1 inch in dia x9¾ inches long. On top of gas pipe, set a post 4x4 inches square, x4 feet long, around which built a monument of rocks 5 feet high x5 feet in dia at its base; marked the top of post "U. S. Min. Monument Erected Jan'y 3d, A. D. 1880 by Wm. Crapo, U. S. Dep. Min. Sur., under authority of the U. S. Sur. Gen'l for Cal'a."

From said post in mineral monument, with a variation of 15 deg 55 min. E the extreme end of the bluff on which the monument is situated bears N. 25 deg. W. 17 links The east edge of ridge at the top of a vertical face of rock, 7½ feet high, bears N. 60 deg E 7 links. The NE. cor. of an old adobe vaso chimney bears S. 58 deg 16 min. W. 16 links. The middle of the Beshaw toll road at a point where it turns out to Cerro Gordo Cañon bears N. 81¾ deg. W. 1 06 chains. The middle of Cerro Gordo Cañon bears N. 62 chains. TRIAL BY JURY.

Trial by jury proves the existence of a free government; it is the exercise by the people of one branch of supreme power. When we say it founds or upholds it, we put the effect for the cause. But suppose its value for the conversation of liberty in the past were admitted, it does not follow that it is needed now for the like purpose. Officials are powerless beyond constitutional limits. Judges by the tenure of office are beyond the influence of executive power, and generally of the ballot-box. The end now to be sought is that the law, as the expressed will of the people, should be everywhere and always supreme and uniform in its administration.

And so we come to this vital question: Is justice according to fixed rules of law more likely to be attained by our present system, or by one in which both fact and law are settled by the court without the intervention of the jury?

In cases in which we may assume that jurors would have no bias it is obvious that they are greatly liable to error from the want of proper qualifications for the work they have to do. It was found in the beginning that the world's work could not be done without special preparation for special duties. Our neighbor may be a great man, but we do not call upon him to set a broken limb unless he has had the training of a surgeon. Much as we may esteem our physician, we do not ask his advice when a claim is set up to the estate we inherited and supposed our own. We never go to our shoemaker for a coat, nor to our tailor for boots. In our late war, we sometimes, when smarting under defeat, talked wildly about military genius and West Point machines; but in the end the value of military education was splendidly vindicated, while the civilians, who, early in the civil war, by political influence or otherwise, obtained independent commands in the army, for the most part failed miserably, involving the country in vast loss and suffering. The average juryman is unaccustomed to continuous thought. He has never learned by practice to weigh and compare evidence, nor to judge of the truthfulness of witnesses. In protracted trials it is impossible for him to carry the testimony in his memory, or to aid his memory effectively by notes. At the close of the testimony the court instructs him in the law applicable to the case, and then it becomes his study to make up his verdict by applying as best he may legal principles often imperfectly understood to testimony imperfectly remembered. We should not set a man to cultivate a farm or make a shoe without practical knowledge of his work. We should expect nothing from him but failure, if his preparation had been a lecture or a course of lectures. And yet we set jurors to the most responsible and difficult of all duties, with such preparation and aid as they can receive from the arguments of the lawyers and the charge of the court.

Again, the juryman is impressed into the service. Often he brings with him the career of the business from which he was taken; and if anxiety about the harvesting, the notes that must be paid before the banks close, or the conduct of the boy who thinks "epsom salt means oxalic acid" distracts his attention, he will console himself by the reflection that his responsibility is shared by eleven others.

On the other hand, the judge brings to the work a mind disciplined by years of study, followed by years of study and practice. His knowledge of law enables him to see what facts are to be proved, and on which of the parties rests the burden of proving them, and so, as each witness delivers his testimony, to appreciate its probable value. Practice has taught him to read witnesses. For him, not words only, but the manner, the tone, the gesture, the countenance, have force and meaning. He is not likely to be misled. He has opportunity to take full notes, if need be, and afterwards to revise and compare the statements of witnesses. The duties of his office are his work. His attention is not detracted by outside cares.

So much for the relative capacity of judge and jury to administer justice.—[Atlantic for July.

Strawberries and Garden Truck by the Barrel.

The following method of growing strawberries in barrels is not novel, but it has been recently vouched for as a practical and profitable success. It would seem to offer many advantages for people in a village with little or no garden space. Bore fifty holes in a barrel with an inch auger, and sink the bottom of the barrel an inch or two in the ground. Fill the barrel with rich loam to the level of the first row of holes; then insert the strawberry plants, taking care that the roots are well secured. The row completed, fill up the barrel to the second row of holes, and set out another row of plants, and so on till the barrel is full. For watering and fertilizing, set into the top of the barrel an old tin can with a perforated bottom, filling the can with proper fertilizers. The barrel of plants can be kept irrigated by water enriched by passage through the can; or good results can be obtained by irrigating with soapy water without fertilizers. Fifty well nourished plants will furnish a family with many messes of berries, and three or four barrels covered with plants would be equal to a good sized strawberry patch. The plants should be set out in the fall, and might be covered for protection during the winter.

A modification of this plan is strongly recommended by the Prairie Farmer, Appleton's Home Garden, and other authorities, for growing melons, cucumbers, tomatoes, etc., in places where regular gardening is not practicable.

What is needed is a few barrels. Bore holes around the middle, and one hole large enough to admit the nose of your watering pot. Fill the barrel with stones as high as the row of holes, and fill in with good, rich, fine earth to the top, in which plant cucumbers, melons, squashes, tomatoes, etc. One barrel will be enough for each kind. Be sure to have one large flat stone lean over the large hole where you will pour in water until it runs out of the holes you have made, and which will prevent the earth from filling this large hole up. Range the barrels around your yard and plant your seeds. Keep the barrels filled with water up to the holes, and you have all the requisites for rapid, healthy growth—air, heat, and moisture. You can raise all the vegetables you will need in the greatest perfection, and they will last until late in the autumn, as they can easily be covered on frosty nights. Cucumbers and tomatoes may hang over the barrels, cutting them off when they reach the bottom. Melons may be tied to the wall fence. The stones have an important service in holding up the earth, and in absorbing the heat during the day, which they give out at night, keeping the water at an even temperature. You will be astonished at the result, if you have never tried it.

A PROPELLOR, the power for which is supplied by an electric motor is now experimentally plying on the Seine. The experiment is said to be a great success.

Horrible Massacre.

The following is from the Fiji Times of April 30th, brought by the City of New York, which arrived in San Francisco recently:

The schooner Elizabeth returned from a trading cruise on Sunday, bringing news of a most horrible massacre that had been perpetrated at Tapitawa, one of the Line Islands. It seems that some years ago a branch of the London Missionary Society was established in the Island, from Houolulu, under the charge of a Sandwich Islander named Kahu, who succeeded in proselytizing the entire community. Upon their embracing Christianity he induced them to give all their weapons into his care, and everything went smoothly for awhile. Latterly, however, the people living on the southern part of the Island became dissatisfied at the constant requisition made upon them for copra, and considering Kahu's Christianity too dear at the price, they apostatized. Kahu then preached a crusade against them, and arming his followers, led them on in person, beating two clubs together and crying "Kill! Kill!" The carnage which followed is almost too horrible for belief, not less than 1,000 men, women and children having been indiscriminately massacred. The most atrocious enormities were practiced on their victims by the victorious party, and after the general slaughter the wounded were collected together, piled one on top of another, and the roof of an old house placed over them, which the miscreant Kahu fired with his own hand. When the Elizabeth was at the Island the beach was still strewn with the decomposing bodies of men, women ane children, but the archfiend in the transaction had been taken to Honolulu in the Hawaiian vessel Stormbird, to answer for his almost incredible crime.

MR. E. A. BURKHARDT, a prominent business man of Cincinnati, recently addressed the Commercial Club of that city on the subject of advertising. He said: In my own business career, advertising, advertising largely and unceasingly, has been an important factor. It was not in my plan to advertise flamingly for a brief period in the trade season and then stop. My business has been kept steadily before the public to a considerable extent the year round. I believe it is better to occupy one square every day for a year than to cover a page with letters three inches long for a week and then discontinue it altogether. In this respect I might also parody the old saying that "a little learning is a dangerous thing," and remark the same thing of advertising. A little of it is certainly an expensive thing. Rightly managed, constant and wide advertising is the most economical method a merchant can adopt to win customers. But advertise constantly or do not spend a dollar. Now, as to general results achieved (and I am not going to give you any of my business secrets) I have cast my mind's eye hurriedly over my experience in Cincinnati, and I am fully convinced that in fifteen years, with the advertising that I have done, I have pushed my business to a standing that would have taken thirty years to reach without advertising. In truth, it is doubtful if I could have at all attained the results I have without the aid of the newspapers. First and best of all, as a means for a merchaut to make himself known, are the leading newspapers. If I were asked to name the merchant's best friend I should answer, the newspaper. A handbill or circular may reach a thousand persons, nineteenths of whom throw it away without reading, but a well worded advertisement, printed in a leading daily paper, which is bought for the news it contains, will reach fifty or a hundred thousand persons, and in a way to commend itself to their attention.

MR. ALBERT STICKNEY has an article in Scribner's for July which tells some ugly truths. He says "the carrying of the elections is coming to be a question of the longest purse. It is now becoming an impossible thing for any man to get a nomination for public office who cannot command in his favor the payment of a large sum of money. It is stated among well informed men that it now costs about $15,000 for a nomination to a seat on the bench in either of the higher Courts in the City of New York."

TOUCHING the question of an election for county officers this Fall, Judge Shattuck, an able and distinguished lawyer, advises the Petaluma Courier in this wise: "While we are opposed to an election, and believe it would be better for the State and people that we should not have one until 1882, we are candidly of the opinion that when the Supreme Court is called upon to pass upon the question, it will decide we must have one this Fall. This doubt could have been settled by the decision of the San Francisco case, without much extra labor, and, knowing its importance, the Judges should have done so. But it appears to be the policy of our appellate Court of last resort to decide no question in any case, however important, that it can possibly dodge."

THE report of Boss Shepherd's death in Mexico is denied. On the contrary, the Boss is repeating his Washington tactics and has lobbied through a large local subsidy for his mining schemes.

THE COMET DOUBLES UP.

The comet has been getting married or doubling up, or doing something mysterious. At any rate there are two traveling side by side. So say astronomers. About ten o'clock, July 8th, at the Cincinnati Observatory, Prof. C. C. Wilson, the assistant of Prof. Ormand Stone, was startled by the altered condition of the comet. He discovered that a jet had been thrown out, which was separated from the nucleus by a thin, dark line. Prof. Wilson at once notified Prof. Stone of the wonderful phenomenon, and together they ran to the telescope. This jet gradually formed into a distinct nucleus, and it was not long before two comets were visible—or rather the old one was double. The new comet is ranged directly above the old one, and was not visible to the naked eye—in fact the whole was but dimly seen. Of the Biela comet expected in 1865, but not found, it is written: "The Biela comet, when first discovered, Jan. 12, 1846, divided into two distinct comets, each having coma, nucleus and tail. The comet returned in 1852, and at that time both the comets were traveling together, with singular interchanges of luster, first one and then the other showing the greater degree of brightness. That was the last seen of the Biela comet, though it should have returned every sixth year, had it continued to exist."

Of some prophetic words and the President's realization of the danger of assassination, Miss Francis E. Willard relates a conversation she had with Garfield soon after his inauguration. He went on to say that his mother had such fears for his personal safety that on one occasion during the campaign, alarmed at the presence of some rather suspicious looking strangers at Mentor, she took him aside and cautioned him to be on his guard against them. She thought they would like to get him out of the way as a quick solution of the pending contest. After speaking thus to Miss Willard the President remarked: "I presume it is true, that any man who has been put forward as the chief executive of a nation, whether he be a king or president, is a target so conspicuous that he has a sort of fascination for a certain class of men with homicidal tendencies." Immediately after he added, thoughtfully and seriously, these prophetic words: "I presume, personally, occupying the position I do, I am in daily danger of assassination."

A NEW movement, apparently of a powerful nature, has just made its appearance in the British Parliament for the passage of a law and the adoption of measnres for the compulsory stoppage of the sale of liquors on Sunday by the public houses. The principle is a popular one in the middle and upper classes of society in England, and with the main body of church-going people. It has the sympathy of the whole Radical party, but does not seem likely to command a parliamentary majority.

THE President appears to have almost passed the danger line. The proofs given by him of a healthy appetite are the most encouraging symptoms which have yet appeared. A man who can eat and digest comfortable and substantial meals, and is manifestly the better for them, may be regarded as practically convalescent. Still the wound remains a very serious matter, and the physicians, though evidently very hopeful, will not commit themselves to too sanguine predictions.

RICH men who are anxious to do something for a President's wife may profitably remember Mrs. Lincoln, whose husband was killed, and who has since been let very severely alone by most of the people who fawned upon and burned incense to the great war President.

THE old but fruitful subject of Chicago divorces has been brought to the front by a decree in which a man procured a separation from his wife without her knowing anything about it, and then continued to live with her until he found it convenient to marry another woman.

THE New York Postoffice has been for a long time a most profitable institution, and it is becoming more so every day. The receipts over expenditures amount to over $300,000 per annum, and are increasing at the rate of $50,000 each year.

GUITEAU wants his life written up and thinks it would read like a romance. It should be written with his execution as the finale.

OUR RAILROAD PROSPECTS.

There are a few persons in this region who profess to believe that the advent of a railroad here would prove disastrous to their individual if not the general interests of the county. But by far the larger number are positive in the conviction that a railroad through this valley is of the very first importance to our every interest; that, but for the probability of having one at no distant day, there would be nothing whatever of our present little spurt toward permanent prosperity. We shall not at this writing attempt to convince those few that their fears are without tenable foundation, nor to prove to the many that they are eminently correct in their opinions and highest anticipations, for neither our fears of evil consequences nor hopes of happy results through the snorts of the steam horse on Owens River are in the least likely to bar him out in toto or materially hurry his coming; he will come or not come without regard to either. For ourselves, we will repeat what we have so often said in substance before: God speed the day when the scream of the locomotive shall reverberate in every cañon on either side of Owens River Valley! It can scare nothing out we would have stay; it cannot possibly make things worse.

Now, as to the prospects: In the daily Alta, of the 19th, we find a long column recounting proposed railroad enterprises inaugurated and being inaugurated to "gridiron" this State. The part that directly concerns us is a quotation from the Los Angeles Commercial to the effect that "Mr. Scott will soon proceed to Wadsworth, Nevada, via San Francisco, and inaugurate a preliminary survey from that place through Storey, Washoe and Douglas counties in Nevada, and Mono, Inyo and Kern in California, to Mohave station on the Southern Pacific railroad. This line is, of course, to be a branch of the Southern Pacific." That's all, but it is satisfactory, in so far that we consider it almost a certainty that actual construction of a road on that line will be ordered immediately after the report of the preliminary survey is received and considered. Early action is necessary for the big railroad company's welfare for several reasons. The building of the road from Eureka to the Colorado is a fixed fact. That is a part of the Jay Gould system designed to control the traffic of all these Western States and Territories as against the Central (and Southern) Pacific system. For self-protection, the California company will be compelled to build, not only this link in which we are specially interested, but continue it north along the eastern foot of the Sierras and Cascade range to the Columbia, perhaps to Puget Sound. Considering the distance, this route presents fewer serious obstacles to cheap railroad building than any other in any other mountainous region of the continent; certainly far better than any route to connect the same or corresponding points via the western slope. It is the only route between the Columbia and Colorado, or within the Great Basin, upon which so nearly an unbroken line of population, both mining and agricultural, can or ever will be found. It would connect Oregon with Mexico, and command a way traffic that could discount that of any other north and south road west of the Rockies to the Pacific. It is a necessity to the Central Pacific railroad system, and no less a most inviting enterprise for any independent or opposition company. It is the route that will command the interior business of the Pacific coast, and the through business from Washington Territory and all intermediate territory to the Gulf of Mexico—and don't forget it, you who have anything at stake.

POPULATION.

According to "Census Bulletin No. 202," from the Department of the Interior, Census Office, the officially accredited population of this county is as follows:

Township No. 1, including the village of Bishop Creek		1,206
Bishop Creek village	159
Township No. 2		407
Township No. 3		358
Township No. 4		445
Township No. 5, including the village of Cerro Gordo		196
Cerro Gordo village	55
Township No. 6		189
Township No. 7		35
Township No. 8		92

The foregoing shows a population of 2,928, without regard to classification. Unless the State should order a census taken in the meanwhile—something unprecedented—these United States official figures must be taken as a political basis for Congressional and Legislative apportionments until 1890.

THE leading property of the Deep Springs District in question was recently abandoned by the Los Angeles owners.—Bodie Free Press.

The Free Press errs through a similarity of names. It was at Resting Springs District, or Tecopa, where the Los Angeles Company was operating, at least 300 miles from Deep Springs. Inyo county is considerably big, if not bigger. Please correct.

THE MINERS OF THE FAR WEST.

The New York Daily Stock Report pays the following tribute to the miners of the far West: There is a striking analogy between the Spanish and English discoverers who, during the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries, manfully and successfully strove (against opposing circumstances and hostile natives) to lay open the character of the New to the eager gaze of the Old World—there is, we say, a striking analogy between these "bold mariners of the brave days of old" and a more modern, but none the less hardy, adventurous class of civilizing agents. We refer, of course, to the miner. Before his magic touch fall down the barriers that conceal nature's hoarded wealth from the gaze of mankind. Like the walls of Jericho before the bugle of Joshua, so the walls of nature crumble into dust before this modern Joshua. A second Moses, his pickax supplies the place of the prophets wand; while the latter caused water to spring from the unyielding rock, the former brings forth stores of untold wealth to satiate whatever Horace terms the universal "thirst for gold." Nor does he come alone. In the train of him and his associates follow his wife and children; forthwith a homestead is erected, and soon a little settlement springs up in the vicinage of the mining property. A school is required, a church is erected, the healer to "the ills to which flesh is heir," and his omnipresent associate, the legal cormorant, make their bows to the busy community—and in a very short space of time (incredible to European ideas) the little oasis of civilization is transmuted into a local metropolis, to become a second Deadwood or another Leadville. All this is due—not to the intervention of any saint, demi-god or magician—but to the manual exertions of the hardy son of toil, the miner. A second Napoleon, he has met the enemy (whether nature or the aborogine) and overcome him. It is, then, the duty of the civilized world, never to forget this humble, but potent factor in the march of civilization, this model of energy and perseverance—the American miner.

IF anyone is credulous enough to believe Guiteau, the would-be-assassin, insane, let him read the account of his deliberation in planning the murder of the President. After purchasing a pistol, he went into practice with it, and dogged the steps of his intended victim from place to place, seeking an opportunity to carry out his bloody design. He was unwilling to take the risk of killing or wounding any person but the President, and restrained himself from shooting at him on two or three occasions, for fear of missing his aim. Here was a deliberate exercise of the reasoning powers, guided by a caution that would have done honor to the skill of a professional life-taker. There is an absence of any desire in the public mind to prejudice the case of Guiteau; but it will not do to forget that he has been guilty of a crime that should be severely punished, and from which he should not be permitted to escape by a false sympathy created in his favor.

THE Jews agitation in Germany seems to have abated. Jews have had as much ignominy cast on them there as anywhere. Within the memory of living persons they were not permitted to be within the walls of Bremen and Hamburg after sundown. Under Frederick the Great they were subject to severe restrictions, and might not travel without permission. A wealthy Hebrew who longed to quit Berlin, and had in vain sought permission, at length wrote to Frederick to beg leave of absence on the score of health. There came back this affectionate autographic answer: "Dear Ephraim; nothing but death shall part us.—Frederick."

THE whaler "Thomas Pope," which has just arrived from Arctic waters, brings the intelligence that there is no doubt but the missing whalers "Mount Wollaston" and "Vigilant," with all on board have been lost. The natives state that they saw the vessels floating about, and going on board they found the crews dead. The present season is very favorable for navigating the north; and it is believed that the "Corwin" or the "Rodgers" will be successful in their search for the "Jeannette."

HANNIBAL HAMLIN, who was the Vice-President of these United States under Abraham Lincoln, has been appointed by President Garfield envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to Spain, vice Lucius Fairchild, relieved.

THE State Attorney General has written an opinion that it will be necessary for the State to hold an election this Fall for all county officers. Perhaps the Supreme Court may not agree with him exactly in this much mixed question.

ON the 18th, at the Bechtel mine in Bodie, Alex. Larsen, a Swede aged 39 years, fell down a 200-foot incline and was killed. He has been in Bodie about three years and was formerly in this county.

THE cattle thieves, "Texas" Bill Bender, and one other, who have been raiding stock-ranches in the northern and eastern portion of this county, and driving the stolen cattle across the mountains to the mining camps, where they found sale for them, were pursued by a Deputy Sheriff and posse, as stated last week. After being compelled to leave their booty by reason of close pursuit, the robbers returned to Fresno Flats, where they acted in true border-desperado style, firing pistols, defying the local authorities, and menacing with death any pursuers. Their flight was towards Fine Gold Gulch and the head of the San Joaquin River. When the Sheriff and party returned to the Flats they were apprised of the flight of the marauders, and immediately gave chase. The party, composed of Deputy Pickett, Jonathan and Dar. Lewis, and Walter Brown, were well armed and prepared for a desperate resistance on the part of the fugitives, who bear a reputation second to none for courage and defiance of law. Both robbers and pursuers were well acquainted with the topography of the surrounding mountains; consequently the chase was an exciting one. At last, after three or four days' hard riding, the robbers, who had been followed with unabated zeal, were discovered encamped in a rugged and brushy canyon on the South Fork of the San Joaquin River. Espying their enemies, the desperadoes opened fire with their six-shooters, and at the same time tried to escape. The Sheriff's party, armed with rifles, returned the fire with effect, killing one horse and wounding another. The robber-hunters returned from the chase with the remaining animals, camping outfit, saddles, arms and money that had been in possession of the thieves. They say the robbers escaped. But as Pickett was not in at the fight, and as the cattle-men were thoroughly exasperated, it is not the popular opinion that "Tex." and his pals will in future play "seven up" with a pack of tin cards.—Visalia Delta.

THE grading of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company is completed to Brigham City, two hundred miles north of Prescott, and will soon be completed to Flagstaff, one hundred miles further west of Albuquerque. The track-laying has been finished one hundred and sixty-five miles, and will be pushed forward to Brigham City, (the Colorado Chiquito) at an early date. Messrs. Grant and McDonald have about thirty-six miles of the road-bed under contract, and Messrs. Price & King, fifty-four miles. The work is not progressing rapidly at this time, on account of the scarcity of labor, for two thousand men could get steady employment at remunerative wages. The roadbed hugs the south spurs of the San Francisco Mountains, and north of the Bill Williams Peak, which makes the construction very expensive, as out of the fifty-four miles contracted by Messrs. Price & King, thirty miles will be cut through Malpais stone, and the question of powder has become one of serious consideration, as many thousand tons will be required for the work.—Phœnix Gazette.

THE following is the lowest depth that has been attained at the principal mines on the Comstock: Utah, bottom of incline, run south from vertical shaft, 2,250 feet; Sierra Nevada, bottom of joint Union Con. winze, 2,700; Union Con., bottom of joint Sierra Nevada winze, 2,700; Mexican, bottom of joint Ophir winze, 2,860; Ophir, bottom of joint Mexican winze, 2,860; California and Con. Virginia, each, 2,500, Best & Belcher, bottom of joint Con. Virginia winze, 2,300; Gould & Curry, (Osbiston shaft), 1,980; Savage, Hale & Norcross, Chollar and Potosi, each, 2,400; Julia, 2,000; Bullion, 2,800; Imperial Con., 2,800; Yellow Jacket, 2,000; Crown Point, 2,760: Belcher, 3,000; Overman, 2,272; Alta, 2,065. The Forman shaft is in depth, 1,980.

THE discovery, some years ago, of a grove of black walnut trees in a little valley on the south side of Upper King's River, leads us to hope that in time many of the foothill valleys will be planted, at least in part, with those valuable trees. If they will flourish in a wild state, certainly they will thrive by cultivation. No more valuable trees can be grown than the black walnut. The nuts and the timber are both commercial articles, that always command a ready sale.—Fresno Expositor.

The above item contains a suggestion of very practical value to this country. The trees should take the place of locust, being greatly superior in all respects, of larger and equally rapid growth.

THE Los Vegas Gazette has positive information that "Billy the Kid," the notorious murderer and outlaw, who for several years has been the terror of New Mexican cattlemen, was on the 14th instantly killed by Pat Garrett, Sheriff of Lincoln county. Garrett has been on his track for some time. On the 14th he overhauled him in a cabin at Fort Sumner and shot him dead. Before expiring the "Kid" said he was going home to Jesus. The "Kid" is a native of New York City. His real name is McCarthy.

THE New York Legislature has at last selected two gentlemen to fill the vacancies occasioned by the resignations of Senators Conkling and Platt. The successful candidates are Elbridge G. Lapham and Warner Miller. The former succeeds Platt to the long term, and the latter takes the place of Conkling. Both are natives of the Empire State, and both had been returned last Fall as members of the Forty-seventh Congress. Their political biography was given in last week.

QUEEN VICTORIA has refused to accept a barrel of Kentucky whiskey named in her honor.

GOSSIP FROM "OLD INYOITE."

WILLOWS, COLUSA CO., CAL., July 18, 1881.

MESSRS. EDITORS—The all absorbing topic in this part of the State at the present time is "how to keep cool." Now when old Sol gets his back up in the manner he has done here of late this problem is not so easily solved, as the mercury in the thermometer ascends to 110 in the shade. To cool off, vari-persons try various devices. Some pour red hot whiskey down their throats; others souse themselves with lager beer—while the temperate ones try the remedy of iced-water and ice cream. The effects of these experiments are usually about the same. Large and plentiful globules of perspiration trickle down the faces and hairy throats of the muscular field hands now harvesting the crops, and perform the same antics with the fair Miss Angelica while she rocks herself and uses her willow-fan in her exquisite parlor—in the most energetic manner. Nature will assert her rights in every sphere, land, form or sex, so why buck against it?

Notwithstanding the excessive heat everything moves on harmoniously and in a prosperous condition. The yield of wheat, although not so large in Colusa county as last year, is still immense, and of an excellent quality. New and commodious buildings are being erected in which to store the cereal that forms the staff of life. Farmers are somewhat discouraged at the results of their labors, wheat at present being worth not more than $1 20 per 100 lb, which they say will not pay. However they will try it again all the same.

THE SUNDAY LAW.

The people or a certain portion of them in this county are most decidedly moral, and go to work in the most decided manner to make other people so. Let a saloon keeper sell a drink or cigar, or a merchant a pair of shoes to some poor devil whose toes protrude through his worn out mocassins, on Sunday, and he is immediately arrested, fined or cast into jail, if he don't find the fine. Yes, Sirs! Here, "close on Sundays or else"—is the pronunciamento, and they enforce it, too. A great deal of bucking against this arrangement is exhibited and in the end it will have to be decided by the Supreme Court whether the old but neglected Sunday law is constitutional or not.

INYOITISH REMINSICENCES AND ITEMS.

Not over fifty years ago your Senior (P. A. C.), and myself paid a visit to Jim Smith's saw-mill up on the Sierras, almost directly opposite Denton's sheep ranch, about ten miles from Independence. We would eat our pork and beans in the morning and afterwards stroll up the mountains grouse-hunting. P. A. C. did the shooting, and when the stupid unmusical birds were brought to the mill camp and properly cooked, I figured very conspicuously in the eating department. Oh! those days among the grand old Sierras. I tell you that pork and beans with an occasional mess of grouse tasted better then, with an appetite sharpened by the mountain air, than fresh oysters and shrimp salad does here. During our stay and while wandering among the hills we occasionally came across a young gentleman brought up for the church, but who at that time was engaged in driving bulls. Occasionally the animals when hitched on to a monster forest log would get stuck, and the way the aforementioned young man would exhort the bovine species to move on was simply soul-inspiring. The choice literature of Webster or Worcester were nowhere compared with the ejaculations of this saintly young man. Oh dear! for choice language, for elegant expressions give me a bull-whacker when the bulls are obstinate or can't do what he thinks they ought to do. Well, a few days ago I was fortunate enough to meet this very young man, dressed in city style, with the same old smile on his pleasant face and with a hearty shake of the hand, I greeted W. P. Spaulding, late partner of Jas. Jones, of Fish Springs. He is staying at present at Redwood City, where his parents reside and have a very pleasant home. On the very same day I met Lieutenant Haskell, and congratualated him on his matrimonial venture. I certainly would have known nothing of this event had it not been for THE INYO INDEPENDENT, which verifies the old saying "if you wish to hear news of home go from home." Haskell looks well, notwithstanding his late many years of hard campaigning; and when I showed him the source of my information he begged hard for the copy of your paper, which of course I gave him. He informed me that he had not seen an Inyo paper for a very long time, and intended sending the one I gave him to his relatives back East—to be preserved by them as a memento of the pleasant years spent in his military capacity at Camp Independence. Again, I had the pleasure of meeting a few of your high toned Inyoitish citizens, as follows, to wit. (as the lawyers have it) John Clark, Mr. Rittgers, T. J. Furbee of Bishop Creek and Dan Crough, Esq., of Independence. They were all healthy, good natured and moral, for I pledge you my word as a gentleman that they went to bed regularly at 6 o'clock; but whether 'twas 6 o'clock in the evening or morning this historian will not state, he being under a pledge of secrecy. To report them [un] faithfully [un] truly and goodly, they drove me and mine out to the Park and Cliff House, took us to the Tivoli to see Martha (not the girl, but the opera) drowned us in iced lemonade, surfeited us with delicacies and behaved in otherwise extravagant and extraordinary manner. We lived through it, and do hereby keep the promise by asking you when you see them to pat them on the back for me and assure them that they are "good boys," excepting Dan Crough, Esq. That sly rascal kept himself aloof; business engagements; school examinations to attend, churches to visit, etc., were his excuses meant for me, I presume, but not for himself. Pat Reddy, Esq., has opened an elegant suite of law offices on Pine Street, between Sansome and Montgomery, and I feel positive his hitherto successful and brilliant career, backed by his talents and indominable will and energy, will follow him in San Francisco—same as it has heretofore done in various places in Nevada and California. Mr. and Mrs. Reddy occupy handsome apartments in the Lick House, which is considered the most pleasant and home-like first class hotel in the city. Mrs. A. R. Conklin and little Emily Pat started last week for the East, with a farewell shake of the hand and best wishes for a pleasant and safe trip from your

OLD INYOITE.

THE prospecting fever is on the increase, and has become epidemic Every day parties start out on expeditions which they apparantly desire to keep secret, but at the time their destination is as well known as if it were proclaimed by the town crier. Hitchy-Hatchy valley is now the Dorado of imaginative treasure seekers. Wonderful stories of wonderfully rich ledges are current among those who have never seen that rugged and almost inaccessible country, but few of them have any more substantial foundation than guesswork. Nothing of value has ever been found in the region where the Tuolumne river has its source; but on the western slope of the Sierras, along the range where the granite of the mountains and the slate belt of the foot-hills meet, there is a large scope of country which has never been prospected, and where the chances for finding rich veins of quartz are good. Some of the best mines in the State lay between slate and granite.—Homer Index.

THE old Mono Diggings continue to attract attention. It is now pretty well demonstrated that a wide channel of auriferous gravel, never before uncovered, runs through the District. Many miners are at work there opening up their claims by tunneling or stripping waste dirt from the surface. John Stewart is setting hydraulic pipe to work ground about half a mile above Summers' ranch, and will soon be in operation.—Homer Index.

IT is about settled that California is to have another railroad that will connect it with the great East. Jay Gould is the author of the scheme, and it it not unlikely that Mono county will be on the line of the road. The dispatches this morning faintly intimate that such are the facts. If Gould will fight the C. P. crowd and reduce freights and fares to a reasonable figure, the approach of his road should be hailed with joy.—Bodie Free Press.

THE richest mine in the county—the "Fresno Enterprise," near Fresno Flats, has been sold for $250,000, to an Eastern company, one of whose members is Senator Doolittle. The purchasers have contracted for the immediate erection of a ten-stamp quartz mill, whose motive power will be water. Milling the ore will begin as soon as the work is completed.—Fresno Expositor.

EMMA ABBOT has invented a new kiss. If she desires to dispose of the old lot at cost, she can learn of something to her advantage by calling at this office out of business hours.—Ex.

MONEY continues to roll in for Mrs. Garfield. The wife of the late Abraham Lincoln is also receiving liberal sums of money. She recently collected $20 for rents.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

SATURDAY, JULY 23.....1881

FISH AND QUAIL.—It is pleasing to note that all the mountain streams in this vicinity are thoroughly stocked with trout—that is, the "beauties" are to be found in all parts of the streams from end to end, but at the present time in no great abundance, owing to the excessive drafts made upon them by so many fishermen, every season these several years past. But these streams, particularly the larger ones, will remain permanently stocked, let the fish-killer do what they may to clean them out. A few years ago there was not a game fish in any stream along the eastern foot of the Sierras south of Walker river; in a year or two more there will not be a creek but will be full of them, including Owens river itself, which was stocked with several catfish two years ago. Come to think about it, though, we have never heard a word of those "bull-pouts" since they were dumped into the river. Does anyone know anything about them, and if so, will they please report through these columns for the information of the many persons who aided in that enterprise? Six or seven years ago it seemed as if every quail in the country had come to an untimely end by reason of an extremely cold Winter. But they didn't, for now they are to be found by thousands, and ere long, will become a nuisance.

NEW STAGE ROUTE.—About the 1st instant a regular weekly mail was begun between Big Pine and Columbus, via Deep Springs and Fish Lake valleys—the intermediate postoffices being Gilberts and Oasis, or Piper's ranch. The mail leaves Big Pine according to time schedule at Tuesdays at 6 o'clock A. M., arriving in Columbus in 30 hours, and on return trip leaves Columbus on Wednesdays at noon. This arrangement leaves no time for the mail carrier to rest at all, and will probably have to be changed somewhat, especially as by a delay there of 18 hours close connections could be made with the mails from Gold Mountain, Lida Valley and Silver Peak. Mr. J. H. Smith is the sub-contractor for the present month, and is at present carrying the mail on horseback.

DAUGHERTY'S REST.—We are in receipt from the inventor, Wm. B. Daugherty, our ex-County Clerk and at present Deputy State Controller of Nevada, of one of his book rests. It consists of a platform which hangs from the shoulders by bended wires; the platform is fitted with wires upon which rest and which hold the book in a convenient position for reading, leaving the hands free. On the face of the platform is two excellent photographs, of Billy himself, quite natural as of old, showing the operation of the rest in a sitting and recumbent position. Students and readers generally are invited to step in and examine the trick; we can cordially recommend it for any lazy man—having tried it.

CAMP INDEPENDENCE.—Lt. Col. Geo. B. Sanford, 1st U. S. Cavalry, paid a visit of official inspection to Camp Independence last week. It is, of course, impossible to guess as to what will be the tenor of his report to Gen. McDowell, except that the buildings and property corresponded with the inventory. In the event of his recommending the entire abandonment of the property for military purposes the subject will be referred to the Secretary of War and by him to the Interior Department, by whom it can be sold unless Congress intervenes with a special act. It is greatly to be hoped that Pacheco's bill donating it to Inyo and Mono counties will be acted upon at the next session.

LOST.—If the finder or the present possessor of a leather cushion seat, belonging to Omie Mair's rockaway, will report the same to this office he will be suitably rewarded. It is presumed to have fallen out of the carriage somewhere between Big Pine and this point, week before last, and we think should have been reported before this, as most every one on the road knows who had the team and to whom the lost article belonged. Friends of this concern will please keep a sharp lookout for it all the while.

GOLD MOUNTAIN.—Mr. John Alexander, who left Gold Mountain on the 9th, says that the 40-stamp gold mill, consisting of rock-breaker, self-feeders, battery, plates and sluices, will be completed about the 1st proximo. The much praised water pipe has proved a complete failure, and Mr. Taylor went to New York to get a new lot of a different make. C. X. Hobbs, the new superintendent, had not then arrived.

TO LEVY TAXES.—The Board of Supervisors will meet one week from next Monday, to fix the rate of taxes and go through with the routine business. The session will probably be quite lengthy, especially as we hear of considerable buzzing about the next Assessorship. There are several parties willing to heroically sacrifice their own business and take the place.

WHERE?—Our type-foundry men at San Francisco send a statement of balance due—$2 09. In the present state of remittances from debtors, the serious question arises as to where in thunder those two dollars and nine cents are to come from.

REFITTING.—Mr. Bell is entirely refitting the Oak Creek Flouring Mills, and will be ready for operations in a few days. Much of the present improvements were suggested by his brother, of Tuolumne, a miller of thirty years experience.

SEE THE CHANGE.—A complete new announcement of A. K. Brigg's new store and stock at Bishop Creek will appear next week. Al. is bound to please the public, both as to goods on hand and low prices.

Movements of Miners.

Frank Osbiston and Hank Smith, known from Colorado to San Francisco as being among the most prominent and successful mining men of the old and present Comstock, arrived in Lone Pine last Tuesday. They were accompanied by Wm. Hamilton and J. T. Thompson. We understand their intention is to pay a visit to the principal mining properties of the various districts. Their trip for the present is to Beveridge and from thence to Cerro Gordo. At both points Mr. Hamilton is extensively interested, while Mr. Thompson has properties in Saline Valley to attract the party's attention.

Mr. Stephen H. Moore—whom Uncle Bil Lent considers the best gold quartz miner in the State—was in town for a day or two and has gone to take charge of the Poleta property at Bishop. The company he represents has been incorporated as the "Poleta Gold Mining Company;" capital stock $1,000,000, divided into 100,000 shares. Directors—Wm. E. Dean, Wm. H. Lent, D. C. Bates, John H. Boalt, A. K. P. Harmon.

Col. J. E. Freeman, Mineral Surveyor, who has been at the Ygnacio for two weeks past, left Cerro Gordo Tuesday to report in San Francisco.

Capt. J. M. Keeler, of the O. L. S. M. Co., has been examining the Cartier gold property in Mazourka cañon, and speaks well of the developments there.

J. H. Holt is working up the Craig's cañon mine in Beveridge District, which he has under bond. Mr. Holt has been solicited to go to Chihuahua, in Mexico, to take charge of a New York operation there, on mines which have been worked for 300 years and produced fabulous sums in silver.

Mr. W. E. Smith, of New York, and S. D. Woodhull have put in pretty much all of the past two weeks in studying up the chances for capital in the Mazourka Cañon and Swansea District propositions.

Mr. A. H. Griswold and Capt. H. H. Todd were at Benton until Thursday, where they have been assaying and examining the many samples taken from Deep Springs District. The Captain has gone to his home in Alameda, while Mr. Griswold has swung off to Columbus, to examine a mill there with a view to purchase and remove it to Deep Springs. On their trip the party took in the Montezuma mine belonging to Billy Lake, situated nearly opposite Fish Springs, and the Mineral Hill mine, about 16 miles from Bishop, belonging to Mr. Peter Laird.

Jerome S. Childs, formerly superintendent of the Modock, is up from San Francisco. He has gone to-day to inspect the Bishop Creek properties and goes on to Bodie. County Clerk Crough escorts him to Bishop.

Mining Transfers.

County Recorder Crough has during the month placed upon record quite a number of mining deeds, showing some activity in the mining interests. The most important, perhaps, is some ten in number, covering a complete transfer of La Niño mine at Bishop Creek, the west extension of the Pajaro. It was held by M. C. Lasky, 500 feet; Antonia Sais, 355 feet; Francisco Cantua, 200 feet; Onofre Moreno, 250 feet and Jose Marie Portillo 275 feet. The purchasers are W. A. Irwin and C. E. Loose and the consideration $10,000.

James Rowan to John Redding, one-third of 1,300 feet of the Emmett mine, Bishop Creek, for $5.

Alfred Jordan to J. Driscoll and W. J. Hartshorne, 750 feet in the Black Bird mine, Deep Springs, for $10.

J. J. Williams to Wm. O. Harrell, the Nugget mine, (northerly extension of the Pajaro), Bishop Creek, for $2,500.

J. B. Swearingen to Jas. W. Smith, 250 feet in the Nugget mine, for $1,000.

Jas. Hanger to Mr. A. Barry, 50 feet in the Enterprise mine, Craig's Cañon (Saline Valley country) for $60, subject to bond to J. H. Holt.

V. G. Thompson to A. Wingard, one-third interest in Antelope Springs, Deep Spring Valley, and one-third of the Cinderella mine, for $200.

POLETA.—Mr. L. H. Moore returned from Bishop Creek yesterday, en route to Beveridge. He reports that the prospect shaft or incline of the Poleta is going down at the rate of four feet per day, and is now 128 feet in depth. It is in rich gold ore the full width of six feet all the way; in fact, only two tons of waste has been taken from the incline altogether. The showing is splendid for a big mine.

OFF FOR A TRIP.—Our host of the Blaney House intends setting out next Wednesday for a trip of examination of some point in Washington Territory, with a view of possiby moving there with his family. It would be regarded a local misfortune if Mr. Thompson should ultimately conclude to leave us.

MONTEZUMA.—The Howell furnace at Montezuma, under the management of Chief Smelter Thomas, formerly of Cerro Gordo, completed its first run of 1,000 bars and then went right on. It is a lively camp, working about sixty men. The only drawback is a scarcity of water, of a very bad quality at that.

THRESHING.—The merry hum of Hessian's thresher was heard for two or three days at Robinson's big grain stacks. The boys claim that the machine is "a queen" for good and rapid work.

NOTARY.—Gov. Perkins has appointed Geo. M. Gill, Esq., as Notary Public, to reside at Bishop Creek.

GEORGE FRANCIS TRAIN has awakened from his reverie in Madison Square and writes a characteristic letter offering his legal services to Guiteau. Train is nothing unless insane.

Why a Pension Claim Was Rejected.

A rather funny thing happened the other day in Kingston in reference to a pension claim preferred against the Government by a resident of Ulster county. The claim, which was one for services in the war of 1812, was forwarded to Washington, and in course of time a reply was received from the authorities containing a rejection of the claim. The following were given as the reasons for said rejection. It was alleged that the man had deserted in the war of 1812. For that offence he had been tried by a court martial and found guilty by that tribunal. They had sentenced him to be shot. Before the sentence could be carried out the man had deserted again. It is humorously suggested that he could not be blamed for the last desertion.

When the old man came to find out as to the result of his application he was little prepared for the surprise awaiting him. When informed of the reply received from Washington he claimed he was not the man at all. It is suggested that, not knowing that the Government keeps accurate and complete records of all the soldiers ever in its employ, he probably imagined that an occurrence transpiring nearly seventy years ago would have been blotted out from memory by this time. When one thinks of it, it is a little singular that a man who, by the finding of a court martial, ought to have been shot so long ago for desertion, should now turn up as a claimant for pension from said Government.

How Quartz is Formed.

We have been handed a piece of rock that bore a marked resemblance to quartz that had been partially decomposed and its solid parts stained by the oxidation of minerals. It was taken from between the tubes of an old boiler that was being repaired at Lakenan's foundry. The boiler had been in use for some years at quartz mines in that district, and the rock was the result of accretions or precipitation of the steam that permeated or escaped from the tubes, and in the course of years hardened into a stone some three inches in thickness. To all appearances it was a quartz formation, and would be so pronounced by any miner of experience. The process of makihg it stone would be a strong proof of the theory that quartz veins are of aqueous formation, and that the forces may be still actively at work in nature's laboratory creating the fissures and filling them with the deposits of a distinctive mineral character that come from the waters and the so-called "country rock." We quote the above from the Union and add that, having examined the samples of rock taken from the old boiler—which by the way was long used on the Hope gravel mine, and later on the Homeward Bound quartz—we consider it most convincing proof of the aqueous formation of our quartz veins.—Grass Valley Tidings.

THE Candelaria True Fissure has the following items: Chief Engineer James Oliver assisted by Chris. Batterman and James Atchison have been running lines for the Carson and Colorado railroad in and around Candelaria for the past ten days. When they finish in this neighborhood the party will proceed toward Gold Mountain by way of Silver Peak and returning by Fish Lake Valley. The route south from here has not been fully decided upon and this survey will determine it. The lines run between here and Belleville and around the different mines here are for local purposes, and may be utilized and may not, just as circumstances hereafter will determine.

I. M. Taylor, superintendent of the State Line mine, has resigned, and C. X. Hobbs has been appointed in his stead. Work at the mine has nearly been suspended, only a few men on the mill and eight or ten in the mine being at work. The force will be very much increased as soon as the material for the new water pipe is laid on the ground.

CITIZENSHIP AND MINING LOCATIONS. The Department decides that the United States citizenship of an individual applicant may be proved by the affidavit of the applicant made before any officer authorized to administer oaths within the land district where the claim sought to be patented is located. This of itself, however, is the lowest grade of evidence of such fact, and does not inhibit applicant from employing other modes of proof. To prevent delay, annoyance and unnecessary expense, the better way is to establish citizenship by the affidavit of one or more disinterested witnesses, and in this case it is not material whether such affidavits are sworn to within or without the land district where the mineral entry is made.

THE Southern Esmeralda is looking up. What with a railroad soon to connect Belleville, Candelaria and the rich Gold Mountain district with the outside world, and with the prospect that an abundant water supply will soon aid in the development of Candelaria's remarkable ore belt, it would seem that the next mining excitement, based on merit, will arise in Candelaria and vicinity. The great drawback to that section has been its Sahara-like dryness. With water in Candelaria scarce and bad, at from two and one-half to five cents a gallon, the only wonder is that so much in developing its mineral resources has been done. To meet a pressing necessity an Eastern company are now laying a system of iron pipe, and propose to give Candelaria a daily water supply of half a million gallons, if required, in a few weeks.—Reno Gazette.

AN Oregon paper, of July 15, says: A lumberman named Rhodes, living near Westport, on the Columbia river, has arrived in town with a bottle of live fish, averaging an inch and a half in length, of the sunfish class, which he got under peculiar circumstances. A heavy, dark cloud passed over his cabin, and the rain fell in torrents, with a flash of lightning and a slight thunder-clap, and a shower of fish fell for ten seconds. His house is far removed from any creek or swamp. On the same day, at Astoria, Mr. Ostrander picked up on the street a fish of a similar species, which fell from the clouds in a rainstorm.

AMONG the passengers from Honolulu by the last steamer was Mr. G. W. McFarlane, aide-de-camp and bearer of dispatches to King Kalakaua His mission has excited some inquiry from a number of prominent planters and merchants of the Islands. It is learned that the King was at one time induced by the notorious Cæsar Celso Morene to enter into an arrangement by which the Chinese merchants' line of steamers were to land 1,000,000 Chinese on the islands, on which a capitation tax of $7 each was to be levied. They were then to be made citizens and the kingdom to be turned over to the Chinese empire for the consideration. The scheme was balked by the action of foreign residents and officials. Chagrined at the result, and his growing unpopularity, the King went off on a tour of the world. It has been supposed that the arrival of McFarlane has some connection for or against these schemes, but Claus Spreckels, a leading planter of the Islands, and merchant of this city, says the mission is to officially announce the death of Chief Justice Harris and other news of importance.

THE company for the manufacture of electric lights, using iridium as one of the points of its burner, was organized in Cincinnati a few days ago, and so great was the public confidence inspired by the tests to which the new burner was subjected that the entire capital stock of $200,000 was subscribed in less than one hour from the opening of the books, and many additional subscriptions come too late to be received. The general use of iridium in connection with electric lights would create a steady demand for that material and thereby furnish California with a new source of revenue. Iridium is found on the sea beach in the northern portion of this State.

OLIVE culture is beginning to attract considerable attention among the horticulturists of this State. As an exchange truthfully remarks, "It is a better inheritance than a life-insurance policy, and much cheaper." It is said that a grove of ten acres of seven-year-old trees will produce a net annual income of not less than $2,500, or an average of $250 an acre. There is practically no limit to the productiveness of the olive tree, for in Palestine there are some upwards of twelve hundred years old and still bearing fruit.

SPEAKING of the machinery nsed in our western mines, a prominent mining engineer recently said that in some of the deep mines there are employed single engines capable of raising a column of water weighing 90,000 lbs. a distance of 1,600 feet, seven times a minute; also that safety cages, used in mines, travel at the rate of 3,000 feet a minute, and propelled by a single engine are able to hoist 1,200 tons of ore a distance of 1,500 feet in one day.

QUEEN ELIZABETH was one of the liveliest old dames that ever reigned in England. She once wrote to the Bishop of Ely, when she wanted him to give up his house: "Proud Prelate—You know what you was before I made you what you are now; if you do not immediately comply with my request, by G—d I will unfrock you.

ELIZABETH."

ONE of the silliest advertising dodges Clara Morris ever fell into was in offering her services as nurse to the President. Next we will hear of a proffer from Chas. Francis Adams, the Massachusetts refrigerator, to call on the President and lower the temperature of his room.

A SAN DIEGO dispatch of July 16 announces that another large party of Chinese laborers for the California Southern Railroad arrived on the steamer "Senator" and in less than two hours were on their way to the front. The rapidity with which work is being pushed has hardly been surpassed anywhere. Grading is going on actively in Cajon Pass, as well as in Temecula valley. Work on the water front at the bar is also vigorously pushed, employing a large force of men and teams. The streets were crowded with teams carrying supplies forward to the working parties in the northern part of the county.

EXTRACTED HONEY.

THIS HONEY WAS REMOVED FROM THE comb by centrifugal force, with a machine made for the purpose. It is therefore virtually the same as honey in the comb, only you don't have to eat the bees wax, which is indigestible and therefore disagrees with many persons. When first extracted the honey is liquid, but nearly all pure honey will candy or granulate in course of time, especially if exposed to the cold. Putting the cans in hot water for a short time will bring the honey to its fluid state without injury.

This Honey is put up in 10 pound cans, with patented screw tops, which renders it convenient for family use, and especially for the mines, to which it may be packed, even upside down, without leakage. A neat label on each can gives full directions.

Price, $1 50 per can, or 12½ cents per ℔ at the Apiary, if customers furnish their own receptacle. For sale at Harris & Rhine's, Independence, and at the Apiary, at Jacob Vagt's place, Camp Independence.

APPLICATION FOR A PATENT

....TO THE....

SUMMIT NO. 2 MINE.

No. 192.

UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE, Bodie, Cal., June 6, 1881.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT A. R. Conklin, W. H. Jenkins and James Jenkins, whose postoffice address is Independence, Inyo county, California, have this day filed their application for a patent for fifteen hundred linear feet of the SUMMIT NO. 2 mine or vein bearing silver, with surface ground six hundred feet in width, situated in Cerro Gordo mining district, County of Inyo, State of California, and designated by the field notes and official plat on file in this office as Lot No. 40, in Township ——, Range ——of —— —— Meridian.

SURVEY OF LODE.

Said Lot No 40 being described as follows, to wit: Commenced at a post on SE. end of claim on lode line, marked the post "Post A. Summit Mine No 2," from which, with a variation 15 deg 55 min. E a pine bush 3 lks high, bears N. 88½ deg. E. 43 lks; a pine bush 3 links high bears S. 45¾ deg. W. 31 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min E., N 40 deg. W. 10 earth ridge bears W. 50 wagon road runs SW; commenced ascending 14.88 trail on ridge runs W.; commenced descending 18.39, trail runs W. 20.17 tunnel 9 ft long on quartz vein. 22 72 "Post B, Summit Mine No. 2," on NW. end of lode, from which the Belshaw wagon road bears N. 45 deg. W. 45 links.

SURVEY OF CONNECTING LINE.

From "Post 7, Summit Mine No. 2" the Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument bears N. 54 deg. E. 50 links by direct chain measurement.

SURVEY OF EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.

Commenced at a post set in mound of earth on S. cor. of claim; marked the post "Post 1, Summit Mine No. 2," from which, with a var. 15 deg 55 min. E., a pine tree 12 links high bears N. 39 deg. W. 49 links; a pine tree 3 links high bears N. 18½ deg. E. 31 links; a pine bush 2 links high bears N. 84½ deg. E. 36 links; a pine bush 2 links high bears S. 19 deg 15 min. W 17 links Thence, with a var. 15 deg 55 min. E., (1) N. 40 deg. W. 2 54 brow of hill; commence descending; 10.36 gulch; runs W. 12 21 wagon road; 13 64 "Post 2, Summit Mine No. 2," set in a mound of earth on S. boundary line of the Armagh mine, from which "Post 1, Armagh Mine," bears N. 79 deg. E. 11.76 chains; 9.09 "Post 7, Summit Mine No 2," standing on N. cor. of claim, from which the Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument bears 54 deg. E. 50 links.

Description of Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument as described in the field notes of survey of the Armagh mine: The Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument is built on the apex of a red rocky point at the intersection of Ygnacio Ravine and Cerro Gordo cañon, and very precisely on the W. B. line of the Ygnacio mine (as surveyed for a patent in the year 1875 by Jos. Seeley, U. S. Dep. Min. Sur.), and distant 17 51 chains from the southwest corner stake of the Ygnacio mine.

At the point above given I drilled a hole in the rock to a depth of 9 inches, in which drove a piece of gas pipe 1 inch in dia. x16 inches long. On top of gas pipe, set a post 4x4 inches square, x4 feet long, around which built a monument of rocks 5 feet high x5 feet in dia. at its base; marked the top of post "U. S. Min'l Monument Erected Jan'y 3d, A. D. 1880, by Wm. Crapo, U. S. Dep. Min. Sur., under authority of the U. S. Sur. Gen'l for Cal'a."

From said post in mineral monument, with a variation of 15 deg 55 min. E the extreme end of the bluff on which the monument is situated, bears N. 25 deg. W. 17 links. The east edge of ridge at the top of a vertical face of rock, 7½ feet high, bears N. 60 deg E 7 links. The NE. cor. of an old adobe vaso chimney bears S. 38 deg 16 min. W. 16 links. The middle of the Beshaw toll road at a point where it turns out of Cerro Gordo Cañon bears N. 81¾ deg. W. 1 06 chains. The middle of Cerro Gordo Cañon bears N. 62 chains. THE MONETARY CONFERENCE.

The journals specially devoted to the gold interest take pains to declare that the Monetary Conference, which closed its sessions last week, was a total failure. They insist that nothing was accomplished by it. They are particularly anxious that people shall regard it as a costly fizzle. This is the reverse of the truth. The conference had no legislative power. It could not bind a single nation represented in it. It could do nothing in the sense in which these journals represent that it has done nothing. It was called to elicit facts, to compare opinions, to review the monetary condition of the commercial world and to make such suggestions to the governments represented in it as its members considered wise and proper to offer. There was a free interchange of opinion. Questions were asked and facts brought out in reply. And two important points were brought out beyond question, (1) that most of the depreciation of silver, and the consequent disturbance of the finances of the world, was caused by the arbitrary action of governments in demonetizing, and (2) that the production of silver is not now and is not likely to be so large as to exceed the legislative demands for that metal in the arts and for monetary purposes, and to justify governments in demonetizing or in keeping it demonetized.

These two points are of fundamental importance. If silver is degraded from money to mere merchandise, it must be not from natural causes, but from political considerations. This is certainly an important gain, especially to this country, which is now the cheif silver-producing country on the globe. The statements of French and American delegates at the close of the conference, read by Mr. Evarts, present considerations which deserve the attention of all commercial nations. They declare that the recent fluctuations in the value of the precious metals as compared with each other are injurious to commerce and general prosperity; and that a fixed relation of values between silver and gold would produce important benefits to the world. They declare that were an important group of States to agree upon a fixed relation of value between gold and silver and open their Mints for the coinage of both metals on that basis there would be no difficulty in maintaining their stability of value. They advise the adoption of the ratio of 15½ silver to 1 of gold as the one best calculated to accomplish the desired result with the least disturbance to existing monetary systems, and suggest that were England, France, Germany and the United States to unite in such an arrangement other nations would at once follow their example. This statement, as the conclusion of the delegates of the two nations that called the conference, is of itself a decided step in advance.—Eureka Sentinel.

ETERNAL taffy is the price of office.

STORED ENERGY.

The announcement in home and foreign journals that electricity can be stored at nominal cost; that it can be transported without danger, and that it can be preserved without loss of energy, amounts to something more than the publication of a piece of current news. It is possible that it registers the beginning of a new era of civilization, the commencement of a revolution in many of the industrial arts; the inauguration of more important applications of science to the wants of civilized man that has ever been made. We know little of the possible uses of electricity, for the reason that it has been difficult till the present time to produce it cheaply at the places where it is most needed in use. That it can be employed as a motive power, a means of producing heat and light, and as a curative agent has, however, been amply demonstrated. Electric cars are now run over several short railroads in different parts of Europe. Electric lights illuminate many large buildings and several streets in cities of this country. A restaurant in which meals will be cooked by electricity is being fitted up in Paris. Already tumors and cancers are removed from the system without the loss of blood by the use of platinum wire charged with electricity.

The great difficulty in the way of the employment of electricity for driving machinery, producing light and furnishing heat consists in the expense and difficulty in generating it at the places where it is required. It is generally produced at the cost of an amount of coal which renders it too expensive. It can be generated by water or wind power, but unfortunately these forces are hardly ever available at the places where electricity is desired. By rendering electricity portable and an article of commerce, it is difficult for the wildest dreamer to foretell the uses for which it may be employed in a near future. Heat may be maintained in situations where combustion cannot be maintained. A light as bright as that emanating from the sun can be kept up in locations where no ordinary illuminating material can be taken. Machines may be kept in motion without the aid of water-wheels, or the action of wind-mills, or the generation of steam. A certain amount of energy that can be made to produce heat, light or force can be purchased in the same manner that we now buy the usual commodities employed in dwellings.

One of the first applications of "stored energy" will doubtless be in connection with the electric lights. Sir William Thompson, of Scotland, states that a battery which can be enclosed in a box having a measurement of one cubic foot and weighing altogether not more than seventy-five pounds will produce incandescence in an apparatus for furnishing electric light to the extent of one hundred candles for six hours, without any perceptible diminution of brilliancy. If this is so, it will be very easy to light railway cars by electricity and thereby obviate one of the chief causes of danger. Electric lights can also be maintained on vessels and steamboats in the same way. By means of "stored energy" it will also be practicable to light public buildings by electricity without the employment of a steam engine.—Eureka Leader.

THE new comet is not visible to the naked eye. It is described as appearing bright in the telescope and has a northerly motion of about one degree per day. It is situated on the constellation Auriga, about four degrees south of the second magnitude star Meukaline. This star is about seven degrees east of the bright star Capella. Its position is thus nearly the same as that of the large comet which appeared four weeks since. As the comet sets at 6:30 o'clock P. M., it is not visible in the evenings, but can be seen about 2:30 o'clock in the morning. It rises about 1 o'clock in the morning, thirty-five degrees east from the north point, from which its position can be easily found. It can be seen with a large opera or field glass. It will be recognized by its hazy, nebulous appearance.

Some Significant Facts.

There are now invested in railroad property in this country upwards of four and a half billions of dollars. Their net earnings for 1879 were upwards of $200,000,000.

This immense property is concentrated in the hands of a few men. The presidents of four roads—the Baltimore & Ohio, the Pennsylvania, the Central and the Erie—today control the price of breadstuffs on the Atlantic coast.

It is rapidly increasing. The funded debt and stock interest have increased in three years over $700,000,000; the mileage nearly 20 per cent.

It is exercising an increasing political control. The Central exercises an almost irrisistible influence in the New York Legislature; the Pennsylvania a controlling influence in the Pennsylvania Legislature; the Central Pacific a despotic control over legislation on the Pacific coast.

It has a powerful if not a dominant representation in the United States Senate. Nearly every Senator added during the past three years is interested in railroad enterprises; and the railroad interest is straining every nerve to increase this railroad representation.

It controls three leading newspapers in the metropolis, one in the capital, and many others in different parts of the country.

The telegraphs of the country are concentrated in a single hand, and that the hand of a railroad president.

WOODEN BOILERS FOR STEAM. The almost incredible feat of making steam boilers of wood was accomplished 76 years ago in Philapelphia, where they were used to furnish steam to the pumps, for pumping up the river water, for the use of the city water works. They, however, lasted only two years, when it became so difficult to keep them steam-tight that they were abandoned for iron boilers. How was it possible to heat water in wooden boilers? It was accomplished by having an iron fire-box 12 feet long, 6 ft. wide, and 2 ft. deep, placed inside a rectangular wooden chest, 14 ft. long and 9 ft. square, made of plank nearly half a foot thick, securely bolted together by iron rods passing through the planks. The iron fire-box had eight vertical flues of one foot in diameter through which the water circulated and where the fire acted, and passed upwards through an oval flue, first above the fire-box, carried from the back of the boiler to near the front and back again, when it passed out into the chimney. It was expected that these boilers would be very economical, on account of the non-conducting property of wood; and so they were to a certain extent, as the boilers did not need any protecting covering, but, as already stated, they did not last, and cast-iron boilers were substituted and used until 1822, when water-power was substituted for steam-power in the Fairmount water works.

THE last report of the Oregon State Agricultural Society gives the following methods of sugar curing hams as practiced by those who took the premiums at the fair of 1880:

Hams lie 15 days in common Liverpool salt; then put on about seven pounds of sugar to the hundred pounds of pork; let all lie about ten days; then take up and soak over night in fresh water; then hang up and smoke well ten to twenty days.—D. C. Howard.

For one hundred pounds of ham, 6 ounces of saltpetre, 12 pounds of fine salt, 1 quart of molasses and 6 pounds of brown sugar; mix saltpetre, salt and sugar; then add the molasses; the mixture to be well rubbed on the hams; at the end of one week rub them again, adding a little salt each time; at the end of the fourth week rub them again, and then hang them up to smoke.—Geo. H. Riddell.

FOR the first time in a hundred years a State prisoner has escaped from exile in Siberia, and he is now in Switzerland. This is Mokrievitch, who was condemned to 14 years servitude in 1879. He escaped from his guards, and after walking 4,000 miles, 700 of which were through forests deep with snow in the heart of Siberia, he at last reached European Persia, through which he was conducted by friends.

A GRANDFATHER, coming to read his paper, found that he had mislaid his spectacles, and thereupon declared: "I have left my glasses somewhere and can't read the paper." A little three and a half years old girl, desiring to assist him, answered: "G'an'pa, you go outside and look froo ze window, and I will hold ze paper up so that you can read it."

GOULD'S PLANS.

The Carson Appeal says that since Jay Gould assumed control of the Western Union telegraph lines he has begun the work of weeding out the employes on the Pacific Coast. Operators hardly sleep nights in expectation of being daily included in the "general reduction." The superintendents of divisions have been swept aside. Formerly there was a general management located at San Francisco, with superintendents and assistants throughout the interior. Gamble, the head man, was invited to resign some months since. Frank Bell of Reno has had charge of the Nevada division. His division is to be abolished, and Frank must of course step down and out, although he has been nineteen years efficiently serving the company. It is the prevailing opinion that the general headquarters of the company will shortly be transferred to Chicago. Jay Gould is reaching out to control the railroad and telegraph systems of the country, and in all of his operations he seems to keep an eye single on the reduction of running expenses. He has never paid much attention to matters on this coast until the present season. He now seems determined to add us to his possessions.

MR. AND MRS. MURPHY celebrated their golden wedding at their ranch, seven miles from Santa Clara county, on Monday. It was one of the most extraordinary social events ever witnessed. Over one thousand invited guests were present from all parts of the State, and descendants of the old couple to the third and fourth generations were present. The meats for the feast were cooked in a trench one hundred and fifteen feet long, six feet wide and four feet deep, and seven cords of wood were consumed in the cooking. Seven carcases of beeves, ten immense porkers, sheep, fowl, etc., were roasted in this underground oven by the score. There were seats for eight hundred guests at the table, and the bread supplied was piled up by the cord. The wine and liquors consumed filled a freight car, and all the brewers of San José and Santa Clara had been placed in requisition to supply the beer drank. The venerable host and hostess are pioneers of Santa Clara valley, and came to California in 1845. They are the parent stock of a vast progeny, and number among their immediate descendants many prominent citizens, including Hon. P. W. Murphy, of San Luis Obispo. No such baronial feast as was given at the Murphy ranch on Monday has ever before been seen in this State.

WITH the death of Justice Clifford has disappeared the last appointment made to the Supreme Bench by a Democratic President. Clifford was selected by Buchanan, and was so much of a stalwart partisan that he is said to have declared that he would never die or resign until a Democratic President could appoint his successor. Such has been his mental and physical condition for the past two years that death is a happy release. An opportunity will be afforded President Garfield to appoint a successor, who will be chosen from New England, probably, though recent precedents may not suggest such a course. There has been a vacancy in the Seventh Judicial District since the retirement of Judge Davis, but the subsequent appointments were not from that district. With the death of Clifford the only Justice with Democratic proclivities left upon the Bench will be Field, of California.

The world seems to have a passion for tunnels. We are tired of going around and are fond of going through things, even at an enormous cost of money and labor. The Hoosac tunnel was considered a wonderful undertaking even a year ago, but now there are in progress three tunnels in different parts of the world that makes it look like a trifle. One is under the Alps, another under the Hudson river from Jersey City to New York, while the third is under the British Channel, and will be as long as all the rest together. By and by some audacious engineer will tunnel the Atlantic for the benefit of seasick people.

CONSIDERABLE anxiety exists at the White House relative to the effects which may be produced on the President by the Potomac Flats, directly south of the grounds surrounding the Mansion. The miasma which arises from the vegetation has been making itself felt on the attaches of the executive office. Three cases of malarial fever are reported, sufficiently severe to unfit the gentlemen afflicted for further duty, and they were compelled to leave their work and go home.

AN EXTENSIVE PROJECT.

The other day we indulged in some speculations as to the plans of the Central Pacific Railroad Company in connection with their proposed line from Wadsworth via this valley to Mohave. From what the Los Angeles Express has to say on the subject, under the above caption, it looks as though our speculations were pretty nearly correct. The following is from that paper, but needs correction on one geographical point, viz: From Owens Lake to Mohave the road will not run via "Walkers" or any other "pass" not having to cross even a respectable sized hill between the Lake and Mohave.

The Central Pacific Railroad Company has sent out from this point a party of surveyors to select a line of route between the Mohave station and Wadsworth, in Nevada. The object of this expedition is preliminary to the proposed carrying out of one of the most extensive projects in this country of gigantic railroad undertakings. It is contemplated to extend a line of road from the Central Pacific in Nevada to Idaho and thence to extreme Eastern Oregon, to tap the immense wheat region at the headwaters of the Columbia. After draining that immense territory of its wheat, the line would connect with the Central Pacific somewhere near Wadsworth, then pass south through the Owens river country, skirting Owens Lake and by way of Walkers pass to the Mohave. A work of this magnitde means that the Central and Southern Pacific people are going to make a successful bid for the transportation of all the wheat of Eastern Oregon and Idaho to New Orleans by their own lines. In order to secure this transportation they will have to place their rates at a figure which will compete with the Northern Pacific, which will soon have a branch out from tidewater in Oregon. If they should succesfully carry off this trade from the Northern Pacific their rates will be such as would come within the charges for land carriage to Portland or Kalama and the cost for shipment thence by vessels via Cape Horn. If the wheat crops of Eastern Oregon and Idaho can bear the cost of transportation from that distant region across the continent to New Orleans, the company will find no great difficulty in competing with the ocean rates from California. We may therefore take it for granted, that the wheat crop of California will, at a time not far distant, be transported directly to Europe by way of New Orleans instead of, as now, by the way of Cape Horn. This will revolutionize the mode now prevailing of shipping in sacks. It will be taken in bulk, and will involve the necessity of erecting elevators at convenient points. The expense now incurred for sacks will of course be dispensed with, and go toward making up the cost of the new mode of shipment. The wheat crop of this county is becoming one of considerable importance and volume; but we are so convenient to the sea that the railroad will have to gauge its charges below those incurred by vessels, in order to secure the transportation of our grain destined for Europe. This it will doubtless do. The projected road, however, would be beneficial to Los Angeles in a special sense, for it would open to us direct communication with a very extensive region now inaccessible, and give us a very considerable cut-off to the Atlantic States by the Central route.

EXPENDITURES ON CLAIMS.

The following circular has just been promulgated by the Commissioner of the General Land Office, explaining and interpreting the act to amend sections 2,324 and 2,325 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, concerning mineral lands, approved January 22, 1880:

The first section of this act has reference only to the affidavits mentioned in section 2,325 of the Revised Statutes. It is therefore held that it has no reference to the manner of establishing proof of citizenship. An applicant for a mining patent who resides in the land district in which the mine is located, if within the district at the time the application is made, must take the required affidavits. If he is not so within the district, the affidavits may be made by a duly appointed agent conversant with the facts.

It is held, under the second section of the act, that labor performed or money expended upon a mining claim prior to the first day of January succeeding the date of location thereof, will not be considered as part of, or applied upon, the first annual expenditure required by law. Thus, upon a claim located at any time during the year 1880, the period within which the labor must be performed commences January 1, 1881, and during the calender year 1881 the expenditure must be made, or the claim will be subject to re-location on and after January 1, 1882.

In order to apply the law to a claim located prior to the year 1880, it will be necessary to calculate from the date of location. For instance, a claim located in 1875, the first expenditure would be reckoned as due within the year from January 1, 1876, to wit: January 1, 1877, and annually thereafter by the calender year.

EX-SENATOR or XX-Senator Conkling, accompanied by his factotum, Jones of Nevada, called on Mrs. Garfield the other day, and expressed themselves as truly solicitous in regard to the President's situation.

A DEFICIT of $11,700 is found in the accounts of the Treasurer of Stark county, Ohio, whose predecessor is now serving a twelve years sentence for a defalcation.

JUDGE ROBERTSON, the Collector at New York, whose appointment caused Roscoe so much misery, took the oath of office on the 25th.

FOUR of the persons in attendance on the President have been made ill by malaria.

BOOKWALTER, the Democratic nominee for Governor of Ohio, is one of the most extensive manufacturers in that State, and a pronounced protective tariff advocate. On that ground there is no difference between him and Gov. Foster. The issue in Ohio will be fought out mainly on the old party grounds. One feature in the nomination of Bookwalter is decidedly un-American—it is the new "Ohio idea" that only a rich man can be Governor of Ohio. This feature has of late been made prominent in both parties in the choice of candidates, and furnishes a sad commentary on our political system. In a country where every American citizen may aspire to position of honor and trust, the idea that only the wealthy few can occupy an executive office is repugnant alike to the spirit of American institutions, and in opposition to the fundamental principles on which the Government was founded.

WE were a little premature in stating, last issue, that the Albany dead-lock was broken, and that both the Republican caucus nominees, Miller and Lapham, had been elected U. S. Senators. Miller only was elected at that time, for the remainder or Platt's term. But on the 22d, after a sort of a new caucus, the 27 stalwarts gave way to the caucus majority, and at the subsequent joint convention the entire Republican vote was cast for Elbridge G. Lapham vice the great Roscoe. So Roscoe can now go to practicing law in peace and quietness; there will be no place-hunters to molest and puff him up with his own greatness.

GLASS WEAVING, according to report, seems to be gradually working its way into practical value. We have, from time to time, for several years, heard of experimental efforts in the production of articles of dress or domestic use from woven glass, but now we read that a Pittsburg firm is manufacturing fabrics that are strong, cannot be ripped or torn, and are cheaper than those woven from linen, cotton or silk. A large tablecloth of variegated colors, with ornamental borders and fringed edges, is on exhibition in New York city, which can be washed and ironed like the ordinary article.

THE Fresno Expositor is convinced that nine-tenths of the colonists use more water than is good for their trees and vines. After a tree has been set out two years scarcely any water is required. In the Central Colony, in that county, there are orchards laden with fruit, which have scarcely any irrigation for the last two years, while orchards near by that have been thoroughly soaked about twice a month have scarcely any fruit at all. Excessive irrition not only leaches the soil, but brings to the surface injurious salts.

GREAT alarm was created throughout the country by the announcement on the 27th that President Garfield had suffered a dangerous relapse. The news created nearly as much interest as did that of the shooting. An operation by which the wound was relieved of a large collection of pus, produced results highly satisfactory to the physicians in charge, and at the latest accounts no apprehension of a fatal result seemed to be entertained by them, or the consulting physicians, who, during the alarm had been called to Washington.

THERE have been heavy rainstorms in Arizona, and the railroad has been damaged by washouts at many points in the Territory. A very serious washout occurred near Benson and a train, whose engineer was not apprised of the fact, ran straight into it and was ditched. The breaks in the road have caused interruption, and the through trains have been delayed for several hours the past few days in consequence thereof.

VERY few of those who have used the expression, "He's a brick," know that it came from Plutarch. An ambassador from Eperius was shown by King Agesilaus of Sparta over his capital, and expressed a surprise at the absence of walls and fortifications. "Come tomorrow," qouth the King, "and I will show you our walls." On the morrow he showed him an army of 10,000 men, remarking' "each one is a brick."

THE department decides that no specific amount of annual expenditure is required upon lands located in good faith for milling or mining purposes. The performance of the amount of labor of the required value upon a lode claim is sufficient for the purpose of retaining possessory right to a mill-site located in connection with the claim.

SECRETARY WINDOM has turned out very few of the old clerks. This is the true civil service reform. After a clerk has learned Government business, and taken a year or two to do it, why turn him out to please a Congressman.

THE Geneva (Nev.) Weekly Courier starts in on Volume 2. It is a racy little sheet, which has no business coming folded inside out.

An Affecting Scene.

A dispatch from Marysville, Missouri, of the 22d, tells the following sorrowful story: Albert P. and Charles E. Talbott, who were convicted of murdering their father, Dr. Perry H. Talbott, on the 18th of last September, were executed this afternoon, in the presence of 8,000 or 10,000 people. At midnight they went to bed, after having a lengthy interview with their mother, sisters, and Miss Lewis, the young lady to whom Albert was engaged.

About twelve o'clock to-day Charles, the youngest of the brothers, 17 years old, broke completely down. He cried and begged piteously that something be done for him. This, of course, unnerved the women who had been admitted to the jail, and the scene was almost unendurable. The women were then removed from the jail. As Mrs. Talbott reached the door, she turned with a shriek and frantically endeavored to get back to her sons, but was prevented by the guards. She was finally led away crying out to the crowd, "I hope you will be satisfied when you have killed my boys." The brothers were then shackled, and started for the gallows at 1:30 o'clock, the vehicle being followed by an immense crowd of people. On reaching the scaffold, which was some distance from the jail, the priests began prayers, in which the boys joined. When the drop fell they died without a struggle. The scene at the scaffold was very impressive.

THE latest "new departure" in newspaper enterprise is reported from New Orleans, La. The Democrat of that city has fitted up a branch office on a barge, which, having been towed up the Mississippi River to Memphis, is now floating down to New Orleans again, stopping at all points of interest on the way to gather information concerning the country along the river and for some distance back into the interior. The barge is sixty feet long, with twelve feet width of beam. Its interior accomodations comprise business, editorial and job offices, composing and press rooms, sleeping apartments, dining room, kitchen, and stable for the horses used in making land trips back from the river. It is practically a fully equipped newspaper establishment afloat.

ONE of Prof. Newcomb's assistants says that the earth meets 58,000,000 comets more or less every year. Almost all of them are ignited by the rapid passage through our atmosphere, and become shooting-stars. Now and then one does not ignite, and strikes the earth. These are called meteoric stone, of which a very large specimen is in the Smithsonian Institution.

A CONTRACTOR on the Atlantic and Pacific road has gone East from Albuquerque in search of men to work on the line. He will visit various large cities and endeavor to pick up idle men. Another contractor telegraphed to San Francisco for five hundred Chinamen, but as the Chinese are all employed just now he could not get them.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, JULY 30.....1881

The New Signal Station.

Through a note from a friend in Lone Pine, dated on the 27th, we learn that Prof. Langley, Director of the Allegheny Observatory, and Capt. O. E. Michaelis. United States Signal Service, an escort of soldiers and signal officers are now in that place, preparing to establish a signal station at Mount Whitney. A station is being placed in Lone Pine opposite the Whitney House to receive and return signals from the main station on the summit of the lofty peak, which is just visible but not easily distinguished from the Lone Pine plaza. Prof. Langley was to have started on the 29th for the mountain, under the guidance of Mr. Wm. Crapo, of Cerro Gordo, himself quite a scientist, and as well posted in regard to Mount Whitney and its titanic neighbors as any one in the country. Stores and instruments are to be moved up and put in place, immediately after their return. In addition to the principals already named, the party consists of E. Keder of the Alleghany Observatory, W. C. Day, Fellow of the John Hopkins University, Baltimore, and two non-commissioned officers of the army. The expense of this undertaking is borne by a private citizen of Pittsburg. The Government placed the expedition under the official direction of the Chief Signal Officer of the Army, Gen. Hazen, and sent out a detachment of soldiers to protect it, it being assumed, owing to the remoteness of the place from Washington, that there were many cannibals and grizzlies and things out here to devour unsophisticated scientists.

MORE RAILROAD.—Our readers will doubtless accept our apology for a surfeit, this week, of railroad talk when we add the following: Mr. A. E. Lott, of the Cerro Gordo F'tg Co., just from Mohave, says that graders have begun operations at that point and also at Wadsworth; that he has it direct from Mr. Crocker that the road will be completed within sixteen months. Thus we have it—if the railroad bubble doesn't explode and about half of what is proposed is carried out—that the Central Pacific crowd will gain the great through north and south route east of the Sierras, while the Gould dynasty will control the east and west roads crossing this county at either end. When the time comes it would be in order for our valley towns to prepare inducements for the company to build on this, the west, side of the valley, by offering rights of way through ranches, sites for depots, etc. Otherwise they will build over the sands on the west and make their own towns—a proceeding not unlikely, anyway.

THE BULL-POUTS.—A "subscriber" responds as follows to our query of last week in relation to the Owens river cat-fish plant: "In reply to inquiry about the catfish, I will state that some four weeks ago I saw a school of those "kitten" fish, about a hundred or more, near the shore, and three or four little chubs, not more than three inches long, were dining on them till all were devoured. I know they were young catfish, because they were all head and eyes. I am afraid that catfish will prove a failure, in consequence of the old settlers of the river eating up the spawn and young fish."

DESTRUCTIVE.—There are myriads of small birds, chippies or something of that sort, infesting the gardens and orchards in this vicinity. These little pests destroy peaches and other fruits just about as fast as they ripen, causing quite a heavy loss to orchardists. The same bird, early in the season, destroys young vegetables to a great extent, nipping them off as soon as the sprouts appear above ground. These birds never migrate, and with each year, are increasing rapidly in numbers.

NOT SHUT DOWN.—The closing down of the Los Angeles Company's mill at Resting Springs, which has occasioned several newspaper reports, was as we suspected at first—only temporary. Negotiations are well under way toward consolidating several companies operating in the district, and when these are completed active work will be started up again.

GREAT REGISTER.—During the session commencing next Monday the County Board of Supervisors should make provisions for an entire reregistration of voters, in time for a probable election next Fall. The present Register is encumbered with hundreds of obsolete names which there is no other practicable way of getting rid of.

GONE BELOW.—Mrs. A. W. Eibeschutz has gone to San Francisco for an extended visit with her relatives in that city. Judge Conklin, with his children, Miss Maggie and Norman E., went at the same time, the children with a view of resuming their studies at the Santa Clara schools.

WHAT'S THE MATTER?—An important letter mailed at Los Angeles on the 9th instant managed to reach this place on the 25th, having required sixteen days for the trip. It was not marked "missent" to any point, and somebody on the road is requested to explain what the trouble is.

DARWIN BULLION.—The Defiance furnace at Darwin, under charge of Gorman & Eldy, started up June 20 and ran till the 4th instant. Besides nearly a load still on hand, they shipped by independent teams 115,045 pounds of base bullion, of unusual fineness.

DESERTED.—At no time during the past ten years has our little "city" ever been so nearly bereft of inhabitants as at this writing, But, then, it won't always be like this; strangers looking for a good place to ruralize and rusticate can find it right here.

ANOTHER RAILROAD POSTCRIPT.—Since writing the report concerning the commencement of the grading on the Central Pacific route from Mohave to Wadsworth, through this valley, we have the pleasure of adding a postcript, as it were, to the week's run of railroad items. C. C. Oliver, Chief Engineer of the Carson and Colorado Railroad, with a party of seven assistants, passed through town to-day at noon, and though giving THE INDEPENDENT a brief call, was in too great a hurry to permit of extended interviewing. However, the party has made a thorough preliminary examination of the proposed line of southern extension of the Carson & Colorado narrow gauge railroad from Candelaria. They visited Columbus, Fish Lake Valley and Alida Valley to Gold Mountain; from thence back to Deep Spring, across the Greenly pass to Big Pine and on to Independence. They will reach Lone Pine probably to-night, and from there proceed by one or the other route to Mohave and perhaps further—depending upon orders received and somewhat upon circumstances. The C. & C. Company is a corporation now looking for a southern terminus, is abundantly able to equip a road to any point however distant, and unless preceded by some of the broad-gauge, trunk lines will undoubtedly extend the Carson and Hawthorne road about as stated: from Hawthorne to Belleville, Candelaria and Columbus, from thence to Fish Lake, Deep Springs and across the Inyos to this valley, and from here southeast to the Colorado river.

A FIRE in Colfax, Washington Territory, on the 22d destroyed about 40 buildings. Among these was a large new hotel, a lease of which had been tendered to Mr. V. G. Thompson of the Blaney House in this place. But for the telegram announcing the destruction of the building, Mr. Thompson would, ere now, have been on his way to that distant locality.

ASSESSMENT.—The Union Con. of Cerro Gordo has levied an assessment of 85 cents per share, delinquent August 29. This aggregates $85,000, and certainly indicates some important operations when work is again resumed.

GONE.—The Osbiston and Smith mining party returned to San Francisco from Cerro Gordo last week, without visiting this part of the county. No, we don't know "what they think of it."

PROPOSED.—Several local teamsters—Davis, LeCyr, Edwards, Harmon and Arcularious—are talking of organizing their teams to run regularly from Mohave to points in the valley.

SPEAKING about the practice of choosing second and third rate men for nominees for Vice President which is apt to be the case in a tired-out convention, the Record-Union makes the following sensible suggestion:

To avoid the manifold dangers inseperable from this careless and hasty mode of completing the Presidential ticket, we propose that the National Convention shall henceforth nominate for Vice President first. By so doing the choice of that candidate will be made in cold blood and with proper deliberation and circumspection. The nominations will be canvassed rigorously, and there will be no temptation to let the office go as a sort of atonement to the defeated faction. It will be necessary that the men who are named for it shall be such as the party generally will approve of, and such as can be defended and sustained. In a word, by nominating for Vice President first instead of last, nearly all the difficulties and dangers of the present method would be avoided, and the reasonable probability of making good and consistent Presidential tickets would be greatly increased.

THE telegraph poles must go. The authorities of the city of Washington recently denied a telegraph company the use of the streets, but granted it permission to use the sewers. The authorities of Chicago have decided no more telegraph poles shall be planted in the streets. In New York their riddance is being agitated. The forest of telegraph poles and the thick net of wires are not only a deformity but are becoming a nuisance. The experiment of running wires in subterranean cavities has been tried and worked well, and there are no reasons why the unsightly poles should longer be tolerated. So says an exchange. In this country of untold native wealth, the cry is that the telegraph poles, and wires and all that, must come; they can not be brought along too quick.

THE Mariposa Gazette furnishes this item: Reliable information informs us that work has surely begun on the railroad from Madera via Fresno Flats. Engineers and laborers are on the ground. Teams and workmen have gone from this vicinity to assist in building the track for the iron horse to gallop over towards the mountains, and not far in the future we expect to see him steam down brakes on the verge of the world's wonder, the great Yosemite. The road will diverge from the Central Pacific at or near Minturn station, on the Chowchilla, and will be extended across the Sierras, tapping the Inyo and Mono mining regions and Southern Nevada.

THE Central Pacific railroad company, through C. P. Huntington, has paid to the Treasurer of the United States, under protest, $144,000, for account of the amount remaining due under the provisions of the Thurman Act up to last December 31st. This amount, added to the sum due the company by the Government for services during the year ending 1880, completes the 25 per cent of net earnings required to be paid for that year for Sinking Fund puposes.

THE NEW OVERLAND RAILROAD.

Jay Gould's Scheme for a Trunk Line to the Pacific Coast.

A Chicago special dispatch to the San Francisco Chronicle, under date of July 22, has the following interesting and important railroad news: The Inter-Ocean has a long dispatch from Council Bluffs: the salient portion of which are as follows; From a gentleman well known in railroad circles as the trusted agent of Jay Gould in his Southwestern scheme of railroads I got to-day in Omaha the clearest and newest statement of the present statns of operations and the fullest and most comprehensive description of the plan of this wonderful scheme of railroad development yet published, notably the statement that an alliance had already been formed between the Texas Pacific (Gould's road), the Atlantic and Pacific (controlled by the Nickerson interest in the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe road, and the Utah Southern (Union Pacific) to form a junction in the Paranahgat valley, Nev., and unite in building a trunk line through from that point to San Francisco. An opportunity was afforded me to see a cablegram from London containing information that the $25,000,000 worth of bonds for this trunk line had already been subscribed, and to-day a cipher telegram went through to New York announcing that the whole ground to San Francisco was now covered with engineers.

As to the reliability of the information in this interview, I will say, first, the gentleman who consented to give it to me is one who is more prominent than any other in the active work of all Gould's railroad building in the Southwest; second, he gave the unqualified assurance that this statement of the plan of Southwestern railroad development and the alliance for a new trunk line was absolutely correct.

The gentleman described the Southwestern system of 7,000 miles of railroad which is in course of construction. He also described the Mexican concession, and said: The line from San Francisco to Texas is covered with engineers, and the moment it strikes El Paso they will commence laying on steel, and when it strikes Laredo steel will be laid into Mexico. It will be built into New Orleans about October 1st, where it has bought immense terminal facilities, in connection with the Barge Line. The road to Laredo will probably get in by September and the Texas and Pacific into El Paso some time in December. It is also proposed to build from San Francisco east, from the end of the Atlantic and Pacific northwest, and from the end of the Texas and Pacific northwest, all at once.

To build to California will take probably eighteen months, or perhaps two years, according as to how materials can be obtained, It is calculated to complete the Mexican line to the city of Mexico inside of two years. These routes are all constructed under four different construction and improvement companies, that build them for their actual cost and then turn them over to the companies.

Each line will have its own outlet by a system of extension, about which nothing definite has been made known to the public, but which I can explain to you. This system west of the Rio Grande is an extension of the Texas-Pacific from El Paso northwest through Silver City, Prescott or to the Rio Pecos, to connect with the Atlantic and Pacific. These two routes combined then extends northwest to Paranahgat valley in Nevada. There they are joined by the extension of the Utah Southern branch of the Union Pacific and the three companies will build a trunk line from Paranahgat valley, passing near Owens Lake, to San Francisco.

Bonds for $25,000,000 for this line were negotiated in Europe the other day. This line to California is a shorter line for the Texas-Pacific and for the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe and Union Pacific than any now built, and runs almost its whole length through the mining regions of New Mexico, Arizona, Utah, Nevada and California.

"This line," continued the gentleman, "tunnels the Sierra Nevadas, thus avoiding the heavy snows. It will drain the pick of the Western mining region. The Southern Pacific built their line right up the Gila valley. We strike right northwest, entering nearly every mining camp through there. This plan, when completed, will leave the Central Pacific system without any outlet East, and the Northern Pacific will then have its independent way to the coast and be a competing line with the Central Pacific. There is no doubt but the whole wheat and grain crop of every State west of Missouri will find an outlet to New Orleans. We expect to take every bushel of grain raised in California over our lines to New Orleans and ship it from there to Europe. It can be done within sixty days, and the haul is not so long as it is to-day on grain from here to New York."

ARTICLES of incorporation of the Yuma, Fort Isabel and Guayamus Railroad Company have been filed. The purposes of incorporation, as set forth in the articles, are: "For the purpose of constructing, owning, maintaining and operating a line of railroad within the republic of Mexico, and to that end to take and receive from the Government of Mexico, or its grantees, such concessions as it has heretofore or may hereafter make." Principal place of business, San Francisco; term of existence fifty years. The Directors are Charles Crocker, Timothy Hopkins, W. V. Huntington and L. Stanford, all of San Francisco. The road is to be constructed as a first-class broad gauge road. The route of the proposed road is intended to be from a point on the northern boundary line of the republic of Mexico, south of Yuma, in the Territory of Arizona, by way of Port Isabel, on the Gulf of California, to the city of Guaymus, in the Republic of Mexico. The estimated length of said road and branches is 400 miles. The capital stock is $10,000,000, divided into 10,000 shares of $100 each, and each Director has subscribed for 800 shares, and there is $40,000 in the Treasurer's hands. The articles of incorporation have been signed by all the parties named as directors, except that Charles Crocker signs as attorney in fact for Leland Stanford.

ORIGINATING NEW IDEAS.—The most difficult mental or material operation in the universe is that of originating an entirely new idea. Many philosophers deny the possibility. An important thought in the youthful mind is matured by reflections on the more simple meditations and ideas of childhood, and these are, obviously, begotten by what is seen and heard in the still more early dawn of mental receptiveness. First words and ideas, then, are the seeds of germs of thought and they are planted by our early teachers. This being conceded our originality can consist only in the new arrangement of words and ideas. To illustrate: we cannot form in our minds even an original animal. We may fancy a living creature with the body of a horse, the head of a lion, the face of a man, the scales of a fish and the feet of a cangaroo; but this would not be originating anything. It might be a conbination not before dreamed of, but no proof of genius. So with all powers. We cannot create anything. The most original thinkers and workers are those who are able to form the most beautiful and useful combination.

THE twenty-eighth annual fair of the California State Agricultural Society will be held at Sacramento, beginning on the 19th and closing on the 24th of September next. All articles and animals intended for exhibition will be carried over the Central Pacific railroad free of charge. Excursion tickets will be issued on the C. P. railroad and connecting lines at about half price. Over $20,000 will be given in premiums. The best horses on the coast have been entered for the races, which will be given every day, and the intention of the management is to make the coming fair and races the most notable success of any previous exhibition they have ever given.

MR. D. O. MILLS gift of $75,000 to endow a chair of Moral Philosophy and civil politics in the University of California, is approved by the Philadelphia Ledger, on the grounds that Mr. Mills has done "a better thing by strengthening an existing college, than if he had given a much larger sum towards founding a new institution to perpetuate his name." The Ledger holds that $75,000 for a chair for the investigation of the many still unrevealed scientific facts directly bearing on human life, are worth more to humanity than $750,000 for a new monumental pile of buildings to house a poverty-stricken academic administration.

THERE has been a small revolution accomplished by the San Francisco School Board. All the special teachers of French, German, music, drawing and bookeeping, seventeen in number, have been discharged, a saving of $20,190 thus being effected. The Board appears to be trying to reduce expenses without touching the salaries of the primary and grammar teachers. The Call wants to have the course of the high school altered. It complains that a great many studies are taken up and pursued only a short time, leaving the pupils with only a superficial knowledge of each and no thorough training in anything.

AN Oil City man who suspected that his servant girl was in the habit of using kerosene for kindling, put just a taste of nitro-glycerine in the oil can as a test. Contrary to expectation, nothing happened, but a day or two later the girl came around and asked him to subscribe something toward buying a new stove for her poor old mother, as the old one had fallen to pieces.

Is it not about time for the report to begin to be circulated that the Hon. Benjamin F. Butler has been retained for the defence of Guiteau, the Presidential assassin? It is the first great crime of a public character that has been committed for these many years into which common rumor has not drawn his name as attorney.

A LITTLE old-time bluster has been heard in the House of Commons. The Secretary of the Admiralty remarks rather effusively that six British ironclads are quite sufficient to cope with nine Frenchmen of the first class. In idle vaunts of this sort the English will be easily outrivalled across the Channel.

CHOICE brands of French wines are now made from glucose or beets, and some of the French brandy is made from grain and potatoes. Hoopskirts and oyster cans are said to make a very superior article of cider.

THE Shepaug railway has finally succeeded in killing a man. The theory is advanced, that he was walking on the track behind the "lightning express," and caught his foot in the weeds and stumbled, striking his head against the bumper of the rear car.

WHY is a cow's tail like the letter F? Because it is the end of beef. Here's another quite as bad. Why is an egg like a colt? Because it is not fit for use until it is broken.

THE mad dog which jumped over a 6 feet fence to bite a man's leg must have felt terribly mortified and disgusted when he found it was wooden.

"MY WIFE," remarked Fitznoodle, "is fairly crazy over the Spring fashions. She's got the delirium trimmins."

SIX life insurance companies in Hartford, Conn., paid the Government last year $50,539 44 for postage.

THIS INSTITUTION, OFFERING PECULIAR advantages to young ladies wishing to receive a solid and refined education, was founded in 1851. In 1855 it was incorporated by the State Legislature, and subsequently the same body so extended the original Charter as to confer all the rights and privileges of Collegiate Institutions.

It occupies large buildings, with extensive playgrounds; and possesses everything to make science familiar and attractive. The course of instruction is thorough, in all the Departments. Every facility will be afforded to students who may find it desirable to to devote their whole attention to music or the study of the languages.

The scholastic year begins on the first Monday in August and closes about the first week in June. Pupils are received at any period of the year.

THE "SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN" IS A large, First-Class Weekly Newspaper of Sixteen Pages, printed in the most beautiful style, profusely illustrated with splendid engravings, representing the newest Inventions and the most recent Advances in the Arts and Sciences; including New and Interesting Facts in Agriculture, Horticulture, the Home, Health, Medical Progress, Social Science, Natural History, Geology, Astronomy. The most valuable practical papers, by eminent writers in all departments of Science, will be found in the Scientific American.

Terms, $3 20 per year; $1 60 half year, which includes postage. Discount to Agents. Single copies, ten cents. Sold by all Newsdealers. Remit by postal order to MUNN & CO., Publishers, 47 Park Row, New York.

PATENTS. In connection with the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, Messrs. MUNN & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents; have had 35 years experience, and now have the largest establishment in the world. Patents are obtained on the best terms. A special notice is made in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN of all inventions patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. By the immense circulation thus given, public attention is directed to the merits of the new patent, and sales or introduction often easily effected.

Any person who has made a new discovery or invention, can ascertain, free of charge, whether a patent can probably be obtained, by writing to MUNN & Co. We also send free our Hand Book about the Patent Laws, Patents, Caveats, Trade-Marks, their costs, and how procured, with hints for procuring advances on inventions. EXTRACTED HONEY.

THIS HONEY WAS REMOVED FROM THE comb by centrifugal force, with a machine made for the purpose. It is therefore virtually the same as honey in the comb, only you don't have to eat the bees-wax, which is indigestible and therefore disagrees with many persons. When first extracted the honey is liquid, but nearly all pure honey will candy or granulate in course of time, especially if exposed to the cold. Putting the cans in hot water for a short time will bring the honey to its fluid state without injury.

This Honey is put up in 10 pound cans, with patented screw tops, which renders it convenient for family use, and especially for the mines, to which it may be packed, even upside down, without leakage. A neat label on each can gives full directions.

Price, $1 50 per can, or 12½ cents per ℔ at the Apiary, if customers furnish their own receptacle. For sale at Harris & Rhine's, Independence, and at the Apiary, at Jacob Vagt's place, Camp Independence.

APPLICATION FOR A PATENT

....TO THE....

SUMMIT NO. 2 MINE.

No. 192.

UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE,
Bodie, Cal., June 6, 1881.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT A. R. Conklin, W. H. Jenkins and James Jenkins, whose postoffice address is Independence, Inyo county, California, have this day filed their application for a patent for fifteen hundred linear feet of the SUMMIT NO. 2 mine or vein bearing silver, with surface ground six hundred feet in width, situated in Cerro Gordo mining district, County of Inyo, State of California, and designated by the field notes and official plat on file in this office as Lot No. 40, in Township ——, Range ——of—— —— Meridian.

SURVEY OF LODE.

Said Lot No 40 being described as follows, to wit: Commenced at a post on SE. end of claim on lode line, marked the post "Post A, Summit Mine No. 2," from which, with a variation 15 deg 55 min. E a pine bush 3 lks high, bears N. 88½ deg. E. 43 lks; a pine bush 3 links high bears S. 45¾ deg. W. 31 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E., N 40 deg. W. 10 earth ridge bears W. 56 wagon road runs SW; commenced ascending 14.88 trail on ridge runs W.; commenced descending 18.39, trail runs W. 20.17 tunnel 9 ft long on quartz vein. 22 72 "Post B, Summit Mine No. 2," on NW. end of lode, from which the B. Ishaw wagon road bears N. 45 deg. W. 45 links.

SURVEY OF CONNECTING LINE.

From "Post 7, Summit Mine No. 2" the Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument bears N. 54 deg. E. 50 links by direct chain measurement.

SURVEY OF EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.

Commencing at a post set in mound of earth on S. cor. of claim; marked the post "Post 1, Summit Mine No. 2" from which, with a var. 15 deg 55 min. E., a pine tree 12 links high bears N. 39 deg. W. 49 links; a pine tree 3 links high bears N. 18½ deg. E. 31 links; a pine bush 2 links high bears N. 84½ deg. E. 36 links; a pine bush 2 links high bears S. 19 deg 15 min. W. 17 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg 55 min. E., (1) N. 40 deg. W. 2 54 brow of hill; commence descending; 10.36 gulch; runs W. 12 21 wagon road; 13 64 "Post 2, Summit Mine No. 2" set in a mound of earth on S boundary line of the Armagh mine, from which "Post 1, Armagh Mine," bears N. 79 deg. E. 2 49 chains; 19.65 "Post 3, Summit Mine No. 2," set in mound of earth on south B. L. of the Santa Niño mine; 20.31 trail runs E-W, commence descending; 21 21 wagon road runs N.-S.; 22 72 "Post 4, Summit Mine No. 2," set in mound of earth on W. cor. of claim, from which the entrance to the open cut leading into the Santa Niño tunnel bears S. 28½ deg. W. 45 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E., (2) N. 50 deg. E. 74 intersection of the north B. L. of the Santa Niño mine; set a post in mound of earth in the bottom of an old prospecting cut; cut bears NW & SE.; marked the post "Post 5, Summit Mine No. 2," from which "Post 18, Santa Niño Mine," bears S. 80 deg. W. 2.85 chains; 3.89 wagon road runs N. & S.; 4 54 "Post 6, Summit Mine No. 2," on northwest end of line of lode; 7 88 "Post 2, Summit Mine No. 2," standing in mound of earth at intersection of north boundary line of the Armagh mine, from which "Post 1, Armagh Mine," bears S. 12 deg. E. 11.76 chains; 9.09 "Post 7, Summit Mine No. 2," standing on N. cor. of claim, from which the Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument bears 54 deg. E. 50 links.

Description of Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument as described in the field notes of survey of the Armagh mine: The Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument is built on the apex of a red rocky point at the intersection of Ygnacio Ravine and Cerro Gordo cañon, and very precisely on the W. B. line of the Ygnacio mine (as surveyed for a patent in the year 1875 by Jos. Seely, U. S. Dep. Min. Sur.), and distant 17 51 chains from the southwest corner stake of the Ygnacio mine.

At the point above given I drilled a hole in the rock to a depth of 9 inches, in which drove a piece of gas pipe 1 inch in dia. x16 inches long. On top of gas pipe, set a post 4x4 inches square, x4 feet long, around which built a monument of rocks 5 feet high x5 feet in dia. at its base; marked the top of post "U. S. Mineral Monument Erected Jon'y 31, A. D. 1880 by Wm. Craig, U. S. Dep. Min. Sur., under Auth'ty of the U. S. Sur. Gen'l for Cal'a."

From said post in mineral monument, with a variation of 15 deg 55 min. E the extreme end of the bluff on which the monument is situated bears N. 25 deg. W. 17 links the east edge of ridge at the top of a vertical face of rock, 7½ feet high, bears N. 69 deg. E 7 links. The NE. cor. of an old adobe vaso chimney bears S. 38 deg. 16 min. W. 16 links. The middle of the Bishaw toll road at a point where it turns out of Cerro Gordo Cañon bears N. 81¾ deg. W. 1 06 chains. The middle of Cerro Gordo Cañon bears N. 62 chains. The NW. cor. of Rafael Duzhouse bears S. 28 deg. 33 min. E. 1 58 chains; an old well 30 feet deep on the north side of Cerro Gordo Cañon bears N. 58 deg. 20 min. W. 1 93 chs. Thence, with a var 15 deg. 55 min. E. (3) S. 40 deg. E. 93 W. boundary of Ygnacio mine. Set a post in mound of rocks and earth; marked post "Post 8, Summit Mine No. 2," from which the Armagh U. S. mineral monument bears N. 11 deg. W. 1 03 chains. Thence, with a var. 15 deg 55 E. commence descending. (4) S. 11 deg. E. 3 36 intersection of N. B. line of the Santa Niño mine at "Post 20, Santa Niño Mine;" marked the post "Post 9, Summit Mine No. 2." Post stands in mound of earth on top edge of Ygnacio dump. 3 66 W. edge of open cut at entrance to Ygnacio tunnel. 6 39 post marked "Post 10, Santa Niño Mine" on south boundary line of Santa Niño mine; marked the post "Post 10, Summit Mine No. 2;" 8 15 trail on ridge; runs E. & W. 16 49 "Post No. 2, Ygnacio Mine," on southwest corner of Ygnacio mine; marked the post "Post 11, Summit Mine No. 2," from which the entrance to the summit tunnel at a point where the tunnel first enters ore, bears N. 33¾ deg. W. 98 links. Course of Summit tunnel for first 185 feet from mouth or entrance N. 50 deg 6 min. E. The middle of wagon road in bottom of gulch bears S. 50 deg. W. 9 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg 55 min. E., commence ascending. (5) N. 79 deg. E. 1 51, post marked "Post No. 7, Y M," standing on SE. cor. Ygnacio mine; marked the post "Post 12, Summit Mine No. 2," from which a pine tree 9 inches dia. x14 feet high bears S. 20 deg. E. 1.40 chains. Thence, with a var. 15 deg 55 min. E. (6) N 11 deg. W. 7 57 summit of ridge bears W. commence descending 8 33 old dump at entrance to a tunnel runs E. 10 08 "Post 21, Santa Niño Mine" on south boundary line of Santa Niño mine; marked the post "Post 13, Summit Mine No. 2" 12 12 east edge of Ygnacio open cut. 13 11 "Post 22, Santa Niño Mine," on north boundary line of Santa Niño mine; marked the post "Post 14, Summit Mine No. 2" 13 75 set a post on east boundary line of Ygnacio mine; marked the post "Post 15, Summit Mine No. 2" from which the entrance to the "Hubbard tunnel" bears N. 20 deg. Set a post on slope of Ygnacio dump; marked the post "Post 16, Summit Mine No. 2" 3 13 intersection of the east boundary line of the Santa Niño mine, and the west boundary line of the Occident mine. Set a post in a mound of earth and marked the post "Post 17, Summit Mine No. 2," from which the southwest corner of the Occident mine bears S. 11 deg. E. 1 02 chains. 6 75 old prospecting cut on east side of summit of "Ygnacio Hill," cut bears E. & W. 8 30 prospecting cut bears W.; commence descending. 9 14 west edge of old shaft. 11 40 course of wagon road runs south. 12.50 "Post 18, Summit Mine No. 2" standing on east boundary line of the Occident mine, from which "Post 5, Occident Mine," bears S. 11 deg. E. 2.83 chains. 15.72 gulch; runs south. 18.66 "Post 19, Summit Mine No. 2," standing in mound of earth on east corner of claim, from which a pine bush 3 links high bears S. 68 deg. E. 3 poles. Thence, with a var. of 15 deg. 55 min. E. (8) S. 50 deg. W. 4 54 "Post A, Summit Mine No. 2" on southeast end of lode line. 5.00 gulch; runs west. 9.09 "Post 1, Summit Mine No. 2," place of beginning.

Containing 18 34-100 acres.

The location of this mine is recorded in the Recorder's office of Cerro Gordo Mining District in Book "F," page 43 of said record. The adjoining claimants are George T. Hawley and W. A. Greenly.

Any and all persons claiming adversely any portion of said Summit Mine No. 2, as hereinbefore described are required to file their adverse claim with the Register of the United States Land Office at Bodie, in the State of California, during the sixty days period of publication hereof, or they will be barred by virtue of the provisions of the Statute.

Sulphuric Acid as a Metal Separator.

The parting process which the Lyon Mill and Mining Company is about to put in practice is based on the principle that heated sulphuric acid 62 strong will dissolve the silver and copper from an alloy of gold containing not more than ten per cent. of metals other than silver.

The details of the process are as follows: In the separating room a mass of 200 pounds of alloy is placed in a large iron kettle with 150 pounds of acid, and boiled. During the boiling process, which lasts about five hours, 200 pounds more of acids are gradually added, and the resulting solution is run by a siphon to the lead precipitating vat on a lower floor, where the silver as fine silver, is thrown down on copper slabs, by the greater affinity which sulphuric acid has for copper, which causes it to unite with and form sulphate of copper, leaving the silver practically pure.

The gold remaining undissolved in the kettle at this stage of the progress, is entirely lacking in the metallic lustre which gives it its principle value as an ornament, and resembles a muddy sediment. If desired it could be brightened even in its finely subdivided condition by the repeated baths in hot acids and water; but this is not necessary as it regains its metallic lustre upon being melted. It is taken from the boiling kettle, filtered and washed to remove the acid, and cast into bars.

The fine silver in the precipitating vats is washed off the copper slabs, and treated in a similar manner. The copper solution is carried to the crystalizing vats, where it forms into the blue crystals known as blue stone. In connection with this process there is an intricate system of lead pipes and reservoirs, planned by Mr. Gignoux, the chemist, for the saving of acid and metallic particles carried off mechanically.—Lyon County Times.

SAMUEL J. TILDEN recently spoke as follows to an interviewer: It is too early to moralize upon the subject, but two things are so obvious that they cannot escape consideration even now. The first is the great peril that attends the enormous and increasing power of the Chief Executive Magistracy. It addresses temptations too strong for public safety to the interests and passions of millions of persons. The putting up periodically at the end of every four years of the vast power of the Government of 50,000,000 of the people, the enormous expenditure that it involves and the redistribution of the 100,000 offices at a raffle in which the whole people participate, must be fruitful of evils unseen. Civil commotions, fraud, and violence are the natural results. The second consideration, perhaps, grows out of the first. It is the unbounded licentiousness that characterises our party competitions and political discussions, the assassination of private character and unscrupulous methods resorted to to influence the public judgment. All good men of all parties ought to do their utmost to limit and restrain these mischiefs. The undue stimulus to mad passions arms the hand of the eccentric individual who assumes to himself to work out results perhaps under the insane ambition for a notoriety of infamy.

ARTICLES of incorporation for the California Central Railway, Nevada Division, have been filed with the Secretary of State at Carson. The following are the officers of the road: President, W. W. Walker; Vice-President, John H. Kinkead; Secretary and Treasurer, P. W. Johnson; Chief Engineer, Lyman Bridges. Additional incorporators are, Joseph Collett, John Sharp, W. L. French, W. H. Morgan, A. H. Washburn, E. W. Chapman, J. W. McWilliams, W. W. Bishop, John P. Jones, B. P. Layton, George G. Lyon. The road will traverse the State from east to west. Its capital stock is stated $17,500,000, all taken. The surveyors are now at work near Hawthorne and will run a line east as far as Salt Lake.

Important if True.

The Philadelphia Inquirer stated eight days ago that Keene, Flood, Mackay and others, were organizing a new telegraph scheme and that the work of building would begin at once. It said:

"It is intended within a year to have an extensive service established to all the principal paying points in the United States. All branches of business now performed by the Western Union will be carried on by the new management, but under different organizations. One special feature of the general commercial and telegraph department will be a system of receiving and transmitting night messages, which will be dropped in the postoffice as soon as received, and for which an unparalled low rate will be charged. Another department will be gold and stock reporting lines between the different cities; and there will also be the inevitable construction and maintenance company. One of the evidences that the combination means business is the purchase, within a day or two, of the factory at Ansonia, Conn., which has the patent and control of what is known as the compound wire. They have also purchased the recent invention for rapid telegraphy made by Elisha Gray, of Chicago, and also the Lago patents, which provide for the quick transmission of an exact duplicate or fac-simile of any message or drawing."

A telegram is published in the Call giving further particulars of the alleged project. It is stated that the new line is to include every paying point covered by the Western Union lines; that Keene is to be President; that George Roberts will be largely interested, and that the capital—$10,000,000—has already been subscribed. The statement is also made that the Company will organize with a view of controlling the freight tonnage on the Mississippi, Missouri and Ohio rivers; that sixty-three steamers and 120 barges have already been bought at their actual value, and that the purchasers claim they can run them at a reduction of $800,000 a year. James R. Keene is also said to be at the head of this Company. Its projectors say they are now perfecting arrangements by which the grain and provisions can be shipped to Europe at a little more than half the price now ruling by rail and the Atlantic ports. This is all very heavy talk. It is impossible to say at this distance how much fact and how much stock manipulation there is about it. There is one thing which, to our mind, makes the tale a little fishy and that is the alleged partnership of Messrs. Flood, Mackay and Keene. We hardly think the personal relations of Mr. Keene with the other gentlemen mentioned have been such as to lead to a business association of the character above spoken of; but still, the bonanza men may have recently changed their opinion of the "California operator."

Too Much Irrigation.

We find the following in the San Diego News:

Editor "Press and Horticulturist:" Having read your paper for the last six months, permit me to say I have been much interested and instructed. Riverside is not the only place in Southern California where fruit is successfully cultivated, notwithstanding an abundance of water.

Will you please let me tell you what has been done on a dry ranch down here. One year ago last January, I determined to connect fruit culture with bees, for the latter fail some seasons as they have done this. I have now growing and in good thriving condition fruit of the following varieties: Apples, peaches, plums, prunes, apricots, cherries, almonds, figs, Japan persimmon, Japan chestnuts; four thousand grapevines, seven hundred young peach and apricot trees in nursery, strawberries, blackberries, raspberries, gooseberries and currants, without irrigation and without extra help, and am out only $40 for stock. I am indebted, however, to Mr. George Kimball for demonstrating to me that all those varieties of fruit can be successfully grown without irrigation; good cultivation is the secret. Prof. Hilgard struck the key-note when he said a well cultivated surface was like a dry sponge laid on a wet brick—the sponge would draw up the water. If this important fact was generally understood and acted upon we would have more good fruit and healthier orchards. I believe hundreds of persons have been deterred from engaging in this business on account of the water problem. Now, sir, it is for the horticultural papers to impress this non-irrigating system on the people, and in a few years everybody in this healthy land may have all the fruit they can consume and some to sell. M. C. W.

PAPER makers, as a general rule, know by practical experience that it is not difficult to get electricity into paper; and some of them would be glad to hear of some simple way to get the fluid—or what-is-it—out of the paper. The Scientific American recently recived a cargo of paper that was so charged with electricity that the sheets would not separate without tearing, and they could not run them through the press, but were compelled to return the entire consignment to the maker, as its use was impracticable.

LORNE is getting to be thoroughly disliked in Canada. Puts on too many airs. Too uncommon uppish for the people. Queen Victoria will have to pull down this young sprig before long, or the Canadians will pull him down for her.

RECENT experiments show that the light of an electric lamp travels 187,500 miles per second. Blue light travels over one per cent. faster than red light.

Murder of Bishop Smith.

News has reached Pioche, says the Record, that Bishop Philip Klingen Smith, at one time a man of high standing and great influence in the Mormon Church, and the exposer of the Mountain Meadow massacre, and the names of the men who participated in the bloody deed, is dead. His body was found in a prospect hole, in the State of Sonora, Mexico, and a letter from there, which was received in the vicinity of Pioche, states that the mystery surrounding the body indicates that Smith had been murdered. Smith died just as he expected, for on his return from Beaver in 1876, after testifying in the trial of John D. Lee, we met Smith in town, in a sort of secluded spot, and during the conversation, Smith remarked: "I know that the Church will kill me, sooner or later, and I am as confident of that fact as I am that I am sitting on this rock. It's only a question of time; but I'm going to live as long as I can." Immediately after Smith's return from Lee's trial, as his wife at Panaca refused to have anything to do with him, being so ordered by the Church, he started southward, and lived in Arizona for a time, following prospecting. During his residence in the mountains of that Territory, two attempts were made upon his life, and by whom he never was able to discover. Smith made the exposure of the butchery at Mountain Meadows more for self protection than anything else. In early days, when Hiko was the county seat of Lincoln and the flourishing and only prominent mining camp in this southern country, the Mormons used to haul all the freight from Salt Lake to Hiko. Smith was engaged in freighting, and his son, Bud Smith was assisting him. During one of these trips father and son quarreled and Bud Smith went to Hiko and obtained employment. It was during the winter of 1867-68, when Klingen Smith arrived in Hiko with a load of freight, his son pointed him out to the people, and told them that just after the massacre, he pointed out a young girl to him and ordered him to kill her, saying that if he (Bud) did not kill her he (his father) would kill him." Then Bishop Smith turned upon the poor girl himself and knocked her brains out with a club. This was the first inkling of anything authentic in connection with the massacre and caused considerable excitement among the settlers of Hiko. Waddell, one of the county officials at that time, informed Bishop Smith what his son exposed and hurried him out of town. After that, while engaged in hauling freight upon his arrival in Panaca, Smith would always hire some person to drive his team over to Hiko. In 1871 Bishop Smith made affidavits before the Clerk of Lincoln county, making the exposure of the massacre and the names of those connected therewith, which was published in the records and made public for the first time. Mrs. Smith is now living at Bullionville and is married to a man named Dolf Laundritch. Mrs. Smith is an intelligent old lady, and is the mother of seventeen children by Smith, the last two born being twin girls, who are now about sixteen years of age. Most of the Smith family reside in Lincoln county.

Silver Amalgamation.

The first works erected in Europe for the treatment of silver ores by amalgamation, appears to have been those described by Schluter as having been put up at Kingsberg for the purpose of treating the stamped ores of that district.

This apparatus consisted of 18 small cylinder vessels arranged in a circle, in which the ores were mixed with mercury, and kept in a state of constant agitation by means of a verticle spindle in each tub, the whole being worked by a large toothed wheel in the center. It was not, however, till the latter part of the century that the attention of mining engineers on the Continent became particularly directed to the process of amalgamation. In the year 1780, Philipps says, the Baron de Born suggested to the Austrian Government the propriety of adopting the system in the mining district of Hungary, and at his solicitation some experiments were instituted at the Glashutte Works, near Schemnetz.

Although these trials were not followed by the introduction of this system of amalgamation into the Hungarian mines, they nevertheless gave rise to many valuable discoveries, of which the Saxon government, which had deputed a commission to attend on De Born, availed itself in the erection of the works at Freiberg.

The first works were erected at Frieberg, in the year 1790, under the direction of M. de Carpentier, but these were destroyed by fire shortly after completion. The amalgamation works, commenced immediately after the destruction of the former, were completed in 1794, and closed down in 1856. The amalgamating of silver ores was at one time more economically conducted at Halsbrucke Works, in the vicinity of Frieberg, than in any other European establishment.

THE able-bodied young man who is reporting the doings of the New Hampshire Legislature for the Manchester Mirror says this is the first Legislature he ever saw in which there are absolutely no party lines. "It is very much like the Massachusetts Assembly, in which two-thirds of the Republicans are Democrats and all the Democrats are two-thirds Republican."

MR. WIGNER, of the Analyst, states that American corned beef is twice as valuable as an article of diet as fresh boneless beef, and that the cooked ox tongues contain less salt and more nutritive matter than the dried tongues usually sold in European markets.

DECAY OF THE TEETH.—The acids which cause the decay of the teeth are conveyed in the secretions of the gums and the mucus membranes of the lips and cheeks, and the usual points of attack are in the interstices and the grooves in the facial walls of the teeth. The calculary nature of the saliva is antagonistic to the acids, and preserves the teeth from their dilapidating influence. Teeth are protected from disease by the following conditions: Their regular shape and order, that the situations of the deposit of acids be as few as possible; the conservation of the teeth from noxious influences by constant brushing: the healthy structure of the tooth itself, and of the mouth generally. Heider observes that the yellowish white teeth are less subject to the attacks of caries than those of a bluish shade, the enamel of the former being much harder, and the molars have been found to contain more mineral substance than the incisors.

THE New York Mining Record in its last issue contains the following in relation to the lead market: A large business has been transacted during the last week at hardening prices, sales of common pig having transpired to the extent of about 1,200 tons at 4 70 up to 4 75 cents. While some portion of this has been on speculative account, consumers and dealers have been the principal buyers, with the bulk of the sales at the outside price, partly of spot and partly future delivery up to September next. The market has since ruled firm with little, if any stock, obtainable at 4 75, sellers asking 4 90 to 4 95. It appears that Western coroders have been quietly buying considerable quantities of base bullion, which would have otherwise come upon this market, and the supply of common pig has accordingly proportionately reduced. Refined is firmly held at 5 cents and upwards.

THE Texas Central is being extended westward two or three miles per day, and the managers say that it will be completed to the Rio Grande by December 1st. A large force of engineers is to be put in New Mexico and Arizona at once to permanently locate the road through these Territories. It is also stated that the Texas Central will bring a suit at Tucson at an early date against the Central Pacific Railroad Company similar to that brought in New Mexico at Santa Fe. It claims a prior right to the virgin soil of New Mexico and Arizona, and says that its road must run from ocean to ocean, and is not to be a feeder for other roads, but a grand through route.

THE superintendent at the mines at Smartsville is now building dams at the mouths of some of the ravines to hold back the tailings, so far as possible, and prevent injury below, should the injunction be dissolved so that the mines can be worked. Owners of other mines are moving in the same direction, with a view to prevent, if possible, injury to the country below, and still continue the working of the mines.

JIM BRIDGER, the old mountaineer, known to many of the early settlers on the Coast, died on his ranch near Santa Fe, July 17. Fort Bridger was named after him, and his early exploits on the plains have furnished material for many novels of the thrillingly sensational type. He first went to the Rocky Mountains over forty years ago, and lived to be 76 years of age.

AMONG the new discoveries made within the past few months is a large body of asbestos about six miles from Deadwood City. The croppings can be traced for nearly 300 feet, while a large body of it has already been unearthed. Tests have been made which prove that this body of asbestos is equal to any yet discovered in America.

A SOUTHERN philosopher says that millions of pistols are manufactured; that infantry in war do not use them; that cavalry cannot use them; that hunters find them of no service, and that they are used only to make an infernal noise on the Fourth of July or to commit murder all the year round.

PETITIONS for the removal of the county seat of Esmeralda county from Aurora to some point on the line of the C. & C. Railroad are being circulated throughout the county. It is said to be receiving many signatures in Mason Valley as well as in Candelaria and the southern portion of the county.

A NEW YORK mining paper shows a shrinkage in State Line properties, including the Oriental and Miller, of $6,188,000 since the 19th of May last. It innocently inquires "What's the cause of this?" and "Who's got the money?" Give it up, partner.

INTEREST in the mines along the Colorado river has been revived by the recent railroad surveys. Claims have been located at Cottonwood island, Hardyville, Mohave, the Needles, Ehrenberg, the Colony and Castle Dome.

THIRTY thousand persons have petitioned the Georgia Legislature asking that the people of the State be allowed to vote on the prohibition of the liquor traffic. The petition was 600 feet long and had names from every county.

ALL the business portion of the town of Truckee, involving an estimated loss of $350,000, was destroyed by fire last Tuesday. Rebuilding is going on rapidly.

THE Central California Railroad has a corps of surveyors at work near McBride's Ranch, and within a few miles of Benton.

IT is now stated that District Attorney Corkhill will postpone action in the case of Guiteau till September.

ADVERTISEMENTS AND ADVERSE CLAIMANTS.

A Montana case, just decided in the General Land Office, presents some peculiar as well as interesting features. An application for patent was filed by the locator, and due notice of the same was given in the usual way, by publication, etc. It so happened that the printer, for his own convenience, attached to the advertisement, a notice that the advertisement expired on a certain day, which was several days after the legal limits in which adverse claimants could file their protests. An adverse claimant alleged that the note of the printer misled him, and that when he offered his papers at the local office, they could not be received because the time for filing an adverse claim had expired. Under these circumstances he appealed to the Commissioner, who sustained the decision of the local office, and says "that it is not the province of a published notice to inform the adverse claimants at what period the time within which an adverse claim may be filed expires; but its office is to inform all interested, that an application for certain mineral land has been filed at a date named, and adverse claimants are therefore put upon inquiry." In other words, it is presumed that every claimant knows the law and must judge for himself when the time for filing expires, and must not be led astray by false lights, and therefore must suffer the consequences of his own negligence or ignorance, and the department can afford no remedy.

THE San Francisco Exchange is doubtful about Jay Gould's alleged plans on this coast. Among other things the Exchange says: We don't like to discredit the story, for really parts of it seem plausible enough, but if it is true the hitherto accepted plans of the great road builders must have undergone a radical change. For instance, we can hardly believe that the Atlantic and Pacific are going to forego their plan of crossing Arizona, entering California at the Needles and continuing on to San Francisco; nor can we believe that they would co-operate with Gould in constructing a line farther north across Nevada to San Francisco to compete with themselves. That part of the story therefore we decline to accept as probable. That the Texas Pacific might join in the movement is nothing strange, for they would not want to build along the old survey now that another road is already in operation. However, we prefer to await developments before discussing the matter in all its bearings.

GRADING was commenced August 1st on the Eureka and Colorado River Railroad. Two gangs of men were set to work. It is said that the force will be increased from day to day. The Superintendent asserts that he will have thirty miles in operation by Christmas. The company was originally organized by citizens of Eureka, who have lately sold their franchise, freight and other contracts to the Denver and Rio Grande Company. The price paid to our local campany was $50,000. This Eureka branch is destined to connect with the Denver and Rio Grande at some point in Utah, possibly near Iron Mountain. There is claimed to be ample funds behind the enterprise to carry it to completion. The men who have inaugurated the work are from the East.

THE recent sale of 4,000,000 acres of land in Florida to a Philadelphia company has attracted a great deal of attention. It is the largest land sale ever made, so far as we recollect, to any private company in the country. The principal purchaser is a single individual; the company name, it is presumed, is used for convenience. The first payment of $200,000 has already been made. The land was owned by the State, and much of it is probably what is known as "everglades." The Floridian says that the land is good, and that all the tropical fruits will grow upon it.

WHILE a young lady of Jamestown was bathing in Chatauqua Lake the other day an impertinent turtle seized her by the ear. Her screams brought friends to her assistance, or she certainly would have been drowned, but the turtle's grip was like a bull-dog's, and after its head had been cut off it took ten minutes to pry the jaws apart.

SOME one asked ex-Senator Conkling a few days ago, "What are your plans?" He replied, "I shall first apply to Whitelaw Reid, John Hay and Henry Watterson for their permission to practice a little law, and awaiting their favorable reply, will attend to an accumulated correspondence."

IT affords us supreme satisfaction to announce that the latest comet, although of slow motion and a trifle over one hundred million miles distant from us, is heading directly this way and will soon be visible to the naked eye.

BISHOP HAVEN is very ill at Portland, Or., and with but little chance of recovery.

AND now Guitteau hands the prosecuting attorney an elaborately prepared petition for release from jail, on bail in the sum of $15,000. He bases his claim for release upon bail upon the fact that the President is now regarded as out of danger and that there is no probability whatever of another relapse. The construction of the petition shows considerable familiarity with the forms and methods of law, and and the document throughout is drawn up with a conciseness and exactness that indicate anything but insanity. Guiteau was very anxious that the District Attorney should take prompt action on his prayer for release, and intimated that in the event of a favorable consideration of his petition he would have no difficulty in securing bondsmen in the sum indicated. The queer feature is how Guiteau has managed to get information as to the favorable condition of the President and the opinions expressed by the physicians. It would be a cheap way to dispose of the wretch—turn him loose and let the people attend to his case, without further intervention of Courts or lawyers.

THEY certainly do some things better in England than in this country. For instance, in case of a Congressional inquiry into a corrupt election in this country, the expenses are saddled upon the whole people, and often both parties to the contest are paid the salary attached to the position. But if the English Parliament finds that a borough has been corruptly carried, it is immediately disfranchised and for a time refused the right of representation. The expense of inquiry into the election are also assessed against the borough. There were two boroughs recently found delinquent in this respect, and required to pay—the one $20,808, and the other $19,375—for the expense of the inquiry. It may seem a little hard to make a whole borough answer for the sins of one candidate and his few corrupt tools, but it is a pretty sure way to crush out bribery in elections. Each borough, for its own self-preservation, will see that no such practices are tolerated.

THE Postal Telegraph Company organized by Jim Keene promises to revolutionize the telegraph business. The managers believe that 5,000 words per minute may be sent by a single wire, and that the cost of telegraphing will not exceed the ordinary postal charges more than a fraction. If these expectations are realized, they can do more business in a day with one wire than the Western Union can do with all their wires. The estimated average rate of speed of the company will be about 4,000,000 words per day. The Postal Telegraph Company guarantees that lines equivalent in working capacity to the Western Union system shall be in operation by January 1, 1883.

THE Reno Journal says: The Eureka & Colorado railroad will begin active operations this week. Contracts were advertised for yesterday. The new road will be built with money furnished by German and English capitalists, and the company has abandoned all idea of the $500,000 in bonds from the counties of Eureka, White Pine and Lincoln. From a gentleman largely interested in the scheme we learn that a few days ago the Central Pacific folks offered to furnish half the money to build the road. The offer was declined. The road will have a freight bonanza as it is constructed, as there are 15,000 tons of lead ready for shipment, and by the time the road is completed there will be 10,000 tons additional.

THERE has been considerable extravagance of speech about the infernal machines shipped to England by alleged Fenians. The silly denunciations and complaints should cease until some damage is done. At present it looks very much as if the English agents were cooking up a job to ferment hostility on the part of the United States towards its adopted citizens of English birth.

THE new Postal Telegraph Company, if not an immense stock-jobbing scare, will prove the only formidable opposition the Western Union Company has ever encountered. If it enters the contest with anything like the advantages claimed for it, Jay Gould's inflation of the stock of the Western Union, instead of proving a gain to stockholders, will be an irreparable disaster.

IN his detail of Indian horrors that came under his notice, Mr. Markley, the New Mexico Indian killer, stated that in 1867 he gave an Indian half a dollar for a hair rope ten feet in length and about the size of his little finger. He untwisted the end and found that it was made of red, auburn and black hair, which, from the length of each hair, was evidently that of a woman. He questioned the Indian, who told him the rope was made from the hair of the women and girls slain in the Mountain Meadow massacre, for complicity in which murder John D. Lee, the Mormon, was tried and shot a few years ago. The place where he purchased the rope was at Paleronagote, sixty-five miles from Mountain Meadows, where the most harrowing and brutal massacre of modern times occurred.—St. Louis Republican.

The Indian Queen Mine.

One of the nicest silver mining properties we know of on this Coast is the Indian Queen mine, in Oneota District, Esmeralda county, Nevada. The property is owned by the Indian Queen Milling and Mining Company, incorporated in New Jersey, but the stock is mostly held in Boston. The mine was sold to the Eastern company something over six months ago, and is one of the properties sold at the East that has turned out well from the start. As will be seen from our bullion record, the mine is steadily represented therein by monthly shipments of over $17,000, the last shipment of $4,275 49, being made July 20th. The mine is well opened, and every development made so far gives evidence of permanency and increased value. The property is exceedingly well managed as is shown by the fact that with only four stamps running, dividends have been paid regularly for the past eight months as follows:

January 4th	$5,000
January 20th	5,000
February 20th	5,000
March 20th	5,000
April 19th	6,250
May 19th	6,250
June 19th	6,250
July 19th	6,250
Total	$45,000

We doubt if many mines in California can show such a record, with the same reduction facilities. The mine has developed so well and shows such fine reserves and prospects that the managers have decided to double the mill capacity, and a contract has been made to supply the mill with four additional stamps and the necessary pan capacity. The full eight stamps will be running by October 10th, and after that we may look for a much greater yield and a consequent increase of profits. The Bostonians who purchased this property are to be complimented on the judgment of the expert who examined the mine. The San Francisco parties who had a large ownership in the mine actually sacrificed the property to get a little ready profit. These are the kind of investments that make the business of mining so fascinating. Let there be more of them. There are plenty of other properties in Esmeralda county, which, if taken hold of and managed properly, will furnish just as gratifying results as the Indian Queen.—S. F. Exchange.

Jumping Claims.

Behold the prospector that wandereth over the face of the earth.

He traverseth the mountain and picketh the barren mountain with his pick.

The pangs of hunger grip his bowels in the morning, and at night he lieth down with only a blanket to cover him.

And the graybacks come forth and rend him.

And he lifteth up the voice of lamentation in the wilderness and crieth aloud to heaven:

"Why hath this affliction come upon me, and why do the terrors of hell compass me round about?"

And while he sleeps the wolves devour his substance.

And when he findeth the croppings he diggeth in the ground and sticketh up the location notice on a board.

He then hieth to the valleys, and sayeth to the capitalist:

"Hearken unto me, for I have struck it big. Here are the samples from the ground, and behold the gold maketh lousy the rock with its richness."

And the twain return to find others working on the claim.

And the prospector graspeth his gun, saying:

"Get ye from hence, for this is holy ground."

And a fire coming out of the brush, smiteth him on the cheek, and he calleth with a loud voice:

"I'm done for; take off my boots."

And he giveth up the ghost, and is gathered to his fathers.

And behold others work the mine.—Nevada Monthly.

Krupp's Works.

J. S. Potter, United States Consul at Grefeld, Germany, in a private letter, gives an interesting description of the steel works of Herr Krupp, whose colossal establishment at Essen he has recently visited. The average number of men employed is 18,552, representing a population of more than 80,000 persons dependent upon the industry controlled by a single man. Mr. Potter was particularly impressed by the perfect system, order and quiet which prevailed at the works, and does not remember having heard a single loud word spoken among the thousands of workmen as he passed through the vast buildings, covering 650 acres. Herr Krupp who, thirty years ago, was a poor man, provides everything for the great community of which he is the center—homes for all, schools, churches, preachers, supply stores, bakeries, doctors, slaughter houses, butchers, bathing establishments, life insurance and fire companies, pension institutions, hospitals, undertakers and funerals, and all works smoothly and well. In reply to a question concerning the vast responsibility, anxiety, care and difficulties in managing such a complex and extensive establishment, he said he had little anxiety and no difficulty in managing his increasing business. His care and responsibility were chiefly exercised in the selection of men for positions of management. He has no friendship for "bosses" who were not exactly fitted for the positions they were engaged to fill, and no mercy for those found negligent or inefficient. To his caution in the selection of managers he attributes the chief success of his life.

GRADING the roadbed for the new railway is progressing as rapidly as one hundred and sixty white men at this end and thirty men at Mono Lake can push it. Over twenty miles are now ready for the ties and rails. All the machinery for the saw mill is on the grade, and everything points to an early completion. The iron horse will be in motion long before snow flies, if nothing unforeseen occurs. A large force of choppers are now employed in the timber beyond the mines.—Bodie Free Press.

SCALP grafting is the latest remedy for baldness. Perhaps it may prove as efficacious as the transplanting of teeth.

THERE now seems a very strong probability that the James single track railroad will be built from the Mussel Slough country to Antioch. Meetings were held at Hanford and Grangeville on Wednesday, and a good deal of confidence and enthusiasm were manifested and considerable of the stock taken. This style of road has been thoroughly tested. There is one in Massachusetts that has been successfully operated for several years, and the road that now carries tourists and sight-seers to the top of Vesuvius is a James single track.

ORDERS have been sent to all the Mints, which have been closed since the 25th ult., making repairs and taking stock, to resume operations at once. In order to comply with the requirements of the law relating to the coinage of 2,000,000 silver dollars each month, orders have been sent not to coin any gold until the minimum number of standard dollars is coined.

THE shooting match between a team of six Canadians and a team of six British riflemen at Wimbleton Saturday of last week, resulted as follows: 800 yards—England 424, Canada 406; 900 yards—England 413, Canada 352; 1,000 yards—England 383, Canada 347. Total—England 1,222; Canada 1,105.

THE Sutro tunnel people are drifting at one or more points on the tunnel, and are reported to have run through some patches of $30 ore.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, AUGUST 6.....1881

A FIND.—While cleaning out a cubby hole underneath the stairway of the Blaney House, the other day, Joe Schalten made a curious find. In a small paper box, which he kicked out and then opened out of curiosity, he found a heavy Waltham silver watch, and looking further in the paper, a set of valuable pearl shirt studs. These were at once recognized as belonging to S. P. Moffat, Esq., from whom they were stolen some six years ago. No one knows for a certainty about the watch. Who was that thief, and why did he put his plunder where he couldn't get at it again or where he forgot it?

PANAMINT.—A letter states that G. M. Pinney is out from New York, completing a consolidation of all the important Panamint interests. The Pheby & Anthony lease of the mill has expired, but we believe they intend making another run. Their last shipment of bullion amounted to some $11,000, instead of $6,000 as stated. The cañon road, which cost the Surprise Valley Company some $6,500 to build, was covered by the water spout with rocks from four to ten feet deep, and it will cost some $5,000 to restore the road in as good shape again.

FOR NEW YORK.—W. E. Smith left for New York on July 29th. This gentleman remained with us a month, and made a thorough examination of Cerro Gordo, Beveridge, Swansea and Mazourka cañon mines. He seemed well pleased with the whole outlook, and expresses his belief in the richness and permanency of the mines in the Inyo range, Mr. Smith has obtained some mining interest here, and is prospecting them with a force of ten or twelve men.

WEATHER.—This Summer is notable for the numerous attempts the weather clerk has made to get up rain storms in this valley, where rain storms hardly ever occur during the Summer months. So far his efforts have not been crowned as marked successes, though there has been a sprinkle or two, and to-day it is as cloudy and sultry as back East where tornadoes and sunstrokes make life so distressingly uncertain and unpleasant withal.

TO CELEBRATE.—The Mexican and Chilian population of Lone Pine are arranging for one of their great, old-time celebrations, commencing September 16th. There will be a high old time of it, as usual, and doubtless many visitors from the surrounding towns will participate. The Mexicans are proverbially hospitable and polite to strangers, and conduct the dances and proceedings in perfect order.

THE TIME FIXED.—A note from the Rev. Mr. Willis, received yesterday, says: "The new M. E. Church at Bishop Creek will be dedicated Sunday, August 14. Able ministerial help from Carson City is expected. The services will be as follows: at 10 o'clock, A. M., Love Feast; 11 A. M., sermon; 7½ P. M., sermon and Sacrament of the Lord's Supper; dedication during the morning service."

MINE BONDED.—Mr. G. Gray, who has spent some time in examining the prospect around Bishop Creek, has bonded the Ross & Page mine—time and terms not stated. The Ross & Page is a very promising looking ledge, the croppings showing a width of thirty feet, with stringers of fine silver ore running through it.

ASSESSMENT.—The assessment notice elsewhere goes to show that the original assessment No. 6 on the stock of the Los Angeles Mining Company, of Resting Springs, has been rescinded and replaced by a new one of the same amount. This course was adopted to make the full legal publication, which was not accomplished before owing to mail delays.

RETURNED.—Gomer Jones, the well-known miner and prospector, has returned to Panimint from a trip to Mexico. He gives a bad report of that country generally, as to its mines and all kinds of business. Mr. Jones is about making his fourteenth trip to the Death Valley country, still in search of the "Breyfogle."

THE COURT.—Judge Hannah has sent up an order adjourning the Superior Court until the first Monday in September. His honor's continued illness is assigned as the cause, though at last accounts he was slowly gaining strength.

LOOKOUT.—Frank Fitzgerald has a force of men extracting ore from No. 4 tunnel and the long tunnel of the Modock mine. He expects shortly to fire up the furnace, working the ore taken out, rich flue dust and slag.

NEW.—The new announcement of A. K. Briggs, the popular merchant of Bishop Creek, will be noted elsewhere this week. He has a beautiful store, well filled with a choice stock of goods. Consult the advertisement.

A NEW DISCOVERY.—A fine vein of silver ore has been discovered in the Beveridge District. Two assays of the ore, made by Mr. Woodhull, show respectively $457 08 and $494 82 per ton in silver.

IMPROVING.—Judging from the amount of lumber passing down, building must be going on extensively at Lone Pine, and corner lots are on the rise.

TAKING A VIEW.—S. H. Moore has been making an examination of the Beveridge gold mines, and is now at Cerro Gordo looking over that district.

AT DARWIN.—The Defiance furnace was to have started up for a short run on the 1st instant.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

Proceedings of the Term.

MONDAY, Aug. 1.

The Board met pursuant to law; present, C. Meysan, D. Olds and E. Robinson.

Minutes of last meeting read and approved. A recess was taken until 1 o'clock, P. M., when the following proposals to paint Court House, as per advertisement, were read: J. G. Burkhart, $595; Thos. Parker, $485; Frank Dorenberg, $475; T. D. Price, $295 50; J. W. Murphy, $258; P. J. S. Tully, (and furnish all material) $890; from same, a bid to do the work for $590. The proposition of J. W. Murphy, being the lowest, was accepted; but—we quote the minutes:—"after the award of said contract being made the said Murphy made a statement before the Board that he would not give a bond for the performance of said contract, and further that he would not perform said contract."

Thereupon the Board reconsidered said proposals; that of T. D. Price, being the next lowest bid, was accepted, upon his giving a good and sufficient bond in double the amount of the contract price for the faithful performance of said contract.

The following was offered by Supervisor Meysan, seconded, carried and ordered entered upon the minutes,

WHEREAS, the County Assessor of Inyo county, Thomas May, having failed to comply with the requirements of Section 3826 and 3853, Pol. Code, and the books of the County Auditor of said county show a deficiency in said Assessor's office of $1.279 83 to the Treasurer of Inyo county, and

WHEREAS, the bondsmen of the said Assessor proposed to settle and pay said deficiency of $1,279 83 to the Treasurer of Inyo county, therefore be it

Resolved, that the Board of Supervisors of Inyo county accept the above proposition, provided that said amount of $1,279 83 shall be paid to the Treasurer of Inyo county by said bondsmen on or before five o'clock P. M. on the second day of August A. D. 1881. Adjourned until TUESDAY, Aug. 2.

Board at met 9:30 A. M., and after approving minutes proceeded to examine and allow the following bills:

ON THE EXPENSE FUND.

Thos. May, salary as Assessor, $600; Thos. May, for making military roll and statements for Board of Equalization and State Controller, $50 95; John Crough, bill as Auditor and Clerk; $187 50; John Crough, for stationery and three copies of military roll, $20 12; J. W. Smith, salary as Jailer, $270 00; J. W. Smith, Sheriff fees, $72 97; G. H. Hardy, Co. Treasurer, $375 00; H. M. Isaacs, stationery, $2 85; Dan. Crough, member of Board of Education, $5 00; U. S. Stage Co., carrying prisoners, $35 00; W. H. Wheaton, digging grave, $6; Thos. May, for services of S. V. Stevens, Deputy Assessor, $150; S. W. Blaisdell, member Board of Education, $6 25; J. W. Symmes, County Superintendent, $100; same, for services in Board of Equalization, $5; Thos. Parker, Justice fees, 3d Township, $27; Chalfant & Parker, printing, $54 90; P. A. Chalfant, member Board of Education, $5; A. Stecker, making coffin, $20; O. I. Mairs, conveying body, $7; Jaques Dudac, road viewer, $6 00; V. G. Thompson, holding inquest, $3 75; Harris & Rhine, merchandise, for $38 22 allowed at $33 60.

ON HOSPITAL FUND.

Margaret Lewis, care of indigen sick per contract, $400 00.

BILLS REJECTED.

S. P. Ried, for acting Coroner; J. J. Moore, for clothes for pauper; Geo. L. Drake, for Constable's fees; L. Tuttle, for extra work on Court House; Mrs. M. Lewis, for property destroyed by patient.

Bond of T. D. Price for the faithful performance of painting contract, with O. I. and J. D. Mairs as sureties, accepted and approved.

WEDNESDAY, Aug. 3d.

Board all present. L. Wood, for merchandise furnished hospital patient and clothes to bury Antonio Ybarra, $35; L. Tuttle for surveying road from Lone Pine to Beveridge trail and extra work on Court House, rejected for informality. Joseph Schalten, fees as Justice of the Peace, 2d Township, $9 00. In the matter of the petition of citizens of Road District No. 1, asking that a road be laid out running from the east side of Main street in Bishop Creek to Owens river, near B. McGill's ranch and from thence across said river over unoccupied land to the foot hills. M. H. White, J. L. Bourland and Robert Ford were appointed viewers to view said road. Recess till 1 o'clock, P. M., at which time reassembled; all present.

Report of Geo. H. Palmer, road overseer District No. 4 received and accepted.

Report of Wm. Boyd, Road Overseer District No. 3 accepted, and bill for labor on road for the sum of $107 91 allowed upon Road Fund, District No. 3 in the sum of $91 91.

Petition from citizens of Round Valley asking that a bridge be built over Pine Creek was laid over till next regular meeting.

Report of J. W. Symmes, Superintendent of Common Schools for the year ending June 30, 1881, examined and approved.

Proposal of H. P. Cartier, offering to clean up old rubbish and remove the same, also to take new shingles left and pay the county $16 00 was accepted upon said Cartier paying said $16 00 to the County Treasurer, and the County Treasurer is directed to credit the same to the Expense Fund.

Report of County Treasurer and County Auditor were examined, accepted and approved, and ordered published one time in THE INYO INDEPENDENT.

THURSDAY, Aug. 4.

Petition of H. C. Buckles, John C. Irwin and I. P. Yaney asking to be appointed County Assessor, laid over till next regular meeting.

Bills allowed: C. Meysan, $30 40; D. Olds, $48 00; E. Robinson, $24 40.

Board adjourned for the term.

"Pap's" Views About the Railroad.

OLANCHA, Aug. 3.

MESSRS. EDITORS—We will drop into your suggestions on the railroad question just as natural as a duck drops into water. We will give them the right of way anywhere they want to go and all the lands they want for building or any other purpose. All we want is a railroad through this country—no matter where they run it so long as it comes within the county lines enough to pay taxes. Not that we want to have our taxes reduced—by no means; but just look at it: One hundred miles of railroad through our county, paying taxes on at least six hundred thousand dollars. How does that look? Why, we will double the salaries of our County officers, make them run back for five years so as to cover all losses they have had, and make them able to be more liberal in the future. It may bust up a few ranchers, but who cares for them? They are nobodies, their lands will drop into better hands, our aristocrats, and we will have an aristocratic county. Yes, send the railroad boom along; we'll face the music. Who's afraid? Yours,

PAP.

THE SURVEYORS.—Chief Engineer Oliver and party, of the Carson & Colorado Railroad, paid a visit to Cerro Gordo, and we presume will return northward on the other side of the river. They would do well to make a sufficient stay in the valley to learn more fully the whole situation.

TO BE DEDICATED.—Rev. F. M. and Mrs. Willis have gone to Bishop Creek to prepare for the dedication of the new M. E. Church, which has finally reached completion, and as a building would do credit to any locality. Elder Hinkle is expected to be present and conduct the dedication ceremonies.

RETURNED IT.—Upon seeing the notice of the lost buggy cushion an honest rancher immediately returned it to the owner. That shows the propriety and effectiveness of advertising.

PAINTING.—Work is rapidly going on under the Court House painting contract.

An Opinion of Inyo.

The Gold Hill News of the 1st instant says: "Some Comstock mining men (Frank Osbiston and Hank Smith) recently took a trip to Inyo county to inspect a mine there called the Polita, in the interest of San Francisco capitalists. They report that the Polita is situated nine miles from Bishop Creek, and think it an excellent prospect. When they examined it the shaft was 135 feet deep, and showing a ledge six and one-half feet wide, assays from which have been obtained near the bottom giving $176 to the ton. The ore is all gold. The Polita has been sunk on the ledge, which was but eighteen inches wide at the surface, but has gradually increased to the width given above, and appearances indicate that it will continue to widen as depth is obtained. The parties who own it have worked twenty-five tons of the ore from near the surface in an arastra, which yielded them $41 to the ton, and the ore is of as rich an appearance at the bottom of the shaft as at top. The Comstockers were well pleased with the mine, and look upon it as an excellent prospect for the development of a first class bonanza, which it will surely prove to be should the ledge increase in width for a much greater depth.

HON. W. J. HILL, State Senator from Monterey county, has published an article in his paper, the Index, showing the various stages through which the tax levy passed, and declares that though signed by the Governor, it was never enacted into a law. He says that an amendment was made to it in the Senate, which was never acted on by the Assembly, and he calls upon the Governor to reconvene the Legislature to act upon the subject. In behalf of a persecuted people the Expositor demurs from such a course being pursued. Better that the State should go without taxes for two years than that the Legislature of 1881 should ever be assembled again. It has had two trials at it, and if it could not pass a legal tax bill in that time, it would not be likely to succeed with another trial.

GERMANY claims to be a civilized country, but it has not yet succeeded in doing away with the barbarous system of dueling. Quarrels are still settled there precisely as South Sea island savages settle their disputes.

The people of Nevada City have resolved to be the first in the United States to properly and fittingly give thanks for what is now believed to be the safety of President Garfield from danger. The celebration was to take place yesterday afternoon.

"Your meal is ready, sir," said the waiter to Hayseed just from the rural districts. "Meal," exclaimed Hayseed, contemptuously. "Do yer think I'm a hoss? Get me some corned beef and cabbage, young man."

The yellow dog which paid periodical visits to General Garfield's residence before the election, and followed the President's carriage on inauguration day, has reappeared at the White House.

Says the San Diego Union: It is a coincidence worthy of note that the first locomotive and the first steam printing press, ever seen on the bay of San Diego, were fired up on the same day.

About Economy.

Excessive economy and a total disregard of the refinements of life make a man hateful to his friends. It is his duty to make his home bright and attractive. If he lives in the country he can have beauty both inside and out. There is nothing that enhances the appearance of a house more than a neatly kept lawn, or a tastefully laid out flower garden. "But it requires too much time," the careless man objects. "What good does it do?" In such answers we merely see a disregard of the refinements of life. Such replies cannot be supported by reason. Is it "too much bother" to have one's room carpeted? Is it "too much trouble" to set a neat, inviting table for the daily meals? The orderly and beautiful appearance of the grounds about the house is, to our mind, of just as much importance as orderliness or beauty in any other part of the homestead or farm. Spring is coming; bid her welcome. The weedy plot of ground may now be turned into things of beauty, and so maintained for no more expense than is required to maintain the tidy room, the clean carriage, the Sunday dress-ups, and the ordinary marks of a regard for "decency," which we have called "refinements of life."—Pall Mall Gazette.

WHILE experimenting with the electric light at Baltimore recently to test its applicability for deep water investigations, its power and usefulness was in many ways strikingly manifested. The water at the bottom, some 200 feet in depth, was brilliantly illuminated, presenting a grand spectacle. Above water, a movable parabolical reflector was used back of the light, which was again and again thrown against vessels from two to three miles distant, bringing them out in clear, full view, and enabling their names to be read with the aid of a glass. The tests were made with a Brush apparatus, operated by an eight-horse-power engine, mounted upon a scow and towed about the harbor by a tug-boat.

THE French Government has adopted a new and novel ballot box. A foreign exchange states that it has two locks, each opening with a different key, and an apparatus which clips a stub or corner from the ticket deposited by the elector, and drops a stub into one part of the box, the ticket going into the other division. Simultaneously the machine registers on a tablet before the voter the number of tickets clipped. The ballots must agree in number with the stubs, and both with the "telltale," and the voter sees for himself that his ballot has been cast and taken account of.

SCIENTISTS and chemists who have given their attention to the subject are universally of the opinion that the ordinary fruit acids, such as those contained in apples, tomatoes, rhubarb, lemons, etc., act upon tin, in proportion to the intensity of the acid, and are further of the opinion that all such fruits preserved in tin cans and vessels are poisoned to a greater or less degree by the action of the acid in corroding the tin. In view of this fact the inventor of a substitute for tin cans would doubtless make a fortune in a very short time.

PROF. KING, the Philadelphia æronaut, contemplates a baloon voyage across the Atlantic at an early date. He believes the surface currents of air set steadily and continuously eastward, and as an experiment preparatory to his eastern voyage he intends in a few days to make a trip from inland to the Atlantic seaboard.

AN Atlanta paper reports the recent finding, in Rabun county, Georgia, of an amethyst bearing a drop of water or liquid in a cavity near the center of the stone. This is the first case of the kind on record, although crystals of quartz and other minera's have found containing liquid substances.

MISCELLANEOUS.

College of Notre Dame

SAN JOSE, CALIFORNIA.

THIS INSTITUTION, OFFERING PECULIAR advantages to young ladies wishing to receive a solid and refined education, was founded in 1851. In 1855 it was incorporated by the State Legislature, and subsequently the same body so extended the original charter as to confer all the rights and privileges of Collegiate Institutions.

It occupies large buildings, with extensive playgrounds; and possesses everything to make science familiar and attractive. The course of instruction is thorough, in all the Departments. Every facility will be afforded to students who may find it desirable to to devote their whole attention to music or the study of the languages.

The scholastic year begins on the first Monday in August and closes about the first week in June. Pupils are received at any period of the year.

FISH BROS. & CO.
RACINE, WIS.

WE MAKE EVERY VARIETY OF

FARM, FREIGHT AND SPRING WAGONS,

And by confining ourselves strictly to one class of work; by employing none but the

BEST OF WORKMEN,

Using nothing but

FIRST-CLASS IMPROVED MACHINERY AND THE VERY BEST OF SELECTED TIMBER,

And by a THOROUGH KNOWLEDGE of the business we have justly earned the reputation of making

THE BEST WAGON ON WHEELS.

Manufacturers have abolished the warranty, but Agents may, on their own responsibility, give the following warranty with each wagon, if so agreed:

"We hereby warrant the FISH BROS WAGON No ... to be well made in every particular and of good material, and that the strength of the same is sufficient for all work with fair usage. Should any breakage occur within one year from this date by reason of defective material or workmanship, repairs for the same will be furnished at place of sale, free of charge, or the price of said repairs, as per agent's price list, will be paid in cash by the purchaser producing a sample of the broken or defective parts as evidence.

Knowing we can suit you, we solicit patronage from every section of the United States. Send for Prices and Terms, and for a copy of THE RACINE AGRICULTURIST, to

EXTRACTED HONEY.

THIS HONEY WAS REMOVED FROM THE comb by centrifugal force, with a machine made for the purpose. It is therefore virtually the same as honey in the comb, only you don't have to eat the bees wax, which is indigestible and therefore disagrees with many persons. When first extracted the honey is liquid, but nearly all pure honey will candy or granulate in course of time, especially if exposed to the cold. Putting the cans in hot water for a short time will bring the honey to its fluid state without injury.

This Honey is put up in 10 pound cans, with patented screw tops, which renders it convenient for family use, and especially for the mines, to which it may be packed, even upside down, without leakage. A neat label on each can gives full directions.

Price, $1 50 per can, or 12½ cents per lb at the Apiary, if customers furnish their own receptacle. For sale at Harris & Rhine's, Independence, and at the Apiary, at Jacob Vagt's place, Camp Independence.

APPLICATION FOR A PATENT

....TO THE....

SUMMIT NO. 2 MINE.

No. 192.

UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE, Bodie, Cal., June 6, 1881.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT A. R. Conklin, W. H. Jenkins and James Jenkins, whose postoffice address is Independence, Inyo county, California, have this day filed their application for a patent for fifteen hundred linear feet of the SUMMIT NO. 2 mine or vein bearing silver, with surface ground six hundred feet in width, situated in Cerro Gordo mining district, County of Inyo, State of California, and designated by the field notes and official plat on file in this office as Lot No. 40, in Township ——, Range ——of —— —— Meridian.

SURVEY OF LODE.

Said Lot No. 40 being described as follows, to wit: Commenced at a post on S. E. end of claim on lode line, marked the post "Post A, Summit Mine No 2," from which, with a variation 15 deg 55 min. E. a pine bush 3 lks high, bears N. 88¼ deg. E. 43 lks; a pine bush 3 links high bears S. 45¾ deg. W. 31 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min E., N 40 deg. W. 10 earth ridge bears W. .50 wagon road runs SW; commenced ascending 14.88 trail on ridge runs W.; commenced descending 18.39, trail runs W. 20.17 tunnel 9 ft long on quartz vein. 22.72 "Post B, Summit Mine No. 2," on NW. end of lode, from which the Belshaw wagon road bears N. 45 deg. W. 45 links.

SURVEY OF CONNECTING LINE.

From "Post 7, Summit Mine No. 2" the Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument bears N. 54 deg. E. 50 links by direct chain measurement.

SURVEY OF EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.

Commenced at a post set in mound of earth on S. cor. of claim; marked the post "Post 1, Summit Mine No. 2" from which, with a var. 15 deg 55 min. E., a pine tree 12 links high bears N. 39 deg. W. 49 links; a pine tree 3 links high bears N. 18¾ deg. E. 31 links; a pine bush 2 links high bears N. 84¼ deg. E. 36 links; a pine bush 2 links high bears S. 19 deg. 15 min. W. 17 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg 55 min. E., (1) N. 40 deg. W. 2.54 brow of hill; commence descending; 10.36 gulch; runs W. 12.21 wagon road; 13.64 "Post 2, Summit Mine No. 2," set in a mound of earth on S. boundary line of the Armagh mine, from which "Post 1, Armagh Mine," bears N. 79 deg. E. 2.49 chains; 19.65 "Post 3, Summit Mine No. 2," set in mound of earth on south B. L. of the Santa Niño mine; 20.31 trail runs E-W, commence descending; 21.21 wagon road runs N.-S.; 22.72 "Post 4, Summit Mine No. 2," set in mound of earth on W. cor. of claim, from which the entrance to the open cut leading into the Santa Niño tunnel bears S. 28½ deg. W. 45 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E., (2) N. 50 deg. E. .74 intersection of the north B. L. of the Santa Niño mine; set a post in mound of earth in the bottom of an old prospecting cut; cut bears NW. & SE.; marked the post "Post 5, Summit Mine No. 2," from which "Post 18, Santa Niño Mine," bears S. 80 deg. W. 2.85 chains; 1.89 wagon road runs N. & S. 4.54 "Post B, Summit Mine No. 2," on northwest end of line of lode; 7.88 "Post 2, Summit Mine No. 2," standing in mound of earth at intersection of north boundary line of the Armagh mine, from which "Post 1, Armagh Mine," bears S. 11 deg. E. 11.76 chains; 9.09 "Post 7, Summit Mine No. 2," standing on N. cor. of claim, from which the Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument bears 54 deg. E. 50 links.

Description of Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument as described in the field notes of survey of the Armagh mine: The Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument is built on the apex of a red rocky point at the intersection of Ygnacio Ravine and Cerro Gordo cañon, and very precisely on the W. B. line of the Ygnacio mine (as surveyed for a patent in the year 1875 by Jas. Seely, U. S. Dep. Min. Sur.), and distant 17.51 chains from the southwest corner stake of the Ygnacio mine.

At the point above given I drilled a hole in the rock to a depth of 9 inches, in which drove a piece of gas pipe 1 inch in dia x16 inches long. On top of gas pipe, set a post 4x4 inches square, x4 feet long, around which built a monument of rocks 5 feet high x5 feet in dia at its base; marked the top of post "U. S. Min'l Monument Erected Jan'y 3d, A. D. 1880, by Wm. Crapo, U. S. Dep. Min. Sur., under authority of the U. S. Sur. Gen'l for Cal'a."

From said post in mineral monument, with a variation of 15 deg 55 min. E the extreme end of the bluff on which the monument is situated, bears N. 25 deg. W. 17 links. The east edge of ridge at the top of a vertical face of rock, 7½ feet high, bears N. 60 deg. E. 7 links. The NE. cor. of an old adobe vaso chimney bears S. 38 deg. 16 min. W. 16 links. The middle of the Belshaw toll road at a point where it turns out of Cerro Gordo Cañon bears N. 81¾ deg. W. 1.06 chains. The middle of Cerro Gordo Cañon bears N. 62 chains. The NW. cor. of Rafael Diaz's house bears S. 28 deg. 33 min. E. 1.58 chains. An old well 30 feet deep on the north side of Cerro Gordo Cañon bears N. 58 deg. 20 min. W. 1.93 chs. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E. (3) S. 40 deg. E. .93 W. boundary of Ygnacio mine. Set a post in mound of rocks and earth; marked post "Post 8, Summit Mine No. 2," from which the Armagh U. S. mineral monument bears N. 11 deg. W. 1.03 chains. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 E. commence descending. (4) S. 11 deg. E. 3.36 intersection of N. B. line of the Santa Niño mine at "Post 20, Santa Niño Mine;" marked the post "Post 9, Summit Mine No. 2." Post stands in mound of earth on top edge of Ygnacio dump. 3.66 W. edge of open cut at entrance to Ygnacio tunnel. 6.39 post marked "Post 10, Santa Niño Mine" on south boundary line of Santa Niño mine; marked the post "Post 10, Summit Mine No. 2;" 8.15 trail on ridge; runs E. & W. 16.49 "Post No. 2, Ygnatio Mine," on southwest corner of Ynacio mine marked the post "Post 11, Summit Mine No. 2," from which the entrance to the Summit tunnel at a point where the tunnel first enters ore, bears N. 33¾ deg. W. 98 links. Course of Summit tunnel for first 185 feet from mouth or entrance N. 59 deg. 6 min. E. The middle of wagon road in bottom of gulch bears S. 50 deg. W. 9 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E. commence ascending. (5) N. 79 deg. E. 1.51, post marked "Post No. 7, Y M.," standing on SE. cor. Ygnacio mine; marked the post "Post 12, Summit Mine No. 2," from which a pine tree 9 inches dia. x14 feet high bears S. 20 deg. E. 1.40 chains. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E. (6) N. 11 deg. W. 7.57 summit of ridge bears W. commence descending. 8.33 old dump at entrance to a tunnel runs E. 10.08 "Post 21, Santa Niño Mine" on south boundary line of Santa Niño mine; marked the post "Post 13, Summit Mine No. 2." 12.12 east edge of Ygnacio open cut. 13.11 "Post 22, Santa Niño Mine," on north boundary line of Santa Niño mine; marked the post "Post 14, Summit Mine No. 2." 13.75 set a post on east boundary line of Ygnacio mine; marked the post "Post 15, Summit Mine No. 2" from which the entrance to the "Hubbard tunnel" bears N. 20 deg. W. 25 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E commence ascending. (7) S. 40 deg. E. .76 intersection of north boundary line of Santa Niño mine. Set a post on slope of Ygnacio dump; marked the post "Post 16, Summit Mine No. 2." 3.13 intersection of the east boundary line of the Santa Niño mine, and the west boundary line of the Occident mine. Set a post in a mound of earth and marked the post "Post 17, Summit Mine No. 2," from which the southwest corner of the Occident mine bears S. 11 deg. E. 11.02 chains. 6.75 old prospecting cut on east side of summit of "Ygnacio Hill;" cut bears E. & W. 8.30 prospecting cut bears W.; commence descending. 9.14 west edge of old shaft. 11.40 course of wagon road runs south. 12.50 "Post 18, Summit Mine No. 2" standing on east boundary line of the Occident mine, from which "Post 5, Occident Mine," bears S. 11 deg. E. 2.83 chains. 15.72 gulch; runs south. 18.66 "Post 19, Summit Mine No. 2," standing in mound of earth on east corner of claim, from which a pine bush 3 links high bears S. 68 deg. E. 3 poles. Thence, with a var. of 15 deg. 55 min. E. (8) S. 50 deg. W. 4.54 "Post A, Summit Mine No. 2" on southeast end of lode line. 5.00 gulch; runs west 9.09 "Post 1, Summit Mine No. 2," place of beginning.

Some Advice.

THE following points for the guidot our rising young men, and he who faltereth in the pathway of life, are from the gifted pen and fertile brain of "Billy Nye," of Nevada. To a tenderfoot and him who seeketh for a soft thing in the turmoil of this life's weary struggle, they should be as leaven, and words of cheer.—Ed.

Young man, what are you living for? Have you an object dear to you as life, and without the attainment of which you feel that your life will have been a wide, shoreless waste of shadow peopled by the spectres of dead ambitions? Is it your consuming ambition to paddle quietly but firmly up the stream of time with manly strokes against the current of public opinion, or to linger along the seductive banks, going in swimming, or, careless of the future, gathering shells and tadpoles along the shore? Have you a distinct idea of a certain position in life which you wish to attain? Have you decided whether you will be a great man and die in the poor-house, and have a nice, comfortable monument after you are dead for your destitute family to look at, or will you content yourself to plug along through life as a bank president? These, young men, are a question of moment. They are questions of two moments. They come home to our hearts to-day with terrible earnestness. You can take your choice in the great battle of life, whether you bristle up and win a deathless name and owe almost everybody, or be satisfied with scabs and mediocity. Why do you linger and fritter away the heyday of life when you might skirmish around and win some laurels? Many of those who now stand at the head of the nation as statesmen and logicians were once unknown, unhonored and unsung. Now they saw the air in the halls of Congress, and their names are plastered on the temples of fame. They were not born great. Some of them only weighed six pounds to start with. But they have rustled. They have peeled their coats and made Rome howl. You can do the same. You can win soms laurels too if you will brace up and secure them when they are ripe. Daniel Webster, President Garfield and Dr. Tanner and George Elliott were all, at one time, poor boys. They had to start at the foot of the ladder and toil upward. They struggled against poverty and public opinion bravely on till they won a name in the annals of history, and secure to their loved ones palatial homes, with lightning rods and mortgages on them. So may you, if you make the effort. All these things are within your erach. Live temperately at $6 per month. That's the way we got our start. Burn the midnight oil if necessary. Get some noble-minded young lady, of your acquaintance, to assist you. Tell her of your trouble and she will tell you what to do. She will gladly advise you. Then you can marry her, and then she will advise you some more. After that she will lay aside her work at any time to advise you. You needn't be out of advice at all unless you want to. She, too, will tell you when you made a mistake. She will come to you frankly and acknowledge that you have made a jackass of yourself. As she gets more acquainted with you, she will be more candid with you, and in her unstudied, girlish way, she will point out your errors, and gradually convince you with an old chair leg and other arguments, that you were wrong, and, after she has choked you for a while, your past life will come up before you like a panorama, and you will tell her so, and she will let you up again. Life is indeed a mighty struggle. It is business. We can't be all editors, and lounge around all the time, and wear good clothes, and have our name in the papers, and draw a princely salary. Some must do the work and drudgery of life, or it won't be done.

THE Postoffice Department is in such a bad way that it can only be thoroughly cleansed by turning the Niagara into it.

Mining and Prospecting.

There is a vast difference between mining and prospecting. A good prospector is rarely a good miner, and a first class miner, one who understands all the details of his business, is seldom if ever successful in finding a good mine. The former, without capital or assistance, plunges into the mountains and there in the solitude of the wilderness, often exposed to deadly and unexpected dangers, patiently and diligently seeks for such evidence of mineral wealth as nature in her great subterranean labaratory may have drawn to the surface. If he discovers, the miner developes. He originates nothing; he seeks for gold and silver, which, like truth, is always good whenever and by whatever means discovered. But mining is an art—we often think by the ignorance displayed—a lost art. It cannot be acquired in a month or a year, for as the astronomer and scientist watches the heavens, and by the direction and velocity of the wind, the hues and forms of the clouds, tell when and where the cloud will burst, and the sunshine smile; so the experienced miner delves in the depths of the earth, studies the color, the formation, the texture of the stone which surrounds him, and from the "testimony of the rocks" follows their silent direction to unseen bonanzas. In every country the matters of precisive metal-bearing ores differs. The same rule will almost universally apply to different districts, and when this is considered, one may easily imagine the great experience required to estimate with any degree of correctness the probable richness or extent of ore bodies. The pathway over which he must pass to reach his highest success is as yet probematical and full of uncertainty. It is a study of a lifetime, in which the application is hard, unremitting physical labor, in which no man of ordinary mental faculties will ever rise preeminent. Our ablest mining men were never prospectors, and yet to the brave and hardy pioneer we owe the great discovery that has made the Pacific Coast the mineral treasure house of the world, and to his energy, his courage and perseverance we may "all hail."—Exchange.

Appearances are Deceitiul.

A San Francisco gentleman while in New York recently visited the famous variety theater run by the notorious Harry Hill. He was taking in the sights, and he wanted to see them all. He took a private box, and when one of the beautiful and refined young ladies who supply the guests of the house with liquid refreshments waited upon him and asked him what he would have to drink, he told her he was not a drinking man but a stranger in the city seeing the sights. He had heard that all kinds of people came to Harry Hill's, and if she would sit down with him in the box and point out the prominent men in the audience, he would pay her three dollars an hour for her services. The maiden consented and the bargain was made.

In a few moments a party of men in velvet sack-coats, high-heeled boots and slouch hats entered. "Who are they?" he asked.

"They belong to the Bleeker street gang," was the reply, "and there is not one of them that wouldn't cut a man's throat for five dollars."

Next passed in a party with Ulster overcoats and Derby hats. "Who are those gentlemen?" inquired the man fiom the Pacific side of the continent.

"They are Green street panel thieves," said the girl.

In a few moments there entered a party of San Francisco gentlemen, each one of them being well known here, and having been prominently identified with the stock market in this city and with the mining industry on the Coast. The man in the box knew them as well as if he had packed the mud to make them; but he thought he would see how the girl had them put up. "Who are those duffers?" he asked.

"I don't exactly twig them," returned the girl, "but they look like Philadelphia sneak-thieves."

If the names were given it might result in the mobbing of the office of the Daily Report.—S. F. Daily Report.

Mine Appellations.

It is a puzzle to us, and no doubt to our contemporaries, says the New York Stock Report, why new names cannot be invented to designate the new mines which are springing up like mushrooms throughout the land. Are the old names so unsurpassable? or is the catalogue of names exhausted? or do our Western friends labor under unfertility of invention?

It seems to us that the last mentioned query suggests the proper solution of this problem. How, otherwise, to account for the constant repetition of, for example, the names of mines in the Comstock region of Nevada? To mention but a few instances, it will suffice to recall the fact that Colorado has but newly christened four of her mines in imitation of those of her sister State. These are California, Comstock, Consolidated Virginia and Ophir.

Give us, for variety's sake, something new: "Let the dead past bury its dead." The custom criticised is ridiculous in the extreme, and it is high time that our mine promoters ransack their craniums for something more original; if they are unable to cope with the problem, let them hire a few "experts" for inventing new names.

The Comstock mines are fast becoming known as mere assessment levying schemes, and there is an aspect of cruelty in the constant reminder of money thrown away, which many of these names afford. Stockholders in new companies are entitled to be spared, at least, this humiliation.

SIXTY MILLIONS IN BULLION.

There are $60,000,000 worth of gold in the New York assay office, for lack of appropriation to send it to the Philadelphia mint. This bullion is in bars or bricks and weighs about ninety-nine tons. A man who should own it would be able to wall himself up in it as a well, and the wall would not be so wide but that he could stand in the middle and touch every brick. The number of gentlemen in this country who can perform this interesting experiment with their own gold is very small. The bricks in the assay office average about $4,000 apiece in value. The most of them are not much to look at. They are as black and dull in color as a cheap quality of stovepipe. If you scratch one with a knife you make a bright yellow mark, and this mark will not get black again. These black bricks are composed of melted foreign coins, containing about the right amount of alloy for American coinage, and so the alloy is allowed to remain in them. When the melted gold is poured into the moulds the oxygen of the air attacks the copper of the alloy and turns it black. If it were worth while to protect the bricks from the air till they go cold they would never get any darker in color than a coin would. Two-thirds of all these bricks are made of French 20 franc pieces. Those bricks made of gold directly from the mines are very nearly pure metal, and are as bright as coins. The drainage from all the gold, if it were put at interest at 5 per cent., would make a golden stream of $342 per hour, running day and night. Though the quantity on hand is perfectly known to the superintendent, he has to have it all weighed in order to make out his first of July account. About $100,000 goes on to the scale at once. The men at work on this job work like longshoremen unloading pig iron. A heavy platform truck, on four small wheels, was rolled into the room, and on this about twenty-five bars, or bricks, taken from the gold built up walls on three sides of the room, were laid. The truck was then drawn along the floor by four men, two pulling and two pushing, into the adjoining room, where the scales were. The scales are about five feet high, and the index finger is over four feet long. The beam and the pans are suspended on steel edges as sharp as knife blades, to avoid friction. When the small weights had been added to the large ones to balance the gold, the point of the long index finger would tremble over the middle line of the ivory graduated scale. This pair of scales is of a kind so delicate that when brought to a balance with two pieces of paper of equal size in the pans the mere writing of a name with a lead pencil on one of the pieces of paper turns the scales in its favor. This has actually been done on one of the scales in the assay room, but that pair is protected from air currents by a glass case.

A Very Big Thing.

IN view of the imperative demand of speculators for some new security to dabble in, and in order to try and keep pace with the more progressive East, a number of capitalists, including the wealthiest men on the Pacific Coast, have purchased the exclusive right for a rapid transit invention which will immediately do away with all the ferry lines on the Bay and bring Oakland and San Francisco within five minutes of each other. The invention consists of a series of stout wires connecting Oakland with this city from which depend trains of cars on rollers. These rollers will pass along the wires with little or no friction. The city depot for this air line will be California street Hill, and from this point will radiate distributing wire lines. These subordinate lines will be connected with all the prominent streets, so that a man can ride right to his place of business. Oakland will also have subordinate lines, one of them leading to Piedmont. In addition to furnishing facilities for the transportation of trains, these wires will afford a means of cheap telephonic communication, the sole right to a new and ingenious transmittor, called "The Boss," having been purchased by the associated capitalists at a cost of $9,731,000. The corporation formed to operate this great air line has taken the name of the Associated Blowers. The capital to be embarked in the enterprise will amount to $25,000,000, of which $23,271 09 has already been subscribed. The stock will be put on the Board as soon as the certificates can be got out by the American Bank Note Company and everybody will have an opportunity to buy.—Stock Report.

A TURBULENT CITY.—The Carson Appeal says Virginia City is now about the worst city in the West. The Comstock papers contain little else than accounts of robberies, cutting affrays, murders and promiscuous assaults to kill. Not long ago there was a $5,000 robbery. A few nights since two scoundrels broke into a man's house and tried to kill him by beating him on the head with rocks. On Sunday there was a robbery at Alexander's milk ranch. Yesterday Frank Kelly, a bell boy of the International Hotel, was stabbed. The police are busy night and day trying to look after thieves, footpads and ruffians.

BLUFF OR NO BLUFF.—Some of the Western papers seem to think that Jay Gould's proposed through line is merely a bluff. If it is a bluff it is a pretty big one. He has sent out surveyors out pretty much the whole length. It is the general impression in this State and Utah that he means business. Possibly the Central Pacific may be able to stop him with a liberal compromise; however, it is pretty certain that he will make for tide water on his own account.—Eureka Sentinel.

Parable of the Wedding Garment.

[REVISED.]

The kingdom of heaven is like a certain railroad king who made a marriage for his son.

And sent forth his servants to call them that were bidden to the wedding, and they would not come.

Again he sent forth other servants, saying, tell them which are bidden: behold, I have killed the old hen and prepared the wedding dinner, and opened a keg of nails, and all things are ready for the blowout.

But they made light of it, and went their ways, one to his farm, another to his drug store, and another to his grist mill, and the remainder took the servants and entreated them spitefully and put a tin ear on them and frescoed them with Michael Angelo eggs.

But when the railroad king heard of it he bounced the entire outfit and shut off on their passes and raised their freight tariff and busted them up in their business, and smote them sore on their gable end of their intellects and made it red hot for them.

Then said he unto his servants, the wedding is ready, but they which were bidden were not worthy.

Go ye therefore down to the sidetracks and into the round-house and the water-tank and the cabooses and the gravel trains, and gather together all ye shall find and tell them to come over to the wedding feast and fill themselves up.

And the servants went forth and rounded up as many as they could find, both good and bad, and bade them to the feast.

And when the King went into the reception room he found there a man who had not on a spike-tail coat and low-neck shoes and clocked socks.

And he said unto him, "Pardner, how cometh it that thou art here without any store clothes on and wearing instead a linen duster and jim-crow raiment, generally?"

And the man was speechless at first, but he answered yet again:

"O, railroad king! live for ever. I know that I am here without a wedding garment, but behold, I am a conductor on thy line, and I have reformed and have ceased to "knock down," and, behold, thy servant is poor, for he is trying to live on his salary."

And the king was very wroth, and he told the usher to gather him in and to take him by the slack of his raiment and cast him over the outer wall, and there was weeping and gnashing of teeth.

And while the wedding guests made merry and whooped it up, the man who was cast out did steal around to the back door and become solid with the cook, and filled himself up with the wedding feast on the sly.

And it came to pass, that when he had eaten of the fatted calf and the wedding cake and absorbed all the champagne that he could carry away, he crawled into the hay-mow and slept till the cock crew.

And when the morning was come he journeyed over the railroad track toward Salt Lake; for, behold, he was a tramp.

THE horn of a rhinoceros, when cut through the middle, is said to exhibit on each side the rude figure of a man, the outlines being marked by small white strokes.

THREE comets are now walking the night and hanging around our legitimate pathway. Encke's comet is the latest arrival. It will appear and be visible by telescope at about half-past 2 o'clock in the morning. It is a little north of the Pleiades. It becomes visible to the naked eye sometimes, and will, probably, about the middle of October next. This little comet will travel north very fast, reaching its most northerly point on the 26th of September. Its perihelion passage will be about November 15, and it will be nearest to the earth about October 11. Comet "C" is becoming brighter every morning, and the astronomers think it would be visible to the naked eye now if it was not so near the horizon. The old comet "B" is fast traveling north. It is still an interesting object in the evening sky. Encke's comet is regarded with interest by astronomers on account of its gradually shortening periods, which is considered as proof of Encke's theory that there is a resisting medium in space. Its period is about three and a half years.

THE United States Attorney-General has just made a decision of much importance to those who intend to make their homes on the public domain. It is this in brief: That the President may establish a military reservation on the public lands whenever and wherever he shall elect, regardless of the claim of any pre-emption settler on such land, up to the time that such pre-emption settler shall have made his last payment and proved up his right to the fee in the land. But as to homestead settlers the case is different. From the instant that a homestead entry is made the land settled on is segregated from the public domain, and the right of the settler to remain and complete his title cannot be disturbed. This is in conformance with many United States Court decisions. It gives so great an advantage to the homesteading over pre-empting as to make the latter practically an obsolete law.

OUR New York mining exchanges speak very encouragingly of the demand for metals in the East, particularly for iron, copper, lead and zinc. For months past dullness has characterized the market, and all metals were either not sought after or moved off sluggishly, dealers and consumers only purchasing to meet current wants. There is a change, and while prices are not high, the movement is such as to give encouragement to mining and smelting men. Active consumption leads to better prices, and the time is not distant when we may look for a healthy advance. There is a building boom all over our broad land, and the metals are being used more generally than ever in the construction of houses. It is lead for paint, pipe and roofs; iron for nails, pillars, posts, locks, etc; copper for finishing and ornamental work.

P. W. CROWE, of Peoria, who is now in Chicago, states that the infernal machines about which so much has been said cost just $70 for the entire lot, and that the scheme of sending them to England was a put up job by which a number of United Irishmen secured a reward of $10,000, having notified the British Consul in New York of the shipment. The $10,000 obtained from the British Government has gone into the Irish fund to be used against Great Britain. Vernon Harcourt, Home Secretary, is said to have acknowledged this statement of Crowe to be a fact.

THE President suffered another relapse last Saturday and was quite feeble on the following Sunday. He had high fever, followed by unusual prostration. It was found necessary to make another incision to facilitate the escape of accumulated pus. Altogether the President's case seems to be a stubborn one for the surgeons to deal with, and the people cannot well escape the conclusion that he is not improving as rapidly as could be expected.

IN Redwood City, on the 10th inst., Clarence Grey was sentenced to the State Prison for twenty years for the murder of Glancey, the editor. Grey was either guilty of outright murder or nothing, and should have been strung up or turned loose. Were he judiciously hanged there would be no danger of some future Executive turning him out to give him a chance to shoot somebody else.

COL. JOHN C. BURCH was the seventh Secretary of the United States Senate, an office which has been held by fewer incumbents than any other under the Government. He was elected to succeed Gorham, March 24, 1877. He is the second Secretary of the Senate who has died while an incumbent of the office.

HOW LOS ANGELES IS AFFECTED.

Through parties recently up from Los Angeles, we learn that there is a sort of a religious epidemic raging in that region. The distemper, for such it seems to be, develops about the same symptoms in a number of different denominations, but more extensively and violently, as it were, among the Adventists and Methodists than any others. In fact, it is a matter of rivalry between these two as to which has it the worst and in the most contagious form. How it affects some individuals, and through them, some of the material interests of the community, may be seen from the following:

Los Angeles has a woolen mill, but this woolen mill is not proving to be much of a bonanza just now to anybody, all on account of religious fervor among its principal officers. The President is a devout Christian or Campbellite, and therefore won't permit the mill to be run on Sundays. The Superintendent's trouble is of the Adventist type, very pronounced, so he won't think of allowing the mill to be run on Saturdays. Thus deadlocked, the best that could be done was to run the mill but the remaining five days of the week. After trying this for a time it was found that the mill could not keep up with its orders, nor could the numerous operatives afford to lie idle one day in every six of their usual working days. Then those deeply religious old souls, the President and Superintendent, who, somehow, seem to think they have souls of their own that are worth saving, compromised with operatives by simply requiring them to do six days' work in five—that is, increasing the hours of labor to sixteen each day, with Saturdays and Sundays both for rest and recreation. Some folks, though, are never satisfied. So with those operatives. They are mostly boys and girls, and they find sixteen hours steady work each day a little more than they can stand, and are compelled to throw up their situations. As fast as the children "freeze out" in that way the two sanctimonious old souls get Chinamen and put in their places. As soon as they get a full crew of Chinamen in the mill it is altogether likely the two zealous old souls will give their religions a chance to evaporate quite as rapidly as the excitement generally cools down, and ere long, will run their mill every day and Sunday, too.

MISS MILLIE BURKE of Omaha has challenged Miss Minnie Pinneo, the daring equestrienne of Colorado, to ride a 20 mile race for a purse of from $500 to $2,500, and Miss Ella Cook of California has challerged Miss Lizzie Williams to ride ten miles for $2,000 a side. The latter challenge has been accepted. Both races to take place in September at the Kansas City Exposition. The young ladies, it is said, are in earnest, and propose to astonish the world in fast riding. In the latter race neither lady is to touch the ground, but jump from one horse to another.

MISS DIXON, the young lady who was recently suspended from the State Normal School for infringement of some of the rules of the institution, has brought suit against Prof. Charles H. Allen, Principal of the State Normal School, for libel and damages. The Board of Trustees refuse to sustain Mr. Allen, urging that he wrote the alleged libelous letter on his own responsibility.

THE semi-annual report of the production of precious metals for the six months ending June 30th, prepared by John J. Valentine, of Wells, Fargo & Co.'s express, is as follows: Gold $9,418,378; silver, $2,982,640. This rate continued during the balance of the year would give the largest production since 1874.

VENNER says we may expect a great change in the weather about the time the new comet is in perihelion the 28th of the present month. During the week from the 15th to the 20th, instead of being burned up as many expect, we shall be nearly frozen by frosts and strong cold northerly winds.

AT 6:40 on the evening of August 9, at New York, William Gale, the great English pedestrian, finished the great feat of covering 6,000 quarter miles in 6,000 consecutive ten minutes, and continued on the track until he had added fourteen additional quarters to his wonderful record.

JAY GOULD'S fortune is put in a careful review of his enterprises by the New York Weeklp at $75,000,000. It will be seen by this that Jay Gould has made hay while the sun shines, and will have enough to keep a wolf or two from the door.

THE President is standing up nobly under the multifarious operations of the doctors. If he escapes them with his life he may be considered to bear a charmed life.

IT is now being demonstrated that the harvest of 1881 will be as great in the United States as the harvest of 1880. All the country needs is a good market.

SOME interesting remarks as to the recent international Monetary Conference at Paris were made by ex-Senator Howe, one of the Delegates of the United States to the Congress, during an interview which was had with him at Washington. Mr. Howe left Paris before the conference adjourned, having been summoned home by the illness of his wife. Although an earnest advocate of the double standard, Mr. Howe recognizes fully the futility of any attempt of the United States to establish bimetalism in this country, unless the cooperation of England and Germany was assured. He does not think such an attempt would be wise, even if the Government was accompanied by France in the movement. But while the conference was fruitful of no practical results, it can be admitted that, in view of the importance of the subject, its sessions were of value in bringing the question of bi metalism prominently before the public, and exciting in it interest that is desirable if any intelligent solution of the question is eventually to be obtained. Mr. Howe thinks that the main reason why the representatives at the congress of England, who werein favor of the double standard, were not allowed to commit their government to it was because of the pressure of other home questions upon the English ministers, who think that the coinage question can best be postponed until domestic affairs are more settled. Mr. Howe takes great encouragement from the fact that the discussion of the matter developed in Great Britain's financial and commercial circles a strong sentiment in favor of bi-metalism, and he declares that Germany is not opposed to silver, but is only awaiting some concurrent action on the part of Great Britain.

PRESIDENT GIBSON, before a recent bankers' convention in New York, speaking of the varied moneyed interests of this country, informed his hearers that no other legitimate industry could show such large and well-sustained profits as mining during the past thirty years, in spite of the fact that mining, as a science, had not been much more than experimental. The statement will bear the test of critical inquiry. It is not an idle boast delivered by a nonenity to clap-trap an audience with a speculative scare, but it is the prudent thoughtful utterance of a prominent and well known banker of New York, based on carefully selected and thoroughly reliable statistics. True, there have been many ventures foisted upon the people that were comparatively worthless; but in the main mining industries have been productive of enormous realizations for the money invested.

THE monomania for canal digging is spreading among the engineers of the world. The United States have several large canals within their borders, and Canada has the Welland, connecting Erie and Ontario around Niagara. These however have never excited more than a local interest, but just now the idea is becoming epidemic. The Suez canal is a verity. The American Isthmus canal is under way. There comes from Greece a project to dig across the Isthmus of Corinth. Russia proposes to unite the waters of the Black and Caspian seas. And now comes still another project that proposes to unite the North Sea, or German Ocean, with the Baltic. In the last great wars of the world armies learned to fight each other with the spade, and now commerce is to be helped along by the same mighty weapon.

WE reprint elsewhere an article from the Los Angeles Express, relative to the proposed State division. Col. Ayers, the able writer thereof, was a member of the Constitutional Convention and candidate for Congress of the W. P. C., and as a leader of the movement his suggestions are entitled to consideration. The article is given for its general interest, not that we consider this county in any mood to forward the movement. It grew out of the debris question, and this with Mono being mainly mining counties, will hardly take much political stock in it. Though geographically we would probably not be placed in the new State, our natural routes of communication lead to Southern California, and this fact increases interest.

WHEN Texas was annexed to the United States she retained the right to all the public lands within her domain. By her Constitution the proceeds of the sales of public lands must go exclusively for school purposes. She has already $2,000,000 in the State Treasury, and there are yet forty million acres unsold. Her school fund before long will be enormous, and the interest of which should enable Texas to establish a school system unsurpassed by any State in the Union.

THE Bodie Free Press takes notice of the fact that Eastern capitalists are investing heavily in the mines of Tioga district, a region perched on the summit of the Sierra, at an elevation of more than ten thousand feet above the sea level.

STATE DIVISION—A SUGGESTION.

[From the Los Angeles Express.]

We referred yesterday to a change of sentiment regarding State division by that portion of the press of the southern counties which formerly opposed the measure. So far as we are now informed the newspapers of San Diego, Santa Barbara, Ventura, San Luis Obispo, San Bernardino and Kern counties, besides those in our own county, have expressed themselves more or less favorably toward the project. Whether these newspapers voice the popular sentiment of their counties or not we do not propose to discuss at this time, but the inference is fair that they do. We hazard the opinion that if the subject of State division were submitted to a popular vote in that portion of the commonwealth which it is proposed to cut off in the formation of a new State, it would be carried by an overwhelming majority, provided, of course, that a sufficient canvass were first made to discuss the pros and cons, and to thoroughly inform that portion of the populace who have not yet arrived at a thorough realization of the proposition. In view of this condition of public sentiment we have a suggestion to make: The Southern California Horticultural Society will hold its next annual Fair in this city, beginning on September 5th proximo, at which time, also, the centennial anniversary of the founding of the pueblo at Los Angeles will be celebrated. The Fairs of the Horticultural Society have hitherto furnished occasion for the assembling here of leading citizens from nearly all of the Southern counties, and we suppose the approaching one will be no exception to the rule. Let a convention to discuss State division be called, to meet in this city during Fair week, to which delegates may be sent from all the counties in interest. Outlying counties may hold caucusses to select delegates, choosing those, if deemed advisable, who expect to come to the Fair. A representative body of the kind suggested, although non-official, would nevertheless carry with it much weight, and a formulated expression of its opinion would have more force in bringing State division to the attention of the people at large than anything else that might be devised. We would be glad to hear from the leading advocates of State division on the subject of a convention. If the idea meets with approval, prompt action should be taken. Of course the convention will not call itself, nor will the abstract idea make it a success. Some energetic work will be necessary. There is already in existence a Committee on State division, appointed at a mass meeting in this city some months ago. Let that Committee take the initiative, issuing a call for the convention and assigning the number of delegates to which each county is entitled, apportioned according to its vote or census enumeration. By starting the movement in a business-like way as suggested we have no doubt that it would command due attention in all the southern counties, and that the result would be the assembling here of a creditable body, representative of the several localities from which its members may be drawn.

One of the results of the former agitation, begun in this city, was the appointment of a committee of the best legal talent of Los Angeles, to consider the steps taken toward State division in 1859 and report as to whether they are still binding. The proceedings of 1859, it will be remembered, consisted of an Act of the Legislature allowing the Southern counties to set up a separate State government provided the measure was first carried by popular vote and the other necessary formalities complied with. The vote was taken and the proposition carried, which fact was duly certified to Congress by the Governor of the State. The excitement incident to the breaking out of the war, however, coupled with the fear that the New State project was a secession measure, prevented any action by Congress, and the matter was allowed to lapse. The legal committee of the investigation recently appointed reported, we believe, that they found the action taken to be regular and binding; and that all now required to perfect the new State Government is to take up the proceedings at the point where they were allowed to lapse twenty-two years ago and prosecute them to a conclusion. With such a solid basis already established it would seem that the State division is already a fact more than half accomplished. But let us have a convention representative of all the counties concerned to talk this matter over, and its decision cannot be denounced as a petty sectional scheme or the work of ex-rebels or spoils hunters. What say you, gentlemen of the Committee?

FIVE convicts made an attempt to escape from the State Prison at Folsom, August 5th. They presented a forged note to the guard at Post 7, and while he was reading it the leader knocked him down. The men then scattered and made a dash for freedom. One of the guards brought down Bob Durkin with a shot in the leg. The other four—George Lupton, James Gordon, John Cooney and George Walker—reached the river. Just as they were plunging in Walker was shot dead by a guard. Lupton and Gordon disappeared, and it is thought they were drowned. The former was armed with a guard's gun. Cooney delivered himself up when he found he could not escape.

BLAINE has given assurance that the persons engaged in shipping infernal machines shall be ferreted out. We trust the prosecution will be as zealous if it is found that the machines were shipped by English emissaries in order to raise a row.

A GENERAL Indian war seems to be imminent in New Mexico. If the Government engages in a conflict with the Apaches of that section it should never close until it has so broken their spirit that they will never again provoke hostilities.

Too Much Irrigation.

The Alta has gathered the following facts relative to this subject:

While irrigation is being loudly demanded from some quarters, there are not wanting those who question its value. The truth seems to be that over irrigation is often the rule, and that it is injurious. Long ago the Los Angeles grape-growers discovered that they need not devote their best irrigated lands to the culture, but that the vines thrived well on unirrigated hill lands that had been regarded as almost valueless. An orchard has been successfully grown on the Fresno plains by irrigating once in the Spring and afterwards keeping the ground well cultivated. The Napa Register speaking of orange culture at a point in that valley sheltered from frost, says that the experiment of thorough cultivation, omitting all irrigation, has proved very successful; in fact, trees that are not watered look better than those which receive the overflow of a spring. Mr. Geo. Kimball, of San Diego, is reported by the News as declaring against as much irrigation as is usually practiced, and in favor of more and better cultivation. He claims to be able to raise trees on high mesa land without irrigation. Mr. Leuven, of old San Bernardino, has also declared against so much water, saying that his trees are affected seriously from it about the roots by gum and root disease, which he attributes to too much water.

Too much irrigation is as bad as entire lack of artificial water. Either extreme, if the best results are sought, should be avoided. The true method of applying water to the soil to secure not only the most of one crop but a succession of perfect crops, is by the sub-irrigating pipes.

THE Mariposa Gazette of the 30th instant says information has been received from Yosemite valley that a very rich silver mine has been discovered in Mono county, near Mount Hoffman, which is about thirty miles to the eastward of Lake Tenoya. The informant states that the silver is contained in pebbles, varying in size from a pea to a hen's egg and larger. The pebbles are red in color on the outside and blue on the inside, and are imbedded in a dry substance, which, when wet, becomes a very compact clay. These pebbles assay $500 to the ton. The extent of the belt as far as discovered is four miles. On the news of the discovery being made known about five hundred people from the surrounding country, but mostly from Tioga District, flocked to the mines and located claims. Besides these, ninety to a hundred people passed through the Yosemite valley for the same place.

THE State University, at Eugene City, Oregon, is $7,000 in debt, and has lately been in great trouble to raise the funds. The Association has threatened to move the institution to some other town. On the 3d Henry Villard telegraphed to Judge M. P. Deady as follows: "I will be glad to donate $7,000 to liquidate the University indebtedness, and you may draw on me for that amount." The kind offer was immediately accepted.

JUDGE MCCRARY laid down the doctrine, in a recent decision, that the federal courts have the right to fix maximum rates for common carriers engaged in interstate commerce. English courts have by common law the right to determine the maximum rates of carriers, or, in other words, to disallow rates which are exhorbitant; but whether State or federal courts have this power in the United States without special legislation is an open question.

THE State Prison investigation is unearthing a vast amount of thieving and rascality on the part of the Prison Directors. Commissioner Mills is proving a veritable hornet. Mr. Owen, of the San Jose Mercury, the author of the investigation, may not believe much in the imposition of moral restraints and the forms of law and society, but he is certainly bent on establishing the proposition that his charge of rotten management was not false.

"CHLORIDE JACK," the desperado who was confined in the San Bernardino County jail on a charge of brutally murdering a man in El Dorado cañon, a few months ago, has been turned loose on account of no action being taken by the authorities of Nevada, under whose jurisdiction the crime was committed.

THE money disseminated for the extraction of precious metal from mother earth and the formulating of them into bars of bright bullion give employment to thousands of industrious men at highly remunerative rates. This is one of the many strong arguments in favor of gold and silver mining.

NOT a single friendly person has called on Guiteau during his five weeks incarceration. He never made a friend in Washington, and he has received no proffer of counsel or aid. Such absolute destitution of friends is unprecedented, even among the lower criminals.

WM. A. STUART, County Clerk of San Francisco, has disappeared, taking with him the trifling amount of about $50,000 that belonged principally to his confiding deputies, who assigned their warrants to him. General McComb has been appointed his successor.

THE Mint investigation at San Francisco, instituted by Congressman Page, is turning up damaging evidence against Superintendent Dodge.

Low Grade Ores Pay.

We have heretofore referred to mines in Sierra and Plumas counties worked by an English company, such mines being the Sierra Buttes, in the former county, and Plumas Eureka mine in the latter county. The report, which we publish in part, appeared in the London (Eng) Mining Journal, and shows very conclusively that a profit can be derived, and dividends paid, from working ores that will net less, by seventy per cent., than the ore now being taken from the Ida Easly Mine, near Calistoga.

During the last half of 1880 the Sierra Buttes mine yielded 24,864 tons at an average cost of $3 56 per ton; the mills crushed the ore at an average cost of 63c. per ton, making the total cost $4 19, as compared with $3 97 in the first half of the year. The yield of free gold was $5 91, and including tailings, $6 84, an increase of about a dollar per ton. The net credit balance was £18,024 13s 1d from which a dividend of 1s per share or £6,136 was declared, leaving a balance of £11,899 13s 10d to be carried forward. The product of the Plumas Eureka mine for the same time was 24,960 tons, and by the Seventy-six mine 12,490 tons, at an average cost of $2 66 per ton. The quantity crushed by the two mills was 38,571 tons, at an average cost of 56c. per ton, making a total cost of $3 22 per ton. It is this economical working of mines that is attended with such success. The average cost of the ore crushed was $6 50 per ton the aggregate amount being $250,481. The profit for the half year was £11,422 5s 9d from which a dividend of 3s per share, or £21,092 15s was declared, leaving a balance of £12,286 12s 3d to be carried forward.—Napa County Calistogian.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 13.....1881

A GOOD OUTLOOK.

VARIOUS INYO MINING DISTRICTS.

Reportorial Observations, Etc.

Probably few mining countries present anything like the difficulty of obtaining current information for newspaper use as does this. Independence is centrally located, yet it requires a days time to visit any of the mines of importance; to run over all the scattered mines of the county and see half would take a year of constant travel. The local reporter of Virginia, Gold Hill, Eureka or Bodie, who can get over his district in a day and visit the offices of a dozen companies in an afternoon may count himself a lucky individual. He is not usually greeted with the query "Why don't you come and see our mine [or district] and write her up? Give us a blow, you know." If he was so accosted the Superintendent would probably invite him to a seat in his buggy, and the work would be easy. In Inyo they don't generally do that way. The mines are from ten to three hundred miles distant, and the enterprising editor is supposed to furnish his own method of locomotion and pay his own expenses. As he has plenty to do at home, and can hardly pay expenses there, it follows that his personal visits to the mines are far between.

GENERAL ACTIVITY.

We are certain that there are at present more properties being worked in the county than at any time for a number of years. There has been during the year a very large aggregate yield of precious metals, the exact figures of which can not and never will be obtained. The individual owners and the companies operating hereabouts are averse to reporting the bullion yield. The immense product of base bullion at Cerro Gordo, Darwin and Lookout can only be approximated, should any future statistician ever attempt to dig up the bottom facts.

In the following it is only proposed to make brief mention of what is going on in the county now, and of the probabilities, so far as our information extends.

AT BISHOP CREEK

The interest of course centers around the great Polita mine. About thirty men are employed, under the general superintendency of George Story. We hear that the force has been decreased in the main 160 foot incline, on account of bad air, and a new perpendicular shaft started about 120 feet northward, for further development and for ventilation purposes through a connecting drift. The company is bringing in water by pipes from the head of Redding's cañon, a distance of about 2½ miles. L. A. Scowden, U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor, has made the surveys of the Polita and the Pajaro mines for patents, covering nearly the same ground, but making the claims nearly 900 feet wide on the west end, about 750 feet in the center and 600 feet wide on the east end—1,500 feet in length. There is a cluster of claims located all about it in every direction, including the Nugget and La Niña, east and west extensions, and many others. La Nina company has filed articles of incorporation. Capital stock, $1,000,000; divided into 100,000 shares. Directors—W. P. Willard, W. H. Lent, H. T. Hammond, Chas. E. Scott, John A. Wright.

The Red Cloud, adjoining La Niña, under bond to Russell & Loose, is working a small force, and at 30 feet in depth has the same ledge of rich gold ore as the more noted mines. In Redding's Cañon several new mines are being opened by Calvin, Giles, Thompson and others, all looking well. The original owners of the Pajaro have discovered another huge body of rich gold ore, said to be on the same mineral belt, and showing equally as good or better than the Polita or Pajaro property. Across the range nearly east from this district lies

DEEP SPRINGS,

Where some twenty men are at work upon different claims, the most prominent being the California (old "Hard Cash"), Elie, Pioneer, Half Dollar, Trade Dollar, Eighty-One and others on the west side of the valley, and the Zulu, Scout, Greenly, Cairo, Lake, Fortuna and others on the east. Messrs. Griswold & Todd, we understand, have purchased a mill and will put it in operation in the valley. Something of a detailed description of these mines will be given soon.

It will be impossible in the scope of this article to refer to all the separate districts in order, so we may mention the balance indiscriminately.

The Chase and Barrie mines, Chrysopolis District, have been sold by Saml. T. Barrie, of Brooklyn, to the Index Gold and Silver Mining Co., a New Jersey incorporation.

Mr. N. Rhine has put on a small force on the Hirsch property, the southern extension of the Brown Monster, taking out ore for shipment.

BEVERIDGE GOLD.

The Taylor 5-stamp mill, running on Keynot ore, cleaned up the proceeds of 180 tons on the 10th instant. There were 1,355¾ ounces, worth $15 18 per ounce, amounting to $20,600. An increased force is to be put on the mill and the battery run day and night. All the parties interested state that the next months yield will not fall short of $35,000. Competent miners, whose judgment can be relied upon, say that the Keynot has ore in sight to run the mill for a solid year without further explorations.

The old Kearsarge is beginning to promise well. With a small force at work, Supt. Grey is steadily opening a ledge of ore assaying from $200 to $1,200 per ton in silver. In the same district, it so rumored, work is to be resumed on the deep Independence tunnel, to tap the rich Rex Montis series at a great depth.

Old Cerro Gordo is certainly on the eve of a business resurrection. A New York Company is working a dozen men on the north hill; Osbiston is reported about to return in connection with the Crapo and Boushey properties, and the Union Con. is collecting an $85,000 assessment for some heavy operations.

Darwin is fast regaining her position as a steady bullion producer. The Defiance furnace started up last Monday on Promontorio and Hercules ore. The New Coso has two men at the Lucky Jim, prospecting and extracting some ore. The mines to the east of Darwin, owned by Jerry Fitzgerald, Wallace and others, are yielding galena running from $300 to $540 per ton. The Gypsy Queen, belonging to Jackson & Gould, has a four foot ledge, opened up by a 60 foot incline, yielding ore assaying from $53 13 to $130 per ton, average samples.

Work is being pushed at the Modock, under Fitzgerald's lease, with favorable developments. At

PANAMINT

A new era has set in. The New York Graphic of July 25th has a large and complete map of the principal cluster of mines, and a full page engraving of the big mill, furnace and surrounding works—a very handsome and correct illustration. In a lengthy descriptive article, the Graphic quotes from the reports of Profs. Stetefeldt, Craven, Sherwood, Weberling and others, giving an elaborate and exhaustive account. As to the enterprise, the Graphic says:

THE cost of mill plant and mines belonging to the Inyo Consolidated Mining and Milling Company, including all expense incident to putting the property on its present dividend paying basis, has been fully $500,000, the present capitalization. The first dividend of 5 cents per share was declared July 12, and dividends at the same rate will be paid for the coming months of August and September. In October there will be sufficient surplus in the Treasury to declare 20 cents per share dividend: and from all information obtained from most reliable sources, it is safe to say that for the next twelve months the company will be able to pay to stockholders dividends equivalent to twenty-five per cent. per annum on the par value of the stock. The capitalization of this company is $500,000—or 100,000 shares at a par value of $5 per share. A good share of the stock is owned by some of our best New York business houses. The business is conducted at present as a private enterprise. We understand that the managers of the company propose to list the stock on the New York Stock Exchanges. The earnings from the mill property alone and independent of any ores taken from the mines of the company have netted $20,000 from April 1 to July 1 of the current year. This company owns all the water rights and mill sites in the district, and all mines and mine owners in the camp have to pay tribute to it. The charges are $40 per ton for reducing ores. From this source and without crushing any ore from the company's mines a dividend of 10 cents per share can be paid monthly for an indefinite period of time.

Numerous less known, but perhaps quite as important developments, are being worked out by private enterprise in various districts all over the county.

The late influx of mining men is bound to finally effect something to the general advantage of the country; in fact, the extent and real merits of Inyo as a mining field is just becoming known.

The strong probability of a railroad through the valley cuts no unimportant figure tn the general outlook.

NEW STORE.—Our popular friend Stoutenborough, of Bishop Creek, generally alluded to as "Johnny" for short, has purchased a large building in Mammoth and will reconstruct the material into a fine new store on or near his present location.

JUST SO.—An ancient friend sends the following observation: "There is a story told of a Jew's opinion, who said to a man who begged him not to pummel the prostrate—'but das is ze time to gouge a man, ven he ish down.' "

NEW.—The new advertisement of L. Wood, which will be noticed elsewhere, is multum in parvo. He keeps on hand the freshest of goods and sells at low rates for the cash.

ANOTHER VICTIM.—From Al. Robinson, who was in from Panamint during the week, we learn something of another loss of life in Panamint valley—one of the distressing occurrences which are reported each summer from Panamint and Death valleys. Some three weeks ago Capt. H. W. Gillespie, from San Francisco, left Darwin on the buckboard to go to Wibbett's mines in the Slate Range, and got off at the mouth of Shepherd's cañon, intending to follow the trail on foot some three miles to the mines. The late rains pretty much obliterated the trail, and it appears that he lost his way altogether, and has not been heard of since. A party from the mine set out in search, and followed his trail into the middle of the valley, where the wandering man turned back, and thereafter all trace of his course was lost. Up to last Saturday the party had been searching for ten days, with no result. We have at present writing no further particulars, except that Capt. Gillespie was employed at the Snow's Cañon works last Winter, and at that time somehow got lost in the mountains and was hunted up. There is some feature or condition unaccountable about this thing of getting lost in Death and Panamint valleys. It is a common thing for those unused to traversing them, yet the experienced relief parties going after lost men have no trouble in hunting day after day for the demented wanderers. One man who had been rescued just in time to save his life states that after succumbing to the heat, thirst, peculiar influence or perhaps hallucination, he remembers leaving the road—became bewildered, and at every few steps before him appeared purling streams of ice-cold water, grass grown and shady, and it is in the frantic efforts to reach and enjoy these delusions of imagination that they denude themselves of all clothing. Fancy and imagination has a vast deal to do with the whole thing, as every one knows that a person will drink ten times as much water out of canteens, in a country where water is scarce, than he will where the article is plenty.

FRUIT.—This office is indebted to some unknown friend up north for a box of most excellent peaches, probably from Goodale, Baker or Mrs. Bell—we don't know, but they were good. Uncle Abe Parker rendered like favors, from his orchard on the old Bennett property. But the largest and most luscious "clingstones" came from Mr. J. L. Wood, one of the most liberal and industrious gardeners in the country.

NEW SALOONS.—W. J. C. Gill opened last Saturday a new saloon and billiard room in the Swearingen building, Bishop Creek.....Messrs. Giles and Wells have the lumber on hand for another new establishment, to be devoted to the spiritual trade.

CATEWAYO, the captured Zulu King, is about to regain a partial liberty. The British Government has purchased two farms, one of 1,650 acres and another of 60 acres, which, when thrown together, will form the limits of his future realm. No strangers will be permitted to enter within the bounds of the King's location except under written orders. Catewayo and his followers will not be permitted to be absent from their residence between sunset and sunrise, but will have liberty to move about during the daytime over the land. They will be supplied with everything necessary for their health and comfort. The estimate for the annual cost of the maintenence of Catewayo and his suite amounts to $5,200, of which by far the greater part is for the custodians and interpreter. Catewayo's household consists of five wives and two attendants.

The New York Sun says: Just why the Chinese government has seen fit to recall its young men, who have been studying in this country, is not yet clear, but that they are to continue their studies in England, France and Germany is denied by Kwong Ki Chin, the Educational Commissioner at Hartford.

The steam saw mill owned by B. F. Way, about twenty miles east of Sonora, was entirely destroyed by fire last week. The mill, dwelling house, seven cabins and from 1,300,000 to 1,500,000 feet of sawed lumber belonging to S. S. Bradford were entirely destroyed. The loss will amount to $25,000, upon which there is no insurance.

Gen. Crook, commander of the Department of the Platte, has already added to his jurisdiction the care and territory of the Utes, Uintahs, White River Uncompahgre Indians, who are peing removed from Colorado to a new reservation in Eastern Utah, near the junction of the White and Grand rivers.

It is announced that the plot for the assassination of the Czar has been discovered and frustrated by the police. A lady of high rank and family was chosen as assassin. Her accomplices have been arrested, but she herself escaped. The Czar and family left Moscow secretly for Novgorod.

Reliable information from Bowie station, Arizona, has it that the mysterious death of five men, a few days ago, was due to poison. It is hinted that it was the result of a conspiracy to secure certain mining interests owned by the victims.

The Ministerial Union of San Francisco has adopted a resolution of thanks to D. O. Mills, for his donation of $75,000 to the State University, for the foundation of a Chair of Mental and Moral Philosophy and Civil Polity.

Governor Crittenden, of Missouri, offers $5,000 for the arrest and conviction of each participant in the robberies or murders at Glendale and Winston, and for the arrest of Frank or Jessie James $5,000 each is offered.

Says the San Diego Union: It is a coincidence worthy of note that the first locomotive and the first steam printing press, ever seen on the Bay of San Diego, were "fired up" on the same day.

The citizens of San Luis Rey, San Diego county, will celebrate the 100th anniversary of San Luis Rey Mission, beginning on the 25th of August and continuing for four days.

RED OAK.—McBride's horse "Red Oak," of Carson valley, is no doubt the fastest half mile racer in the world. His feat on the Carson race course last Saturday, as reported in the Appeal, is the second fastest time on record. Considered from a turf standpoint it is really the best time yet recorded. "Olitipa" made a half mile in Saratoga in 1874 in 47¼. It was a single dash, however, and the horse carried but 97 pounds.

"Red Oak" made the second heat on Saturday in 49½, carrying 130 pounds; the fastest second heat on record. In 1870 "Enchantress" made a third heat in 51 at Reading, Pa., carrying 100 pounds. "Red Oak" made a third heat in 49, carrying 120 pounds. Its owner will back it against any horse in the world in a half mile dash or a half mile and repeat, best two in three. They will also back him to make a half mile in 47 and carry 100 pounds. Like all short distance horses, "Red Oak" fails soon after the half mile and could not hold out another quarter.—Carson Appeal.

The Geology of Gold.

At the recent annual meeting of the San Francisco Microscopical Society, Mr. M. Atwood exhibited, according to the Alta, some beautiful rock sections under the microscope, containing gold. The cabinet specimens, the rock sections and the metallic specimens of rolled gold were shown by Mr. Atwood to represent the geological ages of gold formation. They were very different in color and fineness, from dark yellow to nearly silver white, and from 880 to 960 fine. Gold occurs in rocks of various ages, from the earliest of Azole to the Cretacius or Tertiary periods. The schists that contain the auriferous veins were once sedimentary beds of clay, sand or mud, derived from the wear of pre-existing rocks. Through some process, in which heat was concerned, the latter were metamorphosed in the hard crystaline schists, and at the same time upturned, broken and often opened between layers. Schists with auriferous quartz veins were also made in Paleozoic time; also still later in the Jurrasic period, as in the Sierra Nevadas, and still later in the Creteceous and Tertiary period, as the Coast Mountains of California. Auriferous quartz veins are in no case igneous veins—that is, veins filled by injection of melted matter from below—he asserted.—Daily Transcript.

Quiet Force.

Men who are "born leaders" do not make any unnecessary noise in the world. They have no occasion to exact obedience from subordinates, for no one ever thinks of disobeying them; while those who do not possess the faculty only display their weakness in their efforts to appear important and impressive. The story is told of a man who had a large number of pigs in a pen near his house, and made it his practice tice to go out every morning and "stir them up" with a club, to the great annoyance of the pigs, and the disturbance of the neighbors. When asked his reason for this absurd and useless conduct he answered that hewanted them to know that he was boss. There are too many men in every community whose ideas of executive ability is exactly on a par with this. They bluster and splurge and "stir things up" generally, convinced that such foolish parade of authority will convince those unfortunate enough to be under them that they are boss, whereas the fact is that it serves to convince all that they are fools. And the time comes at length when those who are over them find it out, and they are dropped. The quiet way is the best after all.

A REMARKABLE feat of raiload building will be the line from Portland to Dalles, Or., when it is finished. Much of the roadway must be blasted in the flinty face of lofty precipices, or drilled through no less unyielding rock, and every foot is a struggle with nature. About ten miles below Dalles is a bluff of basaltic rock, rising abruptly out of the Columbia river, along whose side the road is to pass. Men suspended by ropes 150 feet over this wall drill and blast the solid rock, their work being attended with the greatest danger. The largest blast on the line thus far has been at a point ten miles above the cascades, a mass of rock 165 feet high, 170 wide and 70 thick at the base, containing more than 40,000 cubic yards, being removed by the explosion of 10,000 lbs of Judson powder, equal in power to 20,000 of black.

Three tunnels, from 300 to 550 feet long, are now being drilled, steam or compressed air being used in the work. At two points a new and phenomenal difficulty is encountered, the mountain sliding or settling into the river at the rate of about twelve inches a year, and the trouble will not cease with the finishing of the road. In other places the mountain sides are covered with small broken stones, which slip with every movement below, and walls of heavy rock have to be built high up on the cliff to check the descent. Trestle work and bridges will also have to be erected along the line. The maximum grade is 26 feet to the mile, and there is hardly a mile of straight track at a stretch. Notwithstanding these difficulties and the fact that the road was located only a year ago, the Oregon Railroad and Navigation Company expect to have the line of 85 miles finished this year. It will cost $3,600,000, or nearly $42,000 a mile.—Railway Age.

THE Naval Board appointed by Secretary Hunt to investigate the condition of our Navy and make recommendations as to its improvement, has reported in favor of measures to strengthen and give dignity to that branch of our service. Our Navy is the subject of ridicule the world over, and it is a disgrace to a great nation to have no war vessels which can make a creditable appearance in foreign ports for transactions in times of peace, to say nothing of the danger of having no better naval protection for the emergency of war. The recommendation of the Naval Board is that cruisers of three classes be constructed, with a speed of thirteen, fourteen and fifteen knots an hour, the capacity of the largest to be 5,700 tons. It is also proposed to construct gunboats of a capacity of 700 tons, having a speed of ten knots an hour and carrying one gun, for river service in Chinese ports.

THE wheel of life turns merrily, and time changes many things. A hundred years ago the ladies of America formed a patriotic association to encourage the use of American goods, and bound themselves not to buy or to wear anything of English manufacture; and behold! to-day "English women of distinction" are banding together to taboo the use of foreign goods in a praise-worthy effort to encourage their home trade. Heigh ho! In another century we shall have the ladies of Zuln forming an association against the introduction of English or American goods in their ports, and then what will become of us?

THE Boston Traveler says: A sensational paragraph is floating about the press to the effect that Sergt. Boston Corbett, the man who shot John Wilkes Booth, is living in poverty and misery. Representative Haskell, of Kansas, was in town recently speaking of the wonderful growth of his section. He instanced in Boston Corbett an excellent example of a successful Kansas farmer. He described him as a prosperous and respected citizen, one of the best in his district.

EXTRACTED HONEY.

THIS HONEY WAS REMOVED FROM THE comb by centrifugal force, with a machine made for the purpose. It is therefore virtually the same as honey in the comb, only you don't have to eat the bees wax, which is indigestible and therefore disagrees with many persons. When first extracted the honey is liquid, but nearly all pure honey will candy or granulate in course of time, especially if exposed to the cold. Putting the cans in hot water for a short time will bring the honey to its fluid state without injury.

This Honey is put up in 10-pound cans, with patented screw tops, which renders it convenient for family use, and especially for the mines, to which it may be packed, even upside down, without leakage. A neat label on each can gives full directions.

Price, $1 50 per can, or 12½ cents per ℔ at the Apiary, if customers furnish their own receptacle. For sale at Harris & Rhine's, Independence, and at the Apiary, at Jacob Vagt's place, Camp Independence.

From "Post 7, Summit Mine No. 2" the Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument bears N. 54 deg. E. 50 links by direct chain measurement.

SURVEY OF EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.

Commenced at a post set in mound of earth on S. cor. of claim; marked the post "Post 1, Summit Mine No. 2," from which, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E., a pine tree 12 links high bears N. 39 deg. W. 49 links; a pine tree 3 links high bears N. 18¼ deg. E. 31 links; a pine bush 2 links high bears N. 84½ deg. E. 36 links; a pine bush 2 links high bears S. 19 deg. 15 min. W. 17 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E., (1) N. 40 deg. W. 2.54 brow of hill; commence descending; 10.36 gulch; runs W. 12.21 wagon road; 13.64 "Post 2, Summit Mine No. 2," set in a mound of earth on S. boundary line of the Armagh mine, from which "Post 1, Armagh Mine," bears N. 79 deg. E. 2.49 chains; 19.65 "Post 3, Summit Mine No. 2," set in mound of earth on south B L. of the Santa Niño mine; 20.31 trail runs E-W, commence descending; 21.21 wagon road runs N.-S.; 22.72 "Post 4, Summit Mine No. 2," set in mound of earth on W. cor. of claim, from which the entrance to the open cut leading into the Santa Niño tunnel bears S. 28¼ deg. W. 45 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E., (2) N. 50 deg. E. .74 intersection of the north B. L. of the Santa Niño mine; set a post in mound of earth in the bottom of an old prospecting cut; cut bears NW. & SE.; marked the post "Post 5, Summit Mine No. 2," from which "Post 18, Santa Niño Mine," bears S. 80 deg W. 2.85 chains; 1.89 wagon road runs N. & S., 4.54 "Post B, Summit Mine No. 2," on northwest end of line of lode; 7.88 "Post 2, Summit Mine No. 2," standing in mound of earth at intersection of north boundary line of the Armagh mine, from which "Post 1, Armagh Mine," bears S. 11 deg. E. 11.76 chains; 9.09 "Post 7, Summit Mine No. 2," standing on N. cor. of claim, from which the Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument bears 54 deg. E. 50 links.

Description of Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument as described in the field notes of survey of the Armagh mine: The Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument is built on the apex of a red rocky point at the intersection of Ygnacio Ravine and Cerro Gordo cañon, and very precisely on the W. B. line of the Ygnacio mine (as surveyed for a patent in the year 1875 by Jos. Seely, U. S. Dep. Min. Sur.), and distant 17.51 chains from the southwest corner stake of the Ygnacio mine.

At the point above given I drilled a hole in the rock to a depth of 9 inches, in which drove a piece of gas pipe 1 inch in dia. x16 inches long. On top of gas pipe, set a post 4x4 inches square, x4 feet long, around which built a monument of rocks 5 feet high x5 feet in dia. at its base; marked the top of post "U. S. Min'l Monument. Erected Jan'y 31, A. D. 1880, by Wm. Crapo, U. S. Dep. Min. Sur., under authority of the U. S. Sur. Gen'l for Cal'a."

From said post in mineral monement, with a variation of 15 deg. 55 min. E the extreme end of the bluff on which the monument is situated, bears N. 25 deg. W. 17 links. The east edge of ridge at the top of a vertical face of rock, 7½ feet high, bears N. 60 deg. E 7 links. The NE. cor. of an old adobe vaso chimney bears S. 38 deg. 16 min. W. 16 links. The middle of the Beshaw toll road at a point where it turns out of Cerro Gordo Cañon bears N. 31¾ deg. W. 1.06 chains. The middle of Cerro Gordo Cañon bears N. 62 chains. The NW. cor. of Rafael Duzz house bears S. 28 deg. 33 min. E. 1.58 chains. An old well 30 feet deep on the north side of Cerro Gordo Cañon bears N. 58 deg. 20 min. W. 1.93 chs. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E. (3) S. 40 deg. E. .93 W. boundary of Ygnacio mine. Set a post in mound of rocks and earth; marked post "Post 8, Summit Mine No. 2," from which the Armagh U. S. mineral monument bears N. 11 deg. W 1.03 chains. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 E. commence descending. (4) S. 11 deg. E. 3.36 intersection of N. B. line of the Santa Niño mine at "Post 20, Santa Niño Mine;" marked the post "Post 9, Summit Mine No. 2" Post stands in mound of earth on top edge of Ygnacio dump. 3.66 W. edge of open cut at entrance to Ygnacio tunnel. 6.39 post marked "Post 10, Santa Niño Mine" on south boundary line of Santa Niño mine; marked the post "Post 10, Summit Mine No. 2;" 8.15 trail on ridge; runs E. & W. 16.49 "Post No. 2, Ygnatio Mine," on southwest corner of Ynacio mine marked the post "Post 11, Summit Mine No. 2," from which the entrance to the Summit tunnel at a point where the tunnel first enters ore, bears N. 33¾ deg. W. 98 links. Course of Summit tunnel for first 185 feet from mouth or entrance N. 59 deg. 6 min. E. The middle of wagon road in bottom of gulch bears S. 50 deg. W. 9 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E., commence ascending. (5) N 79 deg. E. 1.51, post marked "Post No. 7, Y. M.," standing on SE. cor. Ygnacio mine; marked the post "Post 12, Summit Mine No. 2," from which a pine tree 9 inches dia. x14 feet high bears S. 20 deg. E. 1.40 chains. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E. (6) N. 11 deg. W. 7.57 summit of ridge bears W. commence descending. 8.33 old dump at entrance to a tunnel runs E. 10.08 "Post 21, Santa Niño Mine" on south boundary line of Santa Niño mine; marked the post "Post 13, Summit Mine No. 2." 12.12. east edge of Ygnacio open cut. 13.11 "Post 22, Santa Niño Mine," on north boundary line of Santa Niño mine; marked the post "Post 14, Summit Mine No. 2." 13.75 set a post on east boundary line of Ygnacio mine; marked the post "Post 15, Summit Mine No. 2" from which the entrance to the "Hubbard tunnel" bears N. 20 deg. W. 25 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E. commence ascending. (7) S. 40 deg. E. .76 intersection of north boundary line of Santa Niño mine. Set a post on slope of Ygnacio dump; marked the post "Post 16, Summit Mine No. 2." 3.13 intersection of the east boundary line of the Santa Niño mine, and the west boundary line of the Occident mine. Set a post in a mound of earth and marked the post "Post 17, Summit Mine No. 2," from which the southwest corner of the Occident mine bears S. 11 deg. E 11.02 chains. 6.75 old prospecting cut on east side of summit of "Ygnacio Hill;" cut bears E. & W. 8.30 prospecting cut bears W.; commence descending. 9.14 west edge of old shaft. 11.40 coursing of wagon road runs south. 12.50 "Post 18, Summit Mine No. 2" standing on east boundary line of the Occident mine, from which "Post 5, Occident Mine," bears S. 11 deg. E. 2.83 chains. 15.72 gulch; runs south. 18.66 "Post 19, Summit Mine No. 2," standing in mound of earth on east corner of claim, from which a pine bush 3 links high bears S. 68 deg. E. 3 poles. Thence, with a var. of 15 deg. 55 min. E. (8) S. 50 deg. W. 4.54 "Post A, Summit Mine No. 2" on southeast end of lode line. 5.00 gulch; runs west 9.09 "Post 1, Summit Mine No. 2," place of beginning.

Containing 18.34-100 acres.

The location of this mine is recorded in the Recorder's office of Cerro Gordo Mining District in Book "F," page 43 of said record. The adjoining claimants are George T. Hawley and W. A. Greenly.

Any and all persons claiming adversely any portion of said Summit Mine No. 2, as hereinbefore described are required to file their adverse claim with the Register of the United states Land Office at Bodie, in the State of California, during the sixty days period of publication hereof, or they will be barred by virtue of the provisions of the Statute.

Startling Figures in Pisciculture.

Fresno county possesses advantages that is hardly vouchsafed to any other portion of the State. Not only can stock, fruit and cereals of all kinds be raised here, but on the irrigated lands ponds can be made, and with a windmill to keep up the water supply in case the ditch should at any time fail to supply the required quantity, every farmer can raise his own fish. Of course many will smile at this idea, but really it is worthy of serious consideration. There is no superior food to good fish, and it is stated on good authority that at least one variety—carp—can be raised cheaper a pound than pork, and certainly a fish pond is a neater adjunct to one's premises than a hog-pen. As to the profits of fish culture, we subjoin the following from the Lodi Review.

"Having read in an exchange that Hon. H. F. Page has received a letter from Fish Commissioner Spencer Baird that 'Any person desirous of a supply of young carp, will receive a blank on notifying Mr. Page at Oakland, which will be forwarded to Washington and the fish immediately sent,' we decided to call on George Mosier, whom we knew had been experimenting in raising German trout on his ranch, and interview him in regard to the result. His ranch is on Cherokee Lane, a few miles north of Stockton. In a pleasant inclosure of fruit trees is situated the pond in which is now found countless numbers os the finny tribe of this species. Although he calls them German trout, we believe them to be German carp of the same species that our Government is now sending out for experimental purposes. The pond is 70 feet in diameter, excavated out three feet below the surface and an embankment of three feet thrown up above this. The bottom is cemented with water-lime cement up to the depth of the surface of the water, and above this the water is allowed to seep through, which keeps the margin of the pond covered with a rich and luxuriant growth of grass the year round. In the center is a hydrant finished off with a sprinkler that forms a very nice fountain, or minature rainstorm. A skiff is afloat, fastened to its moorings, and we could see in the edge of the pond among the water grass hundreds of little fish, some not over an inch long, and by throwing a little apple in the water, we could see the wake of a large fish as it turned in the otherwise placid water. The figures, almost incredible in their immensity, but readily believed by farmers who have known Mr. Mosier for a man of unquestionable veracity for years, are as follows: In January, 1880, Mr. Mosier bought of Davis, of Russian river, an importer and dealer in German trout, 29 fish about six inches in length, that were a year old in the following June. For these he paip $1 50 each. He reached home with 17, which he placed in tho pond on the 10th of Jan. On the 11th day of January, 1881, to clean out the pond he drew off the water, and placed the fish in a tank, counting them as he did so. He found that he had just 3,400, and there being three sizes showed that the fish spawned three times a year. He advertised them for sale and from that date to the present writing, he has sold $1,700 worth of fish at 50 and 75 cents apiece. We are confident that when the enormous profits of this industry is thoroughly known that our farmers will begin to raise fish for exportation as well as for home consumption."—Fresno Expositor.

A ROAD locomotive for war purposes, constructed by Bolle, was recently tried in presence of Count Moltke and several other authorities. The machine drew five guns with their carriages completely equipped, the load amounting to 800 cwt. The journey lasted three hours and a half, with one halt. The locomotive itself weighed 575 cwt., and it is capable of drawing 3,000 cwt. The expense is about two marks an hour. The velocity was equal to that of a troop of infantry, but might be much increased.

The Reorganization of the Atlantic and Pacific Directory.

From a trustworthy source the Chicago Times derives some fresh and interesting facts relative to the re-organization of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad. The probability is that the financial alliance between that corporation and the Texas and Pacific interest and extensive enterprises now under prosecution by the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe were consummated by the election just held. The Atlantic and Pacific Directory is now composed of H. C. Nuit (newly elected), President; E. F. Winstow, President St. Louis and San Francisco; W. B. Strong, President Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe; T. Jefferson Coolidge, Director Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe; Jesse Seligman, Director St. Louis and San Francisco. The Board as reorganized embraces the strongest executive heads in the management of the different roads. S. S. Tuckeman is made Secretary and Treasurer and S. W. Cummins Passenger Agent. The Atlantic and Pacific Railroad is to be energetically extended across Arizona to San Francisco. Nuit will leave Boston next week for a trip over the entire line and upon returning to Albuquerque, he will proceed direct to California to start the work of construction eastward from San Francisco. The road is now in operation for 280 miles westward from Albuquerque, and its completion to San Francisco is an assured fact within two years. The money is in the Treasury for its extension to the Needles on the Colorado river. The Texas and Pacific Company expects that the litigation now pending will result in its being placed in possession of the Southern Pacific Railway from Yuma to El Paso. In such event it would be sure of an outlet to the western coast, or, in the event of a compromise, the Texas Pacific and Southern Pacific Companies would probably jointly occupy the latter's constructed track to Yuma. However that may result, it is not improbable, though not yet finally decided on, that the Texas and Pacific would unite with the Atlantic and Pacific in extending the latter from the Needles to San Francisco. The Atlantic and Pacific is able unaided to complete the line to the Needles, and will perform that construction with all possible despatch, but from that point to San Francisco five hundred miles of road will probably be built under joint ownership. In that event the Texas and Pacific would use the route of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe from El Paso to Albuquerque—250 miles—and the Atlantic and Pacific by joint occupation from Albuquerque to the Needles, where its joint ownership would begin.

A Mining Suit.

The P. T. Colby referred to in the following, taken from the S. F. Chronicle, of the 12th is the ex-county Judge of Kern county, and well known to numbers of our readers: Messrs. Garber, Thornton and Bishop, as attorneys for B. B. Minor, have brought suit against P. T. Colby, I. M. Proctor, H. Solomon and the Ingersol Consoldated Mining Company. The complaint alleges that in February last a partnership was entered into at Tombstone, A. T., by the plaintiff and the two first named defendants, to acquire from the then owners and to sell for their own profit the Harvest and Welfare mining claims, the three partners to be equally interested in the enterprise. The mining claims were acquired on the 16th of last June, and, during plaintiffs temporary absence in Mexico, were sold by Proctor and Colby to the Ingersol Company for 18,000 shares of that company's stock. Certificates of these shares were issued, at the request of the defendants, to the defendant H. Solomon, as trustee for them. The plaintiff's demand for an accounting and his share of the stock so issued has always been refused. As the defendants are threatening to sell the stock, and innocent persons will purchase without notice of plaintiff's rights, suit is brought for an accounting, a delivery to the plaintiff of 6,000 shares, his proportion, and an injunction restraining the defendants from selling or transferring any of the shares.

An Ancient Mat.

At a late meeting of the San Francisco Academy of Science, Mr. B. B. Redding presented, from Capt. Mellon, an interesting fragment of a prehistoric mat or garment with a piece of wood attached, found in a deposit of salt, seven feet below the cap rock of the Belding ledge, on Virginia River, above its junction with the Colorado, in Lincoln county, Nevada. Mr. Redding said it was probably very old indeed, and was knit by hand from the inner fibre of some tree. He believed only one similar case had been found in Louisiana, where like this one, it was directly over a bed of salt; and that was among bones of the mastodon and fossil elephant, thus clearly establishing its great antiquity.

He has written to learn if the cap rock was formed by accretion, or if a land slide could possibly have occurred in the vicinity. If it came where found by the ordinary sedimentary process, and not by any cataclysm, it is a most valuable proof of the vast period of time during which man has existed on this continent. It may be thousands of years since the work was woven, and it has only been preserved to come down to our day by the immediate presence of extensive salt beds. This will add to the rapidly accumulating evidence of the great antiquity of man on the American continent. It will be interesting also to know whether the mat is a specimen of weaving, matting or knitting.

SEVEN cars for the Mono Lake Railroad are now at Hawthorne.

The Mistakes Made by Garfield's Doctors

Yesterday afternoon two young medical students met in a Fulton street saloon and fell into conversation on the assassination.

"I am inclined to think that the attending physicians have misapprehended the President's case; what do you ay, doctor?" asked one.

"I agree with you, doctor," replied the other. "As soon as they discovered that the bullet had penetrated the laudable pus they should have made an effort to extract it."

"My idea exactly. And if periponitis supervened, they could readily have reduced it with a borax gargle. Don't you think they might have lowered the peritonial wall into the abdominal cavity so as to reduce the pressure on the liver, doctor?"

"They might, doctor; but wouldn't that have produced lesion?"

"Certainly. But, doctor, they could have turned the lesion over, and in that way reduced the respiration at the start."

"You are right, doctor. If I'd been there I should have drawn the bullet back and downward in order to relieve the inflamed parts."

"I see; and tied the arteries at your leisure. Yes, yes. Did you get the impression that any of the legiments were cut by the bullet?"

"I think one of the anterior vessels was severed, and the rush of blood to the stomach is all that saved his life. Have you considered, doctor, that the ball may pass into the femoral artery and make the patient lame?"

"No, I hardly think so. If those physicians understand their business, they'll tie the spinal cord around the bullet, and then they can pull it out at any time. I would recommend its removal now."

"Certainly not, doctor. I thought of one thing that would have worked well in the earlier stages, but it's too late now, and that was during the fever to increase the temperature until the bullet was melted, permitting it to pass off through the wound."

"A most excellent idea, doctor! Why on earth didn't you recommend it at the time?"

"Oh! I wasn't called in to the case and didn't like to interfere. What did you think of old Breyfogle's lecture on the sub-clavian artery?"

"He's an old ass! Anybody knows that the clavian arteries are the root of sciatica, which will only yield to amputation. Going to the baseball match to-morrow?"

"Yes, I'm scorer. Good-day, doctor!"

"Good day, doctor."

There's been a heap of medical wisdom expended on the President's wound, and not altogether by the younger men of the profession.

The Julia Falls.

Last week a Carson tourist was rambling in the Sierra mountains studying the beauties of nature and purchasing trout of Washoe Indians. As he wandered through the trackless forests he imagined that no foot of man had ever pressed the ground, forgetting that every foot of land he was on had been long ago snapped up by Government patent by Yerington, Bliss & Co., Lucky Baldwin and others. He suddenly arrived at a beautiful cascade and while admiring the rush of the waters and their cool splash and gliding current, running at seven miles an hour, he saw a California tourist on the other side also contemplating the identical glide, splash and rush that so impressed the Nevada tourist. Presently the Californian crossed on a fallen log, and as they met the Nevada tourist said: "I never heard of this fall before. As the original discoverer I have concluded to call it after my wife."

"Well, I like that. I've been here two hours and am the first discoverer by at least an hour and three-quarters. I have determined to name it after my affianced."

"To the devil with your affianced. I being the first married I propose to call the falls after my wife and nothing shall stop me. I'll have it announced in the Appeal to-morrow."

"Not if I know myself," said the Californian, removing his coat.

The State of Nevada also removed his coat and they fell to work. It was just the place for a nice, quiet bout and no chance of interruption. In about fifteen minutes both were so badly used up that they sat apart awhile for breath. There didn't seem to be half enough air in the mountains to give them the wind they wanted. Presently the Nevada man rose up and said:

"We'll go it again; these shall be called the Julia falls, and don't you forget it."

"Great Scott, stranger, is your wife's name Julia? Hang me by the heels if my intended wasn't christened the same way. The Julia falls goes with me. Its exactly what I proposed to call them."

Each man produced a bottle from his pocket, exchanged, stood up and drank to the Julia falls. They managed to get back to the Tallac House, where both are waiting for the swelling of their heads to go down.—Carson Appeal.

THE San Francisco Daily Report has finally settled a vexed question. It says: "Frank Osbiston is at Lake Tahoe. If all the rumors are true, Frank is to be consolidated superintendent of the entire Comstock lode, the State Line mine, seven mines in Arizona, the mines of the entire Black Hills region, the black sand processes on the Pacific coast of Oregon, the Lake Superior copper mines, the Hudson River tunnel, the Alice mine at Butte, Montana, the Ontario, Utah and the Little Pittsburg. The truth is that Mr. Osbiston has accepted the night foremanship of a coal mine in Siberia."

Growth of Telegraph Monopoly.

The rise and progress of the Western Union Telegraph Company is thus set forth in a prospectus issued by a rival company:

Beginning as the House Printing Telegraph Company, with a capital stock of $360,000. On the 1st of January, 1863, by stock bonuses, and the purchase of other lines, its capital was increased to $3,000,000. On the 2d of March, 1863, this was watered by exactly doubling its capital and presenting the additional stock to stockholders, thus raising it to $6,000,000. May 28, 1864, it was further increased, by purchase and extension of lines, $5,000,000, making its capital $11,000,000, and at the same time the whole of its stock was again doubled by an issue of 100 per cent bonus to its stockholders making its capital $22,000,000. From this period up to January, 1868, it took in the United States Telegraph Company at $3,333,333, and absorbed the American Telegraph Company, with a capital of only $2,000,000, taking it in at $11,818,800, and by bonuses and extensions of lines, etc., its capital was increased to $41,008,800, and recently it absorbed the Atlantic and Pacific Telegraph Company, whose lines cost not more than $2,500,000, and the American Union Telegraph Company, with its lines, which cost little more than $2,000,000, taking them in at $25,000,000, and at the same time issuing a stock bonus of $15,000,000, bringing its capital up to $80,000,000. In addition to all this it sank $3,000,000 in the abandonment of the Russian Telegraph, and nearly as much more by the abandonment of the California lines and contracts for lines parallel to the Pacific Railroad; it also borrowed $5,000,000 for the purchase of real estate in New York, and pays $75,000 per annual rental for the California State Telegraph Company; $85,000 per annum rental for the Illinois State Telegraph Company; purchased a majority of the Pacific & Atlantic, Southern Atlantic, and Franklin Telegraph companies, and guarantee dividends on the minority of the stock; and recently leased the Northwestern Telegraph Company, and pay a large rental on a stock and bonded capital of nearly $4,000,000, besides rentals of other leased lines, making its capital really about $100,000. The increase of the volume of its business and the amount of its earnings have kept pace with its increase of its capital, until now its traffic is over 30,000,000 of messages, gross receipts over $15,000,000, and net earnings over $6,000,000 per annum; and all this with no improvement in method and but little improvement in appliances over the first line constructed forty years ago; moreover, this gigantic monopoly, touching and influencing every branch of business and industry, is controlled by one man, whose sole object is self-aggrandisement.

THE Bonapartist faction is again endeavoring to unsettle the French Constitution, and go so far as to demand that the Chief of the State be elected by the direct vote of the nation. Louis Napoleon and his coup d' etat and the plebicite pantomine are not yet forgotten, and as a burnt child dreads the fire, it is just probable that France will continue to abide the ills she has rather than fly to those she knows not of. Napoleonism must wait another decade at least.

THE PRESIDENT.

President Garfield suffered a relapse on Saturday last, and of such a serious nature that scarcely any one but believed his hours were numbered. Indeed, so hopeless did his chances appear that several European papers, especially in London, published his death as an accomplished fact, each adding an appropriate obituary. The feeling of gloom, and of anxiety for further news from the stricken man, was more intense all over the Union and every where, than even during the first week after the shooting. The feeling at that time was profound to the utmost limit, it is true, but different from that of the present in some particulars. Then it was in a good measure because of the political results to ensue from the unexpected death of the Chief Executive of the Nation, quite as much or more than upon account of sympathy or especial personal regard for the man himself, however highly esteemed as such. But now the feeling is intensified because the public heart has gone to the individual, with scarce a thought of his official position, for his wonderful fortitude and courage shown during such a desperate and protracted struggle with Death. It is now evident that President Garfield is a true Christian and a true man in every sense of the word, or he must have succumbed to the Great Destroyer long ere this. And it is evident, too, that the desperate nature of this struggle had not made itself appareent to the public at large until within the past few days—the realization of this fact and the consequent disappointment of recent high hopes, added to the increased regard for the sufferer as an individual, and for his noble wife, has altogether produced a deeper and more universal fear and grief than has the worst of the bad news heretofore.

But our latest advices give fair hope. The last dispatch, as given in the Bodie Free Press, gives the President's condition at 6:30 last Thursday evening, at which hour the attending physicians pronounced the case as quite hopeful—certainly more so than up to the same hour on the preceding day.

CAPT. COOK, the Ohio man who slapped the mouth of the fellow said he hoped Garfield would die, is famous. About 25,000 people have sent penny subscriptions to the Cincinnati Commercial to pay off his fine for the assault and to purchase a testimonial. The Commercial publishes four or five columns a day, and among them are those of Republicans, Democrats and Confederate soldiers. Many long lists of names are sent from workshops, and some of the remarks sent with them are very expressive. Thus one list was headed with the hope that the amount contributed in excess of the fine would "be used to purchase a drum to drum the thing Morrison out of Ohio." Another: "We sincerely hope that the slap was of such a nature as to keep the mouth of Morrison in a sling the balance of his natural life."

THE well-informed Southern correspondent of the New York Herald estimates the capital now directed to the development of the South at not less than one hundred million dollars. This is entirely independent of local capital. The work which has been so well done for the West will be done for the South. A network of railroads is the cornerstone of the system of development. This under way, mines will be opened and mills started. There are millions upon millions of acres of land in the South which a comprehensive system of reclamation would make the most valuable in the country.

THE Indians are doing wholesale murder in the vicinity of Socorro, New Mexico. A large number of miners and travelers have been killed, and in several districts, mining operations have had to be suspended in toto. Gen. Hatch, who, a few months ago, did such a slashing business killing Indians by telegraph, has found it necessary to take the field in person, and to add to other horrors, it is feared he may get sunburnt before he gets back. At last accounts he had one small band of the murderers surrounded on the south side, and it is possible the reds are terrified in the same ratio.

JOHN I GINN, whom all Pacific coast newspaper people know, now assumes control and ownership of the Homer Mining Index, which has always been a very superior little paper, and will certainly continue to be so with the aforesaid John as editor.

ACCORDING to the late census there are 245 towns and cities in the United States having a population of 10,000 and upwards.

SOMETHING OF THE STAR ROUTE BUSINESS.

It seems that some, if not all the mail routes on this Eastern Slope have undergone the "expediting" process which process constitutes what is known as the "Star Route Frauds." Here is how it was done and who did it:

Route No. 45,103—This route is from Carson City to Aurora, with six intermediate stations, 120 miles and back, with a daily service. Its cost previous to advertising was $52,400 per annum. A bond of $24,000 and a check of $1,270 were required. There were fifteen bidders. V. H. Pease was the lowest, at $7,340, and his bid was accepted March 15, 1870, to begin July 1. He immediately executed a sub contract to J. W. Parker. In December petitions poured in for a reduction of schedule time from 24 to 18 hours. They were endorsed by Senator Newton Booth and Congressman Thomas Wren. "Do this Brady" at once raised Parker's pay $1,439 49 per annum—to $17,878 48—and there it has remained.

Route No. 45,405—This route has Aurora and Bodie as termini, the distance between them being 12 miles. The service was three times a week, and a bond of $900 was required. Of thirteen bidders J. M. Benton was the lowest at $400. His bid was accepted March 15, 1878, service to begin July 1. On June 20, he made the route over to J. W. Parker. Parker wrote a personal letter on official paper of the Second Assistant Postmaster-General, dated Washington, Oct. 3, 1978, asking for an increase of four trips per week. Purely on the strength of this Brady granted his request and added $533 33 to his salary. In December Parker came to the front again with a petition indorsed by the Hon. Thomas Wren, asking for a reduction of schedule time from three to two hours. It may here be noted that all these routes are on the same kind of paper, in the same handwriting, and fastened in the same peculiar style. "Do this, Brady," appears on the jacket of the petition, and Parker was given a further increase of $1,120 04 per annum. The clerk reported the net revenue of the offices benefitted at $950.

Route No. 45,106—This route extends from Aurora to Independence 128 miles, with four intermediate stations. The service called for in the advertisement was three times a week. A bond $100,000 and a check of $500 was required. There were six bids of which George Allman's of $5,999 was the lowest, and it was accepted March 15, 1878. Allman was evidently an outsider, and steps were taken to freeze him out. There are complaints from him on file alleging that he has been unable to get his pay, and expressing fears that he would have to throw the contract up. On May 28, 1879, he was compelled to execute a sub contract to J. W. Parker. In July the usual petition, indorsed by Senator Booth, asking for an increase of daily service was forwarded. Again Brady made his talismanic remark, and Parker was $7,998 66 per annum better off, though the net revenue of the offices benefitted was but $385 per annum. Parker continued to enjoy his $13,997 per annum during Brady's reign. There is more of the same sort awaiting future publication.

A YEAR ago Humboldt Lake, which generally extends over several square miles, was so dry that horsemen could ride over its bottom without getting their feet muddy. The Silver State says that it was then demonstrated, as it was supposed, beyond all question that the lake had no subterranean outlet, and that it was dried up by evaporations. Now the lake has spread out to its old size and is larger than at any previous time for the past six years. Its waves beat against the railroad embankment at Brown's station, and its waters extend across the valley to the hills on the eastern side. Boats can once more sail from Brown's to the slough in deep water, where a year ago the ground was dry as the surrounding desert.

FOUR copper mines in Michigan paid a larger sum in dividends during the first six months of the current year than all the gold mines in California, or all the silver mines in Nevada, and nearly as much as all the mines of all kinds in California and Nevada. Arizona paid more dividends than Nevada, and Colorado more than Arizona. Michigan stands at the head of the list of mining dividend-paying States, and California the second for the year 1881.

THE new Chinese Treaties with the United States, that were made and entered into last Winter and were so slow in being ratified by the Senate, received the sanction of the Chinese Government last month, and are now in force between the two nations.

THE Democrats of the Second Congressional District in Maine have declined flatly to follow ex-Governor Garcelon's advice, and coalese with the Greenbackers. They have had enough of Garcelon and Fusion.

SAN FRANCISCO dates of the 16th say that the harmonized wings of the Democracy met in convention last evening and, after adopting a platform, made the following nominations: For Mayor, Robert Howe; County Clerk, J. M. Merrill; District Attorney, Walter Levy; City and County Attorney, H. F. Hammond; and Superintendent of streets, E. P. Crumin. The candidate for Mayor is the nominee of the Manhattans. All the others are the choice of the Yosemites. By the bargain with the Workingmen their nomination of Desmond for Sheriff; Zehfuss for Treasurer; Dunn for Auditor and Grady for Tax Collector stands. Everything passed of smoothly and harmony will probably prevail in the future.

IT is openly charged by one section of the Irish party that Rossa, Crowe & Co. have been misusing the contributions made to them for the liberation of Ireland, and are claiming to have invested them in various blowing-up projects in order to account for the disappearance of the money. The Rossa-Crowe wing make similar charges against their accusers. The charges of both factions may be false, but the fact that they are made ought to show the poor people who make the contributions that they are wasting hard earned money by devoting it to the sustenance of a lot of quarrelling, loud-mouthed persons who are about the worst enemies Ireland ever had.

THE New York Mining Record has the following concerning the lead market in its last issue: There has been an active movement in tin, and lead is firm but beyond this, business has been chiefly of a jobbing cearacter. The absorption of supplies for the purpose of consumption continues large and dealers generally report a satisfactory trade. Common pig has again ruled active and strong; about 2,000 tons, of which 1,400 was Richmond for October and November delivery, having changed hands at 4¾ to 4.90 cents, closing strongly yesterday at 4.90 to 5 cents. Corroding is quoted 5 to 5⅛ cents, according to brand.

DURING the past fifty years, the Memhis Avalanche thinks, there has not been so long a duration of extremely hot weather as has been felt in most parts of the country, but especially, perhaps, in the South, since about the middle of June. The year 1881 will long be remembered as the scorching year, when the north was visited by more sunstrokes and more storms and whirlwinds than in any previous year during the past fifty, when more houses were blown down and more lives destroyed by tornadoes than ever before, and when the South was more generally burnt up in her corn crop.

THEY have got the electric light business at Niagara Falls down to a fine point, and there is about one electric light to every quart of water that falls. It makes a beautiful spectacle, a little "Black Crookish," to be sure, but none the less pleasing. Foreigners are especially delighted with the fairy scene, and in viewing it forget their trouble with the hackmen.

A SOUTHERN newspaper, the South, mentions the beginning, near Chatanooga, Ten., by an Austrian, associated with men of means, of the manufacture of Schafkase, or "sheep cheese," which "far surpasses that from the milk of the cow." Two hundred ewes now supply the raw material, and the purpose is to increase the number to 1,000.

THE youngest of the States in the Union is among the most enterprising. Colorado has now 850 miles of railroad under contract, and has just been celebrating the opening of a 200-mile branch which completes a line 450 miles long, reaching from Denver to the Arkansas valley, in the extreme southern portion of the State.

INFORMATION received at Topeka, Kansas, leads to the belief that the surveying party sent out by the Kansas State University, consisting of Prof. F. Shaw and son, aged 12, S. Smith, professor in astronomy, and Lewis F. Dickie, student, had been captured near Waller cañon, New Mexico, by Apaches and killed.

THE Mussel Slough people in Tulare county, have resolved to build and equip one mile of the James Single-Track railroad, for the purpose of making a satisfactory trial of what it will do. If it proves a success they then propose to construct a road from that place to Antioch.

THE Commissioner of the General Land Office has reported favorably upon the request of the Yosemite commission, and the Governor of California for the increase of the Yosemite valley reservation, to inclued the Mariposa Big Tree reservation and surrounding territory.

THE amount of building in Cincinnati is more than double that of any year in the history of that city. The supply of labor and materials is not nearly equal to the demand.

POSTMASTER-GENERAL JAMES is about to adopt a plan for transmitting small sums through the mails, which to newspaper subscribers and other persons whose indebtedness often includes fractions of a dollar will be very welcome. It is an improvement on the new English system and consists of a postal order on which there are three columns of figures—dollars, tens and units. There are two denominations, one with a maximum of $2 50, the other of $5. The Postmasters who issue them will designate the amount they call for by punching out the figures required. They are to be sent like fractional currency, the Government not being responsible for them any more than for any other money sent by mail. A record of the amount and date of issue is kept upon a "stub" by the Postmaster issuing them, but not of the name of the person buying them. In order to prevent their use as currency, they cease to be redeemable three months after issuing them. They will cost from three to five cents each, according to the amount.

THE Tombstone Epitaph thus comments upon the change inaugurated by Prof. Church in the system of treating the Tombstone Mill and Mining Co.s ore. About six months ago he dropped out of use in amalgamation all chemicals, using quicksilver alone. Some of the practical millmen said it would prove a failure, predicting fouling and loss of quicksilver and a reduced percentage in the yield of ore. The question has now passed beyond the experimental stage, and has become a demonstrated fact that his simple treatment is a perfect success in every way. For the month of May they extracted 84½ per cent. of the precious metal contained in the ore, and the bullion averaged 10 per cent. higher than in the previous month's work. The loss of quicksilver was also less per ton than heretofore.

GRASSHOPPERS, supposed to have come mainly from Persia, are causing much damage to Turkey, and the Government has been compelled to take extreme measures to stay the plague. In the Bodrium district the whole people have been ordered out to destroy the insects, and at Angora the inhabitants were compelled for three days to give up all ordinary business and devote themselvss exclusively to the slaying of grasshoppers. Every one was obliged to bring in half a hundred weight of the dead insects to the Government officials. In the regions of the Caucasus devastations similar to those now going on in Turkey occurred some time ago.

DR. BLISS says of the White House: "I had no idea the President's house was in such deplorable condition. I don't see how in the world Gen. Grant and Mr. Hayes stood it as long as they did. Why, you can't imagine what a foul odor arises from the bath-rooms and closets in the house. There are two closets in the center of the building without the slighest ventilation. A light has to be kept constantly burning in them. This house is a disgrace to the nation. I will go before a Congressional committee and make a statement to that effect."

QUEEN VICTORIA snubbed the Baroness Burdett Coutts, and now some of the newspapers are beginning to cut up her Majesty. One of them says the lady need not pine in the gloom of royal disfavor. Her fortune exceeds even the Queen's, and she has not stinted and begged it either, as Victoria has done from Parliament and the people. While the one refuses to give a penny to any cause, the other is known wherever the English language is spoken as the open-handed friend of every deserving cause, whose charities have been lavished by millions.

CLARENCE GREY, convicted of murder in the second degree, for the killing of Theodore Glancey, editor of the Santa Barbara Press, was on the 9th instant sentenced to twenty years' imprisonment. During the trial it appears that the Sheriff of San Benito county furnished the jury with liquors. He has been ordered to appear in court for contempt.

THE Bodie Free Press announces that the bullion shipment from Bodie District for the past six months of 1881 aggregate $1,600,000, or over $260,000 per month, an increase over the same period in 1880.

THE laying down of the cable between Berlin and Stettin completes the subterranean telegraph system of the German Empire. These cables now cover 3,420 miles, nearly all of them having seven wires.

INSANITY statistics in France show that the number of persons in that country who are mentally deranged exceeds 100,000, as against 94,000 in 1969. The proportion is one to every 400 inhabitants.

GEN. WALKER, the Superintendent of the Census, predicts that the census of 1890 will give the United States a population of 64,467,000

COAST NEWS.

The body of Geo. Walker, the footpad who was killed while attempting to escape from the Folsom branch prison a week ago, was disinterred shortly after burial and brought to San Francisco, where it lay in state until Thursday, while his grief stricken friends have indulged in a wake. Mollie Keneven, Walker's former paramour, acted as chief mourner. On Thursday afternoon the dead desperado was buried in Laural Hill Cemetary, a plain headstone, bearing the inscription, "Life's Prisoner Set Free," marking the grave.

The people around Knight's Ferry are considerably worked up over the alleged discovery of valuable mines on the south fork of the Stanislaus river, near Strawberry valley, Tuolumne county. The mines are supposed to be an extensive gravel range, and the gold found is quite coarse. The gravel is of great depth and prospects very rich from the top.

Since the rainy season set in the Warm Spring Valley, on the line of the Southern Pacific Railroad, a short distance below Benson, presents the appearance of an inland lake. The entire valley, ten or twelve miles north and south, is one sheet of water.

There seems to be no abating of smallpox in the vicinity of Jackson Gate, Amador county. The dreadful disease is spreading from house to house, and unless strict quarantine measures are adopted other communities than the Gate are likely to be afflicted with the scourge.

Wm. Hart, who, a short time since, at Mariposa, had an altercation with his father, and attempted to kill him by emptying three chambers of a five-shooter and severely but not fatally wounding him, has been admitted to bail in the sum of $2,000.

The Central Pacific Railroad Company have within the past few days distributed among the Truckee mills orders amounting to over six and a half million feet of lumber, all to be cut within the coming four months.

The supply of white labor is insufficient to harvest the crops near Healdsburg, and one farmer has employed a hundred Indians to work in his field. The crop is very abundant.

On the Colorado desert a species of tortoise grows to a weight of twenty-five pounds, and the meat of this is considered a great delicacy among the Indians.

Modoc county can boast of the largest steer in the State. It is seven feet and one inch high, and weighs 1,800 lbs.

It is understood that 300 Swiss will soon locate near Litton Springs, Sonoma county.

A DISPATCH from Lewiston, Idaho, of the 16th says: A volcanic eruption took place on the side of a mountain south of the South Fork of the Clearwater, about twenty miles east of Mt. Idaho Tuesday, the 9th instant, sending forth a column of fire and smoke several hundred feet in hight, and the rock fell at a distance of several miles from the place of eruption. The shock was distinctly felt at Mt. Idaho, on the extreme west of Camas prairie, and at the mouth of Salmon river, a distance of about seventy-five miles. Later news from Camas prairie reports that a column of smoke is issuing from the opening, which is distinctly visible from the prairie. No one as yet has approached the place. Evidences of volcanic action at some former period exist in many places in the immediate vicinity. So far as appears the opening is less than than 1,000 feet above the bed of the South Fork of the Clearwater, and within three miles of Milner trail, between Mt. Idaho and Florence."

THE most recent reports from the Moravian Mission Station on the West coast of Greenland, dated the last of March of the present year, show that the Winter of 1880-1881 was exceptionally mild. Summer weather prevailed in January and February, the country was free of snow, the Equimaux were able to fish along the coast and gathered on the shore, and goats pastured in the open air.

LORD BEACONSFIELD'S plate was sold in London recently at an extravagantly high price. A leather luncheon case containing two silver boxes, two silver plates, two knifes and forks, a salt and pepper box, two glass decanters and two tumblers sold for $375. The case was taken by Lord Beaconsfield to Berlin when he went to the famous conference. His silver-plated inkstand sold for $55.

"AND the style of beauty of our American girls," said Mrs. Clover to the German nobleman at the Ocean House, Newport, "what do you think of it, Baron?" "Vell, I vas full mit enthusiastics, Mrs. Glober, und neffer dinks dot style vas possible. Do you know the name off a good shoemaker? I haf a hole mid der toe off my poot."

WE read in an exchange of a farmer setting out grape cuttings in a desolate part of his ranch, some three years ago, which are producing not only wonderfully, but better than some of the same variety that had been cared for.—Kern Co. Californian.

IF conversation with a prominent furnaceman to-day, as to the effect of the several railroads being built into Eureka, he said: If, as purported, the Utah Western is built to Eureka, the charcoal trade will be entirely destroyed, for we shall then be enabled to get coke and coal from the coal fields of southern Utah at a much less rate than charcoal can be manufactured for. A vast expanse of the coal country lying in the southern portion of Utah is said to have been purchased by Jay Gould and other capitalists, and this has been done, no doubt, with a view to furnishing cheap fuel to the immense smelting interests of Utah and Nevada. In the smelting of precious ores, coke, when it can be procured at the same rate or cheaper than charcoal, is far preferable to it, and will undoubtedly supersede it in the near future. It presents many advantages over charcoal in use for smelting and can be procured in any quantity from the coal fields of Utah, as soon as railroads place it on a par cost with charcoal. According to our informant's theory, there is no reason why Eureka should not be an important smelting center. Many have advanced the theory that after the completion of the proposed roads to Eureka, Salt Lake, owing to its superior advantages, would offer inducements for the reduction of ore at that point; but this does not consistently follow. The putting through of the proposed railroads will place us near, if not nearer, to the coal fields of Utah than Salt Lake City, and our advantages will, as far as can be seen, be equal to those of the metropolis of Utah. Fuel being the main object, if it can be gotten to Eureka as cheaply as to Salt Lake, entirely settles the question. Our immense deposits of low-grade ore will certainly not be shipped from the district, and Eureka in the course of a few years will be the smelting center of the West.—Eureka Sentinel.

IN the St Louis Postoffice is employed a man with a phenomenal memory. He was taken on in the mailing division about eighteen months ago and given the lowest position. He has several times been promoted on account of his good record, and at his last examination gave evidence of his close application and phenomenal memory. It is customary for the examiner to name the Postoffices in a certain amount of territory, and require the examined to give the location In this case the employee was examined on the Postoffices of Missouri, of which there are 1,780. He did not need to be questioned, but without prompting named every Postoffice in the State and the county in which it is situated, and without missing or mistaking a Postoffice or a county, and did this in thirty minutes.

THE CHURCH DEDICATION.

MESSRS. EDITORS—On Sunday, Aug. 14th, Bishop Creek was quite the center of attraction, representatives from nearly every part of the county having gathered there to witness the opening and dedication of the new M. E. Church at that place. The Rev. J. D. Hammond had arrived from Carson City the day previous. The building was filled for the eleven o'clock service by a large and delighted audience who were interested by a masterly discourse by the Rev. Mr Hammond. The matter of lifting the church debt was then taken up and during the day the sum of $630 was given in money and pledges. The fixed determination among influential men of the place gives assurance that the remaining debt will soon be cancelled. In the evening a large congregation assembled to listen to a discourse of even deeper interest than the dedicatory sermon of the morning. The subject of this later discourse was "Home Life." Mr. Hammond is a minister of unquestionable ability, and his labors gratuitously given, at Bishop Creek was highly appreciated. The church edifice as it now stands is a model of good taste. The building and lot are valued at $3,000. The people are proud of their neat little church and the services of the day closed with good will on the part of all.

E. M. W.

SCHOOL FESTIVAL.—On the evening of the 12th instant the teacher, pupils and parents of Irving School District, Bishop Creek Valley, held a well attended and financially successful festival. A correspondent writes that the getting up of the affair was mainly due to the public spirit of Mrs. Munson, Mr. Wonacott and Mr. and Mrs. John Bourland, with other valued assistance. The programme included literary exercises and musical entertainment, followed by a dance until morning. After a musical prelude, Mr. Bourland favored the audience with remarks. We quote the following programme: Song, "Old Homestead," with guitar accompaniment, by Mrs. L. Hutchison; song by little Maud McDonald; reading, "Old Village School," by Miss Flora Mallory; song, "Hold the Fort," by the school, led by Mrs. M. Thresher, the teacher; "A Poem of the Seventh Century," by Mrs Hutchison; "School Committee," by Mr. Eldred; song, "Precious Jewels," by the scholars; "Gentle Words," by Mrs. Hutchison; and a poem by Mrs. Thresher, entitled "Order for a Picture." Our correspondent says: "The schol rs sing remarkably well considering they have only been practicing their first lessons in school, only two weeks. Their teacher deserves much praise for the good order in which they performed their part. She read her poem with good effect and with faultless elocution. All passed off pleasantly, and I am requested by the Trustees of this District to return thanks to those of the Union District for their attendance and liberal patronage."

LEG BROKEN.—We regret to have it to state that Mr. T. F. A. Connelly is now laid up with a broken leg. He has been at Gold Mountain for two or three months past, and it was at that place the accident occurred, and in quite a singular manner. Passing along wher some young men were amusing them selves with bat and ball, Mr. C. picked up a bat and struck with nearly all his force at a ball thrown to give him a chance to show his powers with the others. Missing the ball the momentum of the bat was sufficient to throw his body around in such a way as to break the large bone of the right leg midway between the knee and ankle. The smaller bone was not injured. There being no regular surgeon or physician there, the broken limb was quite skillfully splinted by non-professionals, and the same evening, he was placed in a comfortable spring-wagon with an extemporized cover, and started for this place, arriving to-day noon, having traveled the intervening 115 miles since Thursday evening when the accident occurred. He was brought in and well cared for by a Mr. O'Malley and another gentleman of Gold Mountain, but whose name we do not now recall. The patient is in the hands of Dr. George, who has proved himself a most skillful surgeon.

THE LOST MAN.—The following note from Mr. W. H. Walker, of the office of Wells, Fargo & Co's express at Olancha, gives the sequel of the most unfortunate occurrence mentioned last week, which chronicled the probable death of Capt. H. W. Gillespie. Under date of Olancha, Aug. 16, the note says: "Capt. H. W. Gillespie, the man you mentioned as having been lost in the desert, was yesterday morning found dead in Panamint Valley, He had a canteen of water with him, and had been eating mesquite beans, as there were some with him. His face had been partly eaten off by coyot s." The Bodie Free Press had an item mentioning the disappearance of the deceased, and from that journul we can expect to ascertain exactly as to who he was.

GONE EAST.—We learn that Judge Conklin has found it necessary to go East from San Francisco, whither he went three weeks since with his family. He wrote on the 10th: "I will be back as soon as possible. But the recent death of my father and the feeble condition of my mother may require me to make a trip to Pennsylvania." It is altogether likely that the Judge will hurry matters so as to be back here by the first proximo, in order to attend Court, which will then begin. And it is partly for the information of clients that we make this mention. Mrs. C. arrived in Pennsylvania on the 9th and will probably remain there until the beginning of Winter.

THE MOUNT WHITNEY EXPEDITION.

An Abstruse Scientific Investigation.

The Mount Whitney scientific investigation which has been progressing for a couple of weeks or more, under the general direction of Prof. S. P. Langley, has been so far concluded that most of the party with quite a number of the instruments are moving from Lone Pine to the top of the mountain to join the main party. We had the pleasure of interviewing several of the scientific gentlemen connected with it, and also had our curiosity aroused, if not gratified, by a sight at several of the instruments.

The main object of the expedition lies in the determination of the solar constant, i. e.—the amount of heat sent to the earth by the sun in a given time. Most of this heat is absorbed by the earth's atmosphere. By measuring the amount of heat at different altitudes the amount absorbed by a known thickness of air can be determined. The principal method employed is one invented by Prof. Langley, and the instrument used is called the bolometer. It takes the place of an exceedingly delicate thermometer, and measures the heat of each separate ray of the spectrum. Othe r instruments employed are Violli's' actinometer and the pyrheliometer. The cause of the absorption of heat by the air will be investigated, and the true altitude of Mount Whitney determined with the greatest possible accuracy.

Prof. Langley's secondary object is to experiment upon the effect of a long dark tube in viewing the phenomena on the limb of the sun, and to see what advantage can be gained by it. This tube, which lies horizontally on the summit, is 400 feet long, and the rays of light are reflected through it by the mirror of a large heliostat to the telescope placed at the other. Besides having general charge of the expedition Prof. Langley has for his special work the exhaustive experiments with the apparatus for observing the solar appendages.

Time signals are exchanged between the upper and lower stations by means of flashes of sunlight directed by the heliograph used by the signal service.

Capt. O. E. Michaelis has charge of the transportation of the party and instruments, and is interested in experiments of his own. Mr. J. E. Keeler conducts the experiments with the bolometer. Mr. W. C. Day, Fellow of the John S. Hopkins University, determines the constitution of the air, with reference to its power of absorbing the solar radiations, and assists with the bolometer. Sergeant A. C. Dobbins observes the barometer and thermometer several times daily, and makes observations with the actinometer. Wm. Crapo, of Cerro Gordo, is still working with the party, as guide and advisory assistant.

After weeks and perhaps months of almost hourly labor, a mass of figures and facts will be fired into some scientific institution in the East and it will then require months more of time to deduce the scientific truths and facts there gained.

APPOINTED.—It is fair to presume that the Board of Trustees for the Independence School district are very superior officers. Leastways, for the past two or more years, the people declined to take the trouble to hold an election to fill their places, preferring to leave the whole matter to the County Superintendent, who could fill by appointment. With the foregoing proud reflection we now announce Superintendent Symmes has just reappointed the old Board, and that their names are the same as heretofore, namely: Elijah Robinson, A. R. Conklin and P. A. Chalfant—the last mentioned is the one we particularly endorse, leaving it for each of the others in like manner to endorse for himself.

DESTRUCTION.—We have heretofore referred to the great destruction of fruit, grain, etc., brought by those little birds, chippeis, or linnets. They have become such an intolerable nuisance that it behooves farmers and orchardists generally to take joint measures for their destruction, in time at least, for next years crops. An orchardist gives his views on the subject in the Rural Press of the 13th, and, next week, we shall reproduce his article for the benefit of all concerned.

TELEGRAPHIC.—Judge R. L. Peterson, of Bodie, is now in the valley soliciting aid for a new telegraph line to run from Lone Pine to Bodie. Five thousand dollars is the subsidy or rather payments wanted, the amount to be paid back by the company in business, is the sum wanted. That he will get this guaranteed subscription is almost assured.

SCHOOL.—It is understood that the public school of this place will open under Mr. Daniel Crough's management, on or before September 12. Mr. Crough is now in Tuolumne county, but will arrive here in a few days—and, contrary reports notwithstanding, with no Mrs. C. to boss him around and make him afraid.

MINING TRANSFERS.—On the 15th Antonio Moreno sold to Nicholas Cordova for the sum of $2,000, 125 feet in each of the following mines, viz: Keynot, Eclipse, Ibex, True Business, Alturas, Tamarack, Justice and Avo, 150 feet in Hidalgo, 250 feet in Elplan and Ave Maria, all of said mines being in Beveridge District.

ARRIVED.—Alderman T. O. Callaghan, of New York, arrived in Lone Pine last evening. This gentleman was here about a year ago, at which time he secured some mining interests, and now returns with the view of further investigations and contingent investments.

FOR BEVERIDGE.—Geo. Storey, Superintendent of the Polita, left Lone Pine Thursday for Beveridge District. Mr. Storey thinks the new gold interests of this county are about receiving a tremendous boost in the popular favor.

LETTER FROM CERRO GORDO.

Its Prospects are Very Flattering Indeed.

MESSRS. EDITORS—Cerro Gordo, the old stand-by mining camp of Inyo, is on the turn for happier days. Smith & Co. have 16 men employed and four mules. The Comet mine is looking very good, and has a ledge at bottom of incline two to three feet, incline down about 90 feet with the ledge dipping to the northeast. Smokey No. 182 has a shaft down 110 feet, with good prospects and well defined walls. I never saw better indications in this district for a good mine. Forget-me-not mine has a shaft 60 feet with good results. They are following the foot wall, which is well defined, so can't say as to width of ledge as they never cut across it in the shaft. The shaft is entirely in ledge matter from the top down. On the Franklin mine they are running tunnel and have about three feet of good ore in the face of tunnel with prospects of being much wider. All the above mentioned mines have different qualities of ore from the low grade lead ore to the highest in the district. It is the intention of the company when sufficient work has been done to prove the above mentioned mines permanent, to then at once commence tunnels on both sides of the north hill for the purpose of working these mines in good shape, believing at the same time that water will be found sufficient to supply what machinery would be needed and also the miner their want of water (which would be a good deal at present appearance of some of them now).

There are now three companies at work in Cerro Gordo District. Chris Crohn, owner of the well known Crohn tunnel, San Lucas cañon, is pushing work ahead, and can show a good ledge the whole length of the tunnel, which is 700 feet. He can show as much good ore as any mine in the district.

J. Diaz, Superintendent of the Swansea company, is doing good work on the Italy mine. He is running a tunnel to connect with the shaft for the purpose of ventilation, and when he has made the connection will increase the force of men. Joe has a ledge of carbonate ore in the shaft from three to four feet wide, well defined and bids fair for a bonanza.

The Union mine being shut down makes everything rather dull here at the present time, but from the outlook of the district at large Cerro Gordo will soon be to the front again and the long looked for boom will cheer the hearts of our Inyoites once more.

The Ygnacio mine is expected to start up again at an early date. Negotiations are under way in San Francisco for the property, so say the latest reports.

We cannot expect to have honey and pie all the time nor heavenly fruits all of our days. We must have a little Hades mixed with them. Pork and beans have been good enough, but are getting stale, and now comes the change. Best of roast beef, roast turkey, apple dumplings and sourcrout can be placed on the table now and we are not set back at all. The time will soon come that we will see as much bullion laying along the road as of years gone by for the want of transportation if we don't get a railroad here. Let us all hail the happy day of the iron horse coming in to our own quiet valley, which will be no longer the dormant Owens Valley, but will be one vast mining camp from Darwin to Benton.

OLD MAN.

Railroad Gossip,

There are three railroads at present seeking suitable means of access to San Francisco—the Atlantic and Pacific, the California and Nevada and the California Central. All are as secret as possible regarding their plans, that they may give no advance to their rivals. The California and Nevada is a proposed narrow gauge that, after skirmishing about Berkeley for some time, with the promise of a direct ferry and a local road from the landing to the University, forfeited its franchise a few weeks ago because it had not complied with its agreement to have its work well advanced within sixty days. It is now said to have purchased water frontage near Shell Mound, and to be intending to run its line from that point, somewhere through Berkeley and into San Ramon valley, then into San Joaquin valley, and so on into Nevada, connecting with their line from Oregon. They have surveyors out, but not many, and it is not known what they are doing. No one knows as yet by what means the Atlantic and Pacific intends to make an entrance into San Francisco. There are various rumors to the effect that they have bought the Santa Cruz Narrow Gauge, the Ocean Beach line, and water frontage between Sixteenth street, Oakland, and Shell Mound. The California Central is the busiest of all the competing lines. It has half a dozen parties of surveyors out between Santa Cruz and Denver, and a month ago had over 2,000 men grading in Utah. The line as far as can be determined is to run from Santa Cruz across the mounto near Watsonville, pass up the Pajaro valley to the Pajaro pass, cross into Benito county, scale the Coast range at the Pacheco pass, pass through the northern part of Fresno county, climb the gradual ascent by Fresno flats to the Mariposa Big Trees, and so reach some convenient point for passing the Sierra into Mono, about 30 miles into Yosemite. It would thus strike across Southern Nevada and Utah into Colorado. It has been intimated that it would be a narrow-gauge road, but this it probably a mistake, or a rumor intending to mislead. This route will have many advantages. It will have a short branch to Yosemite, and passing so near the valley, will take a large share of the overland travel for that reason. It will also open many districts in Nevada which have never dared to hope that they would have railroad advantages. From Santa Cruz it will probably follow the shore of the ocean to the city. The fact that Jay Gould is the moving spirit in this enterprise explains the extraordinary activity all along the line, and is an assurance that the road will be built. The surveys will probably be completed before the beginning of the rainy season. The managers of the South Pacific Coast are very recticent as regards their plans about Oakland and Berkeley. They will probably push their line on to the University in time, either by the way of Temescal or by a line that sweeps about the base of the foothills. The Central Pocific, it is reported, has already resolved to anticipate their plans by themselves running a line from the Oakland station at Sixteenth street to the foothills at a point somewhere between Piedmont and the Deaf and Dumb Asylum. The time when San Francisco will be a great railroad center seems not to be far distant.—Chronicle.

DEEP SPRING.—Messrs. Scott Broder and Wm. Hedge are in from Deep Spring. They bring encouraging reports of affairs out there, but we cannot now undertake details further than to say that they have letters assuring the miners of that section that the proposed custom mill will surely be erected and in operation before Winter sets in.

TO RETURN.—His honor, Judge Hannah, of our Superior Court, expects to be here in time to open court for the September term.

A Bad Fall.

Col. S. B. Ferguson, Superintendent of the Blackhawk mine, met with a very serious accident Friday about noon. He was in the drift at the pottom of a winze 100 feet deep in the Blackhawk, from which the water was being taken in a 26-gallon bucket, and he had been attending to the filling of the bucket, while two men pulled it to the top with a windlass. It had all been raised except a half bucket, and when that had been raised a few feet the Colonel started up the ladder under it, the winze being slightly inclined—just enough to allow the sides of the ladder to guide the bucket. The men at the top pulled it up rapidly, intending to empty it and lower it down to meet the Colonel, so he could ride up a portion of the distance. He had got up about thirty feet, and he stopped to rest with one foot on a sill which held the ladder. When about twenty feet from the top the bucket struck something, and the rope broke. The Colonel heard the bucket falling, and leaned his head and shoulders over the side of the ladder, and as near the wall as possible. The bucket just grazed his head and right arm, and struck him fairly at the hips and in the small of the back, the water then tipped out for the first time. This dislodged Col. Ferguson from his position and he dropped down with the bucket and a lot of loose boards. Sixteen feet below, however, one of his legs fortunately slipped between another sill and the wall, and he was held there and the bucket fell to the bottom. He hung in this painful position until relieved by his men from the surface. He was brought down town and attended at his rooms by several physicians. Upon examination it was found that no bones were broken, but the Colonel is so badly bruised and shaken up that it will be some time before he can get out. It is almost miraculous that he was not killed, and had it not been for his presence of mind in getting his head out of the way he certainly would have been. —Bodie Free Press, Aug. 13.

THERE are hundreds of mines in California alone taking out gold and more than paying expenses which never appear in the dividend lists. Some of them divide their thousands every month and the owners put the money in their pockets and think the amount they receive is their own and nobody else's business; and they are right. The other day two or three gentlemen owning quite a small mine came down to San Francisco bringing about $50,000 with them, which will not figure in any returns. Countless streams of bullion are pouring into miner's pockets all over the country which the statiticians never lay their eyes on. We think that if the figures of commerce and those of mining were taken and compared it would be found that far more money, in proportion to the investment, is made in the latter than in the former and that a bankrupt and broken down merchant is a far more frequent sight than a ruined miner. The papers which argue against the success of mining in America may make quite a logical and apparently forcible attack from certain figures; but they cannot verify their figures and the facts are against them, as any personal and intimate acquaintance with the mining industry would soon convince the editors.—Stock Report.

THE Lynchburgh Virginian describes an ingenious trap devised by a Virginia farmer to capture sheep-killing dogs. Having suffered severely from the depredations of dogs upon his sheep-fold, he built around a number of sheep that dogs had killed an enclosure of rails 12 feet high and about ten feet square at the ground, the sides of the trap sloping inward until an opening was left about five feet square. Any dog could easily climb such a sloping fence and enter the pen, but not even a greyhound could jump out of it. In three nights the farmer captured forty-six dogs, including fifteen or twenty that had never been seen before in that neighborhood. This, after there had been a public slaughter of all dogs suspected of sheep killing, save one, whose master could not be convinced of his guilt. The trap was built for his especial benefit, and it caught him the first night.

IT is a curious fact that no less than $9,958,012 are waiting in the United States Treasury for people who either do not want the money and refuse to take it, or for people who do not know that it it is there or that they have any claim upon it. Some of this money—it is all in the shape of bonds which have matured, on which interest has ceased, and for which no claim has been made—has been waiting for some one to take it away ever since 1837—forty-four years ago. The principal and the interest due and unpaid on this unclaimed money amount to $10,732,675. No doubt if the history of these unpaid bonds could be traced there would be discovered many a story full of romance.

THE gold mines of California are being more energetically worked than ever before, though the general public are little the wiser for it. The bullion shipments of a majority of the mines which are worked privately are never given out for publication. A gentleman who recently received $36,000 from a mine he had deen developing for a year or more told the writer that the news of the shipment was not for the public and asked that no detailed facts be given. If the product of every gold mine in California for the past six months was given to the public we believe it would create a genuine sensation.—Exchange.

A SOLUTION of 28 parts of honey in 60 parts of water mixed with alcohol gives a heavy white precipitate of dextrine if glucose has been added, while genuine honey, if treated in the same manner, merely becomes milky.

THE Ironmonger announces that very large American orders for steel rails have just been placed in England. The Central Pacific Railroad last week purchased 30,000 tons for delivery in San Francisco.

MISCELLANEOUS.

College of Notre Dame

SAN JOSE, CALIFORNIA.

THIS INSTITUTION, OFFERING PECULIAR advantages to young ladies wishing to receive a solid and refined education, was founded in 1851. In 1855 it was incorporated by the State Legislature, and subsequently the same body so extended the original charter as to confer all the rights and privileges of Collegiate Institutions.

It occupies large buildings, with extensive playgrounds; and possesses everything to make science familiar and attractive. The course of instruction is thorough, in all the Departments. Every facility will be afforded to students who may find it desirable to devote their whole attention to music or the study of the languages.

The scholastic year begins on the first Monday in August and closes about the first week in June. Pupils are received at any period of the year.

WE MAKE EVERY VARIETY OF

FARM, FREIGHT AND SPRING WAGONS,

And by confining ourselves strictly to one class of work; by employing none but the

BEST OF WORKMEN,

Using nothing but

FIRST-CLASS IMPROVED MACHINERY AND THE VERY BEST OF SELECTED TIMBER,

And by a THOROUGH KNOWLEDGE of the business we have justly earned the reputation of making

THE BEST WAGON ON WHEELS.

Manufacturers have abolished the warranty, but Agents may, on their own responsibility, give the following warranty with each wagon, if so agreed:

"We hereby warrant the FISH BROS WAGON No to be well made in every particular and of good material, and that the strength of the same is sufficient for all work with fair usage. Should any breakage occur within one year from this date by reason of defective material or workmanship, repairs for the same will be furnished at place of sale, free of charge, or the price of said repairs, as per agent's price list, will be paid in cash by the purchaser producing a sample of the broken or defective parts as evidence.

EXTRACTED HONEY.

THIS HONEY WAS REMOVED FROM THE comb by centrifugal force, with a machine made for the purpose. It is therefore virtually the same as honey in the comb, only you don't have to eat the bees wax, which is indigestible and therefore disagrees with many persons. When first extracted the honey is liquid, but nearly all pure honey will candy or granulate in course of time, especially if exposed to the cold. Putting the cans in hot water for a short time will bring the honey to its fluid state without injury.

This Honey is put up in 10 pound cans, with patented screw tops, which renders it convenient for family use, and especially for the mines, to which it may be packed, even upside down, without leakage. A neat label on each can gives full directions.

Price, $1 50 per can, or 12½ cents per ℔, at the Apiary, if customers furnish their own receptacle. For sale at Harris & Rhine's, Independence, and at the Apiary, at Jacob Vagt's place, Camp Independence.

APPLICATION FOR A PATENT

....TO THE....

SUMMIT NO. 2 MINE.

No. 192.

UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE,
Bodie, Cal., June 6, 1881.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT A. R. Conklin, W. H. Jenkins and James Jenkins, whose postoffice address is Independence, Inyo county, California, have this day filed their application for a patent for fifteen hundred linear feet of the SUMMIT NO. 2 mine or vein bearing silver, with surface ground six hundred feet in width, situated in Cerro Gordo mining district, County of Inyo, State of California, and designated by the field notes and official plat on file in this office as Lot No. 40, in Township ——, Range ——— of ——— Meridian.

SURVEY OF LODE.

Said Lot No. 40 being described as follows, to wit: Commenced at a post on SE. end of claim on lode line, marked the post "Post A. Summit Mine No. 2," from which, with a variation 15 deg 55 min. E. a pine bush 3 lks high, bears N. 88½ deg. E 43 lks; a pine bush 3 links high bears S. 45¾ deg. W. 31 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E., N 40 deg. W. 10 earth ridge bears W. 50 wagon road runs SW.; commenced ascending 14.88 trail on ridge runs W.; commenced descending 18.39, trail runs W. 20.17 tunnel 9 ft long on quartz vein. 22.72 "Post B, Summit Mine No. 2," on NW. end of lode, from which the Belshaw wagon road bears N. 45 deg. W. 45 links.

SURVEY OF CONNECTING LINE.

From "Post 7, Summit Mine No. 2," the Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument bears N. 54 deg. E. 50 links by direct chain measurement.

SURVEY OF EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.

Commenced at a post set in mound of earth on S. cor. of claim; marked the post "Post 1, Summit Mine No. 2," from which, with a var. 15 deg 55 min. E., a pine tree 12 links high bears N. 39 deg. W. 49 links; a pine tree 3 links high bears N. 18½ deg. E 31 links; a pine bush 2 links high bears N. 84½ deg. E. 36 links; a pine bush 2 links high bears S 19 deg. 15 min. W. 17 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E, (1) N. 40 deg. W. 2.54 brow of hill; commence descending; 10.36 gulch; runs W. 12.21 wagon road; 13.64 "Post 2, Summit Mine No. 2," set in a mound of earth on S. boundary line of the Armagh mine, from which "Post 1, Armagh Mine," bears N 79 deg. E. 2.49 chains; 19.65 "Post 3, Summit Mine No. 2," set in mound of earth on south B L. of the Santa Niño mine; 20.31 trail runs E-W, commence descending; 21.21 wagon road runs N.-S.; 22.72 "Post 4, Summit Mine No. 2," set in mound of earth on W. cor. of claim, from which the entrance to the open cut leading into the Santa Niño tunnel bears S. 28½ deg. W. 45 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E., (2) N. 50 deg. E. .74 intersection of the north B. L. of the Santa Niño mine; set a post in mound of earth in the bottom of an old prospecting cut; cut bears NW. & SE.; marked the post "Post 5, Summit Mine No. 2," from which "Post 18, Santa Niño Mine," bears S. 80 deg. W. 2.85 chains; 1.89 wagon road runs N. & S., 4.54 "Post B, Summit Mine No. 2," on northwest end of line of lode; 7.88 "Post 2, Summit Mine No. 2," standing in mound of earth at intersection of north boundary line of the Armagh mine, from which "Post 1, Armagh Mine," bears S. 11 deg. E. 11.76 chains; 9.09 "Post 7, Summit Mine No. 2," standing on N. cor. of claim, from which the Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument bears 54 deg. E. 50 links.

Description of Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument as described in the field notes of survey of the Armagh mine: The Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument is built on the apex of a red rocky point at the intersection of Ygnacio Ravine and Cerro Gordo cañon, and very precisely on the W. B. line of the Ygnacio mine (as surveyed for a patent in the year 1875 by Jos. Seely, U. S. Dep. Min. Sur.), and distant 17.51 chains from the southwest corner stake of the Ygnacio mine.

At the point above given I drilled a hole in the rock to a depth of 9 inches, in which drove a piece of gas pipe 1 inch in dia. x16 inches long. On top of gas pipe, set a post 4x4 inches square, x4 feet long, around which built a monument of rocks 5 feet high x5 feet in dia. at its base; marked the top of post "U. S. Min'l Monument. Erected Jan'y 31, A. D. 1880. by Wm. Crapo, U. S. Dep. Min. Sur., under authority of the U. S. Sur. Gen'l for Cal'a."

From said post in mineral monument, with a variation of 15 deg. 55 min. E. the extreme end of the bluff on which the monument is situated, bears N. 25 deg. W. 17 links. The east edge of ridge at the top of a vertical face of rock, 7½ feet high, bears N. 60 deg. E. 7 links. The NE. cor. of an old adobe vasco chimney bears S. 38 deg. 16 min. W. 16 links. The middle of the Beshaw toll road at a point where it turns out of Cerro Gordo Cañon bears N. 81¾ deg. W. 1.06 chains. The middle of Cerro Gordo Cañon bears N. 62 chains. The NW. cor. of Rafael Diaz's house bears S. 28 deg. 33 min. E. 1.58 chains. An old well 30 feet deep on the north side of Cerro Gordo Cañon bears N. 58 deg. 20 min. W. 1.93 chs. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E. (3) S. 40 deg. E. .93 W. boundary of Ygnacio mine. Set a post in mound of rocks and earth; marked post "Post 8, summit Mine No. 2," from which the Armagh U. S. mineral monument bears N. 11 deg. W. 1.03 chains. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 E. commence descending. (4) S. 11 deg. E. 3.36 intersection of N. B. line of the Santa Niño mine at "Post 20, Santa Niño Mine;" marked the post "Post 9, Summit Mine No. 2." Post stands in mound of earth on top edge of Ygnacio dump. 3.66 W. edge of open cut at entrance to Ygnacio tunnel. 6.39 post marked "Post 10, Santa Niño Mine" on south boundary line of Santa Niño mine; marked the post "Post 10, Summit Mine No. 2;" 8.15 trail on ridge; runs E. & W. 16.49 "Post No. 2, Ygnatio Mine," on southwest corner of Ygnacio mine, marked the post "Post 11, Summit Mine No. 2," from which the entrance to the Summit tunnel at a point where the tunnel first enters ore, bears N. 33¾ deg. W. .98 links. Course of Summit tunnel for first 185 feet from mouth or entrance N. 59 deg. 6 min. E. The middle of wagon road in bottom of gulch bears S. 50 deg. W. 9 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E., commence ascending. (5) N. 79 deg. E. 1.51, post marked "Post No. 7, Y. M.," standing on SE. cor. Ygnacio mine; marked the post "Post 12, Summit Mine No. 2," from which a pine tree 9 inches dia. x14 feet high bears S. 20 deg. E. 1.40 chains. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E. (6) N. 11 deg. W. 7.57 summit of ridge bears W. commence descending. 8.33 old dump at entrance to a tunnel runs E. 10.08 "Post 21, Santa Niño Mine" on south boundary line of Santa Niño mine; marked the post "Post 13, Summit Mine No. 2." 12.12. east edge of Ygnacio open cut. 13.11 "Post 22, Santa Niño Mine," on north boundary line of Santa Niño mine; marked the post "Post 14, Summit Mine No. 2." 13.75 set a post on east boundary line of Ygnacio mine; marked the post "Post 15, Summit Mine No. 2" from which the entrance to the "Hubbard tunnel" bears N. 20 deg. W. 25 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E. commence ascending. (7) S. 40 deg. E. .76 intersection of north boundary line of Santa Niño mine. Set a post on slope of Ygnacio dump; marked the post "Post 16, summit Mine No. 2." 3.13 intersection of the east boundary line of the Santa Niño mine, and the west boundary line of the Occident mine. Set a post in a mound of earth and marked the post "Post 17, Summit Mine No. 2," from which the southwest corner of the Occident mine bears S. 11 deg. E. 11.02 chains. 6.75 old prospecting cut on east side of summit of "Ygnacio Hill;" cut bears E. & W. 8.30 prospecting cut bears W.; commence descending. 9.14 west edge of old shaft. 11.40 coursing of wagon road runs south. 12.50 "Post 18, Summit Mine No. 2" standing on east boundary line of the Occident mine, from which "Post 5, Occident Mine," bears S. 11 deg. E. 2.83 chains. 15.72 gulch; runs south. 18.66 "Post 19, Summit Mine No. 2," standing in mound of earth on east corner of claim, from which a pine bush 3 links high bears S. 68 deg. E. 3 poles. Thence, with a var. of 15 deg. 55 min. E. (8) S. 50 deg. W. 4.54 "Post A, Summit Mine No. 2" on southeast end of lode line. 5.00 gulch; runs west. 9.09 "Post 1, Summit Mine No. 2," place of beginning.

Containing 18.34-100 acres.

The location of this mine is recorded in the Recorder's office of Cerro Gordo Mining District in Book "F," page 43 of said record. The adjoining claimants are George T. Hawley and W. A. Greenly.

Any and all persons claiming adversely any portion of said Summit Mine No. 2, as hereinbefore described are required to file their adverse claim with the Register of the United States Land Office at Bodie, in the State of California, during the sixty days period of publication hereof, or they will be barred by virtue of the provisions of the Statute.

State Division Agitation.

Some of our Democratic contemporaries in the orange region of Southern California are amusing themselves by agitating the question of a division of this State. They say that San Francisco is so bad a city that they are injured by political connection with it. They complain that the rascally movement for taxing them to support the "brush dam" infamy is an oppression which they had not ought to bear without exhausting all means of resistance. In short, they want a less costly and more honest State Government, and can see no better way of getting it than by separation from the north. The movement is so preposterous as hardly to be worth an argument to convince any reasonable person of its futility; but as these people seem to be in earnest, and as they have issued, or are about to issue, a call for a Division Convention, to meet at Los Angeles during Fair week, it may save them further waste of time and effort to present a few facts and figures on the subject.

The first fact that confronts them is found in Section 3, Article IV, of the Federal Constitution. It prohibits the formation of new States "within the jurisdiction of any other State, or by the junction of two or more States, without the consent of the Legislature of the States concerned, as well as of the Congress." As a large majority of the members of the Legislature of this State always have and always will come from the counties far north of the line of proposed division, there can be no reasonable hope that the consent of the Legislature will ever be given to such division: even if the consent of Congress could be obtained, which is very doubtful, as all the great States would incline to opposition, to conserve their influence in the Senate, which has been impaired in recent years by the too hasty admission of new States so feeble in population as not to be entitled to one member of the House upon a fair apportionment. This might suffice to bring an end to the movement. But we prefer to give a few more facts.

The counties to be invited to send representatives to the Division Convention at Los Angeles are San Diego, Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Ventura, Santa Barbara, and San Luis Obispo. Inyo and Kern will probably be included. This would embrace about one-third of the area of California. But it also embraces all of the desert land, a great deal of the untimbered mountains, none of the principal rivers and but a small fraction of the rich agricultural lands. The population of the eight counties, by the census of 1880, was as follows;

	Population
San Diego	8,618
San Bernardino	7,786
Santa Barbara	9,522
San Luis Obispo	9,142
Los Angeles	33,379
Kern	5,601
Inyo	2,928
Ventura	5,073
Total	82,049

This is not 20,000 more than the population of Nevada, nor half as much as that of Oregon, the States that are lowest in the list; and it is but half enough to entitle the proposed new State to one member under the Congressional Apportionment bill introduced last session. Hence Congress would decidedly object to the division. But the worst is yet to come. A State without resources is ridiculous. Let us see what would be the taxable resources of the proposed new State. The Controller's report for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1880, gave these figures: For the entire State, total taxable values, real and personal, $549,142,510; total State taxes, $3,432,141. Of this grand aggregate of taxables and taxes, the eight southern counties that are ambitious to be formed into a separate State figured as follows;

	Taxables.	Taxes.
San Diego	$2,994,465	$18,700
Los Angeles	16,154,477	100,965
Santa Barbara	3,725,389	24,283
San Luis Obispo	4,114,834	25,717
San Beroardino	2,586,221	16,163
Ventura	2,894,289	18,089
Kern	4,790,128	29,938
Inyo	1,083,862	6,774
Totals	$38,312,665	$239,638

Colorado, the newest of all the States, has a taxable capital of $43,000,000; Oregon, $46,000,000, and Nebraska $100,000,000. The expenditures of Nevada are $362,000 a year, Nebraska, $1,569,000; Oregon, $392,000; and these are not extravagant State Governments by comparison with what the new one would be. They now have the use of the California State Capitol, State Prison and Lunatic Asylums. They would begin operations as a State by creating a debt of $500,000 for a Capitol; $200,000 for a State Prison, and $200,000 for a Lunatic Asylum; total, $900,000; interest ai 6 per cent, $54,000 a year. They would have left but $185,000 a year at the present tax rates to run the State Government, its schools, courts, Legislature, Executive Department, prisons, charities and other institutions. They would pay high salaries, and inevitable collapse and bankruptcy would shortly ensue; for their local taxes are 60 per cent higher than the State taxes. All of the counties together fall $6,000,000 short of the taxables of the single county of Alameda, and have but 7 per cent of the taxables of the State, and but 17 per cent of the taxables of San Francisco. Under such conditions it is absurd to talk about a separate State Government. It is a job in the interest of Democratic gentlemen who want to be Senators, United States District Judges, State Supreme Judges, etc.—S. F. Chronicle.

Picture of the Future.

The Salt Lake Tribune publishes an annexed sensible peep into the future:

Men in the United States should think when they see a baby in its crib, that when that baby becomes twenty-five years of age, there will be 100,000,000 people struggling in competition for food, for clothing, for fortunes and positions in the United States. The public land of any value will be absorbed, the mines will all about be discovered and appropriated; the working force of the Nation through steam viil be quadrupled and the baby of to-day, when he reaches man's estate, and turns his face toward the world from which he must wrest a livelihood, will find it a harsh world, peopled thick with eager men and calculating women, and unless a fortune is given him at the start, it will be a rough encounter which he will meet. The mere laborer will then have a rough time indeed. By that time electric engines of one man power will be for sale for a song, and the cost of running them is infinitely less than to give a poor man simple bread and water. The work which steam engines can do now is simply terrible, but their field of action is being extended daily, daily they are closing up avenues of labor against the poor, daily the circle in which the poor find opportunities to make a livelihood is being reduced. Our free schools are doing a world of good, but they are not fully preparing the children of to-day for what awaits them, when the work falls from the hands that are performing it now, and they take it up. No schools can make that preparation, but the present modes can be wonderfully improved upon. The parents and guardians of this generation have responsibilities greater than ever fall on parents and guardians before in this country. Each one of them should study the child or children in his care and determine, be the child rich or poor, that he shall go out into the world fully prepared, though his knowledge of how to perform some useful thing, to wrest an honest living from the sharp competition which will surround him. There is no other safe way, and where there is an aptness for any particular occupation, this should be encouraged. If possible the field of industry should be extended. There are too many bookeepers, too many clerks, and not enough mechanics. And then there should not be such a shrinking from the less pretentious employments of life. It is not what a man does but how he does it that should be estimated. When, fifty years hence, the stranger in New York City visits the Cooper Institute and estimates all the good it has done in the past and is to do in the future, and then goes out to see where the bones of the founders are buried; if he remembers that the earnest and great-hearted men whose dust is beneath the sods before him, commenced life by boiling the hoofs of animals and making glue from them, it will not be looked back upon with reproach, but rather as an honor to him. The thought which must be impressed more than ever is that capable and intelligent work and a knowledge of how to perform it is the only insurance which a man can have in life.

THE following form for notice of location taken from the Reporter, published at Washington, is commendable for its brevity, and contains some features new to many. It will be well to clip it out and keep it for reference:

Notice of Location—Bulldozer Lode—The undersigned, having complied with the requirements of the Mining Act of Congress, approved May 10, 1872, and the local laws, customs and regulations of Amazon Mining District, have located 1,500 linear feet of the Bulldozer lode, bearing gold, silver and other metals, with six hundred feet of surface ground, situated at the head of Burt Gulch, and about 400 feet northerly from the northeast line of the Boomerang lode, in Amazon Mining District, Summit county, Utah Territory. The said Bulldozer lode being more fully described as follows, to wit: Commencing at a post A, being discovery; running northwesterly 100 feet to post B; thence 750 feet northeasterly to post C; thence 750 feet southeasterly to post D; thence 1,500 feet southwesterly to post E; thence 500 feet northwesterly to post F; thence 750 feet to post B. John Q. Jones, locator. Measured and staked off in the presence of Richard Doe, John Doe. Located July 15, 1881.

A Gigantic Engineering Enterprise.

From the headwaters of the Mississippi and the northwestern extremity of Lake Superior a long, narrow valley, known as Mackenzie's valley, commences, which continues upon an almost dead level nortwestward until it reaches the Arctic ocean, a distance of over 2,000 miles. This immense valley is flanked on the west by the Rocky mountains, while upon its Eastern side nothing nothing but a low table separates it from the waters of Hudson's bay. No part of the valley reaches an elevation of 650 feet above the sea level, and throughout its entire length it is covered at intervals with a great number of lakes, several of which, as Slave lake, Great Bear Lake and Lake Winnepeg, are about equal in area to Lake Erie. The waters from about two-thirds of this area flow northward into the Arctic. The southern portion finds a drainage in Hudson's bay. It is said to be practicable to throw a dam across the Mackenzie's valley at a point near the latitude of Slave lake, and another at a point through which a drainage is effected into Hudson's bay, by which the waters of this immense tract of country may be so impounded as to form a continuous lake some 1,500 miles in length by 200 in width. The southern end of the lake would be separated from Lake Superior by a slight elevation, which might be easily cut through to a short affluent to Lake Superior, and through which steam navigation might be readily established and made continuous for 1,500 miles or more, to the northern extremity of the artificial lake, and from thence, by locks, into the Mackenzie river and the Arctic ocean.

In addition to the new navigable area which would thus be established, this lake, by a connection with the Mississippi, which could be easily effected, would also serve as an immense reservoir for rendering the upper waters of that river navigable at all seasons of the year. It would furthermore contribute the surplus water needed for the proposed ship canal from Cairo, Ill., to Lake Erie, which has been proposed as a straight line of communication through the lakes and St. Lawrence river, the Straits of Belle Isle, to Europe. These enterprises, so magnificent in conception, it is claimed, could be carried out at a cost quite insignificant in comparison with the immense industrial and commercial advantages which would result from their completion.

Necessity of Mining Patents.

The Austin Reveille, in an article on the necessity of procuring Government titles to mines, says: Many prospectors do not realize the necessity of procuring a patent to their mines before knowing them to be of great value, as a certain preventive of any future litigation in regard to the matter. Thus many work away till they find good pay dirt, and when their claim is known to be really of value and the owners proceed to patent it, claimants spring up on every side and a long litigation begins, which results in, if not the loss of property, so much expense as to swallow up the profits for a long period. These false claimants, by the use of money or some technicality of law, or in some instances pure cheek, can establish such a hold as is very difficult to shake off, as many have found to their sorrow. The only way to prevent to a certainty, any such outcome is to have the patent procured at so early a stage of development that no one will have any reason or excuse for interference. Then the properties can be worked and the owners feel perfect security in its possession, whatever happens. Should it prove a bonanza, they have a perfect title. On the other hand, if it proves worthless, the loss is comparatively trifling.

THE Northern Pacific Railroad Company and the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company have united in putting a scientific expedition in the field for the purpose of examining into the mineral, agricultural and other resources of the territory tributary of the two companys between Lake Superior and the Pacific Coast. Prof. R. Pumpelly, until now in charge of the coal and iron department of the last national census, has been appointed chief of the vast field of operations, which will be explored by separate parties under the direction of Prof. Pumpelly. The latter has already started for Montana for an examination of the principal mining districts in that Territory. The task of the expedition will extend through several years.

THE marvelous cure of waters gushing from the rocks is attested by the experience of a gentleman who has been in the habit of drinking from a rocky spring in Central Park, New York. He says that it has cured him of a large number of complaints that once troubled him. It has relieved his rhuematism; it has stopped a tendency toward consumption; it has checked severe beating of the heart—in short, he declares that water has done him incalculable good. He says that he always feels better after he has taken a drink of that water, that it makes him sleep sweetly, that it gives him a good appetite, and that he cannot get along without it. An investigation revealed that the marvelous spring was a leak in the Croton pipes.

DR. HAMMOND told a newspaper reporter that the second operation on the President was "a step in heroic surgery." His remark reminds the Brooklyn Eagle of the question once put by a quizzical professor to a student who had the reputation of being the stupidest member of his class. "What is heroic surgery?" asked the professor. "The kind that leaves the heroic exclusively to the patient," was the answer.

Walker's Pass.

It is well known to the residents of this valley that Walker's pass is one of the most accessible points for a transcontinental line of communication that can be found in the entire length of the Sierra Nevada range. The summit of the pass is entirely below the pine belt, and may be easily approached from the west with very little ascent from Owens valley on the east. After passing into the valley of the South Fork of Kern River no obstacles are encountered until after crossing the main Kern. Eight or ten miles of heavy grading and blasting would be necessary in following the main Kern from the mouth of the South Fork to this valley; but altogether it is believed to be a route unsurpassed by any other, either in gradients, curvatures, length, or cost of construction, in bringing San Francisco into close commercial relation with the East. It is the best natural road that crosses the mountains at any point; beside, it is much nearer the latitude of San Francisco than Tehachepi, and in making a connection with the Union Pacific its adoption would seem to be almost a necessity.—Visalia Delta.

JOHN MALONEY, the soldier who in 1822, saved the life of the little Princess Victoria, has issued a pamphlet complaining that one who saved the life of the Queen ought not, at the age of eighty-two, to be dependent for support on a military pension of sixpence a day. The young Princess was driving in Kensington Gardens when the pony ran away and turned over the carriage, and the Princess would probably have been killed had not Maloney rushed forward and grasped her. He attended the child to the palace, where he received a guinea and the thanks of the Duchess of Kent.

NO ELECTION.

The supreme Court on the 19th denied the application of plaintiff in the suit of Treadwell against the Board of Supervisors of Yolo county, for a writ of mandate, to compel defendants to prepare for a county election; thereby in effect declarlng that there will be no county election this Fall, outside of San Francisco. The opinion filed considers the effect of the revision of the provisions of the Act of March 7, 1881, and declares that the Act changing the time of holding county elections is not unconstitutional. Judges McKinstry and Ross dissent in separate opinions.

But it may be some comfort to their Honors of the majority to know that their opinion coincides exactly with that held by THE INDEPENDENT from the first.

SIR CHARLES TUPPER, Minister of Railways and Canal of the Dominion of Canada, accompanied by a party of friends, have arrived in San Francisco, en route to British Columbia. The object of their visit is to inspect the Pacific section of the Canada-Pacific Railroad, to examine the condition and progress of the work and the location of that portion of the road between Burrard Inlet and Yale, and from there on to Kamloops. Under the agreement entered into the syndicate have to build and complete the road by July 1, 1891. On this being done they will enter into possession, the Dominion Government paying them $25,000,000 cost and 25,000,000 acres of land. Sir Charles Tupper states that the object of the delegate sent by the British Columbia Government to England was to induce the British Government to urge the Dominion Government to construct a line of railroad from Esquimalt, on Vancouver's Island, to Nanaimo, the center of the island coal district.

LEVISON, an English Jew, traveling on business in Russia, was last year refused entrance to St. Petersburg, and subjected to considerable pecuniary loss in consequence. He was also ordered to leave the country instantly, and though he complained to Parliament, no redress has ever been offered by Russia. Now he has been furnished a special passport, and has returned to the Czar's dominions to try his luck again, and it remains to be seen if the Russian Government will abate its usual hostility to men of his race and faith under the circumstances. As England has shown her inability to compel compliance with her remonstrances on the subject, it is possible that no more respect will be shown Mr. Levison than on the former occasion.

A MILD sort of a railroad war has broken out between the Southern Pacific and South Pacific Coast Railroads. Rates have been reduced from $2 to $1 per ton on freight over both roads, between San Francisco and San Jose. The managers of the Southern Pacific say that the Narrow-Gauge road agreed to establish the rates adopted by the older roads, and that the South Pacific Coast Road has violated other verbal agreements entered into. President Davis, on the other hand, charges that the Southern Pacific began to cut rates a week before it was known to him. He also denies that his company has violated any agreement or broken any pledge whatever with the Southern Pacific authorities.

THE State Board of Equalization met on the 16th at Sacramento, and resolved to proceed at once upon its annual visitation to every county in the State. And now the question arises: Why didn't that honorable body of equalizers visit this county last year? Too much staging and alkali dust and all that sort of thing, perhaps, for the small amount of equalization Inyo would require at their hands.

THE liquor license law of Nebraska is a pretty severe one, and the liquor men had it constitutionally tested. It stood the test. The law compels saloon-keepers to pay $1,000 license, and give bonds in the sum of $5,000 in cities of over 10,000 inhabitants. In cities of under 10,000 the license is $500.

THE Tuscarora (Nev.) Times-Review says: Since the Eureka and Colorado road has become a fixed fact, property along the proposed route has advanced enormously in price. Ranches that could have been purchased for $5,000 and $10,000 two weeks ago, are now valued at $100,000.

The Hour, a weekly paper published in New York, makes the positive announcement that the Hon. Samuel J. Tilden is in the field as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for President in 1880.

THE STATE DIVISION QUESTION.

The question of State division now comes up for consideration. Inyo county, in common with the others which are to constitute the territory of the proposed new State, is invited to send delegates to a convention to be held in Los Angeles next month to confer on the division question. That convention will have the power to end the agitation at once, should a majority vote against the proposition, and, on the other hand, will likewise have the power to place the question squarely before the people to be agitated until Congress itself gives it its quietus. In this way it may be kept a live issue for several years. Such agitation may prove a good advertising dodge, but that, as we look at it, is all the good that can possibly come of it.

Before incurring so much cost and trouble for such advertising, it would be well to see if the goods are worth it. The present population of the proposed new State is not sufficient to respectably sustain a State government. What chances are there to materially enlarge this population, and to secure new subjects for taxation? Very small, indeed, agriculturally considered; plenty of "land," as shown on the maps, for a million or two of people, but, owing to the plentiful lack of water, in the whole vast area there are hardly ten thousand new homes to be taken or worth advertising. Surely, there is no chance for adequate agricultural expansion—unless certain grant holders should decide to let go their grasp on their principalities so that they might be populated, likewise taxed.

There are but two chances for the new State to secure and maintain a sufficient population. These are, first and most promising, its great, undeveloped mineral resources, and, second, the establishment of manufacturies. But local capital will not do to depend on to work up either of these, and the extra tax for the new State government will effectually bar outside capital and energies, the latter being especially needed in a country whose leading stock in trade has heretofore been so largely made up of orange-scented climate.

The material facts and figures bearing on this new State proposition are well set forth in an article to be found on the first page of this issue, which we copy from the San Francisco Chronicle, and to which we invite attention.

But as Inyo is proposed as a part of the new State, we may consider the matter a moment from a local standpoint. An Act of our Legislature, approved April 18, 1859, and upon which the present movement is based, gave the consent of the State to the formation of a new State within its borders, subject, first, to a two-thirds favorable vote of the people in the territory to comprise the new State, and, finally, to the approval of Congress. It is held by some that this act still holds good. If so taken as the present base, Inyo cannot form a part of the new State, because the act in question fixed the 6th standard south as the line of division, and Inyo all lies north of said standard. We are satisfied, however, that that act is void—it made it mandatory upon the Governor to submit the question of withdrawal to a vote of the people living within the territory to be segregated to be voted upon at the next succeeding general election. It was not so submitted or voted upon. Nor is it likely it would have stood a constitutional test if the said people had given the required vote in favor, and if Congress itself had approved, simply because the people in the remainder of the State were to have no vote in the matter, though equally interested. The whole business was the off-spring of the slave question, which culminated in the war two years later, and the preliminary rumblings of which also served to prevent further action toward State division at that time. But it don't matter about those things. The Dividers may as well begin entirely anew, without reference to that act of 1859. They will do better, however, to not take the trouble to begin at all. There's "nothing in it" for themselves or anybody. Los Angeles and Santa Barbara are both lovely cities, but, somehow, neither, in the eyes of a desert "back country," are precisely suited for a State capital. And if they are not, there is no place on their side of the Sixth Standard south that is. Any way, Inyo county will oppose this new State project, no matter in which division she may be legislated.

AT Candelaria, about 6 o'clock on the morning of the 24th, Joe Burwick, alias Black Joe, while chopping wood in front of his house, was shot and instantly killed by some unknown person. He had been up all night gambling and just went home. Two shots were plainly heard and it is thought several persons in town saw the deed but they cannot be found.

FIFTY new passenger cars on paper wheels, and running easily as Pullman's, have just reached the New Jersey Central, from Springfield, Mass.

VICE PRESIDENT ARTHUR'S POSITION.

The New York Tribune says: Whatever conclusion the Cabinet may have reached the counselors of the Vice President have urged that the Cabinet cannot take upon itself to decide when inability of the President exists. It is known that Gen. Arthur will not heed any call or suggestion of the Cabinet as to acting in the place of the President. It is safe to say that while Arthur will not disregard any request of the Cabinet, or of Blaine at its head, to come to Washington, he is adverse to doing so while the President lives. Precedents in like cases show that there is no absolute need that the Vice President should qualify immediately on the death of the President, and in General Arthur's case there is nothing pressing in national affairs to warrant any undue haste on his part in the event of the death of President Garfield. A personal friend says: "If the opportunity is given Vice President Arthur through the threatened calamity to the country he will prove much of a statesman, though regarded as a politician merely. The personal relations of Arthur with President Garfield are even pleasant, much less hostile. After the resignation of Conkling and Platt and when it was finally decided that there was no way open for a compromise or reconciliation, Arthur said plainly to President Garfield that he felt bound in honor to sustain his two friends, and added: 'I trust, Mr. President, you will not think there is anything personal to you in my action.' The President, in his usual hearty way, took hold of Gen. Arthur's shoulder and said: 'Personally, my dear fellow, I know you have no such petty feelings at all.'"

HOPE ALMOST ABANDONED.

The following is the latest in reference to President Garfield's chances, being up to 11:30 P. M., of the 25th: "The prevailing impression here in unofficial circles is that the President is rapidly sinking and will not live more than twenty-four hours. His pulse is high, and as the discharge of pus has almost entirely ceased, the worst fears are entertained. Two of the physicians say that the President cannot live longer than a week at the farthest. A shadow of gloom has spread over the whole city, and the White House is a scene o sorrow to-night. The President, however, does not believe he is going to die, although he is weaker to-night than for some time previous. The Cabinet members are all in the sickroom. Mrs. Garfield is still hopeful."

We are not, in view of the tenor of the dispatches during the week, in the least surprised to now hear such exceedingly sorrowful news. Nevertheless, we share in Mrs. Garfield's hopefulness while breath remains in her noble husband's body.

THE San Francisco Post gives further particulars of the death of Geo. Daly: He finally turned up in New Mexico, where he was in charge of a mine owned by G. D. Roberts. Here the Indians on the 18th attacked the Fort Bliss garrison under Lieut. Schaffer, and were repulsed. Daly, in company with Lieut. G. W. Smith, of Virginia, seventeen soldiers and some citizens, followed the Indians. Daly and the Lieutenant took the lead. About fifteen miles from the mines they ran on to the Indians, who had caused their horses to pass through a small cañon while they took the hills. George and the Lieutenant coming up, rushed through the cañon, and were killed almost instantly by the Indians on the hills. They shot Daly five times. They took Lieut. Smith's clothing from him, piled it up about his face and set it on fire, but did not do anything with Daly other than take his gun and pistol. Daly's body was taken by the soldiers and turned over to Mr. McDonald, who took it to the valley. Daly was 38 years of age and leaves a wife, three children and a brother in this city.

SINCE Georgia has taken an interest in the manufacture of raw fabrics, the value of the raw material has been more carefully calculated, and found to realize the reasonable expectations of those who give a commercial handling of the article. Mr. Hammett, President of the Piedmont factory, of Georgia, thus figures down the profits of a bale of cotton, made into sheetings. "Cost of bale, $45; cost of manufacturing, transportation and commission, $23 62; total cost, $68 62. Produce of the bale, made into sheetings, $86 16; net profits, $17 54." A New Orleans paper, in commenting on the showing, says: "Including the amount paid in wages, the manufacture of a bale of cotton into coarse goods leaves $31 91 behind in the place which manufactures it, almost as much as the total value of the cotton." Cotton factories are multiplying rapidly in the South, and the proprietors are looking forward to a time, not far in the distance, when they will be active competitors in the foreign markets for the sale of their cotton goods.

Indian Troubles—George Daly Killed.

A press dispatch from Santa Fe, dated on the 21st, says:

On the 18th instant, Lieut. Taylor had a fight in the San Mateo mountains, capturing a band of Indians and twenty horses. The Indians are in several parties moving southward. Every available man under the command of Gen. Hatch is either in the field or guarding the settlements. The number of troops is too small, however, and the people are arming for self-protection.

A delegation of citzens of Socorro are now here, asking the Governor to call call out the militia for protecting the settlements and mining camps. Three volunteer companies are forming at Albuquerque for service, should the Navajoes become restless. So far the troops have had six fights with the hostiles. During the raids some thirty persons have been killed, and the soldiers have lost about twenty men in killed and wounded.

Advices from Cuchelsnegro, under date of Aug. 16th, states that the Navajoes are not on the warpath. Some Indians and Mexicans had a row, in which two Indians and one Mexican were killed, but all is apparantly quiet today.

The Canyon train which left here for Silver Cliff to-night, and for the safety of which fears were entertained this evening, has been heard from. It is lying twelve miles west of here between two streams, the bridges over which have been swept away. From the number of ties, bridges, etc., which floated by here this evening, it is estimated that the railroad will not be open to Silver Cliff for nearly a week.

The New Orleans Democrat's El Paso (Tex.) special says: Reliable intelligence was received to-day of a fight on the 18th inst. between Lieut. Schaffer of the Fort Bliss garrison and Indians near Laks valley, a hundred miles northwest of El Paso, in which Lieut. Smith, four soldiers and George Daly, the celebrated mining expert, and owner of extensive mines in Colorado, were killed. Lieut. Schaffer was wounded. The negro soldiers fled when the Indians made the attack, and hence the casualities.

Tichborne-Ferris Again.

A new and surprising episode of the Tichborne-Ferris romance has just occurred, it being no less than the sudden resurrection of the long missing valet, Jules Berraud, who was alleged to have put his master Roger Tichborne on board the Bella. A letter has been sent to Mrs. Earl, daughter of Ferris-Tichborne, signed Jules Berraud, and purporting to be written by that person, in which it alleges that he, the writer, knows Ferris to be Sir Roger Tichborne, and is prepared to substantiate the truth of the latter's story about his transit of South America and his occupancy of a position in a Federal regiment during the rebellion. He admits that he did desert his master when the latter was taken with fever, and that he was aware of the proceedings of Arthur Orton to obtain the Tichborne title and estates, but that he had sufficient reasons for not coming forward at that time. We are afraid that this letter of the pseudo-Jules Berraud will not convince the world that Ferris is Tichborne. There is one little circumstance which the writer fails to explain, moreover, which puts him in an awkward position. The actual valet, Jules Berraud, wrote letters to England immediately after the embarkment of Roger Tichborne on the Bella, relating the event, he at the time being ignorant of the loss of the vessel. The new Jules Berraud had better turn his attention to these letters, which were produced in the course of the trial, and try his hand in explaining them, and making them harmonize with the present version. Until he has done that the public will do well to withhold all credence from his statements, and await further developments. The present indications are that the letter is a trick to bolster up the Ferris-Tichborne story.—Record-Union.

LOCATION AND LODE DISCOVERY.—In a recent case before the Commissioner of the General Land Office an attempt was made to oust a locator on the ground of illegality, because no vein or lode had been discovered prior to location, and none had been discovered since. The Commissioner declined to order an investigation, because of the want of proper evidence, there being nothing but allegations to sustain the charge. In attempts of this kind to secure an investigation, the charge must be sustained by the strongest evidence. In this connection it is proper to say that if the Commissioner of the General Land Office had a telephonic connection with every locator of a mine in the country, and was asked the question, "What to do?" he would advise each and all, under any and all circumstances, to obtain a patent the first thing and before development. Why? Because it is likely to avoid vexation and expensive litigation. It rarely occurs that an adverse claim is put in before a mine is shown to be valuable; then the claimants swarm like mosquitoes, and like that bird are after blood, and will put every obstacle in the way of a legitimate locator to prevent him from obtaining his own. It is no exaggeration to say that fully three-fourths of the adverse claimants to the mines have really no claim at all, but set up proceedings for the sole purpose of being bought off, and in this way are too frequently successful, for their fraudulent claims cannot always be discovered in the Land Office, for it is a simple matter to get up any required evidence by a combination of interests. And this is really combination work, for one who has great facilities for knowing what comes in the General Land Office, says there are undoubtedly organized bodies of men whose sole business is to get up adverse claims throughout the mineral regions. They have no other business, and some of them have been very successful at it, that is, made fortunes. It is one of the evils inseparable from mining, and cannot be prevented so long as locators do not promptly obtain a patent for their claims. Better far lose a little something on a false lead occasionally, by paying the expense of patenting, than when a good strike is made, be hampered by a band of unprincipled harpies as base as their unprincipled counsel.—Cor. Inter-Mountain.

IN Georgia there is a region covering about one-fourth of the State, in which the water on and near the surface of the ground is found to be unhealthy and unpalatable. A Mr. Fort, with a desire to procure a better supply of the aqueous element, had an artesian well put down on his premises to the depth of 530 feet, which struck a volume of excellent water. The stream rises a distance of ten feet above the surface of the ground, and flows at the rate of six or eight gallons a minute. This item of information possesses general interest, as indicating that there is no part of the country where water will not probably be found, if the artesian auger goes down deep enough.—Call.

PERSONAL.—Henry M. Isaacs, who, this day, flings his business card to the Willow's breeze, is well and favorably known in commercial circles in California and Nevada for over a quarter of a century. In Inyo county of this State his straightforward dealings were so appreciated by the citizens of that section that they made him its custodian of the county funds for the long period of ten years. On the Hassayampa Creek, Arizona, recently, six teamsters, with six horses each, thirty-six animals in all, unhooked for the night in the creek; about nine o'clock a cloud burst to the north and a solid volume of water ten feet high came down stream carrying everything before it. The men had barely time to crawl up the banks, but the horses, teams and freight, were carried down the stream, and at last accounts not the slightest trace of anything could be found. If the loss is as bad as reported it will foot up nearly $10,000. One account says that $26,000 was lost.

Copper Smelting.

D. E. Jones of Bodie, and San Francisco parties have taken hold of the Bluestone copper mine in Jordan District, one mile from the mouth of Mill Creek Cañon, and on Wednesday ground was broken for the erection of a smelter, which will be erected immediately. The Bluestone is a large and very rich copper vein, carrying about 72 per cent. of copper, $10 to $12 per ton in silver and traces of gold. The facilties for smelting are excellent, and the company has just located ample ground for smelting works on that branch of Mill Creek that cuts across the Bodie road northward to Grant's station and sweeps along the base of the hill under the mine.—Bodie Free Press.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, AUGUST 27.....1881

LONE PINE.—We learn that the Lone Piners have a way of putting the local doings before the people entirely original; for instance: Wemple kills a hog, and the Corporal immediately has a drawing showing a small hog with a large head surrounded by six bloody-minded men in the act of taking his life, Wemple, with his eye in a sling, being conspicuous. Then Dr. Gould has a friendly game of billiards with Dr. Stevenson, which the local artist represents too faithfully, so that it is not allowed to grace the front of the Whitney House after all good people are supposed to be in bed. The glory of the artists' gallery is a picture of the Glee Club, with Geo. Gregory and Dick Richards as end men. The ladies of the Club think it is fortunate that there is a Glee Club to afford the people amusement and something to talk about.

BEVERIDGE DISTRICT.—The Keynot mine continues to produce astonishingly rich gold ore. Taylor & McEvoy's 5-stamp mill made a partial clean up during the past week, after an eight day's run, and obtained $10,000 in gold bullion as a result. The Keynot is proving to be a first class mine, it having already produced about $75,000, with a comparatively small extent of development. Other claims in Beveridge are being prospected, which are said to be showing up as good as the Keynot. Considerable ore has been taken out, but there being only 5 stamps running in the district, the quartz cannot be crushed until another mill is erected.

LOOKS WELL—Joe Fernbach has been giving his Pioneer Brewery several touches of improvement, both solid and ornamental. Its general form and exterior shows the handsomest piece of architecture in the country, and under the skillful brush of Tully (Mr. P. J. S. Tully, for short) at present attracts attention on account of the tasteful coloring of the bright new paint. Besides, "Billy"—Wm. Kerstan, the new brewer—has not only demonstrated his complete mastership of the brewing art by what he is producing, but has gone a step ahead and almost entirely refitted the establishment from the cellar floors up. See the advertisement.

SNAIX.—Deputy Sheriff Stevens, with a large party of Lone Piners, returned from the Kern River fishing grounds during the week. The party report a plentiful catch of trout, but—the rattlesnakes are immense. They aver that there wasn't a drop of snake-juice in the camp, yet each one of the crowd regularly returned a killing of from one to five rattlers per day. Stevens says that if he were playing poker with them over there he could bet on a full hand of snakes every time, before the draw. Anyway, the rock crevices seemed to be full of them, and complaint is made that they do not give the usual warning rattle upon approach.

A GOOD WORK.—The old Eclipse bridge across the river about opposite Georges Creek is being reconstructed so as to permit of the passage of big teams. The material is on hand for new piling and additional flooring, Mr. H. P. Cartier having charge of the work. We understand the work is mainly due to the enterprise of the Shepherd brothers, assisted by Messrs. Harris & Rhine and others of this place. The object is, of course, to open a closer and more convenient means of reaching Beveridge District.

HONEY.—The new advertisement of Mr. Wm. Muth-Rasmussen, the scientific and practical bee-keeper, will be noted in the advertising columns this week. At the cheap rates which he offers a most excellent article of fine honey it would be well for families, and miners in the outlying camps especially, to give their merchants an order for his product, and try it once. For those with a sweet tooth there can be nothing better or cheaper.

SUPERIOR COURT.—Judge Hannah writes from San Francisco to County Clerk Crough, stating that he is suffering from Bright's disease and is at present unable to undertake the journey home. Private letters from Harry Isaacs and Joe Wasson, from San Francisco, state that the Judge's health is very bad, but that he intends setting out for home soon as possible.

A NEW LINE.—Mr. W. K. Miller has sub-contracted to carry the mail from Lone Pine to Cerro Gordo, leaving Lone Pine on Monday and Friday mornings and returning the days following, making connections with the Kern and Inyo Line. He will run a light wagon at least once a week, and the new accomodation will be put in operation next week.

A CHANGE.—By reference to the new advertisements it will be seen that our ancient friend Dan Williams has succeeded to the interest of Van Briesen in the Centennial Brewery at Lone Pine. That the beer is good is evidenced by the fact that Dan seems to stand the change of diet pretty well.

THE GRAND.—The new saloon of Richards & Castro, at Lone Pine, is announced in our advertising columns. It is the well known Peterson building, and mainly run by Dick Richards, who holds his old-time place in public popularity. Dick is a good 'un.

CONCERT.—The Lone Pine Glee Club, with quite a number of volunteer assistants, is "billed" for an entertainment at the Lone Pine school house to-night, for the benefit of Rev. F. M. Willis.

SCHOOL.—Barring unforeseen circumstances, school will commence in this place a week from next Monday, being the 5th of September.

TELEGRAPHIC.—Judge R. L. Peterson has completed his work of canvassing this part of the county for assistance to a telegraph line from Bodie here, and has gone on northward. We understand that, so far, he has received about $3,600 of the stated $5,000 necessary to induce a company to go ahead, and we presume the balance will be raised. No company will ever string a telegraph wire through this country, preceding a railroad, without some guarantee or exhibition of belief in its pecuniary success by the people. Hence the necessity of subscribing liberally—in the way of advance payment for telegraphing—in aid of the enterprise, but whether Mr. Peterson's scheme is the proper one to indorse we do not at present pretend to say. Upon the final organization of the company, which is to be headed by Messrs. Lent and Storey we will be able to give some particulars.

ANOTHER.—Another scholastic triumph is scored by one of our bright Inyo school girls—this time by Miss Elma Yaney, of Bishop Creek, who was first in a large class of candidates for admission to the Normal School at San Jose, and passed the examination brilliantly. The uniform success of our country girls at the schools, as compared to the city pupils, speaks well for our local schools.

THE LONE PINE SCHOOL.—Miss Mary Temple, a graduate of Oberlin College and an experienced teacher, is engaged to take charge of the public school at Lone Pine, beginning on the 5th of next month.

PERSONAL.—State Senator Thomas O'Callaghan, of New York, arrived in town to-day, with the intention of looking around the mines in the interest of himself and other Eastern capitalists.

FROM SOUTHERN NEVADA.

MONTEZUMA, Nev., Aug. 11.

MESSRS. EDITORS—Last mail a file of papers was received, (THE INYO INDEPENDENT among them) from Inyo, which indicated that a genuine mining boom had struck you; that old Inyo was waking up to its sense of duty. May your most sanguine hopes be realized, is the wish of many friends in this part of Esmeralda.

Anyway, I will make another venture to give your readers an additional idea concerning the mining operations in the Montezuma mountains.

THE FURNACE.

The smelting furnace, having made a very extraordinary run of three weeks, shut down on the 17th of last month, owing to the scarcity of water. The furnace also needed some slight repairs and alterations in the way of improvements. Mr. F. F. Thomas, under whose supervision the furnace has been running, has been busily engaged making the necessary improvements. Mr. Thomas resided in Inyo several years at Cerro Gordo, and was at Pine mountain, near Deep Spring valley, several months. He speaks well of the people of Inyo and its numerous mining resources; that the time will come when that county will take its place in the mining circles of the world, that there are mines in its dominion equal to those of any on the Pacific coast.

While the furnace was idle the company began prospecting for more water, in running a drift from the shaft in the tunnel. The work met with complete success. They struck a good stream of flowing water in the drift, so that the men were compelled to stop work for the present. The furnace started up again on the 3d of this month; and at the present writing the smelter can be distinctly heard booming along, reducing its twenty tons of ore daily, and yielding its four and a half tons of bullion. The company has made a shipment in the neighborhood of 1,600 bars, and have some 600 left stacked up near the furnace ready for shipment. Teams loaded for the mining camps of southern Esmeralda can rely on bullion as back freight from this place.

The bullion is shipped to San Francisco via Hawthorne, the terminus of the C. & C. R. R. The company have purchased a lot of galvanized pipe, for the purpose of condensing the steam, and it is thought as much as 80 per cent. of the water can be saved. The pipe has already arrived, and the men are busily engaged putting it together. No doubt it will prove a success. They have several hundred tons of ore, and several thousand bushels of coal on the dump, with more ore coming in daily from the mines. The wood and coal business is booming right along. The company pays 18 cents to contractors for burning coal, and take the coal after being sacked from the pit. The wages paid ranges from $3 50 to $4 50 as follows: teamsters, $3 50; furnacemen and miners, $4 00; engineers, $4 50; said wages being equal to any paid by mining companies in the State. The number of men on the pay roll for the present week is thought to be a little over 50. Those who have come here for employment have generally got it.

MINES.

The Bullion has an incline shaft 200 feet deep; has 250 feet of drifts, all in good ore. There has been 1,000 tons of ore extracted from this mine, and the ore in sight is estimated at 2,000 tons. The furnace is running steadily at present on ore from this mine. It was first located several years ago by two German boys, and purchased by the present company from them. The company built a good wagon road to this mine this Spring. The mine has a whim attached for the purpose of hoisting.

NEW YORK

Has an incline shaft 140 feet deep; no drifts as yet. This mine has yielded from sinking alone 500 tons of high grade lead ore. Is at present stoping near the surface, with limited force. It was first located by a German, who afterwards abandoned it, and was then located by J. B. Stodard, an old pioneer of the mountains, and sold to the company this Spring for $4,000.

THE NEVADA

Has three incline shafts 100 feet deep, all in good ore. This mine has an outcrop of mineral 1,000 feet along the surface; 200 tons have been extracted. It bids fair to be one of the principal mines in the district.

ARIZONA AND CARACCAS.

These mines have yielded handsomely in past days, but at the present time are idle. They are both, however, good properties, and will be worked again soon. The

MONTEZUMA BELLE

Is owned and run principally by the boys from Bishop Creek, and bids fair to prove prolific. The incline shaft has not been sunk to any great depth, but the prospects are splendid as far as developed. No more about the "Belle" at present.

LONE MOUNTAINS.

These mountains, situated not far distant, are expected by many to be the next subject for a rising boom. The district has several good ledges of smelting ore, which assays far up in the hundreds, and will no doubt soon attract attention from mining circles. All that is wanted is capitalists to take hold of the n a ter and push things along. Enterprise and prosperity will then flow to the hardy sons of toil.

The Candelaria extenslon of the Carson & Colorado Railroad is expected to strike smewhere near, when the whistle of the locomotive will echo through the mountains of Southern Esmeralda.

THE LINNET NUISANCE.

S. Bristol, of San Buenaventura, wriies as follows to the Rural Press:

The California Linnet, though a very small bird, is becoming a great nuisance. In those parts of our State where fruit is a speciality, it rivals the squirrel and the gopher in destructiveness. In the Southern counties where the apricot is being largely grown, it has become a terrible pest, picking into the choicest specimens as soon as they begin to ripen, and in many cases destroying one-third of the crop before it is ripe enough to gather. Nor is the apricot alone attacked. Next to it the bird attacks the pear, the prune, the apple and fig. Nor these alone, but all other kinds, and specially those that are sweet. It is also a voracious devourer of flax seed, canary seed, etc. Take it all in all, it does us more harm in southern California than all other birds together. And the evil seems to be increasing. There are more this year than I have ever known before. I presume the same is true of all parts of the State. I presume $100,000 worth of fruit they have destroyed this year in the southern counties alone. Nor am I aware of any compensation rendered by these birds to the farmer and fruit raiser in return for all these depredations. They seem to subsist mainly, if not entirely upon seeds and fruits. I have never seen them crop a worm or chase a beetle. Like the squirrel, and gopher, and wildcat, and wolf, etc., it is an enemy to the agriculturist, and he must destroy it if he can. But the question arises: "How to do it?" To answer that question is the object of this paper.

The name of the bird suggests the special food it lives upon, or would if it could—linnet or flax-bird, from the Latin Linium, flax. It seems to have received that name in Europe, on account of its special fancy for the flax plant; and we, in this part of the State, have found that poisoned flax seed is the most efficient destroyer of these birds we can find. We take from a pint to a quart of flaxseed in a dish and wet it moderately; i. e., so that it will take up and absorb all the water. Put in a small handful of sugar; mix up thoroughly, then sprinkle in a half ounce of strychnine well pulverized, and mix thoroughly. It is spread out in trays so made that the wind shall not blow out the seed. Place then in the tops of the trees or on the fences, where the birds resort. About as good a plan as I know of is to nail a lathe along the upper edge of the top fence board, and spread the flaxseed between them on the upper edge of the board. In this way I have slaughtered flocks of them in a few days. The object of the sugar ingredient is to make the poison adhere to the seed, and also to neutralize the exceeding bitterness of strychnine.

I am pursuaded that we must not only do this in fruit time, but at other times through the year, when they have less to eat than in fruit time. If the farmers and fruit men will pursue this method persistently, and also tear down their nests when found, I believe we can rid ourselves of this great and growing pest of the farm and orchard.

Good Stock.

The following amusing account of the arrival of some blooded stock from England for J. B. Haggin, is from the Reno Gazette of Tuesday:

"Where do you bring your stock from?" asked a Gazette reporter of an aged man on the west-bound freight last night.

"Fum 'Ome."

"Where's home?"

"Merry Hengland, me boy, t'other side Hatlantic."

"Who are they for?"

"Muster J. B. Aggins."

"You mean J. B. Haggin, Kern county?"

"Which I said twiced, but not wotever about Kern."

"What have you, any way? What kind of stock?"

"Wot kin' o' stock, says you? Ther' be Black Prince, Norman French stallion, weighin' 20 'undred. Ther' be two two-year-old Clydesdale, weighin' of 14 'undred. Ther' be two thorough blood running mears. Ther' be three Jinnies an' two Jackses. Ther' be two yearline thorough-bluid fillies, and 'ere be three Scotch Collie sheep dogs. A present from the maister. Good stock? I believe ye, my boy. W'ere is the tavern an' he beer can?"

THE length of the tunnel under the British Channel between Dover and Calais will be twenty miles under water, or, with the approaches to it, twenty-seven miles. The bore will be made 200 feet below the bed of the channel. The work will require the best ingineering skill and will occupy five years. Although the driftway has advanced, at the last advices, only 300 yards, the shares of stock of the British and French Railways with which the tunnel is to be connected have risen largely, while the speculators in parts or thousanths of the tunnel are selling at what are said to be almost incredible prices. The profits, if the tunnel should be made, are expected to be enormous, as nearly all of the travel and traffic of the two countries would take that route.

AN old physician, having noticed in the reports that the President had grown aweary of the never-changing view from the window of his sick room, writes to his paper the suggestion that the President's attendants should place in his bed room, at a point of view most agreeable to his sight, an easel, and on it a fresh picture every day. I doubt not the residents of Washington who own fine paintings would gladly loan them for this purpose. I have found, in my practice, where an illness lasted long, during which the patient was weak and depressed, and speech was forbidden, that such an arrangement gladdened and interested the patient, and hastened recovery.

A BREACH of promise suit was compromised in Indianopolis by the defendant providing the girl with a husband of equal value with himself.

A Fatal Cattle Disease.

The Silver State of Friday has this: T. D. Parkinson of Kelly Creek was in town yesterday. He informed us that a disease known among cattle men as the "black-leg" has made its appearance in the eastern part of the county, and was proving very fatal to young cattle. Calves under a year old are its principal victims, and those in good condition appear to be more liable to catch the disease than the poorer ones. The disease generally proves fatal in a few hours. Mr. Parkinson says he examined several which died of the disease internally, but he could discover no signs of the disease in their vital organs, though catte men say it affects the liver. The legs, however, appear as if they had been bruised or pounded, the flesh being quite black, hence the name "black-leg." The disease first made its appearance fn Eastern Nevada about two years ago, and several young calves died of it last Fall up the Humboldt.—Eureka Sentinel.

THE founders of our system, however unwise in erecting the superfluous and undesirable post or rank of heir apparent, acted wisely in leaving the President perfectly free to nominate the agents who shall administer the government by his authority and in his name. President Garfield has chosen not Mr. Arthur, but Mr. Blaine, for his chief minister. Though the President has been physically disabled for more than five weeks to discharge personally any official function, there has been no interruption of the working of the administrative machine, and need not be any, unless the Prdsident should die, if Mr. Blaine will attend to his business and not indulge in uncalled for experiments to prove that the President is in good physical health.—Chicago Times.

"THE force of men now at work on the Denver and Rio Grande Railway's extensions is larger than the United States army!" The speaker was ex-Governor Hunt, who had just returned from old Mexico. "How many men are there?" asked a Tribune reporter, a little awed by the statement. "More than 32,000," returned the Governor, laconically. "Nearly 9,000 of this number are at work in Old Mexico. There are 3,000 or 4,000 in New Mexico, 6,000 in this State, and the remainder are scattered through Utah and the other localities where we are doing work."

ONE manufactory employing a hundred men will support an additional 500 people. The hundred families will disburse annually, on the average, $80,000 or $75,000, in the aggregate. This money will be drawn into the town from the outside, where the manufactured goods are consumed, and the interest of this $75,000 at ten per cent. would be $7,500. The hundred families, too, would require a hundred houses, thousands of yards of cotton and woolen goods, thus giving health and impetus to every branch of industry.

HOW TO TAKE QUININE.—Half a grain of quinine in two ounces of milk produces no disagreeable taste in the mouth, and this same quantity (half a grain) in a glassful of milk is scarcely preceptible. This is an easy method of administering quinine to children and delicate patients who object to the bitter taste it leaves in the mouth.

MISCELLANEOUS.

College of Notre Dame

SAN JOSE, CALIFORNIA.

THIS INSTITUTION, OFFERING PECULIAR advantages to young ladies wishing to receive a solid and refined education, was founded in 1851. In 1855 it was incorporated by the State Legislature, and subsequently the same body so extended the original charter as to confer all the rights and privileges of Collegiate Institutions.

It occupies large buildings, with extensive playgrounds; and possesses everything to make science familiar and attractive. The course of instruction is thorough, in all the Departments. Every facility will be afforded to students who may find it desirable to to devote their whole attention to music or the study of the languages.

The scholastic year begins on the first Monday in August and closes about the first week in June. Pupils are received at any period of the year.

E. 11.76 chains; 9.09 "Post 7, Summit Mine No 2," standing on N. cor. of claim, from which the Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument bears 54 deg E. 50 links.

Description of Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument as described in the field notes of survey of the Armagh mine: The Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument is built on the apex of a red rocky point at the intersection of Ygnacio Ravine and Cerro Gordo cañon, and very precisely on the W. B. line of the Ygnacio mine (as surveyed for a patent in the year 1875 by Jos. Seely, U. S. Dep. Min. Sur.), and distant 17.51 chains from the southwest corner stake of the Ygnacio mine.

At the point above given I drilled a hole in the rock to a depth of 9 inches, in which drove a piece of gas pipe 1 inch in dia. x16 inches long. On top of gas pipe, set a post 4x4 inches square, x4 feet long, around which built a monument of rocks 5 feet high x5 feet in dia. at its base; marked the top of post "U. S. Min'l Monument Erected Jan'y 3d, A. D. 1880, by Wm. Crapo, U. S. Dep. Min. Sur., under authority of the U. S. Sur. Gen'l for Cal'a."

From said post in mineral monument, with a variation of 15 deg. 55 min. E. the extreme end of the bluff on which the monument is situated bears N. 25 deg. W. 17 links. The east edge of ridge at the top of a vertical face of rock, 7½ feet high, bears N. 60 deg. E. 7 links. The NE. cor. of an old adobe vaso chimney bears S. 38 deg. 16 min. W. 16 links. The middle of the Belshaw toll road at a point where it turns out of Cerro Gordo Cañon bears N. 81¾ deg. W. 1.06 chains. The middle of Cerro Gordo Cañon bears N. 62 chains. The NW. cor. of Rafael Diaz' house bears S. 28 deg. 33 min. E. 1.58 chains. An old well 30 feet deep on the north side of Cerro Gordo Cañon bears N. 58 deg. 20 min. W. 1.93 chs. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E. (3) S. 40 deg. E. .93 W. boundary of Ygnacio mine. Set a post in mound of rocks and earth; marked post "Post 8, Summit Mine No. 2," from which the Armagh U. S. mineral monument bears N. 11 deg. W. 1.03 chains. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 E. commence descending. (4) S. 11 deg. E. 3.36 intersection of N. B. line of the Santa Niño mine at "Post 20, Santa Niño Mine;" marked the post "Post 9, Summit Mine No. 2" Post stands in mound of earth on top edge of Ygnacio dump. 3.66 W. edge of open cut at entrance to Ygnacio tunnel. 6.39 post marked "Post 20, Santa Niño Mine" on south boundary line of Santa Niño mine; marked the post "Post 10, Summit Mine No. 2;" 8.15 trail on ridge; runs E. & W. 16.49 "Post No. 2, Ygnatio Mine," on southwest corner of Ynacio mine; marked the post "Post 11, Summit Mine No. 2," from which the entrance to the Summit tunnel at a point where the tunnel first enters ore, bears N. 33¾ deg. W. 98 links. Course of Summit tunnel for first 185 feet from mouth or entrance N. 59 deg. 6 min. E. The middle of wagon road in bottom of gulch bears S. 50 deg. W. 9 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min E., commence ascending. (5) N. 79 deg. E. 1.51, post marked "Post No. 7, Y. M.," standing on SE. cor. Ygnacio mine; marked the post "Post 12, Summit Mine No. 2," from which a pine tree 9 inches dia. x14 feet high bears S. 20 deg. E. 1.40 chains. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min E. (6) N. 11 deg. W. 7.57 summit of ridge bears W. commence descending. 8.33 old dump at entrance to a tunnel runs E. 10.08 "Post 21, Santa Niño Mine" on south boundary line of Santa Niño mine; marked the post "Post 13, Summit Mine No. 2." 12.12. east edge of Ygnacio open cut. 13.11 "Post 22, Santa Niño Mine," on north boundary line of Santa Niño mine; marked the post "Post 14, Summit Mine No. 2." 13.75 set a post on east boundary line of Ygnacio mine; marked the post "Post 15, Summit Mine No. 2" from which the entrance to the "Hubbard tunnel" bears N. 20 deg. A Self-evident Fact.

The numerous railroads which are rapidly reacking out into the mining country will make a great change in the volume and profit of mining. Ores may be ever so rich and valuable, but there is a limit to their profitable transportation. A load of pure gold may be moved until distance has eaten up all the profits so that there is nothing left for the owner. In the earlier days of Illinois and other States in the Mississippi valley, when the farmer's grain was raised a hundred miles or more from mill or market, the production was of necessity limited to the facilities for transportation and the ability to place the product on the market; hence the amount produced was but little more than sufficient to supply the needs of the producer. With the advent of canals and railroads, the product rapidly increased, so that the immense harvest fields of these great States, now not only supply the wants of their own people, but furnish bread and meat for the nations of the earth.

Lines of transportation penetrating the mining country will undoubtedly produce as marked a change. Hundreds of locations which now, with the cost of moving the ore to the smelter or market, cannot be worked at a profit, will immediatdly becomelvaluable, and the same result will be observed in the mineral fields of the ore-producing territories as was seen in the agricultural States when they were opened up to the markets of the world.

One line of railroad will only create a demand for more, and an unusual activity throughout the mining territories may be expected in the near future. The advent of an epoch of immense importance waits at our doors; and yet very few of our business men and financiers seem to comprehend the fact. A grand stretch of mining country, larger than some of the empires in the East, rich in every mineral product, is about to strike the rocks with a rod of labor, so that the precious metal like water may flow out a river of treasure, adding to the wealth and prosperity of the nation. Croakers scan the heavens in vain for a shadow as large as a man's hand that they may portend a shadow of evil. With the army of people flocking hither from Europe, whose forces will be applied to the development of the productive resources of the country, added to this our wide extent of marvelously rich minerel territory just opening its doors to the energy and capital of the multitudes whose faces are turned toward the fountains of treasure that a few short years have revealed, it requires a gloomy prophet indeed to foretell a change from the bright day of prosperity which seems to have settled like a benediction over our land.—Chicago Mining Review.

THE yell of Cornell is now "A sell!" But what could Shenkell find to sell in the chance of the Cornell crew at Vienna? After being defeated in every race they rowed from the time they reached Europe, who would think of bribing a member of the crew to feign a faint? Allen, Cowles and Lewis assert that Shenkel became suddenly flush of money in Vienna, and they seem to considered satisfactary evidence that he sold their race to the Austrians. If Shenkel succeeded in raising a "flush" out of the chances of the Cornell crew he must have financial ability which should make him famous in Wall street as a blower of bubbles. The charge that the race was sold is ridiculous simply because there was nothing to sell. Even if true, the three victims would better have kept still about it. The career of the crew abroad is humiliating enough without such a disclosure. Three of the young men expect to sail from London in the Spain next Wednesday, when Shenkel comes home in another ship. It would have been more discreet for the boys to have scattered among four ships, each creeping quietly into the steerage with a crowd of emigrants. Thus they might have reached their homes with appropriate secrecy. N. Y. Mail.

PRESIDENT GONZALES, of Mexico, has abrogated the land grant to Sam Brannan.

Do Your Work Well.

Daniel Webster gives an account of a petty insurance case that was brought to him when a young lawyer in Portsmouth. Only a small amount was involved, and a twenty-dollar fee was all that was promised. He saw that, to do his client full justice, a journey to Boston, to consult the law library, would be desirable. He would be out of pocket by such an expedition, and for this time he would receive no adequate compensation. After a little hesitation, he determined to do his very best, cost what it might. He accordingly went to Boston, looked up authorities, and gained the case. Years after this, Webster, then famous, was passing through New York. An important insurance case was to be tried the day after his arrival, and one of the counsel had suddentaken sick. Money was no object, and Webster was begged to name his terms and conduct the case. "I told them," said Mr. Webster, "that it was preposterous to expect me to prepare a legal argument at a few hours' notice. They insisted, however, that I should look at the papers; and this, after some demur, I consented to do. Well, it was my old twenty-dollar case over again, and, as I never forget anything, I had all the authorities at my fingers' ends. The court knew I had no time to prepare, and was astonished at the range of my acquirements. So, you see, I was handsomely paid, both in fame and money, for that journey to Boston; and the moral is, that good work is rewarded in the end, though, to be sure, one's self-approval should be enough."

THE flag-stone, twenty-five feet two inches long, fifteen feet wide and eight inches thick, that was quarried at Hickok's quarry, Barryville, Sullivan county, for Wm. H. Vanderbilt, has arrived in New York, and has been safely laid in front of Mr. Vanderbilt's new mansion on Fifth Avenue. The stone was transported to the city in a canal boat that had been specially prepared for its reception, and on its arrival there was taken out on a floating derrick, which was towed to a dock as near as possible to the stone's destination. Then the stone was loaded on iron trucks prepared expressly for it, and drawn by six teams of horses to its present resting place. To prevent any possibility of cracking by the settling of the sand on which flag-stones are generally laid, three walls of solid masonry were constructed, on which the stone rests. The stone is said to be the largest ever laid, and it cost from $5,000 to $6,000 to quarry, transport and lay it.

IT is said that the suggestion that baked beans could be canned to advantage originated with a Colorado dealer in groceries, who predicted that they would meet with ready sale in the West. This was in the Spring of 1877 and in Boston. The Boston man seized the idea, and the first order was for 20 cases. It is said that 200,000 cans were marketed before the close of that year. In 1879 the trade had extended all over the country, and 375,000 cans were marketed. In 1881, Europe and Australia became purchasers, and 900,000 cans were sold. South America is taking the article now, and it is estimated that the sales of this single Boston firm this year will be 1,500,000 cans. Their introduction into Europe and Australia was under the name of Beans and Bacon, so as to avoid the prejudice some have to homely Pork and Beans.

THE Georgians have no liking for Latter Day Saints. The Legislature of Georgia has just enacted a law which makes it a felony to propagate Mormonism or attempt to make converts to it. As polygamy is contrary to the laws of the land, and Mormons declare it to be an essential doctrine of their faith, the law against Mormon propagation is unquestionably constitutional. But if it were not, however, missionaries would hardly risk the conntiuation of their work in that State. Georgians are so indignant at the audacity of the polygamous proselyters that they will be likely to try the virtue of the pistol if the law is found to have none.—N. Y. Mail.

A MECHANICAL COTTON PICKER.—This new invention, the appearance of which has for some time been foreshadowed—the combination cotton picker, with fingers of iron—will no doubt work a revolution in cotton growing. It will, it is claimed, make a reduction in the price of growing of two cents per pound. The machine, by means of beaters and fans, takes the fiber from the boll, removes the seeds and all impurities, finally delivering it straightened and ready for the bale. Efforts are making to develop the machine in time for the exhibition at Atlanta.

I WONDER what has become of the scissors?" said Mrs. Johnson the other day; "I have been looking for them all the evening and can't find them high or low." After awhile the hired Dutchman commenced pulling off his boots, preparatory to going to bed. "All dis day," said he, "I tink I got some little grabble stones in my poot. I kess I get it out now." When he turned up his boot all he could find was a thimble, a pair of scissors, half a loaf of bread, and a few dozen tacks.

DANGEROUS HABIT.—Dr. Clinton Wagner said, in a lecture before the New York Medical Society: "Only two works have ever been written on the subject of 'Habitual Mouth breathing.' Its importance is not generally understood. Breathing through the mouth often affects the constitution seriously, and a person who is habitually addicted to it can easily be distinguished by the silly and idiotic expression of his face. Indulgence in this habit affects the hearing, and the nose is apt to become permanently closed. It also produces chronic inflamation of the windpipe and the upper part of the throat, and it also alters the character of a person's voice. It also causes asthma, curvature of the spine, and what is known as pigeon-breast. The Indian mothers teach their children in infancy to breathe through the nose, and to this must be attributed partly their freedom from these diseases and their excellent health. The nose-breather never snores."

Andrew Jackson, when President, gave a reception once at Barnum's hotel, Baltimore. His tailor came forward and cordially grasped him by the hands. "I do not recall your name," whispered the old Democrat; pray favor me with it." "I made your breeches," whispered back the embarassed tailor. "Gentlemen," said General Jackson, turning to the assembled company, "let me present to you my friend Major Bridges."

There was once a Sir James Weir Hogg, who made a fortune in India, and whose wife, holding a distinguished position in London fashionable society circles, gave splendid parties. It is said that a young blood, meeting one of the Misses Hogg at a ball and not knowing her name, asked if she was going to a certain party at the "Piggery." Her naive reply was: "Oh, I am one of the litter!"

A London paper is giving advice to athletes, travelers and others on the subject of quenching thirst. It forbids cider as tending to produce thirst rather than quench it, and emphatically condemns any drink containing alcohol. As a quencher of thirst or as a substitute for water there is nothing equal to raw onion—the stronger the better.

"Her face, as she gave a nod and a smile of recognition looked bright and hopeful. I knew the agony of apprehension must be over and the President must be on the upward road again. The brave little woman! What a terrible strain she has endured, and with what wonderful courage and patience she has met every fresh draft upon her strength and resolution, keeping out of her face the pain and dread tugging at her heart lest the slightest glimpse of it should discourage her husband in his long struggle with death! I remember that at Elberon, just before the fatal journey to Washington, General Garfield spoke of her with tenderness and pride, as a steel spring sort of a woman—supple, bright, enduring and rebounding after the severest strains. If he wins his way back to health again he will owe his recovery, I firmly believe, as much to the loving and cheerful ministration of his wife as to the six doctors who wait upon him, skillful and devoted as they are.

LAST Summer she was eating green corn by gnawing it from a cob, when her teeth became entangled with a corn silk. "Oh, dear," said she impatiently, "I wish when they get the corn made they would pull out the basting threads!"

THE PRESIDENT.

Less than a week ago President Garfield was given up by his physicians and almost everybody, far and near. But there came a change for the better, and now everybody, physicians and all, believe he is going to get well. Our news is up to 10 o'clock Thursday night, and confirmatory of the hopes of the glad tidings of the preceding three days.

THE New York Times gives a brie sketch of a sermon by the Rev. Dr. A. Stewart Walsh in the Gospel tent on "Our Dying President," Sunday afternoon, In closing his sermon Mr. Walsh said: "My friend, Hon. John A. Bingham, once told me that he had investigated the manner of the death of President Zachary Taylor several years ago, and that he was satisfied that General Taylor died by the hand of an assassin. In brief, the circumstances were that two men, one of whom was Jefferson Davis, once went to President Taylor in the dead of night and awakened him, and told him that there were two bills before him for his approvsl, and, said they, 'If you do not sign those bills the South will hold you personally responsible.' General Taylor shouted back at them, without opening the door, refusing their request, and telling them that if the South made any trouble he would raise an army and go down there and crush them. John A. Bingham is a lawyer and a man of intellect, and he told me deliberately that Taylor, who died soon after that visit, died under the hand of the assassin." At the close of the sermon a Times reporter asked the Rev. Dr. Walsh if Mr. Bingham meant to convey the idea that Gen. Taylor was physically, literally, assassinated. Mr. Walsh replied that John A. Bingham said that his investigation of the circumstances of President Taylor's death satisfied him that he was actually, physically assassinated.

THE Golden Era some weeks ago gave currency to the statement that Dr. Lefever, who was murdered by one Schroeder, a son-in-law of preacher Stebbins, for an alleged seduction of his (Schroeder's) wife, was innocent of the crime attributed to him, and that the real guilty party was the President of a powerful corporation, doing business in San Francisco, and that the money to secure Schroeder's acquittal was furnished by this capitalist, and that Schroeder was now nightly playing poker with money obtained from the same source. The charges were specifically made, and the Era should give the name of the corporation President. It is and has been the fixed opinion of Dr. Lefever's friends that he was foully murdered, and for a crime he was entirely innocent of. But, whatever may have been the circumstances, the acquittal of Schroeder was a disgrace to the laws of justice.

SAYS a Newport, Rhode Island, dispatch of Aug. 26: "This afternoon Lieut. L. B. Eads, of Washington, and Lyman C. Spaulding, of Portsmouth, N. H., were planning mines for the harbor defence, in connection with the annual experiments which take place before the Examining Board. The buoys of the circuit closer were accidentally struck, the torpedos exploded, and Eads and Spaulding were blown into atoms. Their remains were sent at least thirty feet into the air. The report of the explosion was heard in town."

THE original Tichborne claimant does not seem alarmed at the prospect of an American competition. When recently informed that there was another claimant in the field he replied: "I am pleased to hear it, as it is the best thing that could happen for me. The public will then find if an imposter will stand as many minutes' cross-examination as I did days—twenty-eight; but rest assured he will not make his appearance in London."

A MAN named Thompson claims to be possessed of the secret of the burial, years ago, of a box of treasure on Portsmouth Square, San Francisco, and asks leave of the Street Cmmittee to dig for it. He was allowed to prospect with an auger and claims to have found the spot. It is agreed that he may dig for it if he will share the treasure with the charitable societies of the city.

A DEMING, N. M., dispatch says: There is reason to believe that there were a number of white men in the band of savages who made the recent raid in which George Daly was killed. This is inferred from the language used by some of them, and also the appreciation shown by them for specie and bank notes.

THE RETORT COURTEOUS.

THE INDEPENDENT has it from several sources that some parties of Bishop Creek have considered themselves and their section aggrieved by the paper's reports of the new mining interests of that section, inasmuch (as has been claimed) the property in point was not sufficiently lauded and extolled. While more than glad that the Polita gold discovery has proved all that it is, we cannot plead guilty of any "one-sidedness," neglect or intentional mistatement in any manner. Impartially representing, as best it can, the interests of the whole country, no rational person could accuse the paper of purposely belittling anything. Its only possible interest, and that of the proprietors, is in common with all—a fact too obvious to need enlarging upon.

Now, it has never happened that the Polita company's property at Bishop has come under the personal observation of either of THE INDEPENDENT editors, and if it is expected that they should make a sixty or seventy mile journey at their own expense of time and money for that purpose, the parties interested are a little off. However desirous to do these things, to examine and show up to the mining world all the properties and discoveries in the country, it becomes impossible to do it and set type at the same time. The paper's patronage will not pay for splurges even in the public interest, let alone company or individual matters.

The complaint appears to have arisen because we did not state that at a certain depth the ledge was seven feet wide instead of three; that the ore was worth $100 per ton instead of $70. Something like that, but it don't matter. Whatever was stated was based upon the best obtainable authority. At the time the mine was under negotiation, Steve Moore and George Storey were the authority for all that we said, being the only source of information, and they were of course operating in Lent's interest. The result of their numerous assays of the ore here by Mr. Woodhull was a sealed book, so far as we or any one but the principals were concerned. Since then all efforts to get a report of the importance of the developments have failed—the Bishop Creekers have not seen fit to impart any information to us, and in all probability the mine managers regard that as exclusively their own business—so no one is to blame, unless it be our faultfinders. If they knew the facts, and if it would "help the country," why didn't they report them?

All that we know of the new mines at Bishop, which are as good or may be better than Bodie, is that Bill Lent intends developing his interests to the fullest extent, for dividends and deals, and that at 200 feet in depth the width of the ledge is unknown—larger than the shaft, and that the fine ore is said to be "half gold." A strike, most indefinite as to particulars, is rumored as having been made on the same ledge, southward, higher up the mountain and a mile or more distant, which even exceeds the Polita in both extent and almost marvelous richness. Another property supposed to be equal to either is under process of sale for $20,000, five hundred of which have been paid.

We believe these statements to be facts regarding the situation, but they are too general to be of public service. The moral of all this is that prominent and interested parties, familiar with the situation, should take time to report us the truth instead of assuming an injured air and laying back and growling at any unintentional errors or omissions on our part.

THAT ourang outang, Guiteau, in his vanity, has written an autobiography. This is not to be wondered at, but it is shameful that the publishers are making high bids for its possession. One enterprising firm offers, in exchange for the copyright, to insure Guiteau a royalty on the sale of 250,000 copies. An Eastern journal echoes the respectable public sentiment by saying: "As the volume would be utterly worthless, and without any literary merit, all decent people will pray that it may never see the light, especially as there are more foolish and worthless books in existence now than there is any occasion for. Moreover, we do no not believe that many copies of the thing would be sold, since the community already knows quite as much about Guiteau as as it wishes to know. There is nothing particularly interesting about him, and, indeed, we have been surprised somewhat at his complete lack of villainous picturesqueness."

To which we add the sincere hope that any publisher who thinks to make money out of Guiteau's crime in this or any other way may be brought to abject poverty by the enterprise, even though that poverty should last his family to the third generation.

A LARGE amount of money is lying in the New York banks, and cannot be loaned, even for three per cent. per annum.

A FIELD FOR INVENTION.

An exchange sensibly remarks: Every time that the expense or loss is reduced $1 per ton, the doorway of a new field is opened, and scores of mines are placed upon a working basis. So that the reduction of this obstacle in the pathway of successful mining is a matter of the gravest importance, and every step towards its removal is a movement of general interest. Inventors in this direction have a large field open before them which promises rich reward for those who achieve even a measure of success.

The many experiments that are being made to reduce the cost of changing the ore of a mine into bullion, show that the great necessity is comprehended, and to comprehend in this age means to satisfy. It is well known that the loss and cost in mining and treating ore has resulted more than once in misfortune, and has practically shut up large mineral districts from development.

Although the large expense of all operations connected with mining has been one of the chief causes of disappointment and failure, there is every reason to believe that in many ways this may be materially reduced. There is no doubt that the present methods of treatment will be greatly modified and changed, as the movement in that direction already indicates. As operations become more centralized and general, co-operation will enter largely into the future work and plans of mining. One shaft, pump and hoisting works of large capacity will do the work of a number of smaller ones cheaper and better. Mining and milling will become separate and distinct industries, and transportation will probably be an independent business. Isolated mining companies have been compelled to erect machinery for treating their ore, and many disasters have been the result.

As every one knows, the Comstock mines at the present time are all in the "borasca" or poor ground, and not one of them to-day is paying a dollar in dividends. On the contrary, they are all levying assessments, and are spending enormous sums in prospecting and drifting after that will-with-the-wisp bonanza that is forever being predicted as just a little beyond the levels of every mine on the lode.

The Yellow Jacket, that at one time had a famous bonanza which paid in dividends $2,184,000 previous to 1871, and which has been a steady assessor for the greater part of the past ten years, has prospected the lode to a depth of 3,000 feet, by a shaft which, on the 1st of July last, had cost, without interest, $1,674,203 53, and is yet without ore. The assessments of this company have already amounted to $4,098,000, and during the year ending June 30th, 1881, the expenditures at the mines were $549,740, of which $27,530 were on account of and for driving 743 feet of the Sutro Tunnel. During the year, 1,055 feet of drifts were run, and 980 feet of diamond-drill prospect-holes, which was all the effective prospecting done for over half a million dollars. The greater part of the outlay was for pumping and repairs. The Superintendent says: "From April 16th, when connection was made with the Sutro Tunnel, to June 20th, or in a little more than one month we pumped and hoisted 86,000,000 gallons, or 360,000 tons of water. We have had since that time a steady flow of sixty miners' inches, or 720 gallons per minute." This amount, 2·7 tons per minute, or about 3,900 tons a day, is raised from the 3,000 foot level to the Sutro Tunnel, nearly 1,500 feet, and involves an expense greater than that required to work some of the largest and most profitable mines in this country. Yet at the present time the Yellow Jacket is simply a prospect, and all these expenditures merely prospecting expenses incurred in the hope of finding something. And this is but one of the score of mines prospecting the Comstock, none of which pays expenses. Never before in the history of the world have such enormous sums been expended for prospecting as we see to-day on the Comstock. The same amount prudently expended in less expensive and more promising dtstricts wonld no doubt produce vastly better results.

GEN. CHESTER A. ARTHUR, Vice President, will be 51 years of age on the 5th of next October. His biography says he was born in Franklin county, Vermont, and his father was the Rev. Wm. Arthur, a Baptist clergyman, who emigrated to this country from the county Antrim, Ireland, in his 18th year, and died Oct. 27th, 1875, in Newtonville, near Albany. And this being so, there can be no question of his eligibiilty to the office of Chief Magistrate of the Republic.

A NEW Irish Catholic colonization scheme contemplates the transfer of a large number of immigrants from the East to a tract of 80,000 acres of land in Arkansas, on the river of that name and on the line of the historic Little Rock and Fort Smith Railroad.

Assassinated at Candelaria.

The Candelaria True Fissure of Aug. 27th says: Another of those unfortunate affairs, which grow out of a too frequent indulgence in cards and whisky, occurred here on Monday last. The whole matter is shrouded in a mystery and none of those who may know are willing to afford any positive information. The cause of the affray and its sad ending, so far as known, can only be told from the evidence of the dead man's wife, as given at the inquest, and that is very little. On Tuesday evening and until near daylight the next morning a party were playing poker in Thomas Donahue's saloon, and it is supposed the deceased, Joseph Berwick, commonly called "Black Joe," was one of the participants, and that he commenced to play about two o'clock in the morning. Berwick left his home about one o'clock and bade his wife a happy good night. He returned to his house which is situated on Main street, standing a little back, at 5:30 o'clock, and awakened his wife when he opened the door. She requested him to come to bed, to which he replied: "No, I could not sleep if I did." She then asked why, and he told her he had got into trouble with somebody, not stating who, having been requested to decide a bet, meaning in the poker game, and had left the party on that account. He then took the axe and began chopping wood, the wood pile being near the door. He had been engaged but a few minutes when his wife heard him exclaim "Don't shoot," and immediately two shots were fired. The wounded man rushed into the house, closing the door quickly, staggered to a bed a few feet distant, and placing his hand upon his left side, groaned. His wife asked him, "Are you shot?" to which he replied, "Yes," and fell over on his side and thence into a heap on the floor. The now thoroughly alarmed wife began to realize the situation and her grief partook of hysteria. Two men, awakened by the shots, as was everybody in town, went to the house, placed the body of poor Joe into a placid condition and thus left them. He seemed to have been standing with his right side to the shooter. One ball grazed his body just above the navel, passing on broke the little finger of the left hand and thence into the frame of the door. The other shot entered his body about six inches below, and a little in front of the right armpit, found lodgment there and was the wound which produced his death.

No arms of any kind were found upon his person, nor did he exhibit any defense as far as is known. The inquest was held at ten o'clock, and it was a noticable fact that none of the party who were playing cards were present nor even summoned.

The verdict was that the deceased came to his death at the hands of some person unknown. The remains were buried the following day. Deceased was known in a number of mining camps and made a living by sporting.

Killed by Rattlesnakes.

A lady who has been visiting at President informs us concerning one of the most terrible accidents that ever came to our knowledge. There resides near President a widow who had three children. A few days since she was preparing dinner, and had the youngest child in the house with her. The other two were sent by her to hunt some eggs. They were both young, and going out of the house they saw a hollow log in the yard. One of them put in her little hand to see if there were any eggs, but quickly pulled it out, saying a chicken had bitten her, The other inserted his hand, and jerked it out with a scream. A rattlesnake had bitten them both. The scream of the second child brought out the mother, and lifting a kettle of potatoes from the fire so they would not burn, she started out. She had just got outside the door when she was recalled by the agonizing screams of the baby, who had crawled across the floor and upset the boiling water over himself. She was almost disheartened, and did not know what to do. Help soon arrived, and everything that could be done was done for the three little sufferers, but nothing did any good. They all grew rapidly worse, and within a day all three died and were buried in the same grave. The name we did not learn, but we are assured that the above are the facts.—Oil City Derrick.

The above lie, in substance at least, has been going the rounds for years This lie, and others like it, are immensely valuable to flat-headed witty papers like the Derrick, which thrive on second-hand material—sensational, witty or any other sort that will attract attention to themselver.

THE Mint and State Prison investigations have both come to a close. The result of the former is not yet made public, further than that many nice men are very mad at other very nice men because of the unfavorable light in which one set has placed the other. Ex-Governor Low is out in a card defining his position before this light. The State Prison investigators say things are managed badly at San Quentin, but that Warden Ames is gulltless, only that he must positively not do it again or he will come to grief.

LAST Saturday night a hurricane swept the coast about Charleston, South Carolina, causing the death of many persons, and destroying a great deal of property. At Port Royal ferry, forty negroes were killed in one building. The Signal service had foretold the storm, but it does not seem that the warning had been heeded. All the residents of Shad Island (how many is not stated) were drowned, as well as many others at the various rice plantations along the rivers.

Albuquerque, N. M., is to be supplied with coal from Arizona.

The mania for gambling in grain is spreading in the East.

THE SUNDAY LAW.

The subjoined is part of the Penal Code of this State. Suppose it was enforced in this county, wouldn't there be a rattling of dry bones, also some discouraged "business" individuals?

SECTION 300.—Every person who keeps open on Sunday any store, workshop, bar, saloon, banking house, or other place of business, for the purpose of transacting business therein, is punishable by fine not less than five nor more than fifty dollars.

SEC. 301.—The provisions of the preceeding section do not apply to persons who, on Sunday keep open hotels, boarding houses, barber shops, baths, markets, restaurants, taverns, livery stables, or retail drug stores, for the legitimate business of each, or such manufacturing establishments as are usually kept in continual operation, provided, that the provisions of the preceeding section shall apply to persons keeping open barber shops, bath houses and hair dressing saloons after 12 o'clock M., on Sunday.

Carson and Colorado Railroad.

James Oliver, chief engineer of the Carson and Colorado railroad, says the Virginia Enterprise, has returned with his corps of surveyors from an extended trip to Candelaria, Gold Mountain and the Owens river country. A thorough survey has been made of the most feasible lines of route, and as soon as cargoes of rails, long overdue, arrives, the Carson and Colorado railroad will be rapidly extended. The intention of its management is to complete the road at least to Candelaria before Winter. Further information, from Mr. Yerington to a Virginia Chronicle reporter, states that a large force of graders would be put on the line of the Carson and Colorado railroad next week, and that before five miles of grading are done the overdue cargoes of rails from Europe will arrive and tracklaying be actively prosecuted. There are already plenty of ties on hand. The road will be completed to Candelaria, fifty mfles beyond Hawthorne, by November 15th at the least.

A STARTLING account of the discovery of gold in paying quantities comes from Georgia. The beds of Chestatee and Chattahoochee rivers are said to be so rich in gold that the very sand on the shore yields the precious metal. Gold lies in great quantities in the mud beds of the streams. It is forced to the decks of boats by air pressure, easily and rapidly. Large quantities of mud can be mined in a day. A dredging boat is in process of construction, which, it is confidently expected, will take a $1,000 worth of bullion from the bed of the river in a day. When this boat gets to work the public will hear more about the Georgia find, whether or not it is a veritable mud gold mine.

THE BULLION PRODUCT.—Wells, Fargo & Co.'s report of the semi-annual production of precious metals on the Pacific coast, just issued, is as follows: Gold, $9,418,368; silver, $29,826,400. The report was prepared by John J. Valentine, Superintendent of Wells, Fargo & Co.'s express, from the books of the company, and is authentic. This rate continued during the remainder of the year will aggregate for 1881 about $80,000,000, the largest bullion production since 1874. Though the Comstock mines declare no dividends, they produce considerable bullion, and Eureka and other outside camps in Nevada have increased their yield during the first six months of the year. Arizona, too, has produced considerable bullion this year, which has to some extent made up for the deficiency of the Comstock. The aggregate yield shows that notwithstanding the supposition that mining was on the wane, the amount of bullion produced from January to July, 1881, on this coast, is larger than it has been for years, This will undoubtedly encourage new enterprises, as it will attract the attention of capital now seeking investment in the East to the Pacific States and Territories, as it shows conclusively that mining is as productive to-day as it has been at any time since 1874, when the Comstock bonanzas were producing millions annually.

THE staid and thrifty farmers of Antelope valley are in the midst of a copper craze that promises to be of substantial benefit to that portion of Mono county. A short time ago William Rickey, father of Thomas and Henry Rickey, of Antelope, discovered a well defined ledge of copper ore in the range of mountains forming the eastern boundary of that lovely valley. Mr. Rickey made his locations, and taking some average specimens of the ore down to the valley, their exhibition causing a strong mining excitement to spring up among his farmer neighbors, and a large number of locations have been made, the lode being traceable a long distance. The ore smelts freely in the blacksmith's forge, the copper running out very copiously; and when only heated the metal exudes sufficiently to coat the face of the ore. The Rickeys and others have sent men and supplies to their respective locations, to start with. The ore may, as depth is attained, turn to silver bearing and give the Antelopers productive silver mines. The new discovery is about five miles east of Coleville.—Bridgeport Union.

A CORRESPONDENT of a London paper warns people against throwing broken bottles among sun-dried grass or heath at this time of the year, as the bottom of such glasses act as burning glasses. The Australians know that extensive and damaging bush fires have taken place in Australia in consequence of broken bottles having been carelessly thrown down among the dried scrub. So too, camp fires at Aldershot and bush fires on English commons may have their origin in parts of broken bottles acting as burning glasses.

LONDON journals recall the coincidence that Most, the rabid Socialist, now in the hands of the law in the British Capital, designated President Garfield's as among the heads that had to fall.

IN GENERAL.

The New York brewers, among their answers to the interrogations of the Temperance Society about the modes of manufacturing beer, admit that they often use instead of barley malt, such substitutes as cornmeal, cornstarch, rice, grapes, sugar and glucose. They added: "We will discontinue the use of these so soon as your society shall show them to be deleterious."

On Friday morning of last week, as the west-bound emigrant train was leaving Beowawe, two tramps, or highwaymen, jumped on the platform of one of the cars, seized a passenger named James H. Burnett, and robbed him of his watch and $160, which he carried in the inside pocket of his vest. The robbers then jumped off, and Burnett then fired two shots at them, one of which he thinks took effect.

As Mr. Grigsby was riding along the bottom af a cañon in Anderson Valley, Sonoma county, the other day, a deer came suddenly upon him at full speed, and being too late to change its speed, tried to leap over him; but striking horse and rider, all three rolled on the ground. In the melee that ensued the rider was bruised and scratched, and the deer escaped.

At Oregon Gulch, Butte county, deer are so plentiful that they are becoming a nuisance. Already the present season they have eaten up several tons of grapes, besides breaking down many young fruit trees.

A drunken man at Buffalo fooled with two of the "brushes" in an electric light generator and was picked up dead. Fully a dozen men have been killed about electric lights in the past year.

The military authorities have been ordered to prepare flying detachments to proceed to different parts of Limerick county at a moment's notice, as disturbances are anticipated.

A Vienna dispatch says the excessive rains of the past few days have damaged the harvest in many places, and in the district of Laibach and Corinthia it is entirely destroyed.

Thirty-five hundred men are at work on the line of railroad between the Dalles and the Cascades, and it is expected the line will be completed by the end of September.

A basket left at the Midland Railway station, in London, by two men who immediately decamped, was found to contain a large quantity of gunpowder and cartridges.

England still watches actively the movements of North Africa. The prompt action of the ship Monarch respecting the outrage on the Susa is much approved.

The worst water famine ever known in Richmond, Va., now prevails. The workshops are closing, and even residents are without water.

The Almaden Mining Co. are storing 5,700 tons of stone coal. A number of teams are engaged hauling it from San Jose.

The subscription to the public monument to Beaconsfield amounts to only £5,000, which disappoints the committee.

The Chinese at Modesto have organized among themselves what they claim to be a Lodge of Freemasons.

The duty on the railroad iron brought to San Diego by the Trafalgar a few days ago was $71,800.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 3..... 1881

DEATH OF DR. C. B. WHITE.—It is in profound mournfulness that we now have to announce the death of Dr. Charles B. White, which took place on the 10th of the month just past at his home at Wilton, Connecticut, and in his forty-fourth year. As mentioned in these columns some weeks ago, Doctor White had, for two or three years previously, been suffering from an incurable malady, the seeds of which were planted during the war, therefore his demise was not unexpected, least of all by himself. He had been preparing to meet the Great Conqueror with the almost indifferent calmness and bravery of a true Christian and dutiful soldier, both of which he was, as all who knew him will testify. Socially and in his ministrations as a physician he was a true gentleman and a sympathizing friend and adviser, and as such his memory, with us, shall ever remain green. We are indebted in part to the New York Herald for an account of his public career as follows: Dr. White was appointed Assistant Surgeon, U. S. A., in 1861, serving in the Army of the Potomac. After the battle of Malvern Hill he remained to attend the wounded left in the enemy's hands. He served as Surgeon-in-Chief of the Artillery Reserve of the Army of the Potomac, taking part in its battles from Chantilly down to Antietam and Shepherd's Town; then with Burnside at Fredericksburg, afterwards as Staff Surgeon in the Thirteenth corp, Army of the Tennessee, and so on to the end of the war, at the close of which he was made Captain and Brevet Major for meritorious and faithful services during the war; the following year he was promoted to be Captain Assistant Surgeon, and finally, in 1875, while here at Camp Independence, to be Major and Surgeon, which rank he held at the time of his death. During his five years' duties at this Post, he identified himself with the country and its people, and has ever remained the advocate and well-wisher of both. He was one of the seven charter members, and a Pillar of Strength, of Inyo Lodge, No. 221, F. & A. M., in this place, and maintained his membership therein until the last few months. He leaves a most estimable wife and family to mourn his death—of this lady it may truly be said her every acquaintance was her warm friend, and as such, we in common with scores of others here, can but tender her and hers our most heart-felt sympathies.

INDIAN SHOT.—About six o'clock yesterday evening Dr. George was called to attend an Indian who had just been shot and badly wounded at the camp just east of town. The doctor found that a rifle or pistol ball had passed through the upper portion of the Indian's thigh, but without breaking the bone or cutting the femoral artery, though just grazing the latter. The wound is not likely to prove fatal. None of the Indians would give any hint as to who fired the shot or any of the attending circumstances. But it is certain that whisky, as usual, had something to do with the affair. By way of identification of the wounded party, we can only say that his name is Jack, and that one of his sons is known as "Fighting Jack," a cognomen he earned by his former small-boy habits of "cleaning out" obstreperous play-mates, white and red, with equal impartiality and uniform success.

THE SURVEY.—Through a letter from one of the engineers of the California Central R. R. Co., we learn that the line has been connected across the Sierra Nevadas. From this side it runs up Deadman Fork of Owens river, some eight or ten miles north of Mammoth, and connects with the headwaters of the San Joaquin, through a tunnel 1¼ mile in length. The grade and curvatures are reported as favorable. The California Central is the Jay Gould opposition to the Central and Southern Pacific, and it begins to look like a fixed fact that such a thing is coming on.

PERSONAL.—Mr. C. H. Groves arrived from Ohio last Wednesday, and will probably take charge of the Camp Independence school. He comes armed with diplomas and certificates of graduation from the Zanesville High School and the Business College of that place. He is a native of Yuba county, this State, and comes back to California to engage in teaching.... Mr. T. Crough, a brother of our John and Dan, and a graduate of Heald's Business College of San Francisco, is over from Tuolumne and intends engaging in business in the valley.

NEW VENTURES.—Beveridge District appears to be attracting business establishments all the same, notwithstanding its general inaccessibility. Messrs. Mitchell and Murphy have an embryo store in Freeborn Cañon, at the mill; T. McDonough supplies the necessaries at the old Mexican arastras, and we hear that a new firm is putting in a good stock of goods at the Keynot mine.

DEEP SPRING MAIL.—The mail route recently established from Big Pine to Columbus has been changed so as to connect at Lida, running once a week each way. According to the press dispatches "Col." N. Gilbert has been appointed Postmaster at Deep Springs, and the name changed to Gilbert Post-office.

ON THE WAY.—Judge Hannah may be expected here in time to open court on Monday. He left Caliente two or three days since in a private conveyance, traveling slowly on account of his enfeebled health.

WILL OPEN.—The public school, under Mr. Dan. Crough, teacher, begins here on Monday.

SHINGLES.—A. Stecker has gone up to his mill on the mountains to start up the shingle mill.

PROPOSED AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

BISHOP CREEK, Aug. 30.

MESSRS. EDITORS — The people of Bishop Creek are desirous of starting an agricultural and district fair ground, and to that end we desire that the people of Independence and other localities join with us and determine where best it should be held, and transact such business as would be for the best interest of all. We would be pleased to meet any of the people of Independence on the 10th day of September, at Bishop Creek, when when we will hold our first meeting. Trusting that you will give us your aid in the furtherance of this object, we remain, etc.

The foregoing is signed by Messrs. J. H. Stoutenborough, John Clarke, R. Russell, John Chiatovich, J. B. Swearingen, H. H. Buckles, Geo. M. Gill, W. J. C. Gill, B. H. Yaney, C. L. Van Epps, W. P. Bailey, R. Fred Brooks, J. M. Horton, A. F. Mairs, George Stevens, W. O. Merithew, F. B. Merithew, J. B. Giles, P. W. Keys, T. C. Harniss, A. K. Briggs, Andy Dell, G. H. Lewis, F. G. Powers, J. B. White, Seth G. Sneden, Wm. O. Harrell, J. Burns, W. G. McCosky, B. Peeler, C. A. Schuman, Jacob Koch, H. H. Howell, J. H. Bulpitt, W. O. Meroney, M. H. White, G. W. Blazer, J. C. Mills, J. H. Richardson, F. H. Day, A. Heller, Thos. G. Beazley, J. Elkeles, T. D. McLean, D. E. Hunter, L. Gerrish, H. G. Plumley, H. N. Gunter, Gus. McGovern, T. T. Cook, Jos. Shelby.

The above shows a good array of prominent names, and the proposition should and doubtless will receive a cordial co-operation by the public-spirited throughout the valley. The date set, however, for the preliminary meeting is next Saturday, leaving the time too short for much discussion and action here. There should be an entire unity to make the thing a success, and we would suggest that the citizens of Big Pine, Fish Springs, Independence, George's Creek and Lone Pine canvass the matter thoroughly and send representative delegates to the meeting. It is a most commedable undertaking, and we regret it was not proposed a few weeks sooner.

WAS A SUCCESS.—The concert at Lone Pine on the 27th instant passed of very pleasantly. Miss Ida Adams, assisted by Mrs. Annie Harvey, displayed great energy in their preparations to make it a success. Mrs. Harvey's floral decorations, crosses, anchors, etc., would do credit to any artist. Mrs. Sara Stevens Heenan, Miss Marcia Stevens, Mr. G. Gregory, Mrs. Viel, Misses Zelia and Mary Meysan and Mr. Dick Richards furnished fine music; one of their finest pieces "The Race of the Sea Gulls," was called for a second time. Mrs. Louise Johnson's singing was highly appreciated. Miss Nellie Hughes sang "The Ship that never Returned," in a manner that showed much talent and was called for a second time. Miss Della Willis sang nicely "Now I lay me down to Sleep," but the duet with Mr. G. Gregory was omitted for want of time to perfect it.

Mrs. Heenan recited "Edith's Request," "Jane Conquest," and "Ben Adhem," in her usual pleasing manner and contributed greatly to the pleasure of the evening in every possible way. Miss Kate Reddy recited "Our Lord's Prayer," in tableau, and it was one of the finest features of the evening's delights. Miss Ida Adams and Mr. Henry Cofer taught the young people how to go properly through that ever interesting experience of "Popping the Question:" Miss Nellie Hughes and Mr. G. Gregory showed how it is usually done. The tableaux were all good. "Rock of Ages," by Miss Victorine, would have been better had the view of the face been less obscure. Mrs. Lieb rendered valuable assistance in arranging characters in tableau. All who took any part tried to do their best and succeeded admirably.

MALICIOUS MISCHIEF.—It is truly astonishing to note how contemptibly and unreasonably mean some people can be. Here, last week, during the absence of G. W. Brady, some unknown persons took occasion to destroy all the growing fruit and melon-vines in his garden. A few days later the same or a similar gang of candidates for the penitentiary took occasion to utterly wreck not only all the melon and other vines but every grape in Mr. J. L. Wood's garden. The peculiar meanness of this outrage is the more marked because it has ever been Mr. Wood's pleasure to share his garden products of every kind with any and every one, large or small, who came to his place. And the same remark applies with equal truth to Mr. Brady's liberality in the same line.

RETURNED.—Mr. Daniel Crough, accompanied by a younger brother and sister, arrived here on Wednesday from his three months' visit over in the cow counties. He says mining people in Tuolumne are growing rich in working quartz that yields barely $6 per ton, and these people can't possibly understand why sixty-dollar ore don't count for much here in Inyo. It is curious, that's a fact.

RECORDER.—We learn that Geo. M. Gill, Esq., was last Saturday elected Recorder of Bishop Creek District by a large and complimentary majority. He explains this by saying that no one ran against him—like the boy "next to the head" in school, when there was but two in the class.

DOING WELL.—Connelly's broken leg is doing remarkably well. Though both bones were broken, the smaller in two places, no inflammation has taken place and the patient feels assured that he is going to be pegging around on crutches ere another two weeks pass.

MEETING.—Inyo Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., meets to-night at the hall, for the transaction of regular business. A business meeting of P. P. P. is also called.

MAIL MATTERS.—WE are authorized, by Superintendent McNaughton, to state that the stages of the Aurora and Independence Stage Line will hereafter leave Independence at 7 o'clock instead of 2, in the morning, and will arrive at noon. The hour of arrivals and departures at Aurora will remain as heretofore, the time en route being shortened to correspond with the above changes, which, for obvious reasons, will be well appreciated by travelers, as also will the reduction in fare, which hereafter will be $5 instead of $7 between this place and Bishop Creek. The fare through to Aurora is thereby reduced from $22 to $20, although the way fares remain unchanged north of Bishop. To make things still better, new and comfortable coaches are to take the place of the buckboards, as soon as the former arrive from Sacramento, they being now on the way.

LONE PINE.—The news from this place will not take much space this week. We learn from Mr. Paul Houard, (who, we hear, is going to the lower country for a short time) that Lone Pine has had two narrow escapes from fire this week, one in the new house lately built by Otero, from a defective stove-pipe, and last night a fire caught in Josiah Dodge's barn yard, which were both fortunately discovered in time to prevent much damage. Senator O'Calaghan left this morning for San Francisco, and the much esteemed son-in-law of Mrs. Wemple, Mr. Harry Lieb, left for the same place a few days ago. The Lasky family leave to-morrow for that city. The young people gave a dance in their honor last night. We also record the arrival there of Miss Temple, who goes to take charge of the school house.

BEVERIDGE.—Superintendent Taylor, W. L. Hunter and others are in from Beveridge. The little mill started up for the present run on the 12th of last month and will make a complete clean-up on the coming 14th. So far some $15,000 in gold has been shipped, from the screens and plates. The mill is beseiged by Beveridge miners who want their rich ore reduced.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.—Owing to causes not necessary here to enumerate, the even tenor of the Independence Sunday School has been somewhat interrupted here of late, therefore it is meet now to announce that there will be Sunday school to-morrow at two o'clock, and all are invited to attend.

LEVI R. RANDALL is under arrest at Visalia charged with the murder of a little girl who was killed four years ago. It will be remembered that three or four years ago a little girl, about 14 years of age, living with her parents near Kernville, Kern county, started home from school, and not being seen as soon as expected, was sought and found by the roadside brutally outraged and murdered. The greatest mystery hung about the affair. Every clue was eagerly seized upon and followed up, to lead to but nothing. A Mexican who lived on the road between the girl's home and the school-house was suspected, as the child had often stopped at the cabin, and he was intimate at her home. There was talk of lynching him, but he strenuously protested his innocence, and finally he was released, there being no evidence whatever against him, and so the matter gradually died away. A few days ago Randall was heard of as in or near Visalia, and was found at a dance-house and taken in charge by Deputy Sheriff Fudge. Randall is an ex-convict, a bad man and a dangerous one. It is said he told the story of the killing of the child to a fellow convict, who has in turn told the officers.

ONCE more the love of apples has brought a member of the human family into trouble. Early in last November a little boy of St. Louis, Oscar Amerheim by name, left his school books on the steps of his father's house, climbed into the rear end of a passing wagon and asked the driver if he might have some of the apples which constituted the load. "Certainly, take as many as you like," replied the driver. The wagon went on, and at the outskirts of the city the boy was seized, crowded under the seat and held there until late at night, when he was released, to find himself at the door of a little cabin. There he was kept month after month, and compelled, under close watch, to take a hard part in the work of the farm. On the 2d of this month he escaped, struggled along on foot to St. Louis, and the next day reached his father's house, tired, ragged and footsore. This is the boy's story; the farmer has yet to be heard from, but he will soon have a chance to represent his side of the case in court.—N. Y. Tribune.

A Gazette Fort Smith special says: Lieut. Shoemaker of the United States army, acting under the instructions of Indian Agent Tufts, is encamped, together with a body of 25 soldiers and a body of Indian militia, under Governor McCurran, a few miles from this city in the Choctaw Nation. He has issued peremptory orders to all white settlers who have not paid the odious license fee to the Choctaw authorities, to quit the country immediately. Many persons have been obliged to leave crops and homes and seek refuge in this State, being unable to pay the tax. The Indians are inexorable. Great distress prevails, and hundreds are rendered homeless.

A GRAPEVINE in San Diego county, owned by Wm. R. Flinn, near the Cajon valley, is probably the largest in the world. Its weight together with that of its fruit, broke down an oak tree which was perfectly sound, two and a half feet in diameter and upward of fifty feet in hight with a corresponding spread of limbs. Mr. Flinn estimated that on that portion of the vine which destroyed the tree there was fully five tons of grapes.

A FRENCHMAN proposes to rent for mushroom-raising purposes a portion of the Mammoth Cave, Kentucky. The part selected by him is the avenue named in honor of Audubon. It is said that the proposed mushroom farm will not affect the natural grandeur of the wonderful cavern.

$500 Reward.

Gov. John B. Neal of Idaho has issued a proclamation offering a reward of $500 for the arrest and delivery to the Sheriff of Alturas county of Frank Ayres and Joseph Green, or $250 for the apprehension and delivery as aforesaid of either one of them. Ayers and Green are the alleged murderers of Wm. Noyes, at or near Champaign Station, on the Blackfoot, Bonanza and Wood River stage road, on or about the 1st instant. It is thought that these men immediately after the murder made for this section of California. They are known in Bodie and Virginia City. Green is a hard looking character and his partner has a very unpleasant appearance.—Bodie Free Press.

Two great bells have been cast at West Croydon, in England, for the tower of the new Eddystone Lighthouse. Each has a weight of about 42 hundred weight and a diameter at the mouth of 5 feet 1½ inches. Their note is C, and they are intended to act as fog signals—the one to leeward, the other to windward.

Hanford has a case of small-pox, and the local papers say that as a result "consternation is depicted on every countenance. Business is completely paralyzed. Many residents have fled the town. The excitement is intense, and it would be impossible to exaggerate it. Whole families have abandoned their homes."

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 3..... 1881

LONDON CHURCHES.—The Earl of Onslow recently brought before the House of Lords the great scandal of the city churches, as shown by the recent census in the St. James Gazette—sixty-one in number, with an average attendance at the Sunday morning service of less than 100, two-thirds of this scanty number being officials and children. The total annual income is stated at upwards of £41,000, but that does not include residences, in many cases let for large sums. Lord Onslow proposed a Royal commission; but the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Bishop of London and Lord Granville suggested legislation—the responsibility for which, however, neither seemed inclined to assume. In the mean time the scandal is gathering force that may lead to a drastic measure of secularization.

ONION SOUP.—A soup made from onions is regarded by the French as an excellent restorative in debility of the digestive organs, says Miss Corson. It is made by frying golden brown half a dozen sliced onions in sufficient butter to prevent burning, with a teaspoonful of sugar; two quarts of clear soup are next added to the onions, together with a bouquet of sweet herbs and a palatable seasoning of salt and pepper; these ingredients are allowed to simmer gently together for a quarter of an hour while some slices of bread are being toasted, and placed in the soup tureen; the bouquet of herbs is then removed, and the broth and onions poured upon the bread, when the soup is served hot.

A BRIDEGROOM at Aurora, Ill., forgot to employ the Episcopal rector for the ceremony, though he arranged with the sexton to open the church, with the organist for music, and sent out hundreds of cards. The guests were all assembled before the omission was discovered. The reverend gentleman had gone to Chicago, and as the bride declared that none other could tie the knot, the couple followed him to that city on a special train, accompanied by all who desired to go.

THAT was a very pretty compliment the negro paid to a beautiful young lady whom he lifted across the gutter. She said: "Sambo, I am afraid I am too heavy." "Oh no, Miss, bress yo' heart," was the gallant reply, "I'se used to liftin' barr'ls ob suga'."

THE Daily Report says that it has not been as fully noticed as it should have been that the Central Pacific gave leave of absence and two months extra pay to twenty-eight of its men, who each gave a piece of skin to patch the leg of a scalded comrade. The comrade is rapidly recovering and the company has earned some more popular respect.

WE have just read a handkerchief flirtation code, and advise all men desiring to avoid breach-of-promise suits to wipe their mouths with their coat-tails.

APPLICATION FOR A PATENT

....TO THE....

SUMMIT NO. 2 MINE.

No. 192.

UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE, Bodie, Cal., June 6, 1881.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT A. R. Conklin, W. H. Jenkins and James Jenkins, whose postoffice address is Independence, Inyo county, California, have this day filed their application for a patent for fifteen hundred linear feet of the SUMMIT NO. 2 mine or vein bearing silver, with surface ground six hundred feet in width, situated in Cerro Gordo mining district, County of Inyo, State of California, and designated by the field notes and official plat on file in this office as Lot No. 40, in Township ——, Range ——of —— —— Meridian.

SURVEY OF LODE.

Said Lot No. 40 being described as follows, to wit: Commenced at a post on SE. end of claim on lode line, marked the post "Post A. Summit Mine No. 2," from which, with a variation 15 deg. 55 min. E. a pine bush 3 lks high, bears N. 88½ deg. E. 43 lks; a pine bush 3 links high bears S. 45¾ deg. W. 31 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E., N 40 deg. W. 10 earth ridge bears W. .50 wagon road runs SW.; commenced ascending 14.88 trail on ridge runs W.; commenced descending 18.39, trail runs W. 20.17 tunnel 9 ft long on quartz vein. 22 72 "Post B, Summit Mine No. 2," on NW. end of lode, from which the Belshaw wagon road bears N. 45 deg. W. 45 links.

SURVEY OF CONNECTING LINE.

From "Post 7, Summit Mine No. 2," the Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument bears N. 54 deg. E. 50 links by direct chain measurement.

SURVEY OF EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.

Commenced at a post set in mound of earth on S. cor. of claim; marked the post "Post 1, Summit Mine No. 2," from which, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E., a pine tree 12 links high bears N. 39 deg. W. 49 links; a pine tree 3 links high bears N. 18¼ deg. E. 31 links; a pine bush 2 links high bears N. 84½ deg. E. 36 links; a pine bush 2 links high bears S. 19 deg. 15 min. W. 17 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E., (1) N. 40 deg. W. 2.54 brow of hill; commence descending; 10.36 gulch; runs W. 12 21 wagon road; 13 64 "Post 2, Summit Mine No. 2," set in a mound of earth on S. boundary line of the Armagh mine, from which "Post 1, Armagh Mine," bears N. 79 deg. L. of the Santa Niño mine; 20.31 trail runs E-W, commence descending; 21.21 wagon road runs N.-S.; 22.72 "Post 4, Summit Mine No. 2," set in mound of earth on W. cor. of claim, from which the entrance to the open cut leading into the Santa Niño tunnel bears S. 28½ deg. W. 45 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E., (2) N. 50 deg. E. .74 intersection of the north B. L. of the Santa Niño mine; set a post in mound of earth in the bottom of an old prospecting cut; cut bears NW. & SE.; marked the post "Post 5, Summit Mine No. 2," from which "Post 18, Santa Niño Mine," bears S. 80 deg. W. 2.85 chains; 1.89 wagon road runs N. & S., 4.54 "Post B, Summit Mine No. 2," on northwest end of line of lode; 7 88 "Post 2, Summit Mine No. 2," standing in mound of earth at intersection of north boundary line of the Armagh mine, from which "Post 1, Armagh Mine," bears S. 11 deg. E. 11.76 chains; 9.09 "Post 7, Summit Mine No. 2," standing on N. cor. of claim, from which the Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument bears 54 deg. E. 50 links.

Description of Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument as described in the field notes of survey of the Armagh mine: The Armagh U. S. Mineral Monument is built on the apex of a red rocky point at the intersection of Ygnacio Ravine and Cerro Gordo cañon, and very precisely on the W. B. line of the Ygnacio mine (as surveyed for a patent in the year 1875 by Jos. Seely, U. S. Dep. Min. Sur.), and distant 17.51 chains from the southwest corner stake of the Ygnacio mine.

At the point above given I drilled a hole in the rock to a depth of 9 inches, in which drove a piece of gas pipe 1 inch in dia. x16 inches long. On top of gas pipe, set a post 4x4 inches square, x4 feet long, around which built a monument of rocks 5 feet high x5 feet in dia. at its base; marked the top of post "U. S. Min'l Monument. Erected Jan'y 3d, A. D. 1880, by Wm. Crapo, U. S. Dep. Min. Sur., under authority of the U. S. Sur. Gen'l for Cal'a."

From said post in mineral monument, with a variation of 15 deg. 55 min. E the extreme end of the bluff on which the monument is situated, bears N. 25 deg. W. 17 links. The east edge of ridge at the top of a vertical face of rock, 7½ feet high, bears N. 60 deg E 7 links. The NE. cor. of an old adobe vaso chimney bears S. 38 deg. 16 min. W. 16 links. The middle of the Belshaw toll road at a point where it turns out of Cerro Gordo Cañon bears N. 81¾ deg. W. 1.06 chains. The middle of Cerro Gordo Cañon bears N. .62 chains. The NW. cor. of Rafael Diaz's house bears S. 28 deg. 33 min. E. 1.58 chains. An old well 30 feet deep on the north side of Cerro Gordo Cañon bears N. 58 deg. 20 min. W. 1 93 chs. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min. E. (3) S. 40 deg. E. .93 W. boundary of Ygnacio mine. Set a post in mound of rocks and earth; marked post "Post 8, Summit Mine No. 2," from which the Armagh U. S. mineral monument bears N. 11 deg. W. 1.03 chains. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 E. commence descending. (4) S. 11 deg. E. 3.36 intersection of N. B. line of the Santa Niño mine at "Post 20, Santa Niño Mine;" marked the post "Post 9, Summit Mine No. 2" Post stands in mound of earth on top edge of Ygnacio dump. 3.66 W. edge of open cut at entrance to Ygnacio tunnel. 6.39 post marked "Post 10, Santa Niño Mine" on south boundary line of Santa Niño mine; marked the post "Post 10, Summit Mine No. 2;" 8.15 trail on ridge; runs E. & W. 16.49 "Post No. 2, Ygnatio Mine," on southwest corner of Ygnacio mine marked the post "Post 11, Summit Mine No 2," from which the entrance to the Summit tunnel at a point where the tunnel first enters ore, bears N. 33¾ deg. W. 98 links. Course of Summit tunnel for first 185 feet from mouth or entrance N. 59 deg. 6 min. E. The middle of wagon road in bottom of gulch bears S. 50 deg. W. 9 links. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min E., commence ascending. (5) N 79 deg. E. 1.51, post marked "Post No. 7, Y. M.," standing on SE. cor. Ygnacio mine; marked the post "Post 12, Summit Mine No. 2," from which a pine tree 9 inches dia. x14 feet high bears S. 20 deg. E. 1.40 chains. Thence, with a var. 15 deg. 55 min E (6) N. 11 deg. W. 7.57 summit of ridge bears W. commence descending. 8.33 old dump at entrance to a tunnel runs E. 10.08 "Post 21, Santa Niño Mine" on south boundary line of Santa Niño mine; marked the post "Post 13, Summit Mine No. 2." 12.12 east edge of Ygnacio open cut. 13.11 "Post 22, Santa Niño Mine," on north boundary line of Santa Niño mine; marked the post "Post 14, Summit Mine No. 2." 13.75 set a post on east boundary line of Ygnacio mine; marked the post "Post 15, Summit Mine No. 2," from which the entrance to the "Hubbard tunnel" bears N. 20 deg. THE LAST STAKE SET.

Mr. G. O. Newman, a distinguished engineer in the employ of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company, who arrived here the 11th of June last, sent for the purpose of finding the most feasible pass through the Sierras into this valley and locating the line of the road thence to Bakersfield, set his last stake Wednesday in the vicinity of the Couat-house, having entered the town by the way of Railroad avenue, a street of great width so laid out by the founders of the town in view of the probable coutingency that it might some day be required for railroad purposes. Mr. Newman hired his party and procured his outfit at this place, and after some delay because of a wagon missent from San Francisco, proceeded to the summit of Tehachipa pass, down which he was ordered to do his first work in finding a route to the plains. The company appears to have inclined to the belief that that route must necessarily be the best because it had been utilized by the Southern Pacific. He commenced work there on the 22d of June, but soon became convinced from the representations of old residents and his own observations, that a better way of reaching the valley could be found; and accordingly, after he had extended his survey a distance of fourteen miles, he was notified that he was at liberty to use his own judgment in the selection of a route. He then surveyed a line from the summit to the canyon of Cumming's valley, down which to the plains he had reason to believe he would meet with engineering difficulties of a less serious nature. Here he ran three lines, the last of which has been approved by the Chief Engineer of the road. It is 32 miles in length and swings round into the Tejon cañon, which it strikes four miles from its mouth, reaching the plains by the way of the "Sink of Tejon," the course thence to Bakersfield being west by thirty degrees north. His grade in descending the mountains is two feet in the hundred on the tangents, but less on the curves, so that a uniform tractive power only, according to his calculations, will be required. It is well known, the grade being equal, that a much greater power is required on curves. He thinks two locomotives will take a train over on his line that six are required for on the Southern Pacific. Seven tunnels will be needed, the length of the longest being 1,000 ft. The ground is of a solid character and does not seem to have ever been disturbed or broken. There will be no deep cutting and filling or trestlework, and the cost of construction will not exceed one-fourth of that of the Southern Pacific on the route they have taken to secure the same object. Mr. Newman has reason to be proud of his success. He took his departure Thursday, on his way to visit his family at Riverside, and will return to the summit for the purpose of commencing a working survey of his line, and we have reason to believe that contracts will soon be let for the construction of the road-bed.—Kern Co. Californian.

THE Candelaria True Fissure gets right down into the true fissure of truth when it says miners ought to read their own local paper. It is a well established fact that the recent gigantic legal battle between the Albion and Richmond mining companies at Eureka, Nevada, was decided in favor of the latter through a patent being secured to the ground on which there had been an older claim, and that that claim was good and valid until other parties secured a patent to the ground without a protest from the original claimants. It is more than probable that the older locator never read the local paper, and consequenty missed seeing the advertisement for a patent which covered their ground. This should teach mining men the value of subscribing for and reading their local papers.

MRS. DR. EDISON has been dismissed by the President. He says he wants nothing but men about him.

Canal Work at Panama.

The engineers and laborers on the Panama Canal ars said to be suffering severely from yellow fever and the malarial fevers peculiar to the Isthmus. Many deaths are reported. In a recent issue the Panama Star and Herald criticises somewhat unfavorably the manner in which the work is conducted and the seeming discrepancies between the reports given in the Canal Bulletin and the actual work going on. On the latter point the Star and Herald says:

"So far as machinery is concerned, material, etc., we are aware that important arrivals are announced by every steamer. Launches, excavators, railroad iron, carts, tools of every description, and large amounts of lumber are now on hand at Aspinwall, but they do not move out on the line quite as fast as people thought was likely. American opinion of the machinery is unfavorable. The tools are of old styles, rolling stock of the most antiquated pattern, heavy, and unsightly, and not adapted to the class of labor obtainable on the Isthmus. A couple of hand-cars sent out are a curiosity ,with their iron frames, iron seats, and old style of movement. It is hardly likely they will be used. The excavators are ponderous affairs, and will probably do work in loose soil or sand, but in that which confronts them on the Isthmus will hardly work effectively without some trouble.

"For removing bowlders or loose rocks of any sort we are told they do not come up to inventions employed in the United States. In fact, we understood that the machinery, tools, etc., to be employed were to have been manufactured in the United States, and, notwithstanding the heavy orders now under way in Europe, we fancy a return to that idea would not be disadvantageous to the service. It is well known that in the matter of axes, picks, shovels, etc., and in more important and heavy machinery, for work of this class America beats the world. Give a workman good tools if you wish him to serve you well.

"However, there is work in progress, and important work also, and for that, as friends of the enterprise, let us be thankful. In addition to the work going forward at Culebra, Empire, and other places, at Gatun considerable movement is noticeable. A gentleman connected with the enterprise informs us that they now have there about 250 men, who are leveling in front of the station for a machine shop, etc. The hill back of the station-house will be reduced about 35 feet, and leveled over an area of one quarter and one-half mile square. This they will do with pick, shovel, and wheelbarrow. When it is leveled they will put 200 houses on it for their employes.

Folly of Waiting for Capital.

The following, which we take from the Georgetown Gazette, is to the point and is equally applicable to many other mining industries of the State:

Some people have very extravagant ideas about selling undeveloped locations to capitalists. You may attempt to hold a claim for ever and never find a buyer unless you open it up sufficiently to show something worth buying. Millions of capital is ready to invest in good mining claims, and our prospectors must use a little more energy in developing good showings of extensive pay ore, before they can hope to enlist capital. We are satisfied that there are some valuable mines lying dormant right around this camp, awaiting only a few months' earnest labor in sinking and cross-cutting upon the lode. This habit many have of saying "we can't do anything without capital," is in most part a delusory weakness. Any two able-bodied men, who have a prospect claim which they believe to be good, are in themselves a capital to put down a hundred foot shaft or a few hundred feet of tunnel to tap a vein. The "waiting for capital" is what is keeping back the town. Let us go to work in the right spirit, and show our faith by our works. This hovering over a little prospect hole year after year without even complying with the requirements of the district and Congressional laws, will never induce a capitalist to even inspect your mine, and besides these numerous attempts at holding ground within the mere intent of the law is detrimental to Georgetown. It keeps back those who would take up and develop the mines.

JUDGE RIVES is reported to have given orders that the newspapers should not have access to his recent decision in the Albion-Richmond case. After reading the decision one is surprised that he let anybody see it.—Carson Appeal.

An Appeal to the Charitable.

The following is an appeal issued by a committee of citizens of Port Huron, Michigan, headed by Senator Congor, Mayor Carleton and others:

To the people of the United States: A most appalling disaster has fallen upon a large portion of the counties of Huron and Samlac, with some adjacent territory of the country, recently covered with forest and now occupied by nearly 500,000 people, largely recently settled and either poor or in very moderate circumstances. In the whole of this region there has been but little rain during the past two months and everything was dry. On Monday, September 5th, a hurricane swept over it and carried a sheet of flame that hardly anything could withstand. We have advices of 200 persons being burned to death, many of them by the roadside or in fields seeking safety, and it is possible that twice that number have perished. We have reports from twenty or more townships here in which scarcely a house, barn or supplies of any kind are left, and thousands of persons are destitute and helpless. All of these persons require assistance, and many of them must depend on charity for months to come. We are doing all in our power to succor them, but their necessities are so great that contributions from charitable persons throughout the country will be required to keep them throughout the Winter. We therefore appeal to you to send money, clothing, bedding, provisions or any other supplies that will help to maintain the sufferers and enable them to provide shelter for themselves and begin work on their farms. Contributions should be sent to Mayor E. C. Carleton, chairman of relief committee appointed by the citizens of Port Huron, who have sent agents through the burned drstrict to ascertain the wants of the sufferers and to distribute supplies.

A Relic.

W. W. Boyle of Sonora, one of the owners of the "Sheepherder" group of mines of Tioga District, has presented this office with a portion (about two feet in length) of the handle of the rust-eaten shovel that was found beside a prospect hole on the Sheepherder lode in 1874 by Wm. Brusky, Jr., when that youth rediscovered the lode. Our readers will remember that in our history of the discovery of that lode, published two weeks ago, it was stated that when young Brusky came upon the lode in 1874 he found a prospect hole, a shovel, a pick and a partially obliterated notice written on tin and bearing the date 1860. The names of the locators had disappeared from the strip of tin, and they will probably never again be known among men. The venturesome prospector whose hands grasped the shovel handle twenty one years ago were perhaps on their return from the old Mono diggings or Bodie or Aurora to their homes or former haunts in Mariposa or Tuolumne, and it is not probable that they would have permanently abandoned such a valuable prospect, they doubtless perished in the mountains of hunger and cold before reaching the settlements on the other side. Whatever their fate may have been they never returned, and fourteen years afterward their prospect shaft and tools were discovered by young Brusky, who seven years after, on the 28th of last month (the morning after we published the history of his discovery and his efforts to get others to assist him in developing his property), also joined the silent throng beyond the dark river.—Homer Index.

IF the anti-debris people are to be believed, there never was an overflow of a river or a flood in California till after the inauguration of hydraulic mining, nor did any necessity for levees exist previous to that time. They lay all the expense of levee building at the door of hydraulic mining. If there had never been an ounce of debris washed down from the mountains, the necessity for expensive levees on the Sacramento, American and Yuba rivers would have existed all the same, as all are rivers that are naturally liable to overflow. The hydraulic mining debris has perhaps raised the beds of the rivers a few inches and some land has had slickens deposited on it, but the same results were accomplished, only on a smaller scale, by ihe rains and detrition long before the industry of hydraulic mining existed, and will continue to be accomplished as long as the world stands. What the Grangers ought to do is to abolish the rains; because, if they succeed in stopping hydraulic mining, they will have similar cause of complaint against the rains as they now bring against the mines. It has passed into a proverb that the California farmer is never satisfied with the state of things existing, and it is beyond question that on all political, economic or public questions they are always growlers and soreheads.

BROOM-CORN is likely at no distant day to revolutionize the breadstuff supply of the world. A process has been discovered by which the finest and most delicious flour can be made from the seed to the extent of one-half its weight, and leave the other half a valuable food for making beef and milk. The average yield per acre is three hundred bushels, and in many instances five hundred bushels, or thirty thousand pounds, have been secured. Nor does it exhaust the soil as Indian corn from the fact that it feeds from the deeper soil, and assimilates its food from a cruder state. It belongs to the same genus as the sweet cane, commonly known as sorgham, which as an article of food is growing rapidly in public favor, and from the seed of which a most nutritious flour can be obtained.

SKILL IN FARMING.—The editor of the agricultural department of the Bulletin strikes the key note of the secret of success in fruit-growing, when he says:

For more than twenty years there was hardly as much as a parasite or an insect doing any damage to the orchards of this State. The exemption was something remarkable. Gradually half a dozen kinds made their appearance and now there are few orchards wholly free from them. The Phylloxera, the scale bug and the aphis came along to vex the viticulturist and the fruit-grower. From this time forward fruit-growing cannot be conducted with any profit, in a haphazard sort of way. The orchardist must know his enemies and how to deal with them. And these enemies now threaten to be as formidable as in any part of the United States. The fruit-growing guild will become a powerful and intelligent one from the necessities of the case. The more perplexing the questions, the more intelligence and skill must be enlisted in the business. The citron-growers in the southern part of the State have already done a great deal by way of organization, and are learning all that is best about varieties and markets, as well as how to deal with the various pests which find their way to the citron groves.

BUT few men can handle a hot lamp chimney and say there is no place like home at the same time.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 17.....1881

ONE of the ablest of the United States District Judges of Colorado, in pronouncing a recent decision upon a jumped claim, substantially used the following language: "The law supposes or takes for granted that when a man puts a $100 worth of work on a claim or location that mineral was there to justify the expenditure or else a man would not be foolish enough to put his time and money to such use; and no man has a right to go on the claim of another and break the surface ground or to prospect. In other words, the law accepts the acts of a miner and prospector in good faith, and his fellow men should do the same and keep their hands off." The decision will be accepted in all mining circles as a very sensible one.

WHILE at Cherokee a few days since, says the Chico, Cal., Record, we had an opportunity to examine the electric light, which is now in successful use in the Spring Valley Company's mine. The light used was a 1,000 candle power lamp and situated about two hundred yards from the workmen, and was without a reflector. The banks around the workmen were so lighted that at a distance they looked like banks of snow. At 300 yards from the lamp the light was sufficiently brilliant to read ordinary printed matter. A light of over tripple the brilliancy could have been given from the lamp used, but it would have been too intense for the workmen. Should anyone doubt the success of the electric light, he has only to visit the mine and inspect for himself.

SOMEWAY the following from an exchange seems rather pertinent: In all towns where a newspaper is published every man should advertise in it, even if nothing more than a card stating his name and the business he is engaged in. It not only pays the advertiser, but it lets the people at a distance know that the town you reside in has a live and prosperous community of business men. It draws attention to the camp, brings population, enlarges the town, enhances the value of property, and thus by the expenditure of a small sum every year is the advertiser rewarded.

A Washington dispatch of the 11th says: "Secretary Kirkwood, Adjutant-General Drum and Gov. Fremont had a conference yesterday, relative to the defense of the inhabitants of Arizona from hostile movements on the part of the Apache Indians. It was decided to furnish the Governor at once with the needed supply of arms, to be distributed among the people in that portion of the country threatened with invsion. Gov. Fremont left for Arizona to-night."

PACIFIC.—It is not a hard matter to pacify railroad nomenclature—it is very pacific. We instance a few, thus:

THE artesian well at Battle Mountain, Nevada, flows 2,000 gallons an hour. The water irrigates fifty acres of grass land, twenty-five acres of grain and vegetables, and has converted 150 acres of sagebrush desert into a fine pasture. The depth of the well is 165 feet. It is thought there is scarcely any of the desert land of Nevada that is not susceptible of reclamation by means of artesian wells.

NEW ORLEANS is in danger of becoming an inland city. The Mississippi is cutting a new channel, and the city may be left on a narrow stream. The press of that place considers the danger to be considerable. Many interesting historical examples have been cited, showing that other cities have descended from prominence to unimportance through such causes.

THREE years ago, at Kernville, Kern county, a man named Green, a dissolute character, sold his body to Dr. Johnson for $7 50. On the 20th of August Green died at Havilah, and upon being notified of the fact, Dr. Johnson took the body to Kernville, divested the bones of the flesh, and is arranging the framework of his purchase for further use.

THE telegraph announces the death of Gen. Burnside at Bristol, R. I. During the war Gen. Burnside was one of the bravest and most efficient officers in the army. At the time of his death he represented Rhode Island in the United States Senate. His character was above reproach, and he died almost in the prime of life.

POLITICAL GOSSIP.

THE Maine election gives the Republicans another member of the House, which not counting the four vacancies in New York, stands Republicans 144, Democrats 133, Greenbackers 9, Readjusters 2, and Hyatt Smith of the Brooklyn Independent. If the Republicans elect three out of four of the New York members they will have just enough to organize the House. If the Democrats should elect two members, as they claim they can, then the Republicans will need the help of Smith to organize the House. It is claimed that he will act with them. Five of the Greenbackers were formerly Republicans and will probably act with that party as against the Democrats. They are Brunned of Pennsylvania, Rice, Hazeltine, Foitt and Burroughs of Missouri, Jones of Texas, another Greenbacker, though formerly a Democrat, is now said to be a bitter opponent to that party and would be more likely to act against that party than with it. Ladd and Murch of Maine, and Musgrove of Pennsylvania, would vote with the Democrats on the question of organization should there be a contest between these two parties. What the two Virginia Readjusters would do there is no means of telling. The result of the coming election in Virginia will probably have considerable influence in determining their political status in the next Congress. Greenback leaders declare they intend to make a caucus nomination for Speaker and stand by that nomination to the last. Then there is a good deal of talking of a coalition of Democrats and Greenbackers, but such a combination could not win unless the Virginia Readjusters join in. Should the Democrats capture Millus or Lapharas district in New York it might be fatal to the Republican ascendency, as it would enable opposition to muster a majority. The chances are favorable to the Republican organization, but the vote is likely to be close; that a sudden death or case of sickness might upset all calculations.

SERGT. MASON, who fired a shot at Guiteau the other day (but, we are sorry to say, didn't hit the ourang-outang through the kidneys or anywheres else), said to an interviewer: "When the attempted assassination was made by the scoundrel, I first heard of it in Texas, on the train, where there were a number of soldiers, and I then secretly resolved that, if I was put in a position where I had the opportunity, I would kill the assassin. Sunday morning I loaded my musket, knowing that I was going on duty, with the intention of shooting him the first chance I got. When I arrived at the jail I walked at once to where I could get range of his window, and fired. I am perfectly sane, and if I had killed him I would be willing to remain in prison the remainder of my natural life. If restored to duty I will shoot him the first chance I get."

FIRST LIEUT. JOHN G. BOURKE, Third Cavalry' U. S. A., aid-de-camp to Gen. Crook, was one of the officers selected by Gen. Sheridan some months since to make investigations of the habits, etc., of the Indians living within or contiguous to the military division of the Missouri. The district assigned to Lieut. Bourke was the southern half of the division, the northern portion being allotted to Capt. P. W. Clark, of the Second Cavalry. Bourke has penetrated into a country never before traversed by a white man, and has written to Gen. Sheridan a long letter, which contains a graphic description of the curious and horrible religious ceremonies among the remote and almost unknown Indian tribe of Moquis of Northeastern Arizona, a people whose identity has been preserved since they were first seen and partially described by Spanish Catholic Missionaries in 1536.

DR. BLISS says, emphatically, that the President is fairly convalescent. It is a fact that the nation's patient has been much benefitted by the Long Branch sea breezes; that he is now able to sit up in an invalid chair occasionally half an hour or so at a time, and is allowed to eat beef steak and other solid food, in small quantities. Nevertheless, his variable pulse and temperature and other circumstances produce quite a wide spread belief that the outside doctors are correct in asserting the existence of blood poisoning liable, by new complications, to occasion death at most any time. However, we think Bliss is right in his conclusions, and that the President will eventually be on his feet again.

THE President is still very low. It is impossible to find out what his condition really is. The doctors are keeping a great deal back, which must come out some time or another. It is best that the worst be known now.

THE California State Fair will open in Sacramento next Monday and continue during the week, and the Nevada State Fair will open at Reno on the 10th of October and continue for five days.

WHERE papers have once been filed with the Register and Receiver they become a part or the record, and can neither be withdrawn or returned, but must be transmitted to the General Land office. An application for patent will be rejected when the description of the premises is erroneous or insufficient. Application for patent will be rejected for either of the following reasons: First, the notice was published without the knowledge of the Register. Second, the notice was not published in a newspaper designated as published nearest to the claim. Third, when the record title is found defective. Fourth, when a previous application has been made for the same premises which was withdrawn pending a suit in court commenced by the adverse claimant.

GEN. SHERMAN is mighty wrathy at Sergt. Mason's attempt to shoot Guiteau. He says the Sergeant shall be tried and punished the same as if he had fired on any unoffending citizen. He stated that if, as some of the people have claimed, there has been talk among the soldiers detailed to guard Guiteau in regard to shooting him, the guilty ones would be arraigned before a Court Martial. The fact that the attempted shooting was done by an officer of the army made the crime inexcusable, and worthy of the severest punishment.

ACCORDING to advices received at Plymouth, England, a fearful typhoon visited Shanghai on the 10th, which drove over 200 vessels of all nationalities on shore, uprooted trees and leveled to the ground whole lines of houses. During the storm, which lasted barely an hour, over ten inches of rain fell, 100 sampans sunk with their occupants, about $3,000,000 worth of tea was washed away and lost, besides other similar losses, in all amounting to a vast sum.

LETTERS from Russia depict a sad condition of things as regards the Jews. It is no rare occurrence, especially in the South, for rich Jews to be falsely accused of some imaginary crime and their property confiscated. The victims are glad to escape with their lives, and if they venture to return they are seized as vagabonds or as bearing an assumed name and banished to Siberia or removed to distant parts of the empire.

A CENSUS bulletin just issued gives the population of some of the towns and cities of California in figures which will surprise many whose estimates were based on much higher ideas. According to this report Oakland has an actual population of only 34,556; Sacramento, 21,420; San Jose, 12,567; Los Angeles, 11,183; Stockton, 10,282; Marysville, 4,321; Santa Barbara, 3,469; Bodie, 2,712; Truckee, 1,147; Colfax, 591.

THE Inter-Ocean says: "The next Congress will have to settle the Mormon question. It will have no occasion to put on kid gloves. Crimes which send men to Penitentiaries in every State in the Union should no longer be fostered and played with by the Nation's legislators. The time has come to end Mormonism, or end the legislatures who refuse to aid in doing it."

MAINE has some queer enactments on its statute book. It has a law that no medical student shall be allowed to graduate and practice medicine who has not had regular practice in the dissecting room. Then there is a law that no bodies, save only the bodies of executed criminals, shall be cut up in dissecting rooms. Then as a climax to all this, capital punishment has been abolished.

THE line of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad has just been permanently located clear through Arizona to the Sonora line at a point due south of Tucson. This will secure two roads from Tucson to Tombstone, a road from Tucson to connect with the Guaymas branch having already been surveyed.

THE "army" does not seem to make much headway in Arizona and the Apache is evidently having things his own way. With a great many officers and a few soldiers the settlers are evidently getting most of the fight.

A SOUTHERN club has "nominated" Allen S. Thurman for the Presidency of 1884.

THURSDAY morning a fire broke out in the Belleville Hotel and quickly extended to the adjoining buildings. All on that block were burned down within half an hour. The Belleville Hotel, Goodwin & Williams' butcher shop, Sailor and Barnett's drug store and news depot were consumed. The hotel was partly insured. The origin of the fire is not known.—Aurora Herald, Sept. 10.

A YOUNG man of Western Massachusetts went to Amherst to get a marriage license, and his prospective mother-in-law accompanied him in order to see to it that he got back in time for the ceremony in the evening; but at Amherst they got drunk together, and were in jail at the hour appointed for the wedding.

SIXTY thousand Americans visited Europe last year, spending on an average $3,000 each. This year it is estimated that there will be at least 100,000, spending at least on the average from $4,000 to $5,000.

GERMAN CARP.

MESSRS. EDITORS—Having been frequently queried by letter and otherwise concerning my carp I wish to state, with your kind permission, that the fish are doing well. Multifarious opinions were expressed regarding carp culture in our waters. Some spoke favorably of the project, while others pooh-poohed at the idea.—"too much mud, slush and alkali—tut-tut, money and labor thrown away—t'aint a toop per cent investment—these carp, or what you call 'em, will die or turn into bullfrogs." Such were some of the funny and discouraging exclmations made, and in order to offset the above logic it was necessary to indulge in a little rhapsody on the other side, by remarking that these carp would live and become so numerous and active that, like the Florida "muskeeters," they would, eventually, climb the trees and bark! It is needless to say that the fish have not yet displayed the predicted agility, neither are they "transmogrified" into frogs, consequently, both parties were just "a little off." The fact is, that what even the wisest of us don't know would make an awful big book—in pisciculture as well as agriculture! Your space will not permit much splurging on the finny tribe, hence accept a few brief facts concerning

THEIR GROWTH.

On the 19th of last February I placed a lot of young carp, from three to five inches long, in my two ponds. During the first two or three weeks, several of them were found dead on the surface of the water, which I attributed to the rough trip they experienced during their transportation here. The survivors have been well attended to—frequently fed; also abundance of fresh water—mountain water, and spring water; with plenty of mud, slush and grass for their convenience. Some time ago I captured one of the jokers, and, being curious to find out its length, measured him, and found Mr. Carp to be fifteen inches long. (Good sized bullfrog, "don't it?") Admitting that said carp was five inches long when placed in the pond, which was only five months previous to his being captured, he exhibited a growth of ten inches in five months, or, in other words, growing two inches per month. They are also increasing rapidly; but not having drawn the ponds yet, it is impossible to state how numerous they are. Dr. Hessel, an acknowledged authority on carp, says: "It is an advantage that the carp is able to live in water where other fishes could not possibly exist; for instance, in the pools of bog meadows or sloughs; it is partial to stagnant water, with a loamy, muddy bottom, and deep places covered with vegetation."

ITS FOOD.

The carp lives upon vegetable food as well as upon worms and larvæ of aquatic insects, which it turns up from the mud with its head; it is very easily satisfied, and will not refuse the offal of the kitchen, slaughter-houses and breweries, or even the excrement of cattle and pigs. Above everything else, the carp likes such vegetable matter as cabbage, lettuce, boiled potatoes, corn, turnips, pumpkins, melons, etc.

GROWS LARGE.

Some people think that, like the sucker of our streams, the carp never grows large. This is an erroneous impression. The Commissioner of Fish and Fisheries at Washington (probably the highest authority in the United States) in his report, says: "I have seen some common carp in the southern parts of Europe—in the lowlands of Hungary, Servia, Croatia, Wallachia, as also in Moldavia and the Buckowina—which weighed from 30 to 40 pounds and more, measuring nearly three feet and a half in length by two and three-quarter feet in circumference. Old men, whose truthfulness could not be doubted, assured me and gave the most detailed accounts of the capture of this species of fish in former years, giants, which weighed from 50 to 60 pounds. During the Crimean war, in 1853, a French engineer officer, killed a carp by a bullet shot, at Widdin, on the Danube, in Turkey, which weighed 67 pounds. Carp weighing from 42 to 55 pounds were taken several years ago on one of the Grand Duke of Oldenburg's domains in Northern Germany.

ITS FIRST INTRODUCTION

To the United States was in May, 1877. Prof. Baird engaged an eminent German fish culturist, Dr. Rudolph Hessel, to bring over a supply of the best varieties of this favorite European food-fish. The first experiment, in May, 1876, was unsuccessful, and out of 300, which he started, only four survived. In May, '77, Dr. Hessel returned from a third trip, bringing to New York 365 young carp. In May, 1878, 120 were removed to the Government carp ponds, built for them in the City of Washington. They throve and grew rapidly in size. In two years, those 120 increased to, at least, 20,000.

Mr. Poppe, of Sonoma county, was the first to bring carp to California, in '75 or '76. He visited Germany for that especial purpose. From Mr. Poppe, Levi Davis and others procured carp to stock their little ponds. Mr. Davis tells us that he bought six for thirty dollars—one died, leaving five to start with, the increase of which in one year was 2044.

THE CARPS LETHAGRY IN WINTER.

It is said, that in Central Europe, the carp seeks deep water for his Winter quarters, where he exists for several months in a kind of sleep. They make a cavity in the muddy ground, and in this they pass the time until Spring, huddled together in concentric circles with their heads together and the posterior part of the body elevated and held immoveably, scarcely lifting the gills for breathing, and without taking a particle of food. In some cold countries they abstain from food from the beginning of October until the end of March—six months, which beats Dr. Tanner! Still, it is claimed that the carp, during the Winter sleep, in its natural retreat, does not diminish in weight. In warm climates, Mr. Hessel doubts whether the fish passes at all into that lethargic state, but continues to grow and increase during Winter as well as Summer.

The authority quoted above continues: "It is not to be doubted that the carp will arrive at the weight of from 2¾ to 4 pounds in one year in those warm climates, when in colder regions it requires two years and six months, where the ice-bound water and cold temperature force upon it the lethargy of winter-sleep.

There is no other fish which will, with proper management, be as advantageous as the carp. Its frugality in regard to its food, its easy adaptability to all waters, in rivers, in lakes and ponds, and even salt water estuaries; its regular rapid growth, and its value as a food fish, are its best recommendations.

ITS TABLE QUALITIES.

It is natural to presume that the carp, being fond of digging in mud, hog fashion, would be an inferior food-fish. Ducks and chickens are not extremely fastidious in diet—observe with what unction an old hen will bounce a carcass—and still that same old dame, when nicely cooked, is highly relished. A few of us, some time ago, smacked our lips over a mess of carp, when all participants pronounced the meat very excellent.

On this point, Dr. Hessel remarks: "I maintain my assertion that the carp is one of the most excellent fresh-water fishes. If the carp were a fish of inferior quality, like the buffalo-fish for instance, its sale would doubtless be limited to the sea port towns of Northern Germany, and the principal cities of Central Europe, as Vienna, Berlin and Paris. Even in the city of Paris, in spite of an abundant supply of salt-water and different kinds of fresh-water fish, the carp is ever preferred to these, and with the exception of trout and salmon, it frequently commands a price three times as high as all the rest."

Who Next, after the Hydraulics.

The owners of quartz and drift mines are at last fully awake to the danger that threatens their rights and property through the conspiracy of the lawyers, who are manipulating the debris suits, says the Marysville Express. They now understand full well what the term "fouling the river" means. They know to a certainty that they cannot wash an ounce of gold from drift or quartz and not foul the rivers. They have also come to know that the promoters of this unnecessary litigation planned in the outset to divide the hydraulic mining interests from those of quartz and drifting, in this contest, waging war on the former and conciliating and pacifying the latter. Thus by taking each industry in detail the contest would be much easier and the spoils far greater than to antagonize both interests at once. Once stop hydraulic mining and see how quickly the enemy will move on quartz men and drifters. These tactics do honor to the cunning of the plaintiff's attorneys, but the operators of quartz or drift mines are not the least intelligent class of men in the world, and if defeated in the protection of their rights and property it will be while standing shoulder to shoulder with all systems of gold and silver mining. When at last gold mining shall have been prohibited, one thing will yet remain to be done. Gather together every scrap and page of the glorious history of the Golden State, burn them to ashes, and rechristen her with some new and unknown name. Then when other nations ask to know regarding our gold basis, with how much pride can we point to our potato and melon patches, founded by the flow of "slickens."

KEENE continues to be the plaything of the Eastern operators. The World says: A prominent banker, in speaking of the corner in Hannibal and St. Joe, remarked: I understand that when Hannibal and St. Joe was ranging somewhere between 80 and 90, James R. Keene, seeing that the combination had him in a tight place, offered to settle his short contracts on the basis of 80. The pool managers refused to accept less than par, at which Keene is reported to have laughed heartily. I don't think he feels much like laughing today. From all that I can learn Keene is anywhere from 10,000 to 25,000 shares short, and the very least he can settle with is from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000. This latter sum, by the way, is about the general street estimate of his assets. Keene was one of the crowd who went East because California was too small a field for his operations and because the high rates of taxation on capital he considered as calculated to make moneyed men lose confidence in the slope. When he returns to Pine street the taxes on his capital will not trouble him as much as formerly.

THE Sierra Iron and Quincy Railroad Company has incorporated, to construct and operate a two-foot narrow-gauge railroad from the town of Quincy, in Plumas county, over the most practicable route through the Sierra and Mohawk valleys, and by way of Beckwirth Pass to the town of Reno, Washoe county, State of Nevada, and a branch of said road from the most suitable point in the Mohawk valley to Sierra iron mines, in Gold valley, Sierra county. The estimated length of the road is 100 miles, and will be operated by steam. Capital stock, $3,200,000, divided into 32,000 shares, of a par value of $100 each. Following are the Directors and the shares of stock subscribed by each: Philip N. Lilienthal, 250 shares; Charles Kohler, 250 shares, Frederick A. Benjamin, 250 shares; Frederick Weisenborn, 250 shares; Caleb T. Fay, 10 shares. Charles Kohler has been elected Treasurer of the corporation.

THE public dog-drowner of Red Bluffs is trying to permanently drop all the unlicensed canines of the town into the Sacramento river, but he finds his labors sadly ineffectual. The little boys desire to save their pets, and adopt all kinds of schemes to defeat the officer's murderous efforts. On Wednesday the slayer weighted half a dozen dogs with a stone and then threw them off the bridge into the deep water below. Immediately a bereaved youngster, with open knife in hand, dived into the water and severed the ropes which were dragging his pets to death. All the dogs escaped; so did the boy, and the war between the officer and the children still continues.

IN a special election in Maine on the 12th, Governor Dingley (Republican) was elected Representative to Congress for Frye's unexpired term.

LAS VEGAS, New Mexico, is a curious town. It has faro games on its main street to which the unwary are enticed by the ringing of a dinner bell, and it has crude ideas of the social "swarry," for a recent issue of the Optic gives a glowing description of "a watermelon cut and card party."

PARTIES from the East are purchasing large bands of fine horses from the Lapivai and Kamiah Indians in Northern Idaho. The redskins know how to drive sharp bargains, and the Yankees have to watch every turn in order that they may not buy the same horse twice.

THE work of constructing the electric light tower, 200 feet high, in San Jose, is progressing rapidly. The tower is built of very slender iron, and if durability and permanency can be assured, it will be very useful and popular because of its cheapness.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 17.....1881

PANAMINT.—A short time ago some conscienceless liar from Panamint reported to a certain New York party here that the big mill at Panamint, now the property of the Inyo Consolidated M. & M. Co. of New York, has been running on waste rock! Now, the situation of Panamint, having at present no mail facilities or regular communication with the county seat, renders it difficult to obtain mining reports from there—we have only been enabled to mention the frequent bullion shipments to Darwin, and approximate its value by the weight. We have obtained, however, some data going to show where the "waste" came from, out of which the dividend—or dividends—were declared. During the two runs the mill worked ore from the Hemlock and Wyoming mines aggregating $12,000; ten tons from the Mariposa, worth $146 50 per ton; from the Erie, 3 tons; Magnet, 12; Ophir, 9, besides lots from mines belonging to Bastian, Smith, Carberry and others. The ores last mentioned averaged $150 per ton. Most mine and mill owners would be thankful for a considerable quantity of such "waste." The whole yield, up to our latest information, was 25 bars of bullion, 900 fine, weighing 80 pounds each. There is rich ore in all the mines and on all the dumps, and the old camp has taken a very decided jump ahead.

MODOCK.—Frank Fitzgerald, lessee of the Modock mines and furnaces at Lookout, has taken out 79 tons of ore so far. and continues extracting it at the rate of five car loads daily, or about four tons. Deering & Welsh have about 45 tons of lead ore, average car samples 111 ounces silver per ton; 47 per cent lead. Barrow & Co. commenced work on the 2d instant on a seam of ore two inches wide. It has since opened out to a ledge two feet 9 inches wide, and getting larger every shift. Average car samples of this ore is 295 ounces of silver per ton. It is the most important strike that has been made in the mine for the last two years. Will commence to get in coal in two weeks and will start furnace about the 20th of October, on Modock and Minnietta ore. Will have about 90 tons of the latter.

THE AVENA SCHOOL.—Following is the report of the West Bishop Creek school, Mary E. Thresher principal: No. enrolled, 42; average number belonging, 40; average daily attendance, 35; percentage of attendance, 87½. Roll of Honor.—Hattie Bulpit, Annette Ford, Cora Munson, Melvena Powers, Eva Turner, Willie Munson, Agnes Ford, Annie Munson, Myrtle Powers, Minnie Smith, Freddie Bulpit, Allan Powers. The foregoing pupils have been neither absent nor tardy for the month beginning August 1st and closing August 26th, 1881. The general deportment of the pupils is good, and their advancement in their studies has been marked.

CALIFORNIA CENTRAL.—The engineers who have just completed the preliminary survey for Gould's new California Central Railroad are at present chary of giving items. We learn, however, that a satisfactory line has been established from the summit tunnel on the Sierras eastward on a grade of fifty feet to the mile, running about 8 miles south of Mono Lake, crossing the Aurora wagon road between Adobe Meadows and the Deep Wells. Thence it runs through Hontoon valley to Teal's marsh, and from there on eastward there are no engineering difficulties to be encountered.

A GOOD THING.—There is no doubt but that the proposed Agricultural Association will prove an excellent institution for this valley in many ways. It is deserving the hearty support of every agriculturist and stock raiser in the valley. A report of the proceedings of the preliminary meeting and organization will be found in another column. As requested there, it is to be hoped every locality will have a strong delegation in attendance at the October meeting.

CARP.—A letter this week upon the subject of carp culture, from the pen of Tom Jones, will be found of general interest. He states, privately, that his fish are doing splendidly, but that he does not wish to disturb them while the warm weather continues, as they spawn off and on all the while. After cold weather sets in he will draw the ponds, sort out the big and little and then have some for sale, to those wishing to establish carp ponds.

TELEGRAPHIC.—A note from Judge R. L. Peterson states that only about $4,000 has been subscribed toward the proposed telegraph line between Bodie and Lone Pine. There is another subscription list out, and it is to be hoped that the necessary $5,000 will be raised along the line. It is not yet known whether the company will undertake the work or not, but it cannot be done too quick to suit all real friends of progress.

THAT FIRE.—It appears that the fire at Dickinson's place not only destroyed the derrick, wagon, ropes, belts, etc., but some seven tons of grain, involving a loss of about $1,000. It was caused by some careless smoker, and although the person did not belong to the threshers, Messrs. Hessian & McGovern will pay for the grain lost—certainly very honorable in them.

IN SEARCH.—Frank Fitzgerald, of Lookout, has fitted out Gomer Jones for his fifteenth trip in search of the Breyfogle. Mr. Jones says he "will strike it this time, sure."

TWO.—Two threshing machines are in operation in Round Valley. The yield is very heavy, and "everything lovely" up thereaway.

HONEY. — Mr. Muth-Rasmussen's honey is pure, delicious and very cheap. See his advertisement.

THE CELEBRATION.—We are assured by a number who were present at the Mexican anniversary celebration at Lone Pine, that the conducting of the whole affair in general and detail reflects unbounded credit not only upon the management but also upon the spirit of the people who helped to carry out the programme. Rrepresentives from every portion of the county and of almost every nationality, were there in unusually large numbers, all cheerfully lending a hand to make it a general "Fourth of July" occasion. The attendance was the largest seen there for many a day, and good humored as it was large. The number in procession, however, was not as great as on former occasions. As part of the celebration, which really began on the 15th and will continue till the 20th, the musical and dramatical exhibition on the evening of the 15th is said to have been the finest thing of the sort ever presented by an amateur troupe in the county. We are obliged to speak of all these things in general terms, since, very much to our regret, this paper could not send a direct representative to tell of things in detail, or send one at all for that matter. But we are none the less desirous of giving them—names of the officers of the day, translations of orations, the proceedings in form, and report in detail of the exhibition, ball and races, if any one whomsoever will be kind enough to furnish us the data, verbally or otherwise.

A FAILURE.—On the road to the race track, at Lone Pine, Johnny Irwin and Jack Gunn, with the active co-operation of the driver of the Southern stage, made an attempt to run their buggy and the stage on the same track, which experiment resulted in a complete failure. A smashed up buggy wheel, the two men landed in a deep mud hole with the buggy on top and a runaway animal, were proofs sufficient. The mishap was taken good-naturedly all around, and the boys appeared at the ball in different toggery from which they started out with.

DIED.—From Ben Williams, driver on this end of the Northern Stage line, we have the painful report that James Watterson, one of the Watterson boys, merchants of Benton, died of pneumonia at that place last week, after only a few days' illness. The fact is not mentioned in the Mono county papers, nor has any correspondent at Benton sent any such sad news. We are in hopes that it may not prove true.

GONE BELOW.—During the week Messrs. Thos. Chandler and Peter Taylor, of the Beveridge mill, left for a trip to Los Angeles county. Both are in very bad health—Mr. Chandler being a consumptive, while Mr. Taylor is suffering from an attack consequent upon the severe injury he received at San Jose a year or more ago. It is hoped by all that they may soon return, with health completely restored.

FRUIT.—Mrs. Thos. Bell, of Big Pine, has placed this office under obligations by one of her annual favors. The fruit consisted of big apples, pears, and the largest and most delicious of peaches and grapes of different varieties. We do not believe that any samples to be shown at the coming State Fair could excel them in any respect.

TO RETURN.—Supt. Pheby, of the Inyo Con. Company, is now expected from New York on his way to Panamint. We are glad to state, also, that Hon. Joe Wasson will pay the property a mining visit, and intends to take a renewed look all over the county.

THE RACES.—The result of the first days race at the Lone Pine track was a victory for the little Roper mare—winning the race and the $100 purse from all competitors.

GOLD.— Wells, Fargo & Co. shipped during the week $9,500 in gold, from the Keynot, Beveridge District.

Still Another Railroad.

Another railroad is out with its prospectus. This new candidate is called the Nevada Pacific. It is to be of the narrow gauge system with an outlet at the sea. The prospectus says the projectors propose to construct and equip a first class narrow-gauge railroad from a point on Suisun Bay at or near the mouth of the San Joaquin river, in California, to a point at or near Cloverdale, Nye county, Nevada. Leaving the beginning point on Suisun Bay, the road will pass directly east through San Joaquin county to the foothills of the Sierra Nevada mountains; thence by the most direct practical route to the Big Tree Grove in Calaveras county; thence via Hermit valley to the summit of the mountains; thence down Wolf Creek (a branch of the Carson river) to a point near Double Springs, in Douglas county, Nevada; thence via Walker river to to the north end of Walker Lake; thence easterly to or near Cloverdale, Nye county, Nevada. The estimated length of trunk line of such road is two hundred miles. From a point 8 miles north of Stockton, a branch connecting that city is proposed. It is also deemed advisable to construct a branch line northward from Hermit valley to the south end of Lake Tahoe, a distance of 20 miles. Other important branches are in contemplation. The main line of the road will connect with the line of the Nevada and Oregon Narrow Gauge road at Double Springs; also with the Carson and Colorado Narrow Gauge at Walker Lake; with the Nevada Southern at Cloverdale.

A GREAT SACRIFICE.—The real estate and personal property of the Mammoth Mining Company recently sold by Sheriff Showers went for less than a "song." As a sample we may cite: 50 tons of soda sold for $1 a ton, and 32½ tons of salt brought $2 50 for the lot. The real estate—mine, etc., brought only $15,100; and the personal property, which was worth tens of thousands, brought only $7,211 88—and that is the way everything goes in a dead mining camp. The mine was bid in by the Bank of California; but the personal property was sold to different parties, the Bodie Tunnel Company being a large purchaser.—Bridgeport Union.

THE AGRICULTURAL ASSOCIATION.

Following are the minutes of the Meeting of the "Owens River Agricultural Association" held in Bishop Creek, on the 10th instant.

Meeting called to order and J. Bourland was elected Chairman pro-tem, and John H. Stoutenborough, Secretary pro-tem.

The Chairman stated that the object of the meeting was for the purpose of improving our stock, obtaining a Fair ground, and to promote the general interests of this district.

Moved and carried, that the name of the Association be known as the "Owens River Agricultural Association."

Moved and carried, that the Chairman appoint the Committees.

The Chairman thereupon appointed the following Committees;

On By Laws—Messrs. S. G. Sneden, L. Case and W. W. Yandell.

On Ways and Means—A. K. Briggs, Robert Love and B. Peeler.

On Grounds—John Clarke, A. McCloy and James Shaw.

On Invitation—Olancha—W. Walker. Lone Pine—John A. Rittgers, A. H. Johnson, John Lucas, J. G. Dodge.

George's Creek—J. Shepherd, J. Kispert, C. M. Joslyn.

Independence—E. Robinson, J. A. Lank, J. Vagt, A. R. Conklin, O. I. Mairs.

Fish Springs—J. Jones, W. Tibbetts, G. Shedd.

Big Pine—J. W. McMurry, T. G. Beasley, A. Baker, S. G. Gregg.

Owens River—A. Dill, W. McCowen, G. Collins.

Bishop Creek—R. H. Ford, J. M. Horton, T. K. Hutchinson, W. O. Harrell, S. C. Munson, R. Russell.

Pleasant Valley—J. S. McGee, J. W. Dickinson.

Round Valley—D. Olds, C. H. Parsons, J. G. Birchim, T. E. Jones.

Moved and carried, that the meeting be called for permanent organization on the 5th day of October, 1881, at 2 o'clock P. M., at Bishop Creek, in the Town Hall.

The Secretary was instructed to furnish THE INYO INDEPENDENT and Bodie Free Press a copy of proceedings of this meeting.

On motion adjourned, subject to the call of the Chairman.

At our meeting October 5th we hope to have a good attendance from every neighborhood of Inyo county. It is the desire to have all the different localities of our county duly represented in our organization, thus making it a permanent and lasting one.

In the appointment of the various Committees, the Chair has endeavored to appoint both competent and representative men from each locality.

We trust that each man appointed will interest himself enough to use his entire influence to secure an organization that will be the beginning of a better era in agriculture, and stock raising in this county and district.

J. H. STOUTENBOROUGH.
Secretary pro-tem.

The Local Paper.

The columns of a paper are the publishers stock in trade, and the parties who ask us to use them for their special benefit must expect to pay for the same, and we hope that all parties will, after due consideration, view the matter in a proper light. Every public-spirited citizen of a place should have pride in seeing his own town and the surrounding country improve. Every new house and barn in the surrounding country; every new fence, road, or shade tree; every new manufacturing establishment erected; every new business opened, enhances the value of property in our midst. Every honest, reflecting mind knows this to be true, and you should not forget that the local newspaper adds much to the general wealth and prosperity of the place, as well as increases the reputation of the town abroad. It benefits all who have business in the place, enhances the value of property in our midst, besides being a public convenience, even if it is not conducted in the terest of the ruling political power. If its columns are not filled with brilliant editorials, still it benefits you in many ways. It increases trade, it cautions against impositions, it saves you from loss, it warns you of danger, it points out different advantages and increases your profits. Now, if you want such a paper you must support it by advertising your business in it; assist in increasing its circulation by getting your neighbors to subscribe with you for it. If you want such a paper you must not consider it an act of charity to support it, but as a means to increase your own wealth as well as that of the place in which you live. The local press is the power that moves the people; therefore, support it by advertising and subscribing and paying for it. —Ex.

WM. A. FARISH, one of the best known mining engineers on the Pacific coast, has been appointed superintendent and general manager in charge of the State Line mines, Gold Mountain, Nevada, vice C. X. Hobbs, resigned. Mr. Hobbs, as vice-president of the Newfoundland Railroad Company, incorporated last Spring and now in immediate course of construction, found that on account of his duties to the railroad company he would be unable to give that attention to the mines which their importance demanded. He will leave this week for Newfoundland. Mr. Farish, who is in this city, will be remembered in connection with the Homestake and Black Bear mining companies. He will leave in a day or two for Gold Mountain, to superintend the laying of the new water pipe, nearly all of which is now on the way. The latest advices from the mines are favorable, without particular interest to the public.—N. Y. Stock Report.

THE Tucson Star says: The loss occasioned by the recent washouts on the Southern Pacific railroad in Arizona will probably not fall short of $3,000,000. More than 80 miles west of Tucson will cost more than the original building.

MRS. LINCOLN'S health has improved, and she will spend the Autumn and Winter with her son in Washington.

NOTES FROM THE MOUNTAINS.

CAMP FRANK THOMPSON,
Signal Service Station, Mt. Whitney,
Inyo Co., Cal., Sept. 8.

MESSRS. EDITORS—On the 2d instant Capt. O. E. Michaelis, Mr. Coles, Sergt. Nanery and your correspondent camped on Mount Whitney all night. We had plenty of blankets, robes, etc., to make us comfortable at any other place this side the Arctic regions, but here, at an altitude of 15,000 feet, and with a good fire of wood—which, by the way, cost $148 per cord—we could not sleep or keep warm. The thermometer indicated nineteen degrees below freezing point, with the wind blowing such a gale that we could not raise the tent. As the sun went down commenced to raise just to the right of Cerro Gordo, on the Inyo range opposite, and higher it raised its black form until it left the Spring Valley range this side of the Colorado river. Then it leaped into the sky, above the intervening clouds, the sun lines reaching out from either side of old Whitney fading away until night settled over all. The sight was indescribably grand—worthy of the powers of the poets and painters of the world. It being so cold and windy we were in the morning glad to get down to the lower camp. Toward that evening, the 3d, the wind went down somewhat, and Mr. Day and Mr. Crapo went up and remained all night, taking observations. On the 4th Mr. Keeler and Mr. Johnson braved it out on the summit, and the next night the experience was repeated by Mr. J. W. A. Wright, Wm. Crapo, W. A. Wallace, Capt. Michaelis, and Rev. Mr. Welch, from Tulare City. Mr. Wright is a correspondent of the San Francisco Post, and is engaged in writing up the "High Sierras," Mr. Wallace, an old prospector acting as his guide.

THE SHADOW OF MOUNT WHITNEY

On the 8th, Capt. Michaelis, Mr. Cowles and myself went up to Camp Thompson. We found that water boiled at 185 9-10 degrees Fahrenheit. An egg, boiled for 8½ minutes, was not done, and another subjected to the same operation for 10 minutes was found to be none too hard. At the lower camp the chef du cusine experimented on a pot of beans for 24 hours, and then threw them away, they not being soft enough to eat.

On the 6th Mr. Crapo made the perilous trip down the east side of the mountain, and accomplished it in a remarkably short time, but says he wouldn't repeat it for all the worth of the whole expedition. On the 8th Carrasco and party came up to pack everything to the regions below, and on the following day observations were closed up. The party, consisting of Prof. Langley, Capt. Michaelis, and Messrs, Keeler and Day, with A. H. Johnson as guide, were met in Lone Pine cañon and conveyed to Lone Pine. Mr. Coles took the Government pack train to Lone Pine via the Hackett trail. All the goods, instruments, etc., will be shipped to Mojave, where cars will be in waiting on the 25th. In all probability a permanent signal station will be established here next year.

I annex the bearings of the different peaks from Camp Thompson, a copy of which will be left here, so that any future visitor having a compass can readily find the different mountains:

From flag staff of Upper Camp Thompson, Mount Williamson, N. 10° W; Mt. Tyndall, N. 25° W; Mt. Wallace, N. 37° W; Mt. Benet, N. 40° W; Mt. Brewer, N. 50° W; Mt. Wright, N. 59° W; Mt. Hazen, N. 61° W; Michaelis Needle, N. 22° 02′ W; Langley's Needle, N. 20° 58′ W; Red Mount, N. 85° 30′ W; Kaweah, S. 20° W; Miners Peak, S. 28° W; Olancha, S. 62° E; Old Whitney, S. 50° E; Day's Needle, S. 24° 23′ E; Keeler's Needle, S. 22° 34′ E; Telescope, S. 22° E; Cerro Gordo, S. 6° E; White Mount, N, 2° E.

These bearings were taken with a small surveyor's compass, excepting those of Day's Needle and Keeler Needle.

On August 29th, 1881, A. H. Johnson and Julius Schroeder, of Lone Pine, made the first recorded ascent of Mount Williamson, erected a monument 10 ft. high on the main peak and named the Needles, the first, northeast from the main peak; Michaelis's Needle, and the second, Langley's Needle, after Capt. O. E. Michaelis, U. S. Army, and Prof. S. P. Langley, Director of the Allegheny Observatory.

OSWALD.

THE St. Louis people are anxious for the Summer to come to an end. They have had no such hot weather for twenty-five years as has been experienced there in July and August, and the heat was undiminished at last printed accounts

GRIZZLY DAVIS says the terror of the mountains, the old bear Clubfoot, has been dead at least four years. He saw his track in 1858, and it was as big then as in 1876, when he saw it last.

The Great Bamboo of Japan.

In a paper recently read before the Horticultural Society of Victoria, Mr. F. C. Christy, describing a specimen of the Japanese bamboo, now growing in the Society's gardens in Melbourne. says: "It is cultivated in groves on the hillside or valley, in deep volcanic chocolate soil—not in wet situations, but where there is a moderate amount of moisture. In early Spring the bamboo throws up large offsets, or suckers, around the parent plant; these are about 3 in. or 4 in. diameter, and are removed when about 12in. above the ground, leaving three or four to mature during the summer, or in about six months, and attain a height in one summer of from 40 ft. to 80 ft., according to the situation. The groves consist of several hundred bamboos, planted about 12 ft. apart, kept free from weeds and undergrowth of every description. The bamboos produce dense shade; a bamboo grove is one of the coolest retreats in summer; the shade and shelter produced contribute in a great measure to their luxuriance. This bamboo rarely seeds, and the few seeds produced are said to be most difficult to germinate; the propagation is by the removal of one-year-old matured stems with roots; the young offset taken in Spring invariably withers and dies. The young offsets removed to strengthen the growth of those required for commerce when matured are edible; sliced and boiled they are tender and crisp and of a very delicate flavor, and are served at table as an ordinary vegetable; the offsets at the same tender age (when about 6 in. or 12 in. through the ground) are also sliced and preserved with ginger, and form the commercial preserve 'chow-chow.' When the bamboos are matured, they are cut near to the ground, and used for scaffold poles, fences, guttering for houses, down pipes, underground drains, garden seats, ladders, and a thousand other purposes. The bamboo will grow on American mountain sides, and in any valley where ordinary sheltes and rich, deep soil can be procured, and will stand 14 degree of frost." The plant appears to be well adapted for cultivation in the United States.

That Carp Pond.

The following letter, dated August 31, 1881, from the Secretary of the Fish Commissioners, to a gentleman in Bakersfield who is desirous of stocking a carp pond, is of general interest: "I am very sorry to inform you that it will be impossible to send the carp promised you this Fall. Those received from Washington were unfortunately placed in a pond which contained but little food, and, while the original carp have attained the size of seventeen inches in length, yet, from the lack of food, the increase has been very small, and we have obtained but few more than put in. They are now being removed to another pond in San Mateo county, which contains plenty of food, and we expect, by another year, we will have a hundred thousand for distribution, when, if you will renew your application, say in September, 1882, we will be happy to send you a quantity without cost. The Fish Commissioners regret their misfortune more than you can, as the carp is a very valuable fish and the Commissioners are anxious to distribute them over the State.

At a recent meeting of the Russian Geographical Society, Mr. Severtzov gave an account of the Pamir Mountains, which he had lately visited. Many of the facts are novel. The Pamir is not a table land, and it has no steppe region up to a height of 12,000 feet. Like the Tien-Shan and Thibet, the Pamir has narrow valleys along the rivers up to a height of 14,000 feet, and the mountain sides rise in lofty ridges above the valleys in some instances to an absolute height of 25 000 feet. The mountain ranges run in the direction of the meridian, and seldom strike out at right angles. The explorer discovered evidence that the range of the inner Pamir has risen 600 feet in the course of last 12,000 years, and that the process of elevation is still going on.

It now transpires that the charges of heresy made by James Roberts against Mrs. Sarah Cooper of the Calvary Church, San Franciso, had their origin in the fact that Mrs. Cooper once attended one of Bob Ingersoll's lectures and on returning was taken to task by Roberts for her unchristianly conduct, to which she replied that she would rather live in hell with Ingersoll than be in heaven with such a straight laced old fool of a bigot as Roberts. Such opinions as the above constitutes heresy of the rankest kind. She is also charged with saying that a kindergarten school was better than a Sunday school for little girls under five.

At first sight it looks pretty small to fine a mill hand five cents for being absent fifteen minutes to see a circus parade, but when two thousand hands left a mill in Paterson, N. J., that length of time the other day, the loss of time was equal to five hundred hours, or the labor of fifty men for one day. The five cent fines aggregated $100. At another mill the hands who left for the same purpose were all discharged. Patterson mill owners are opposed to circus street parades.

The building of the new Mexican railroad lines has raised the price of labor from eighteen to seventy-five cents a day, and enables the laborers to wear full suits of clothes, with hats, shoes and socks. Agriculture is already feeling the stimulus of rapidly opened lines of communication. During the past year 4,000,000 of additional coffee trees have been set out in the plantations, and the United States furnishes a market for all the surplus production.

The Footlight says: Col. Fair took a trip through the north end mines yesterday. It is said that he found all the bulkheads all right, and the necessary precautions to guard against finding an ore body in Sierra Nevada well and carefully executed.

Grant is said to be the "Lion of the Hour," at Long Branch, and to be a "Bigger Man" than Jay Gould, who is guiding Grant through the mysteries of stock gambling. A social gossip, who has been down to Long Branch, says that Grant is "more dashing in dress" than he used to be, sometimes wearing "a blue necktie with a red dot in it," and occasionally plain trousers "very large as to squares and sensational as to effect." Bull-pup fanciers and sports quite commonly affect this style of dress, and it is therefore likely that Grant is dressing according to the company that he keeps.—Stockton Herald.

The Chicago Times says of the "Blaine, Secretary," style of signature: "The simple and sufficient explanation is that army officers are required by regulations to use this short form, and that in cable correspondence the Secretary of State and ministers employ it to save the expense of telegraphic tolls."

The Santa Rosa Democrat prints a list of fifty-six men, residing within eight miles of that place whose average age is 77 years. One is over 90, and there are seventeen who are 80 and more. The Democrat wants to see them all meet together.

The secretof Bob Ingersoll's infidelity has been exposed. He eats fried onions for breakfast. Let this dreadful example be a warning to housekeepers.

Krupp's Colossal Manufacturing Establishment.

The following very graphic description of the immense works of Herr Friedrich Krupp at Essen, Germany, is in a private letter from Hon. J. S. Potter, United States Consul at Crefeld. Mr. Potter says: "At this time 16,542 is the daily average number of men employed in this colossal manufactory for the production of everything that is composed of steel—especially war material. Steam and smoke were issuing from countless chimnies and smoke-stacks, and rolling in immense volumes over the 660 acres of buildings within the walls which enclose the grounds. The view from the outside seemed to indicate a tornado of excitement and a rush of business within. Upon entering, however, the scene presented was remarkably quiet. There was no excitement, no rush; every man's motions being all in the line of system and order. I do not remember to have heard a loud word spoken among the thousands of men in the different buildings through which we passed. But the unceasing smoke and steam continued to ascend from pipes and chimneys near and as far away as the eye could see, and the subdued roar of machinery everywhere was as steady as the roar of Niagara. Great cannon were being moved as silently as if they were going to the funeral of the masses of men they were made to slaughter. One cannon recently finished, weighing, with wedge, about eighty tons, and throwing a shell weighing one and a half tons a distance of more than ten miles, was being placed in position. No fuss, no false motions; every utterance and motion was just the one that ought to be made. The man in charge was a competent 'boss.' The average number composing the families of these 16,542 was four and a half to each—thus making between eighty and ninety thousand human beings dependent upon the business, skill and management of Herr Krupp, who was born lowly, and thirty years ago was a poor man. He provides everything—dwellings and homes for all, schools, churches, preachers, supply stores, slaughter houses, bakeries, butchers, doctors, life insurance and fire companies, pension institutions, hospitals, undertakers, and funerals, and all works smoothly and well. In reply to a question covering the vast responsibility, anxiety, care and difficulties in managing such a complex and extensive establishment, he said he had little anxiety and no difficulty in managing his increasing business. His care and responsibility was chiefly exercised in the selection of men for positions of management. He had no friendship for bosses who were not exactly fitted for the position for which they were engaged to fill, and no mercy for those found negligent or inefficient. To his caution in the selection of managers he attributed the chief success in life."

FACTS CONVENIENT TO KNOW.—The following facts are well worth remembering, as they will save a great deal of calculation and give approximately accurate results with minimum labor:

A cord of stone, 3 bushels of lime and a cubic yard of sand will lay one hundred cubic feet of wall.

Five courses of brick will lay 1 foot in height on a chimney. Nine bricks in a course will make a flue 8 inches wide and 20 inches long, and 8 bricks in a course will make a flue 8 inches wide and 16 inches long.

Eight bushels of good lime, 16 bushels of sand and one bushel of hair will make enough mortar to plaster 100 square yards.

One-fifth more siding or flooring is needed than the number of square feet of surface to be covered, because of the lap of the siding and the matching of the flooring.

One thousand laths will cover 70 yards of surface, and five pounds of shingle nails will fasten them on.

THOSE who have tried it, say that kissing is like a sewing machine, because it seems good.

The New Process Flour.

The millstone is a thing of the past in flour manufacture, and its place is being rapidly taken by Hungarian steel rollers. By the new process the wheat is not ground, but cracked. The rollers are of steel, about thirty inches long and eight inches in diameter, and it takes five sets of them to complete the process of flour-making. Each set of rollers runs closer than the preceding, the last having little else but wheat and the waxy germs of the wheat which do not crack up. Under the old method this waxy germ was ground with the starchy portion and bolted through with the flour, but by the new process the germ is flattened out and sifted or bolted out, while the nutritious part of the wheat is crushed into flour. Between each set of rollers the wheat is bolted or sifted through coarse cloth. This cloth lets the disintegrated parts of the wheat through and passes off the larger pieces, which are put through a closer set of rollers, and so on to the end of the operation.

To describe the process more minutely, we will take a single kernel of of wheat and trace its course through its various stages: The kernel is passed between steel rollers on which are lined corrugations. This breaks the kernel into from six to eight pieces, and a great deal of starchy matter falls out. These pieces are passed over a cloth sieve and the starchy particles which pass through are the best portion of the wheat. The six cracked pieces of wheat after being sifted are passed through the second rollers, which are quite smooth, but not polished, and the kernel is perhaps by this time cracked in thirty-six pieces, and the crushed matter is bolted again. The thirty-six pieces are then run through a third set of rollers, and cracked into about 216 pieces, and bolting again takes place. By this time all of the best part of the wheat is bolted out, and finally nothing but the hulls, a few particles and the waxy germs remain. What is left is rolled through another set of rollers and again bolted, and the hulls and grains are ground upon an ordinary millstone. The process may be not inaptly described as "cracking and mashing," and with each successive step a lower-grade flour is produced.

A DISPATCH from Lewiston to the Walla Walla Statesman gives the following account of the Idaho volcano: Volcanic eruptions at Buffalo Hump have renewed with intense vigor. Great streams of lava are now running down the mountain, the molten substance burning everything in its path. The flames shoot high in the air, giving at a long distance the appearance of a grand conflagration. The smoke coming from the crater is dense and sulphury. The scene as viewed from a distance of 8 miles is grand and imposing. The high-shooting flames are partly lost sight of in the dense volume of curling smoke and living streams of lava down the mountain sides. At all times a low and apparantly distant rumbling may be heard. The crater seems to be formed a little one side of the mountain, and at times appears to be a living furnace, at times quiet, then boiling, and all of a sudden sending spurts of molten rock, lava and fire high up into the air.

TALKING of the death of Lorenzo Delmonico, the great New York caterer, the New York Herald says when Chas. Dickens was here he made his home further up town, but was a frequent visitor at Delmonico's Fourteenth street House. He was a heavy eater and a heavy drinker. Two bottles of champagne at lunch was a mere trifle to him, but his favorite gargle was brandy. "Give me a thimbleful of brandy," said Dickens, as he was about driving to the lecture hall. A bottle and a tumbler were produced, and considering the size of the "thimble" and the fact that he was literally "full" it may be said that he took a tolerably fair drink.

Two men have been arrested at Iowa Hill, Cal., on suspicion of being concerned in the recent attempt at railroad robbery near Colfax. Detectives Hume and Boggs made the arrests. It is reported that it is known that these men bought the powder, fuse, etc., and also that it is known where they made the purchase. It is also stated that the pieces which were cut from the sack masks, were found near their place of abode. Iowa Hill is but a short distance, by trail, from the scene of the affair, and it is now thought that the job was "put up" at that town.

THERE is considerable excitement at Eureka over a strike in the Eureka tunnel, an enterprise inaugurated four years ago by Gen. P. E. Connor. The tunnel penetrates Prospect Mountain over a mile south of the Ruby Hill mines. It has been generally believd that the Ruby Hill ore channel extended through Prospect Mountain. The strike demonstrates that it does. The development was made about 800 feet below the surface. The ore assays from $300 to $1,000 per ton. The body is strong and improving.

JOHN P. JONES says that should Arthur be invited to assume the duties of acting President, by Garfield, he would refuse, saying the President's request in itself would disprove the inability required by the Constitution. In refusing he would suggest that the President call Congress together, so that it might devise means for relieving public business of all embarassment while the President continued ill.

THE sand business in Albany, N. Y., amounts to quite an industry. Molding sand is shipped in large quantities from that city to California. One man ships about 25,000 tons yearly.

EARTHQUAKES.—As a rule—not without exceptions, perhaps—their greatest power and most destructive effects are exercised upon the more recent, superficial, and incoherent formations—clays, tertiary marls, and the like, so that buildings upon alluvial plains, rivers, deltas, and so forth, are more thoroughly shattered than those on rock or solid strata. The Calabrian convulsion had its full swing upon deep marls, clays, and sand beds of slight consistency; that of Ichsia was upon deep clays. Independent of the site, the power of resistence in buildings depends, of course, on the strength, goodness and massiveness of the masonry to resist overthrow. The Quay at Lisbon, which was swallowed up, together with thousands who had sought refuge upon it, in a chasm that opened in the bed of the Tagus, leaving no trace behind, was built upon alluvial soil, while the upper parts of the town, standing upon basalt and limestone, remained uninjured.—Quarterly Review.

A LITTLE girl, eleven years of age, at school, was directed by her teacher to write a composition on "Strong Love Rewarded." And the following is the composition: "There was a young and handsome lieutenant, and a young, beautiful girl, and they loved each other, but their parents wouldn't allow them to get married. But one day the lieutenant won a large amount of money and then there was nothing to hinder. They got married and were very happy, but they didn't get any children. So a war broke out and he was commanded to go and fight for his country. While fighting he was taken prisoner, and was in prison seven years. Then he came home, and who can tell his joy when his wife showed him seven little children she had while he was away! In this way did strong love get rewarded!"

SOME lively litigation is likely to take place between the Board of Supervisors and Sheriff. The Sheriff claims the right to feed prisoners in his charge, and that he should be allowed by the Board a reasonable sum for the same. The Board have let the contract for feeding the prisoners out to the lowest bidder, and think they have a legal right to do so, and that the bidder should be paid. For the past month the bidder has regularly furnished the food for the prisoners according to contract, which the Sheriff has regularly refused to receive, and has supplied the prisoners himself. Now the question is—who shall be paid?—Santa Barbara Press.

IF a horse shy and hard to catch, take finely graded castor oils of rhodium and cummin, keep them in separate bottles, well corked; put some of the oil of cummin on your hand and approach the horse on the windy side. He will then move toward you. As soon as you reach him, rub some of the cummin on his nose, give him a little of the castor or anything he likes, and get a few drops of the oil of rhodium on his tongue. After this you can make him do nearly anything you want. Treat him kindly, feed well, handle him gently, and your victory is certain.—Turf, Field and Farm.

"I AM doing a good business enough without advertising." No doubt you are doing well enough for your present needs, but do you forget the panics, the exciting elections, the time of war or pestilence, or any of those many causes which create dull terms of business? These must be calculated for and discounted, if you would bridge them over. One must make more than he needs to make a fortune, and advertising is a powerful auxiliary in money-making.—Boomerang.

THE BEST OIL FOR RUBBER BELTS.—A correspondent of a mechanical paper says: "I have run many rubber belts, and after trying various articles had the best success with boiled linseed oil. It should be put on while the belt is running slow, say at night or stopping time, and run slow long enough to distribute it well. All animal oils are very injurious for rubber belts, causing them to 'peel up' and leave the fabric bare."

THE Dalles Mountaineer says: The stock range of one firm in the south end of Grant county is fifty miles wide and one hundred and twenty-five miles long. This firm, by taking advantage of the nefarious swamp land laws of Oregon now hold possession of the watering places in this vast region, and as effectually keep settlers out as if they had a patent for the whole region.

ACCORDING to a paper read by Dr. J. S. Billings of Washington at the International Medical Conference in London, there are 180,000 physicians in the world, of whom 11,600 are producers of medical literature or contributors to it. The United States heads the list with 65,000 physicians, 2,800 of whom are medical writers.

ASIATIC cholera has made its appearance in Japan. Yokohama papers state that between the 4th and 8th of August twenty-eight persons were attacked by the disease, of whom only one recovered. There is a good chance to receive a cargo of cholera, instead of small-pox, now on this coast.

AN exchange says: "To clean out a stove pipe, place a piece of zinc on the live coals in the stove; the vapor produced by the zinc will carry off the soot by chemical decomposition. Persons who have tried the process claim it will work every time."

THE reward offered for the apprehension of the James' brothers, the Kansas train robbers, who were last heard of going West, aggregate $60,000. They are possibly now in Nevada or California.

KOUMISS.—Koumiss would be a popular drink in the United States now if the land of the free, etc., imitated its ruler as closely as England would, but the receipt for making it is hardly promising enough to make any Yankee desire to take very large draughts of it. This is the formula: Into one quart of new milk put one gill of fresh buttermilk and three or four lumps of white sugar. Mix well and see that the sugar dissolves. Put in a warm place to stand ten hours, when it will be thick. Pour from one vessel to another until it becomes smooth and uniform in consistency. Bottle and keep in a warm place twenty-four hours; it may take thirty-six in Winter. The bottles must be tightly corked and the corks tied down. Shake well five minutes before opening.

DEATH OF THE PRESIDENT.

It is with a feeling of indescribable mournfulness that we now record what all the world already knows — that JAMES A. GARFIELD, President of the United States, is dead!

Last Monday night, but an hour before another long day of struggling with Death was to begin, his noble soul passed away. For seventy-nine days, many of them by intense suffering, of a hundred hours' duration, he had maintained this unparalleled contest with the Grim Monster as only a great, strong hearted, truly courageous man and patient Christian could maintain it. Though overcome at last, he proved his manhood, and won a respect and sympathy, and a love and honor, that time will never dim. The mournful peculiarities of his fight for life have been such as to warm all hearts toward him more as an individual than as the death-besieged ruler of the greatest nation on earth, and it is this feeling for him as an individual rather than as the highest officer in the land that gives poignancy to the deep sorrow everywhere felt and expressed at his untimely death. In this feeling lies a higher honor than statesmanship or generalship ever won for any man, though for both these James Garfield will also ever be honored and remembered as but few have ever been before him. To quote a sentence from a contemporary, "toil and poverty, hard life and iron fortune, had not put out the fire of his genius"—neither did success or high estate make him less the warm friend of the toilers, less the genial gentleman in all surroundings, or for a moment forget his duty to God or country or fellow man. No worthier man than he ever reached high station. And no incumbent of high or low station was ever stung to death by so vile a reptile, or with less justification either for public or private cause.

As partisanship is in some degree associated with the career and estimate of every public man, as well after as before the coffin lid has closed over his body, the eulogies of recent partisan opponents become the highest tribute. Hence the following extracts from papers which, erstwhile, were General Garfield's most uncompromising political enemies. Says the Chicago Times, in the course of a column editorial:

To say that General Garfield erred at times is but to say that he was human; but proof that his errors were criminal or corrupt has never been produced. The fact that after twenty-two years of public service, most of them years when the accumulation of wealth by venal means was easy, and the temptations for a public man constant and strong, he was still a poor man when chosen President must be accepted by the candid man as proof of his integrity. He served his country well and faithfully, according to the lights his conscience gave him, and will be held in grateful rememberance for this service, and for the manifestation of the high purpose, which he has not been spared to execute, to rescue the Executive office from the degraded position into which it had fallen in the hands of his predecessors.

And from the South, through the Georgia Constitutionalist, comes the following:

This great and good President, this fond husband, this loving father, this noble gentleman, is dead. It is very strange that the bullets of a brave foeman should have in a fair fight spared him for such a fate. Sad indeed is it that such a glorious being, so powerful, so manly, so excellent, should become the victim of so vile a reptile. We bow to the dispensations of God, and question them not. To Him we leave the vindication of the ends of justice. The heart of the South bleeds for the stricken mother and wife and children of the President. Upon his dead body we lay an immortelle, a wreath of truest sorrow and regret.

And from all parts our of own country, and from every other civilized land, come similar expressions of eulogy and sympathy, and abhorrence of the cowering wretch who struck the deadly blow.

THE latest news from the seat of war in Arizona and New Mexico is to the effect that troops are being rapidly pushed forward. Citizens are reported as forming companies in the vicinity of St. Johns, for mutual protection. The hostiles are intrenched in one of the most inaccessible portions of Arizona, surrounded by deep ravines, high mountains and box cañons.

THE Grand Master of the Free and Accepted Masons of California has issued a dispensation ordering the Grand Lodge to unite with the citizens of San Francisco in celebrating the funeral rites of the late President and requesting the subordinate lodges throughout the jurisdiction to participate in local funeral ceremonies.

THE drouth in the East continues. In several States water is sold by the bucketful—something unknown before. Oregon is the only State in the Union that never complains of dry times.

DEATH BED SCENE OF PRESIDENT GARFIELD.

J. Stanley Brown, a Times correspondent, has sent the following description of the death scene: When Private Secretary Brown entered the room, Mr. Rockwell and Miss Lulu, who had just come in with Mrs. Garfield and Miss Mollie, left the room and stood in the hall just outside the room; Dr. Bliss stood at the head of the bed feeling the pulse, and Drs. Agnew and Hamilton were trying to revive the President by hypodermic injections of brandy. Col. Rockwell then went out a moment and returned with Mollie Garfield, as the President passed into a sinking condition and began to breathe with great, slow gasps. Col. Rockwell went quietly to the windows and closed them. Mr. Brown walked to Mrs. Garfield and she leaned upon his arm as the President breathed his last. Mrs Garfield was calm, save for convulsive shudders that at times overmastered her. Mollie came up to her a moment later, and the mother placed her arm around her as the little girl sobbed bitterly. Her weeping and the President's gasping for breath were the only sounds in the room. There was a period of gasping and then the President ceased to breathe. Mrs. Rockwell placed her arm around Mrs. Garfield and led her away. As Mrs. Garfield left the room she turned and said to Mr. Brown as she wrung his hand, "I shall depend upon you."

A DAY OF HUMILIATION AND PRAYER.

A San Francisco dispatch says: "Governor Perkins has issued a proclamation, appointing the day designated for the President's funeral as the day for public humiliation and prayer. The Army and Navy League and Posts of the Grand Army of the Republic have taken action looking to union of action with other public bodies in the observance of the funeral ceremonies. Decorations have been busily going on all day, and the principal streets now present a succession of emblems of mourning. The Republican State Central Committee held a meeting this afternoon at which a committee was appointed for the purpose of drafting suitable resolutions on the death of President Garfield." Next Monday is the day fixed for the funeral.

GEN. SHERMAN has, no doubt, quite a correct idea as to what constitutes an infraction of both military and civil law, and is to be commended for his determination to bring punishment for such infractions in general. But Gen. Tecump. is a good deal "off" if he thinks it his duty to strain himself in bringing Sergeant Mason to punishment for shooting at Guiteau. This beast, as shown by his very first remark after he did murder to subvert the Government of fifty millions of people, relied implicitly upon the General and his branch of that Government to protect him for his treasonable as well as murderous effort to destroy it. No such attempt would have ever been made had the assassin anticipated that the army, his only hope for safety, was composed of Sergeant Masons. The moral effect of the Sergeant's shot, if not rendered nugatory by punishment, will do more to deter future Guiteaus, and prove a better protection for the lives of future Presidents, therefore the Government itself, than would Gen. Sherman's entire army while esteemed by would-be assassins as their reliable body guard. The Serjeant needs a night in the guard-house for leaving the ranks without permission, and that's all; but, under the beauteous possibilities of our laws, military and civil, it is more likely he will get seven years on the Dry Tortugas while Guiteau will escape the rope by some legal quibble.

THE State Board of Equalization, in session at Sacramento, has fixed the tax levy as follows: Amount to be raised for the General Fund, $2,180,000; School Fund, $1,300,000; Interest Fund, $315,000. Total, $3,805,084. On this the tax is: For the General Fund, 37.7 cents; for the School Fund, 22.4 cents; for the Interest Fund, 5.4 cents; Drainage tax, 5 cents. Total, 70.5 cents. The Board has raised the assessments on the entire roll, exclusive of the assessments made by the State Board on the railroads, as follows: Alameda, 9 per cent., being an increase of $3,853,555; Amador, 10 per cent., being an increase of $284,025, San Francisco, 8 per cent., being an increase of $17,765,025; San Mateo, 20 per cent., being an increase of $1,224,969; Solono, 5 per cent., being an increase of $528,390; Sonoma, 7 per cent., being an increase of $1,159,886; Santa Barbara, on real estate only, exclusive of improvements, 15 per cent., or $424,238; Marin, 10 per cent., being an increase of $701,580. The total increase is $25,942,646.

EIGHT New York ladies, whose husbands are estimated to be worth $300,000,000 in the aggregate, dined together the other day at a Saratoga hotel, and whenever one of them hoisted a knifeful of Summer squash nobody dared to say a word.

THE POST MORTEM.

The following official bulletin was prepared at Elberon, at 11 o'clock P. M., September 21st, by the surgeons who had been in attendance upon the late President:

By previous arrangement the post mortem examination of the body of President Garfield was made this afternoon in the presence and with the assistance of Drs. Hamilton, Agnew, Bliss, Barnes, Woodward, Reyburn, A. H. Smith of Elberon and Acting Assistant Surgeon D. Lamb of the Army Medical Museum at Washington. The operation was performed by Dr. Lamb. It was found that the ball, after fracturing the right eleventh rib, had passed through the spinal column in front of the spinal canal, fracturing the body of the first lumbar vertebræ, driving a number of small fragments of bone into the adjacent soft parts and lodging just below the pancreas and about two and a half inches to the left of the spine and behind the peritoneum, where it had become completely encysted. The cause of death was secondary hemorrhage from one of the mesentric arteries adjoining the track of the ball, blood rupturing the peritoneum and nearly a pint escaping into the abdominal cavity. Hemorrhage is believed to have been the cauce of the severe pain in the lower part of the chest complained of just before death. An abcess cavity six inches by four in dimension was found in the vicinity of the gall bladder between the liver and tranverse colon which was strongly inter-adherent. It did not involve the substance of the liver and no communication was found between it and the wound. The long suppurating channel extended from the external wound between the loin muscles and right kidney almost to the right groin. This channel, which was never known to be due to the burrowing of the pus from the wound was supposed during life to be the track of the ball. On examination of the organs of the chest evidences of severe bronchitis were found on both sides with broncho-pneumonia of the lower portion of the right lung and though to a much less extent, the left lung contained no abcess and the heart no clots. The liver was injured and fatty, but free from abcesses, nor were any found in any other organ except the left kidney, which contained near its surface a small abcess about one-third of an inch in diameter. In reviewing the history of the case in connection with the autopsy, it is quite evident that the different suppurating surfaces and especially the fractured spongy tissue of the vertebræ furnish sufficient explanation of the septic condition which existed. The point of the ball was blunted, caused by the force with which it struck the rib, while in other respects the shape is not altered.

Dr. Bliss took charge of the bullet and sealed it for preservation until the courts should require its production. The State of New Jersey has issued a permit for the removal of the body. Mrs. Garfield is much relieved since the autopsy, inasmuch as it resulted in establishing the fact that the President's death was inevitable.

OF the great Michigan wood fire and its destruction, a dispatch says: It is believed that three hundred persons perished and it is feared many more, while thousands are stripped of everything, food, shelter, crops, stock, swept clean from the face of the earth, and must have everything to sustain life and clothe themselves. Accounts continue to come in of the most harrowing description. A special to the Post: Geo. McDonald, of St. Iliac county, tells a harrowing tale. Over two hundred families are homeless in that section and suffering from want of food and clothing. John Valentine, of Verona Mills, says fifty-three lives are known to be lost in the neighborhood of Sand Beach. The fire suddenly reached Verona Mills on Monday and the town was soon wiped out. The wind was so strong that Balentine and his wife were picked up and blown fifteen or twenty yards. A woman and her husband were found lying against a tree, dead. The devastation done by the fire of '71 is nothing compared to the fires of the last few days.

THE particulars of a horrible crime committed some five years ago in Placer county comes to light. It seems that a farmer named Niles and a neighbor named Singleton had a transaction which involved $3,000. Both men were considered highly respectable. Suddenly Singleton disappeared and was never heard of until his bones were found in an old well on the farm formerly owned by Niles. The latter has been arrested and confesses that he threw the body of his neighbor into the well. The crime is almost too horrible to be believed. The citizens of Placer county are much excited and they have good reason to be. Niles is as much of a fiend as Troy Dye was.

THE autopsy upon the body of the deceased President shows beyond quibble of even California law that Guiteau's bullet was the direct cause of death. This fact makes it certain that at least a favored few will soon have the felicity of seeing the miserable reptile wiggling at the end of a rope—though there is no telling how much a plea of insanity may interfere with that pleasurable spectacle,

THE Texas and Pacific road is within two hundred and twenty miles of El Paso and it is expected by September first that the junction will be made with the Southern Pacific.

GEO. H. SHEARER, formerly publisher of the Tulare Times, attempted to commit suicide in San Francisco last week.

MINING.

The man who tries to make a livelihood and a fortune by mining for gold and silver has a pretty hard time. It is true that he has to purchase everything with which to prosecute his works, and equally true that if he succeeds, all he gets is so much added wealth to the country, and that it comes in a form which not only does not endanger the sale of any other man's product, but rather helps every other man in the community. Still, if the fairest prospects fail and he loses his all, he gets very little sympathy, while if he succeeds the finger of envy is sure to point to him, and the declaration is made that "he, without any particular sense, stumbled on a fortune," or that "he got rich in a stock swindle." And yet mining is the only thoroughly legitimate business that can be engaged in between the Rocky and Sierra Nevada Mountains. That is, it is the only leading interest. All others, at least the prosperity of all others, depend upon mining. Take it away, and the lots in this city would not be worth $100 apiece. Take it away, and Idaho, Montana and Nevada would become mere stock ranges, and the coyotes would bark, undisturbed, at the locomotives of the overland trains. In its influence mining extends beyond all other industries. When from the West wheat is shipped to the East and a million of dollars is paid for it, it is only a species of barter after all. The world at large is no better, except that it has a little more food supply which amounts to nothing, because a few strong arms or valueless hands can raise it in a single season. But when a million of gold is taken from the earth, there is a creation. The world is that much richer in something which it did not have before, which is indestructable, and which is so rare and so much prized that all races, civilized and savage, receive it at its established value. Again, let there be a double wheat crop raised in any single year, and the value of wheat lands would fall, because wheat raising would be looked upon as an unprofitable business. But let there be a double yield of gold and silver in the far West in any given year, and all over the far East the price of real estate would advance, because gold is chiefly valuable because of its rarity, and the more there is, the more it takes of it, to make a measure of values for other property. The gold of California, while it enriches but a few Californians, doubled the value of lands in the Eastern States, over whole States, while to the arteries of commerce, before so sluggish, it operated like a transfusion of new and healthy blood. And when the war of the Rebellion was sore the gold and silver of California and Nevada were the pivot on which perhaps the mighty war turned. The men of the East should remember these things, and should reflect that mining is not barter like the ordinary businesses of life, but the creation of wealth. Its success is more than the making rich the miner; it quickens the pulse beats of trade to the remotest extremity of the Republic.—Salt Lake Tribune.

IF the President's journey had not absorbed public attention and made Tuesday famous, that day would doubtless have been long remembered in many localities for strange atmospheric phenomena. In many parts of the East and Canada, the day was so dark that it was impossible to get along without artificial light. The most singular effects thus far reported, were in Troy, Springfield, Mass., Providence, R. I., Boston and Toronto. In Springfield several large manufactories suspended work; reading and studying were abandoned in some of the public schools, and in hundreds of shops and houses, the gas jets burned with a peculiar white light. In Toronto, great fear of some terrible calamity disturbed the peace of timid and superstitious souls. At 5 o'clock, the sky presented the appearance of an orange dome of extraordinary beauty. As sunset approached, the orange hue deepened over sky and city, and the streets were filled with people gazing at the weird spectacle. In every place where the unusual phenomena was conspicuous, people recalled the story of the famous "dark day," about one hundred years ago, when business was suspended, candles made only a slight impression on the universal gloom, and unreasoning roosters announced at noon-day a fictitious dawn. Even the advanced knowledge of to-day, while it laughs at superstitious fears, and rightly attributes to natural conditions such strange appearances as those of Tuesday, cannot give a satisfactory account of the causes that produce them.—N. Y. Tribune.

DEATH OF JAMES WATTERSON.—James Watterson, a prominent merchant of Benton, and generally well known throughout Mono county, California, died at his residence in that town last Monday morning. He was the senior of the firm of Watterson Brothers. James Watterson was born on the Isle of Man, and came to the United States some eight years ago. He quickly found his way westward, and eventually came to Virginia City, where he was for some time connected with the Footlight newspaper and job office. Here he married. Leaving Virginia he went to Benton four years ago, and was employed for awhile, we believe, in the house of Creaser and Millner. He soon afterwards became bookkeeper to the firm of J. B. Badger & Co., where his integrity and strict attention to business won the confidence of the heads of the house, and when Mr. Badger retired in 1879, Mr. Watterson succeeded to the control of the house, and in conjunction with his brother George, conducted a good mercantile business up to the time of his death. James Watterson had many friends wherever known, who will sincerely regret his early death. The disease was pneumonia. The deceased was about thirty-six years of age. He leaves an estimable wife and three small children—two sons and a daughter—who receive the condolence of many friends.—Aurora Herald, Sept. 17.

WHILE preaching from the text, "He giveth his beloved sleep," a Toledo minister stopped in the middle of his sermon, gazed upon his sleeping auditors, and said: "Brethren, it is hard to realize the wondrous, unbounded love the Lord appears to have for a good portion of his congregation!"

The Killing of Dave Ray.

Below we give the full particulars of the killing of Dave Ray, the sporting man, who was well lknown in Bodie, Bishop Creek, Big Pine and Independence. The account is taken from the Bellevue (Wood River) News, of September 17th:

It was 8:30 yesterday morning, and many people were upon the streets when the rapid discharge of fire-arms called out hundreds to see the powder smoke curling up from in front of Frank Anthony's coffe-stand, on the north side of Main street, and from the porch in front of Burch's saloon on the opposite side and nearly straight across. The crowds immediately in the vicinity of these points were seen to scatter and disappear instantly until but few men were in sight, and the one in front of Burch's saloon soon darted into the house, while his opponent shoved a couple of fresh cartridges into his gun. It was a shooting match for the death of either Dave Ray or B. F. Perry. Both were fearless (of death) men, and when Ray darted into the house the remarks in the surging crowd were to the effect that he (Ray) had "got his medicine," for they knew that he would not flee unless mortally wounded. With others, a reporter of the News was soon upon the scene, and Ray was found lying upon his back in the rear of Burch's saloon, having passed entirely through the building before falling, though being mortally wounded in the right breast. Dr. Wheeler examined the wound and recommended that he be taken to his home and family on Second street at once; a cot was procured and he was borne away through the immense crowd. But Ray never spoke, and died in an hour after the shooting. Immediately after the shooting and after Ray darted into the house, Perry turned down the street toward Hash's blacksmith shop, where he was employed, and when approached by Officer Little he warned them away for the minute, as he says, with the intention of not being caught unarmed until he knew Ray was not up to some trick of running around a corner on him. The circumstances attending the shooting are not clearly arrived at as yet, but the sum and substance are these:

George Canada and another gentleman were attending the night-watch duties in Burch's saloon, and the night had been a fair one, one or two games going all night. Perry had been playing poker with a small party for several hours, and though not for large stakes, the game was an interesting one, drawing quite a crowd around. About 8 o'clock A. M. Dave Ray stepped in to look at the players, and while there one of them (Frank Allen) requested one of the night-watchers to play his hand while he (Allen) went to breakfast. The night-watchman said he was busy, and Ray had better set in, which he did without opposition, and played so fortunately for a quarter of an hour as to reduce Perry's stack of coin to a single dollar. The ante was a half, and Perry flung it up; Ray went a quarter blind, and Perry remarked that it looked a little like giving him no show; in fact, had looked like a hogging game for some time, at the same time putting the coin in his pocket. Rough language followed, and both men rose, Ray showing a revolver as he did so. By some it is said he advanced on Perry, beating him in the face and kicking him while displaying the revolver, but all that will be explained when the examination comes up. Perry said if it was a fight he wanted he (Perry) should be given a chance to get a gun, and Ray told him to do so, at the same time insinuating that he thought Perry wanted to get away. Perry walked across and down the street, and Ray stepped on the platform in front of the saloon. In a moment Perry was coming back, and when opposite Ray and across the street the shooting commenced. Perry shooting a load from each barrel of his gun—a double-shot and rifle-barrelled concern. Whether Ray fired two shots or one from his revolver is still a question to be settled. Anyway, he fired one, and the certainty of who fired the first shot is also in question. Ray's shots were too low and too far to the right, striking the ground where Matt McFall was standing while overseeing the workmen on his new hotel, and one passed close to some little girls, causing them to cry out. Perry's first fire was from the shot-gun barrel, and the top of the awning was well peppered, but the next one did the business, the ball striking and passing through the awning-post, catching Ray in the right breast, passing entirely through his body, through the door window of the saloon, and burying itself in the north wall to the depth of three-quarters of an inch. Ray must have been turned by the force of the ball, and then walked through the saloon, falling in stepping out out of the back door. A railroad tie-spike shot through a man could not have made a more ghastly wound, and how Ray had the nerve to stand so long is a mystery. Perry walked to the shop, and when with A. J. Hash yielded up quietly enough to the orders of the officers, and is now in custody of the Sheriff.

RICH SILVER DISCOVERIES.—Advices have been received at the Interior Department from Indian Agent Hunt, at Anadarko, Indian Territory, announcing the discovery of rich and extensive silver fields near Fort Sill, within the limits of the Kiowa, Comanche and Wichita Indian Reservation. Hunt also informs the Department that illegal attempts are being made by white men to locate mineral claims in those regions. The matter was to-day referred to the Secretary of the Interior by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, with a request that troops be furnished to protect the Indian's interest in the newly discovered field from intruders.

AFTER supper at a ball—He: "Without joking, Elise, I do adore you. When I look at you, there is such a commotion in my breast." She: "And in mine, too, Henri; it must be the lobster salad!"

LEAVE out those who talk about what they don't know, and those who know what they don't talk about, and how much smaller would the population of Delaware be than that of any other State?

A GANG of Socialists and Nihilists attempted to get up a meeting in New York to rejoice over the President's death. The meeting was broken up before it had fairly begun and several of the hyenas were so badly beaten that, it is hoped, they may die. It is a matter of infinite sorrow that the last one of these imported beasts had not been killed and their carcasses thrown in the harbor to poison sharks; also, that the building in which they were permitted to meet was not razed to the ground.

THE CARSON AND COLORADO.—Seventy-five miles of railroad will be completed this Fall east from Hawthorne, This will give Esmeralda county about one hundred and fifty miles of railroad, and all built within a period of a few months. The principal "business" of the company, so far, has been the building, improving, and ballasting of the road; but the property is valuable, and at a fair valuation the taxes on it will materially aid in defraying the expenses of the Esmeralda county government. Sixty men are now employed in grading east to the Front, and the work of grading is now completed to a point about twenty miles east of Hawthorne. Delay in the arrival of rails has much retarded the progress of work on this extension. A ship load of rails is now due at San Francisco, and when this cargo begins to arrive at the Front it will give such an impetus to track laying as will rapidly carry the road into the Candelaria neighborhood.—Oasis

THE MISSING JEANNETIE.—William Lee Howard, whom the United States Government last year sent to Iceland on an exploring expedition, has very little encouragement to furnish those who, against hope, are hoping to hear some good news of the Jeannette. He says that it is thought in Iceland that the crew could not possibly have survived last Winter's exceptional severity. The Icelanders speak from experience, and their experience does not differ from that which most people have been compelled, however reluctantly, to entertain. There is very little chance that the Jeannette will ever be heard from again, and with this it is to be hoped there will be an end of expeditions which are as useless as they are dangerous.

SAYS an Omaha dispatch of the 15th: Mrs. Burke, of Omaha, who recently beat Miss Lizzie Pinneo in the ten mile race at Council Bluff, making a record of twenty-one minutes and a half, and the next week riding against the record at Des Moines, Iowa, and making ten miles in twenty-one minutes and a half, to-day, at the Nebraska State Fair, rode for $1,000 against the Council Bluff record. She used four horses, making six changes during the race. She made ten miles in twenty minutes and thirty-four seconds—the fastest time on record. She rides again Saturday.

CAROLINE and Mary Clark, daughters of a wealthy Kentucky lawyer and planter, who was bankrupted by the war, according to an Eastern paper, went to work in a Pittsburgh, Penn., hotel eleven years ago, labored faithfully and accumulated several thousand dollars. Now an uncle has left them $90,000.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

PROBATE NOTICE.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE State of California, in and for the County of Inyo. In the matter of the estate of John Ryar Westervelt, deceased. Order to Show Cause Why Order of Sale of Real Estate Should not be Made.

It appearing to the Judge of said Superior Court, by the petition this day presented and filed by James Jones and S. P. Moffat, the Executors of the Estate of John R. Westervelt, deceased, praying for an order of sale of real estate; that it is necessary to sell the whole of the real estate, to pay the debts outstanding against the deceased and the debts, expenses and charges of administration.

It is therefore ordered by the Judge of said Court, that all persons interested in the estate of said deceased appear before the said Superior Court on MONDAY, the TWENTY-FOURTH day of OCTOBER, A. D. 1881, at 10 o'clock A. M. of said day, at the Court Room of said Superior Court, at the Court House, in the town of Independence, in the County of Inyo, to show cause why an order should not be granted to said Executors to sell so much of the real estate of the said deceased as shall be necessary.

And that a copy of this order be published at least four successive weeks in THE INYO INDEPENDENT, a newspaper printed and published in said county.

Dated September 19, 1881.

JOHN A. HANNAH,
Superior Judge.

OFFICE OF THE COUNTY CLERK,
County of Inyo.

I, John Crough, County Clerk of the County of Inyo, State of California, and ex officio Clerk of the Superior Court in and for said County, do hereby certify the foregoing to be a true, full and correct copy of an order duly made and entered upon the minutes of said Superior Court.

WITNESS, my hand and the seal of said Superior Court, this Nineteenth day of September, A. D. 1881.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE County of Inyo, State of California.
In the Matter of John P. Brown, an Insolvent Debtor.

John P. Brown, having filed in this Court his petition, schedule and inventory in insolvency, by which it appears that he is an insolvent debtor, the said John P. Brown is hereby declared to be insolvent. The Sheriff of Inyo County is hereby directed to take possession of all the estate, real and personal, of the said John P. Brown, debtor, except such as may be by law exempt from execution, and of all his deeds, vouchers, books of account and papers, and to keep the same safely until the appointment of an Assignee of his estate. All persons are forbidden to pay any debts to the said insolvent, or to deliver any property belonging to him, or to any person, firm or corporation, or association for his use. The said debtor is hereby forbidden to transfer or deliver any property until the further order of this Court, except as herein ordered. It is further ordered that all the creditors of said debtor be and appear before the Hon. John A. Hannah, Judge of the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, in open Court, at the Court Room of said Court, in the town of Independence, County of Inyo, on the TWENTY-SEVENTH day of OCTOBER, 1881 at 10 o'clock A. M. of that day, to prove their debts and choose one or more assignees of the estate of said debtor.

It is further ordered that this order be published in THE INYO INDEPENDENT, a newspaper of general circulation published at Independence, in the County of Inyo, as often as the said paper is published before the said day set for the meeting of creditors. And it is further ordered that in the meantime all proceedings against the said insolvent be stayed.

Dated September 20, 1881.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 54.....1881

MINING NOTES FROM BISHOP.—The following brief mining notes from the recently opened gold mines of Bishop Creek, from a reliable correspondent, comprise the latest information we have from there: "The Poleta shaft is down about 265 feet, showing a splendid vein of the rich ore characteristic of the series; but no one, save the managers, can tell its average value in gold per ton. The vein is equal in width to the working shaft. The Red Cloud mine, owned by Rowan Bros. & Co., and under bond to Messrs. Loose & Russell, is now opened by a shaft something over 100 feet deep, and shows a vein even wider than the shaft and in ore richer than that of the Poleta. Other important discoveries have been made lately—one about one mile and a half south-east of the Po'e'a mine, and owned by a number of Mexicans, which shows fine prospects in gold; it is called the 'Marguarita.' Another one, which is located some three miles north of the Poleta, is called the Dauphin, the ore of which shows from 50 to 300 colors to the horn. This property is owned by Escallon, Whittaker and others. It is opened by a shaft about 10 feet deep, and the ledge so far has a uniform width of four feet."

BUILDING UP.—The town of Bishop Creek is rapidly improving, and, backed up by its extensive agricultural interests and the rich and most important new gold discoveries, is doubtless as prosperous a community as there is in the entire State, and with as bright a future before it. Some of the latest improvements may be mentioned as follows: Richard Bronson is building a restaurant just south of the O. K. store. W. B. Hutchings has completed a Town Hall, alongside the Drake Hotel. Mr. J. H. Stoutenborough has built a neat little dwelling house just back of his store, and proposes erecting a large store in front of the present one. Dr. H. H. Howell has put up an office and drug store near the Baptist Church, so near in fact that the average Christian need entertain no immediate fear of being lost, protected, as it were, by a double safeguard—religion and compound cathartic pills. A. J. Murphy has a new saloon over at the mines. Jack Gunn and Robt. Stewart have also completed a large saloon near the Company's boarding house, which is intended as sort of a saving bank for the miners.

PERSONAL MENTION.—Mrs. A. W. Eibeshutz and children returned last week from their visit to the Bay....J. J. Gunn has transferred his base of operations from Darwin to Bishop.... Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Robinson have gone on a visit to Mrs. R.'s parents down in one of the coast counties.... Wm. O. Harrell and A. K. Briggs of Bishop, and "Pap" Walker of Olancha, paid us a visit during the week....A married man and young girl are said to have eloped from Lone Pine a few days ago. Hope it is a false report, otherwise we would give names....V. G. Thompson, of the Blaney House, has gone to the Bay, and may take a run up the coast before returning.

WORK RESUMED.—The Laura Company has resumed the work of developing their property at Beveridge, having put on a force of eight men during the week. There are now about 40 tons of very high grade gold ore on the dumps, and many parties who have visited the property adjudge it to be even better than the famous Keynot. The Mexicans have put a much stronger force on the Keynot, and have added greatly to their transportation facilities—the big pack train. J. W. Murphy has purchased a train of pack mules from Al. Robinson, for general work in the district, and especially to keep supplied the store and boarding house at the mill.

THE FLAGS DRAPED.—Immediately upon receipt of the sorrowful news, heavily draped flags were swung across Edwards Street from Harris & Rhine's to Irwin's, and from Rothschild & Co.'s store to the Blaney House. It was a quiet demonstration, heralding in advance the sad tidings to all approaching the town. There will not be much else to do here on the funeral day—Monday next; but how appropriate it would be, were there a big bell hung in the Court House cupola, to toll it sadly all day long, while all business were suspended.

A NEW PAPER.—Mr. W. F. Davis, late of Aurora, has been canvassing this part of the valley for subscriptions for a new weekly or semi-weekly newspaper to be established at Bishop Creek, by E. H. Fonticella, formerly of the Bodie Free Press. Considerable success was met with hereabouts. We trust that the new journal will be made a thoroughly good exponent of the manifold interests of that section of the county. In such case it would prove a helpmeet and co-worker, rather than a rival, to THE INDEPENDENT.

AT BEVERIDGE.—Supt. W. A. Irwin, of the Poleta, and L. A. Scowden, U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor, paid Beveridge District a visit last week, examining the Keynot and Laura mines, of which they speak in the highest terms.

GOLD.—Rumor reaches us of the discovery of several new gold ledges in the Sierras west of Big Pine, among the old-worked placers.

POSTAL POINTS.—W. Judson Smith has been appointed Postmaster at Round Valley. Bishop Creek has been made a money-order office.

JURY.—A venire has been issued by the Superior Court for a Grand Jury, returnable October 10. Twenty-five names were drawn.

NEW STOCK.—Jack Moore, at his store in Big Pine, is in receipt of a large lot of new goods of pretty much all kinds.

The Lone Pine Celebrate.

LONE PINE, Sept. 20.

MESSRS. EDITORS—Noting the fact that you had no representative at the celebration at Lone Pine, I took a few notes of matters that came under my observation, and here they are:

The race on the 15th was won by the Roper mare, Wake-up-Jake not having been awakened early enough to get out first. The race on the 16th was pretty hotly contested. Brown Abby, the Coalburner mare and Puttyhead being entered. Brown Abby] took the first heat; Coalburner the second and third and the money. There was another race between a mustang owned in the valley and a mare that had come from Los Angeles. Had the Americans dared to back their opinions they might have won a great deal of, money as the Mexicans offered large odds on the Los Angeles animal. The only drawback to the sport at the races was the fact that the weather was as hot as the Revised Edition.

On the night of the 15th the dramatic and musical entertainment took place. It was an entire success. The stage was very nicely arranged and had the appearance of a regular theatre, in a small way. The singing was very good and the songs catching. Mrs. Heenan recited a new piece of Bret Harte's and it found great favor with the audience. The afterpiece of the "Conjugal Lesson" was a success too, if the incessant laughter was anything to judge by. Mr. Wm. Barrows gave his valuable aid and his singing helped to make up a performance that has never been equaled in this county by professionals or amateurs. The ball given by the Mexicans on the night of the 16th was a grand success. They are the best managers of that sort of thing of any people I know of. Although full of patriotism, and a great many presumably so of whisky, they police their entertainments so well that no disturbance takes place and every one is contented and easy. The Americans might safely overhaul their books on balls "and when found make a note on't."

I did not have a chance to see the procession but heard that it was full as to numbers. The 19th was the second night of the dramatic and musical part. "Pillicoddy" and a farce were the attractions with singing and reading sandwiched in between. It would seem to be in bad taste to pick out anyone for especial commendation, but it would hardly be fair to let Miss Nellie Hughes go without saying something in regard to her. She never played a part before, but in "make up" and action she was like an old "stager." She played the part of Sarah Blunt almost perfectly. Mr. Crosby on short notice played Pillicoddy and played it very well. The others, although cast for minor parts, made the most of them.

The night closed with a ball given by the Chile inhabitants of our valley. The night was anything but chilly, but they danced till five o'clock and a more sleepy looking lot of people I never saw than they the next morning. The whole celebration wound up with a grand attack of epizootic or something similar, for nearly the whole town has a cold—perhaps cold weather is coming. Next time send somebody or come yourselves and prove that I have nothing extenuated or set down aught in malice.

VERITAS.

SCHOOL REPORT.—Following is Mrs. Mary E. Thresher's report of her school, Irving District, for the month ending September 23: Whole number enrolled, 47; average number belonging, 47; average daily attendance, 39; percentage of attendance, 83. On the roll of honor—Hattie Bulpitt,* Agnes Ford,* Annetta Ford,* Annie Munson,* Cora Munson,* Clara Smith, Emma Yandell, Winnie Smith, Freddie Bulpitt,* Willie Munson,* and Minnie Smith.* None of those named were absent or tardy during the month; those marked with an asterisk (*) were on the roll of honor for the preceding month. The apparent low percentage of attendance was because a number of new pupils did not enter at the beginning of the month.

SCHOOL MONEYS.—Supt. Symmes apportions State school moneys this month as follows:

Districts.	State Fund.	Library Fund.
Bishop Creek....	$152 33	$18 52
Big Pine.....	72 58	12 85
Darwin	83 16	2 27
Irving	77 49	7 94
Independence	76 17	9 26
Lone Pine.....	70 31	15 12
Milton	77 12	8 31
Round Valley.....	77 30	8 13
Union	82 40	3 02
Totals.....	$768 86	$85 42

BONDED.—Messrs. F. J. and Silas Reynolds and W. Treglown have entered into an agreement to sell to John H. Ely the following named mines, situated in Russ District: The Dixie, Morning Star, Jewel, Ranger, Stonewall Jackson and a one-half interest in the Waco Star. The proposed purchase involves a good round sum, which is to be paid on or before the 14th day of January next.

POTATO BUG.—Messrs. Lank & Kehoe had a large patch of unusually promising potatoes. After the vines were fully grown they were attacked by a small, hard-shell bug, of which there were millions. These bugs perforated every leaf, leaving them like a piece of fine netting. The result was that the crop was nearly destroyed. There is a chance in this for some scientific bugologist to do some profitable investigating.

FROST.—It is stated that much of the less matured corn, from Big Pine to Round Valley, suffered severely from frost on Wednesday and Thursday nights. The weather clerk acts as if trying to apologize for it now, by way of providing warmer weather.

M. E. Appointments at Carson.

The following appointments made by the Bishop and three presiding elders, were announced on Sunday last in Carson:

Carson, W. C. Gray
Virginia City, G. W. Simpson
Reno, C. De La Matyr.
Truckee, Wayne Carver
Winnemucca, Chas. McKelvey
Austin, J. T. Ladd
Indian Valley, O. H. Barstow
Surprise Valley, J. W. Pendleton
Bodie, J. M. Warrington
Bridgeport, G. B. Hinkle
Genoa, J. H. De La Matyr
Battle Mountain, G. W. Janes
Bishop Creek and Independence, F. M. Willis
Candelaria and Bridgeport, Warren Nims
Ruby Hill, R. A. Ricker
Carson Valley, to be supplied by J. H. De La Matyr
Elko and Tuscarora, to be supplied by George Jennings
Mason Valley and Pine Grove, G. B. Hinkle
Gold Hill, Dayton, Adin, Eureka Mills, Fall River, Lake View, Sierra Valley, Susanville and Aurora remain to be supplied
T. S. Ulren transferred to the California Conference and C. W. Crawl transferred to Rock River Conference.

The presiding elders are: Northern Dtstrict, N. G. Luke; Central District, J. D. Hammond; Southern District, J. B. Hinkle.

INYO CON.—The Inyo Consolidated Mining & Milling Co.—the Panamint enterprise—paid a third dividend of five cents per share on the 15th instant. The Company's office is at 58 Broadway, New York.

DIVIDEND.—On the 19th the Indian Queen paid its sixteenth monthly dividend of 2½ per cent on the par value of the stock. The Company's office is at No. 7 Exchange Place, Boston; C. C. Lane, Secretary.

THE Aurora Herald and the Hawthorne Oasis are engaged in a "hot" newspaper contest over the proposed removal of the county seat of Esmeralda. Typographical evidences indicate that there won't be any personal differences to settle, on account of the present proximity of the editors. The Candelaria True Fissure gets in a lick once in a while, supporting the idea that that is a proper place for a Court House and the residence of county officials—when water gets in from the White Mountains. As in years gone by, when the same old question was mooted, Aurora will continue to stand them off. Our fatherly advice, brethren, would be to let up on it, and wait a year or so. By that time the population of Lida, Gold Mountain, Silver Peak, Montezuma, Oneota, Sylvania, etc., will have as much or a little more to say about it than you, by reason of their greater number.

So far as we have been able to observe, the papers do not allude to the conference for a division of the State, which was to have been on the 5th. The thing was a little deader than we had thought it. We felt that the question was gone even before the meeting was held, but we had thought there was life enough in it to call a few delegates together, and give to the people at least a reason for the continuance of the State division agitation. It does not seem that there was. It was so dead that even our friend Horton could not call down and tell us if he still lived.—San Diego News.

A COMMITTEE of awards at the Fair got into a singular difficulty this afternoon. They had under consideration a honey cake, and breaking it in pieces, each ate a part. After they had eaten it they determined that it had merit and should be decorated with the usual blue ribbon. But there was nothing left to decorate. They were still wrestling with the problem at last accounts.—Los Angeles Express.

THERE is no man who has so little spare time as the one who is thoroughly idle. Idling is of itself a business which finds even all the waking hours of the day not quite sufficient for its needs.

GERMAN CARP.

[REPUBLISHED FROM LAST WEEK, BY REQUEST.]

MESSRS. EDITORS—Having been frequently queried by letter and otherwise concerning my carp I wish to state, with your kind permission, that the fish are doing well. Multifarious opinions were expressed regarding carp culture in our waters. Some spoke favorably of the project, while others pooh-poohed at the idea.—"too much mud, slush and alkali—tut-tut, money and labor thrown away—t'aint a toop per cent investment—these carp, or what you call 'em, will die or turn into bullfrogs." Such were some of the funny and discouraging exclmations made, and in order to offset the above logic it was necessary to indulge in a little rhapsody on the other side, by remarking that these carp would live and become so numerous and active that, like the Florida "muskeeters," they would, eventually, climb the trees and bark! It is needless to say that the fish have not yet displayed the predicted agility, neither are they "transmogrified" into frogs, consequently, both parties were just "a little off." The fact is, that what even the wisest of us don't know would make an awful big book—in pisciculture as well as agriculture! Your space will not permit much splurging on the finny tribe, hence accept a few brief facts concerning

THEIR GROWTH.

On the 19th of last February I placed a lot of young carp, from three to five inches long, in my two ponds. During the first two or three weeks, several of them were found dead on the surface of the water, which I attributed to the rough trip they experienced during their transportation here. The survivors have been well attended to—frequently fed; also abundance of fresh water—mountain water, and spring water; with plenty of mud, slush and grass for their convenience. Some time ago I captured one of the jokers, and, being curious to find out its length, measured him, and found Mr. Carp to be fifteen inches long. (Good sized bullfrog, "don't it?") Admitting that said carp was five inches long when placed in the pond, which was only five months previous to his being captured, he exhibited a growth of ten inches in five months, or, in other words, growing two inches per month. They are also increasing rapidly; but not having drawn the ponds yet, it is impossible to state how numerous they are. Dr. Hessel, an acknowledged authority on carp, says: "It is an advantage that the carp is able to live in water where other fishes could not possibly exist; for instance, in the pools of bog meadows or sloughs; it is partial to stagnant water, with a loamy, muddy bottom, and deep places covered with vegetation."

ITS FOOD.

The carp lives upon vegetable food as well as upon worms and larvæ of aquatic insects, which it turns up from the mud with its head; it is very easily satisfied, and will not refuse the offal of the kitchen, slaughter-houses and breweries, or even the excrement of cattle and pigs. Above everything else, the carp likes such vegetable matter as cabbage, lettuce, boiled potatoes, corn, turnips, pumpkins, melons, etc.

GROWS LARGE.

Some people think that, like the sucker of our streams, the carp never grows large. This is an erroneous impression. The Commissioner of Fish and Fisheries at Washington (probably the highest authority in the United States) in his report, says: "I have seen some common carp in the southern parts of Europe—in the lowlands of Hungary, Servia, Croatia, Wallachia, as also in Moldavia and the Buckowina—which weighed from 30 to 40 pounds and more, measuring nearly three feet and a half in length by two and three-quarter feet in circumference. Old men, whose truthfulness could not be doubted, assured me and gave the most detailed accounts of the capture of this species of fish in former years, giants, which weighed from 50 to 60 pounds. During the Crimean war, in 1853, a French engineer officer, killed a carp by a bullet shot, at Widdin, on the Danube, in Turkey, which weighed 67 pounds. Carp weighing from 42 to 55 pounds were taken several years ago on one of the Grand Duke of Oldenburg's domains in Northern Germany.

ITS FIRST INTRODUCTION

To the United States was in May, 1877. Prof. Baird engaged an eminent German fish culturist, Dr. Rudolph Hessel, to bring over a supply of the best varieties of this favorite European food-fish. The first experiment, in May, 1876, was unsuccessful, and out of 300, which he started, only four survived. In May, '77, Dr. Hessel returned from a third trip, bringing to New York 365 young carp. In May, 1878, 120 were removed to the Government carp ponds, built for them in the City of Washington. They throve and grew rapidly in size. In two years, those 120 increased to, at least, 20,000.

Mr. Poppe, of Sonoma county, was the first to bring carp to California, in '75 or '76. He visited Germany for that especial purpose. From Mr. Poppe, Levi Davis and others procured carp to stock their little ponds. Mr. Davis tells us that he bought six for thirty dollars—one died, leaving five to start with, the increase of which in one year was 2044.

THE CARPS LETHAGRY IN WINTER.

It is said, that in Central Europe, the carp seeks deep water for his Winter quarters, where he exists for several months in a kind of sleep. They make a cavity in the muddy ground, and in this they pass the time until Spring, huddled together in concentric circles with their heads together and the posterior part of the body elevated and held immoveably, scarcely lifting the gills for breathing, and without taking a particle of food. In some cold countries they abstain from food from the beginning of October until the end of March—six months, which beats Dr. Tanner! Still, it is claimed that the carp, during the Winter sleep, in its natural retreat, does not diminish in weight. In warm climates, Mr. Hessel doubts whether the fish passes at all into that lethargic state, but continues to grow and increase during Winter as well as Summer.

The authority quoted above continues: "It is not to be doubted that the carp will arrive at the weight of from 2¾ to 4 pounds in one year in those warm climates, when in colder regions it requires two years and six months, where the ice-bound water and cold temperature force upon it the lethargy of winter-sleep.

There is no other fish which will, with proper management, be as advantageous as the carp. Its frugality in regard to its food, its easy adaptability to all waters, in rivers, in lakes and ponds, and even salt water estuaries; its regular rapid growth, and its value as a food fish, are its best recommendations.

ITS TABLE QUALITIES.

It is natural to presume that the carp, being fond of digging in mud, hog fashion, would be an inferior food-fish. Ducks and chickens are not extremely fastidious in diet—observe with what unction an old hen will bounce a carcass—and still that same old dame, when nicely cooked, is highly relished. A few of us, some time ago, smacked our lips over a mess of carp, when all participants pronounced the meat very excellent.

On this point, Dr. Hessel remarks: "I maintain my assertion that the carp is one of the most excellent fresh-water fishes. If the carp were a fish of inferior quality, like the buffalo-fish for instance, its sale would doubtless be limited to the sea port towns of Northern Germany, and the principal cities of Central Europe, as Vienna, Berlin and Paris. Even in the city of Paris, in spite of an abundant supply of salt-water and different kinds of fresh-water fish, the carp is ever preferred to these, and with the exception of trout and salmon, it frequently commands a price three times as high as all the rest."

SOME INTERESTING GOSSIP.

A correspondendent of the San Francisco Bulletin writing from Long Branch, shortly before the President's death, gives a column or two of interesting gossip, relating to the nation's patient and attendants, a portion of which we reproduce as follows:

SPECULATION CONCERNING THE AMOUNT OF THE BILLS.

The amount of these bills was the next topic discussed, and Secretary Brown, after figuring up for a moment, estimated the cost of the President's illness would not fall short of $250,000. The doctors, he thought, with the exception of Barnes and Woodward, who, as army surgeons, are expected to attend the President as part of their official duties, should receive at least $100,000, and perhaps much more if the convalescence is a long one, as it is now likely to be. Dr. Reyburn has been in attendance 68 days, which at $100 a day, would entitle him to $6,800. Dr. Bliss will probably receive $25,000, and Drs. Hamilton and Agnew's bill will not, it is thought, be more than $15,000 apiece unless the case should keep them busy for months longer. It must be remembered that the professional fortunes of all these men are made by their connection with this case, and there is not a surgeon in the country who would not attend the President, day and night for months for the mere honor and reputation of the thing. "A singular thing," said Mr. Brown, "and one that indicates the feeling of the people in the matter, is that we experience the greatest difficulty in getting bills from any one. Even persons who render services which are usually paid for at once, such as furnishing food, carriages, medicine, instruments, etc., refuse to send in their bills, and I do not know of a single bill yet sent in for services or goods rendered to the President during his illness."

GARFIELD'S SCRUPULOUSNESS RESPECTING PRESENTS.

It is generally thought that the plan to be followed when Congress meets and the President is completely convalescent, will probably to send a circular to every person who has rendered services to the President, requesting that a bill be sent, and then an appropriation can then be made for the full amount. The President is very scrupulous in wanting everything paid for, and wishes all articles sent by tradesmen as presents to him at the White House, either to be returned or bought and paid for, if they are considered worth keeping.

STRANGE PRESENTS RECEIVED.

"The truth is," said Mr. Brown, speaking of this, "that not one article out of a score received every day is worth anything. On an average I get five or six medical concoctions warranted to cure the President, no matter what his condition. Then there are the patent furniture men, who send beds and chairs and ventilators and footrests without end. I refuse to receive them, for the bills for expressage are sometimes formidable. One lunatic sent a full set of articles for a sort of gymnasium at home, trapeze, swinging bars, spring board, etc., expecting the President to get well by practicing with his devices. Here is a queer article which I received to-day, said Mr. Brown, pulling out a sort of enormous rubber handkerchief which the article really was intended for. "The man who sends this writes that every man can 'be his own washerwoman' by using this handkerchief, for no other washing is needed, except to throw it into water and wring it out. It keeps down the washbills, you see. The inventor says he hopes that the President will use it because it is the first one made after the patent was granted. If there was any danger of the President's stock of handkerchiefs giving out we might take to a rubber handkerchief but not before."

SECRETARY BROWN'S QUARTERS.

Since the departure of Reyburn, Woodward and Barnes, Secretary Brown has taken up his quarters in the doctors' cottage, having a large reception-room on the ground floor and a bedroom off it. The work of fifty or more correspondents now at Long Branch is much facilitated by the kindness of Mr. Brown, whose door is always open, and who consents to tell the news without showing his fatigue to countless applicants. His room has become a sort of rendezvous for people who want to know the latest, for there may be met Col. Rockwell and Gen. Swain, when they are off duty, and Dr. Bliss spends an hour or two there every morning and every evening. Dr. Hamilton has a room right off Mr. Brown's, and sits and chats in the reception-room for a few moments every night before going to bed, prefacing every remark about the President with: "Now I tell you this only on condition that it will not be used in print." Of all the surgeons connected with the President's case Dr. Hamilton is the shyest of having his name in the papers, and any remarks you may see in his name have been built, you may be sure, out of very slender materials—a nod, or a "yes" or a "no."

THE DOCTORS AT THE DINNER-TABLE.

Talking of the doctors—I had all six of them at the table next to mine in the Elberon dining-room on Tuesday and Wednesday last. Since then three of them have gone, and Dr. Bliss having been joined by his wife, the pleasant medical circle has been broken up. When the six of them were at meals together, the sight was enough to strike terror to the soul of any patient. I could not help observing that Dr. Agnew disjointed his chicken with more skill than ordinary mortals, and enjoyed the congenial work of dissecting anything—even a fowl. The funny stories which Dr. Bliss related to the company was the subject of much laughter, and were probably professional anecdotes of a nature to make a sick man shudder or a well man lose his appetite; for which reason I did not try to catch the drift of the stories, one of the funniest being, so far as I learned from a word or two, about an abcess which turned black. The signatures of the different surgeons on the register were the subject of much comment. Dr. Bliss signs in a big, scrawling hand, Dr. Hamilton in a small, scratchy, indistinct writing, and Dr. Agnew writes his name like a writing-master.

CHARACTERISTICS OF THE PHYSICIANS.

The characters of the men correspond somewhat to their signatures. Bliss is a bluff, stout man with short, iron-gray side whiskers. He is always ready to talk. I complimented him the other day upon his invariable readiness to receive newspaper men. "Well," he said, "sometimes in Washington I felt as if I should have to scold. I would tell the story of the day to a score or so of reporters at the White House; then go home, to find a dozen more on the steps of my house, and then find five or six more in my reception room disguised as patients. It was hard work to keep my temper. The correspondents are not so bad here, though three of them followed me into the water this morning when I took my bath and plied me with medical questions between every breaker.

It has been said that Bliss talks too much. He gave me his views on that point at length one night recently, the chief point of his arguments in favor of talking being that the bulletins have to be interpreted by some one, and who can do it better than he? The majority of people would rather be told on some good authority that "the President is better," or "the President is worse," than to read a column of statistics as to pulse, temperature, etc., and it must be said that without Bliss the lot of the newspaper correspondent would be far from a happy one. He is good for half-a-column of matter for whoever catches him.

It has also been said that Bliss can lie as fast as he can talk. One of the most reliable of the Washington correspondents admits Bliss' good nature and his skill as a surgeon, but contends that no faith can be put in him. According to this gentleman, Dr. Bliss has no hesitation in telling one story to newspaper men and another to doctors. He is said to be a little afraid of Blaine, and usually speaks more frankly to him than to anybody, which may, perhaps, account for the pessimist character of Blaine's dispatches to London. When the President was so low three weeks ago, it was reported that Dr. Hamilton had discovered that his bowels were in a frightful condition, and were the real cause of the alarming symptoms, and without consulting with Dr. Bliss, ran to the nearest drug store and got some charcoal with which the patient was relieved. This was contrary to the laws of medical etiquette, for it was Dr. Hamilton's part to give his views to Dr. Bliss, who would then do as he saw fit. The fact that any such incident took place was denied point blank by Dr. Bliss, and yet it occurred just as related, without any doubt. This is only one of many similar incidents.

Hamilton is a slight old man, with round shoulders. He is well past 60 years and his beard is nearly white. No man connected with the case knows more about the President's condition, but no man will say less. He is modest and retiring, and courtesy itself to newspaper men, but he will not talk.

SENATOR BEN HILL has been compelled to submit to a second surgical operation for the removal of a cankerous portion of the tongue. Pious people will consider this affliction a judgment of Heaven upon the Senator for a too free use of the diseased member.

THE grading of the Oregon and Nevada railroad has been completed twenty miles from Reno. Ten miles of rails have been laid, and as soon as the iron arrives a mile of track will be laid daily.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR'S INAUGURAL.

The following is the text of President Arthur's address upon taking the oath of office:

For the fourth time in the history of this Republic its Chief Magistrate has been removed by death. All hearts are filled with grief and horror at the hideous crime which has darkened our land, and the memory of the murdered President, his protracted sufferings, his unyielding fortitude, his example and achievements, his life and the pathos of his death will forever illumine the pages of our history. For the fourth time the officer elected by the people and ordained by the Constitution to fill the vacancy so created is called to assume the Executive chair.

The wisdom of our fathers, foreseeing even the most dire possibilities, made sure that the Government should never be imperiled because of the uncertainty of human life. Men may die, but the fabrics of our free institutions remain unbroken. No higher or more assuring proof could exist of the strength and permanency of popular government than the fact that, though the one chosen by the people is struck down, his constitutional successor is peacefully installed without shock or strain, except the sorrow which mourns the bereavement.

All the noble aspirations of my lamented predecessor which found expression in his life, and the measures devised and suggested during his brief administration to correct abuses and enforce economy, to advance prosperity and promote the general welfare, to insure domestic security, and to maintain the friendly and honorable relations with the nations of the earth, will be garnered in the hearts of the people; and it will be my earnest endeavor to profit and to see that the nation shall profit by his example and his experience.

Prosperity blesses our country. Our fiscal policy, as fixed by law, is well-grounded and generally approved. No threatening issue mars our foreign intercourse, and the wisdom, integrity and thrift of our people may be trusted to continue undisturbed the present assured career of peace, tranquility and welfare.

The gloom and anxiety which have surrounded the country must make repose especially welcome now. No demand for speedy legislation has been heard. No adequate occasion is apparent for an unusual session of Congress. The Constitution defines the powers and functions of the Executive as of the Government, and he must answer for the just exercise of the discretion which it permits.

Summoned to these high duties and responsibilities, and profoundly conscious of their magnitude, I assume the trust imposed by the Constitution, relying for aid on Divine guidance and on the virtue and intelligence of the American people.

How Diamond Mines are Worked.

The system of working the diamond mines is described by the operator as follows:

The ground being picked loose by natives and broken up, is hauled out of the mine in tubs running on inclined wires; from these tubs it is transferred to a shifting cylinder, which removes the coarser stones, the remaining soil being mixed with water and slowly stirred in a flat pan of circular form, by means of arms fitted with teeth, this pan varying from six to fifteen feet in diameter, according to the amount of work to be done. The effect of this is to leave the diamonds which are the heaviest, at the bottom; the lighter soil escaping over the side of the pan, to be taken up by a dredger and trucked away. At the end of a days work the contents of the circular pan are cleaned up and washed up in hand sieves, when in turning over the sieve on the table the diamonds can at once be seen from their brilliancy, some being of the most perfect octahedron shape and clear as crystal.

The rough diamonds are invariably below ten carats in weight, the average being about the size of a pea, indeed, in the Bultfontein mine, a ten carat stone is looked uyon as a curiosity, though specimens exceeding one hundred carats in weight have on rare occasions been secured. The value of a stone depends entirely on its color, shape, and freedom from spots and flaws, those of perfect shape and faultless whiteness taking the precedence of all others. The diamonds exceeding twenty carats in weight are mostly of various shades of yellow, a large white diamond being a comparative rarity.

THE marriage of John Bright's youngest daughter, which occurred at Torquay recently, was in the Quaker form and took place in a little meeting-house established at that place by the friends several years ago. The ceremony was an interesting and impressive one, the nuptuals being celebrated at the ordinary week-day devotional meeting of the congregation. After the bride and bride-groom had seated themselves at the upper end of the building with their relatives, the clerk called the meeting to order, after which prayer was offered by a Mrs. Fox. The bridegroom then stood up and repeated the following words; "Friends, in the fear of the Lord and in the presence of this assembly, I take this my friend, Margaret Sophia Bright, to be my wife, promising through divine assistance, to be unto her a loving and faithful husband until it shall please the Lord by death to separate us." The bride made a similar declaration. Then the marriage certificate was produced and signed by the bride and bridegroom, this act completing the ceremony.

VERY few persons have any idea of the space required for the storage of the money now in the hands of the Sub Treasurer. The basement vault is about 17x35 feet, and nine feet high. This is full. There are two vaults on the main floor, about 8x8 feet and ten feet in the clear, and these are nearly full. There is probably room for only $1,000,000 more standard dollars. You can store $20,000,000 in gold in the place of $1,000,000 in silver. There is 490 tons of silver now on deposit there, mostly in standard dollars, a portion of which is represented by the silver certificates now in circulation. Silver coins that have been in circulation show a loss by abrasion, as compared with new coin, of $13 in every $1,000. Congress has made no provision for redeeming abraded silver coin.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, OCTOBER 1.....1881

As it seems probable that the assassin Guiteau will set up the plea of insanity when brought to trial, it is of considerable interest to know what his victim thought of that plea, and fortunately the evidence is at hand. In the year 1871 a man named Gelatine was tried at Cleveland, Ohio, on a charge of murder, and the plea of emotional insanity was as usual employed in his defense. Judge R. F. Payne presided at the trial, and in his charge to the jury dealt very severely on this form of defense. The Judge's charge struck a popular chord and elicited numbers of approving comments and letters. Among them was the following:

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 6, 1871.

DEAR JUDGE: Allow me to congratualate you on your splendid charge to the jury at the close of the Gelatine case. The whole country owes you a debt of gratitude for brushing away the wicked absurdity which has lately been palmed off on the country as law on the subject of insanity. If this thing had gone on much further all that a man need to secure himself from the charge of murder would be to rave a little and tear his hair a little, and then kill his man. I hope you will print your excellent charge in pamphlet form, and send it to all the Judges in the land.

Very truly yours,
JAMES A. GARFIELD.

IT is a curious fact that Russia, one of the poorest of civilized countries, makes a greater parade of wealth in one respect than any other State. The domes of all the great churches in St. Petersburg, Moscow and other large towns are plated with gold nearly a quarter of an inch thick. The new Church of the Saviour, dedicated and opened in Moscow last August, represented $15,000,000. Isaac Cathedral in St. Petersburg, may be safely credited with at least twice that amount. So strong, however, is the old Slav belief in the sanctity of "holy places" that during countless seasons of widespread and bitter distress no attempt has ever been made to plunder the gold thus temptingly exposed. Indeed, one of the finest churches in St. Petersburg, the Kazan Cathedral, owes its massive shrine to a voluntary offering of the plunder taken by the Cossacks in 1812.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR has issued a proclamation calling the Senate in Executive session on the 10th of October. The opinion is generally accepted that the Democrats will elect a President pro tem. and a Clerk. These officials must be elected before new members can be sworn in. Senator Bayard, who, by rank, is entitled to the Democratic nomination for President pro tem., does not anticipate an exciting session. He thinks all party questions will be amicably arranged, and that the extra session may not last more than one week.

THE New York Mining Record has the following concerning the lead market in its last issue: A large business has been transacted during the current week in common pig; buyers have taken about 1,200 tons from first hands spot and future delivery up to December 1st, at 5 cents. The supply in first hands has been all bought up and sellers are asking 5⅛ to 5¼ cents for lots. The market is strong and favors sellers, there having been an advance in England of 10s. per ton. Refined is quoted 5⅝ to 5⅞ cents, according to brand.

IT is to be hoped there will be no attempt by the people at Washington to take Guiteau from official custody. His punishment will come in due course, and through the properly constituted channels. The agony of looking forward to the inevitable punishment will be a more severe penalty than a speedy and comparatively painless death at the hands of a mob.

KING KALAKAUA, like that other great monarch, Gen. Grant, has made a tour of the world, and is now homeward bound. His Attorney General, who precedes him, has arrived in New York, and now His Majesty will be speeding across the continent en route for the domain which he indignantly denies he ever contemplated selling.

A MISSOURI paper says that a woman in that State fell in love with her husband. The story is not improbable, the Chicago Tribune thinks, as Missouri women frequently marry men raised in other localities.

AN exchange, with fine sarcasm, observes that the scales used for weighing gold in the assay offices are so delicate that the soul of a man who always borrows the paper he reads can be weighed on them.

"BRICK" POMEROY went to Colorado two years ago worth $300. He is now said to be worth $200,000, and is President of the Atlantic and Pacific Tunnel Company, with a capital of $7,000,000.

THE CASE OF THE ASSASSIN.

The following remarks are by the Record Union, but they express our own views so well we appropriate them as our own: It is said, and apparantly in all seriouness, that the laws of the District of Columbia are so framed as to prevent the indictment of the assassin on any more serious charge than that of an assault. It is further alleged that inasmuch as the President died in another part of the country it may be found impossible to bring Guiteau to trial either in Washington or New Jersey. It is time that the public mind was set at rest in this connection by some authoritive statement of the facts. Unfortunately there have been so many evasions of justice of late years in murder cases that it is impossible to feel that there is any assurance that there will not be a similar failure in this instance. It is indeed improbable that any of the ordinary shifts of the lawyers can liberate Guiteau. The danger lies in the defects of the laws, if it exists anywhere. It may be impossible to find twelve men in the United States who would acquit him on the plea of insanity if he was charged with murder. But the danger which threatens is that he will not be brought before such a jury; or that if brought before a jury he will not be charged with murder. Should any such imperfections of the law be found to impede justice in this case, a very difficult problem will be presented to the people. Of course it will be argued that respect for the law is a necessity of civilized government. But if the law is so badly framed as to help the criminal instead of to protect society, it would be neither reasonable nor expedient that it should be treated with respect. A blind respect for law as law, without any regard to results, has been inculated time and again in the interest of the worst depotisms. It is in fact of a piece with the pernicious requirement that "the powers that be" should be submitted to on the pretence that they are "ordained of God." We want neither a divine right of kings nor a divine right of laws. The law must be deserving of respect before it is respected, and the law which should cheat the gallows of Guiteau would deserve the contempt and abhorrence of the American people. The escape of the assassin by legislative bungling would moreover have the most disastrous effect upon public sentiment. In the first place it would operate as an incentive to similar crimes, and thus put the lives of our most prominent men at the mercy of every knave or fool who might fancy that he had a grievance. In the next place it would create such a general contempt for criminal legislation as would issue in the resort to lynch-law at every opportunity. In fact nothing but evil could flow from such a failure of justice, and it is therefore to be hoped that the authorities at Washington will be able to see their way clear to the indictment of Guiteau on a charge of murder with as little delay as possible.

AT CLEVELAND.

The papers are filled with accounts of the funeral obsequies of last Monday, it appearing that there was hardly a village or city in the United States in which the solemn ceremonies were not observed.

But Cleveland that day was the "center of the world." It was estimated that at least 250,000 were there, more than half of whom were from other localities. Some of the adjacent towns were almost entirely depopulated. But it is useless to attempt details, only to say that it was the grandest funeral pageant ever witnessed on this continent; and that the day as well as the occasion will mark an era in the future history of Cleveland, henceforth to be known as the city where James A. Garfield was buried.

SAYS a Washington dispatch of the 22d: Senator Bayard this morning said he had yet to hear of a Senator of either party who expected the Senate to organize, except with the election of a Democratic presiding officer, previous to admission of the new Senators. A clerk would also be necessarily elected to complete the organization and making the record. The other officers were necessary to a proper organization for business, and would not be elected until subsequent to the admission of the new Senators. Any changes in committees would be made when the Senate is full. As the Democrats would be exactly equal in numbers to the Republicans, he thought they would demand and receive, without resistance, an equal representation on all committees. Of course this meant the organization of them, but it would be done by agreement and without excitement. He thought those who looked for an exciting session of the Senate would be disappointed. It would probably be the quietest in history. The session need not take more than a meek.

IT is suggested that when the Czar of Russia met the Emperor of Germany they exchanged congratulations that it was so long a time between bombs.

THAT "ORE EXTRACTOR."

In several New York mining papers mention is made of the so-called "new" process for extracting precious metals from their ores by means of passing the pulverized ore through a bath of molten lead. The New York Stock Report contains a two-column puff of this wonderful discovery, while the American Mining Exchange has a purported interview with D. E. Buel, of Nevada, in which that gentleman is made to give an enthusiastic indorsement of the new works. We very much doubt if he ever said a word in approval of the "process," and if he did it were only to display his innocent credulity. Extensive works are being erected in New York, and we are solemnly informed that shares of stock will soon be worth $100 apiece. Thus the nub of the joke appears.

The fact is, the whole business has been fully tested a dozen times within the past fifteen years, and the idea of making any such process work has been thoroughly exploded. A year or so ago it was taken up by Tichenor, of Calistoga-gold-water notoriety, who spent considerable money upon it, only to prove it a failure. It takes just such bilks, sometimes, to demonstrate a few practical facts to each new generation of fools. We do not believe that there is an honest and practical metallurgist on the Pacific coast who would risk his reputation by indorsing the "lead process." An eastern paper says that the inventor is the eminent assayer and metallurgist, Mr. Walter Hamilton. We have never heard of the gentleman, but will presume that he is honest in his efforts to make the lead process a success. If he is honest he is not practical, and does not understand the nature of the obstacles he will have to contend with in passing pulverized ore through melted lead, so as to bring each particle of gold and silver into direct contact with the lead, under such conditions that the lead will sieze hold of and amalgamate with the precious metals. We do not imagine that it can be done. But suppose that the operation succeeds, and the gold and silver is incorporated with the lead—say up to 85 per cent., as an average of the gold and silver saved in treating promiscuous ores. Then we claim that the cost of cupelling the lead bullion, added to the expense of previous operations, would far exceed the cost of milling ores in the ordinary way. The increased expense amounts to a stoppage, sooner or later. Nevada or California would not be a good field for Mr. Hamilton's works—where ore is handy, because metallurgists here are too well posted on this "wonderful discovery," and experienced mine-owners object to "lead baths." The Scientific Press, in its extended comments on this process, says:

"Every now and then some genius comes to the front who is going to revolutionize things by using molten lead, and every time he fails. Only last Summer some thousands of dollars were sunk in a metallurgical experiment of this kind in this city, and the people who invested in it thought the whole idea was new. The writer warned them at the time of the impracticableness of the system, but they thought the lead would absorb the gold and silver from the ore, and the sulphurets, and save concentration and chlorination. It did absorb the $20 pieces of the investors so well that they never got them back. The appliances are here now, and may doubtless be bought cheap."

In reference to this fraud the New York Stock Report has the hardihood to say:

"Owners of smelting works, veritible doubting Thomases, have journeyed from far and near to see this new process, and have been convinced that like Othello, their occupation is gone under the old methods, and they have either got to sell out, or put up their shutters at once. Orders for the machines are coming in by every mail, and over 500 of them have been sent for. The estimated cost of reduction is $1 per ton, at which moderate figure the lowest grade of ore may be worked at a profit."

Can anybody beat this for a puff? We would advise would-be investors to go slow and wait until Mr. Hamilton has proved by practical working that he can take out a large percentage of gold and silver from the ores, and at a less expense per ton, than can be done by the stamp mill, and amalgamation with quicksilver.

AN opinion in the case of the People vs. Parks et al., better known as the slickens case, was filed in the Supreme Court in San Francisco on the 26th. The case was appealed from the Superior Court of Sacramento county, and involved the constitutionality of an act of the Legislature entitled an act to promote drainage, passed April 21, 1881, which is declared to be unconstitutional, because it contravenees section 24, article 4 of the constitution, requiring that every act shall embrace but one subject, which shall be expressed in its title. Judgment of the court below is therefore reversed.

THERE is only one way to civilize the Apaches. This is to put them under the care of the gentleman who rides a white horse.

IT is said that the lamented Spotted Tail was mixed up in 150 love affairs with other Indian's wives.

GO IT, SLICKENS.

Our Supreme Court has decided that "slickens must go;" in other words, that the Drainage Act, passed last Winter, is unconstitutional. The reason why it is unconstitutional, according to a portion of the Court, is because the act provides for too many things under one title—can't "drain" ground and "dam slickens" both under one and the same act. It is a very sapient lot of Judges. They think it a self-evident and constitutional fact that the legal way of draining ground is to dig a ditch, and it is not legal or constitutional or proper to accomplish the same end by damming the waters and encroaching slickens off, even though it is plain there would have been no ground needing draining but for those same slickens. In short, their honors' idea is that the act to promote drainage would be constitutional enough for taxation purposes if it had confined itself entirely to ditch digging, and said nothing about damming slickens, which, they hold, is another subject altogether, and must be provided for by a separate bill, with a head or title of its own, stating its sole and precise object—that it is in nowise connected with Drainage Bill or any other Bill, and that its sole business is to dam slickens independent of ditching and draining of all sorts—that it is a separate industry, and must not be confounded with the other in any way.

But you mustn't think for a minute that all the hair-splitting talent is confined to McKee and Morrison, who worm out a three-column opinion to the above effect. Now comes Ross and avers that he concurs with his brother splitters in reversing the lower Court, but for a different reason. He thinks the title, "An Act to promote drainage," broad enough to allow slickens to be constitutionally dammed as a legitimate step toward making draining possible, therefore narrow enough to be considered as an admissable part of a drainage bill, as being the same in fact—but thinks it a violation of the Constitution to make a Board of Drainage Commissioners out of the Governor, Surveyor-General and State Engineer, who are simply executive officers, therefore constitutionally inhibited from the exercise of legislative and judicial powers except such as are provided for in the Constitution, which instrument says nothing at all about slickens. And that's the way Ross found out that the lower Court needed reversal. Sharpstein, for a wonder, held that the act was constitutional, so he didn't "concur" in offering this sop to Cerebus—or San Francisco.

THE "Diascope" is the name of a new invention in Paris. An electric wire is placed in a little box which stands in front of the stage in a theatre. This wire communicates with a white sheet hung in your parlor, regardless of its distance from the theatre. You then put out the lights in your room, and, lo! you see reproduced on the sheet the actors and the scenery and all their movements and colors. With the telephone at your ear and this novel apparatus before your eyes you can "assist" at a theatrical representation and stay right at home, and be at no expense for purple and fine linen and a love of a hat suited for the opera. On this latter account the diascope would soon become popular in this country where clothes and loves of bonnets are not, as a rule, especially suited for display at very toney operas.

AT Mrs. Garfield's suggestion, the casket containing the late President has been enclosed in an iron cage. A cement wall will be built around this of sufficient strength to resist all attempts to remove the body, and of dimensions enough to form a foundation for the proposed monument. The Mayor of the city has detailed a police force to be on duty continually until the final interment.

ALL along the route of the funeral train from Pittsburgh General Hancock was recognized and asked to show himself, but regarding the proprieties of the occasion he remained as secluded as possible. At only two stops did he appear on the platform to shake hands with the people without further demonstrations.

THE Staats Zeitung, in a leading editorial, says: "It is deeply humiliating to American Germans that neither Emperor William nor Bismark has found time to send a personal dispatch of condolence to Mrs. Garfield, or to express sympathy with the United States over the severe afflictions which have befallen them."

THE Annual Convocation of the Grand Lodge F. & A. M. of the State of California, will be held in the Masonic Temple, San Francisco, in October, commencing on Tuesday 11th, and continuing throughout the week. The sitting will, as usual, be an interesting one.

THE first appointment made by President Arthur was Rear Admiral Nichols as acting Secretary of the Navy.

FULLER accounts of the late disastrous fires in Michigan show that they were not, as seems generally to have been supposed, ordinary forest fires. Ten years ago (the Saginaw) district burned over the greater part, and the remaining timber was felled and left lying on the ground. Then a thrifty population settled all over the district, and created farms and homes there. Meantime the felled timber was becoming dryer every year, and when it caught fire at last the flames sprang through it as through gunpowder. In these fires the same phenomenon was observed that appeared in the Chicago fire. That is to say, that a condition of the atmosphere was set up in which fire was communicated directly from the air, without contact with burning substances. The heat and smoke of the Michigan fires was fearful. A space seventy miles long by thirty broad was burned over, and while 10,000 people have been made homeless it is really wonderful that not more than 200 out of that number lost their lives. Many who escaped with their lives, however, have lost their eyesight, or their senses, or will be hopelessly crippled.

THE public debt statement of the country for the month of August shows a decrease of $14,181,221. The national debt is $1,603,342,800, at 3½ per cent. The whole debt bearing no intetest, which is in legal tender notes, certificates of deposits, gold and silver certificates and fractional currency, amounts to $426,443,865. On the 1st of September, there was in the Treasury at Washington $240,498,789.

THE Mormons are the best emigrant agents. Another instalment of Mormons, nearly seven hundred strong, has landed at Castle Garden from Europe on their way to the promised land. The fact is suggestive. It affords proof positive that the influx of Mormons into Utah is unabated, and the repressive laws against the Mormons practically without effect.

IT is reported that a number of Philadelphia capitalists have purchased the Nuestro Senoma, an old and valuable Mexican property, situated at Sinaloa, Mex., embracing over 8,000 acres of mineral, timber and agricultural lands.

GEN. ARTHUR, like Gen. Garfield, began his career as a teacher in a public school.

THE Garfield Fund now amounts to $298,524.

A THIRD RAIL.—The matter of a third rail, on the line of the Virginia and Truckee railroad, from Reno to Mound House, has been a subject of discussion since the Carson and Colorado was first inaugurated. While this would benefit the rates of freight to the advantage of the shippers along the routes of both roads, it would also be detrimental to the Virginia and Truckee in the matter of transfer and the remuneration on same in one sense, and in another an advantage — that of delays and the trouble in handling. The subject has come up again lately; this time with a view of making the line of the Carson and Colorado continuous with that of the Reno and Oregon road, and the project is a good one if the Virginia and Truckee management can see it as the general public does.—Candelaria True Fissure.

THE finest floors are said to be in Russia. For those of the highest grade tropical woods are exclusively employed. Fir and pine are never used, as in consequence of their sticky character they attract and retain dirt and dust, and thereby soon become blackened. Pitch pine, too, is liable to shrink, even after being well seasoned. The mosaic floors in Russia are often of extraordinary beauty. One in the Summer Palace is of small squares of ebony inlaid with mother-of-pearl. A considerable trade is done in Dantzic and Riga by importing small blocks of oak for parquet floors. There is an active demand for these in France and Germany, but none in England.

THE State Horse Races, inappropriately styled the State Fair, is the only institution in the country that did not pay due and proper respect to the memory of the late deceased President, James A. Garfield. Its programme was carried on unaltered during the entire week of mourning. While every other public institution was draped in mourning, it daily congregated at the State race track a crowd of men, swearing and drinking and gambling. The State Horse fair has long been a public disgrace and as pensioner on the public purse it ought to be abolished.—Fresno Expositor.

BENTON LOOKING UP.—Louis Lewis came up on Monday from the Banner mine, in Clover District, ten miles from Benton, the operations of which he is superintending. The Banner is owned by Messrs. McDermott & Cullen, of Bodie, and is said by Mr. Lewis to be opening out in splendid style. The mining outlook in the Benton neighborhood is evidently improving very considerably of late.—Bodie Free Press.

COULD investors be induced to realize that it is better to take slight chances on the loss of a small amount in the development of virgin claims than the greater loss of old, exhausted or nearly exhausted dividend mines, both themselves and the country would be greatly gainers. By a judicious selection of prospects the chances of loss is reduced to the minimum.

THE whole nation is unanimous on the point that Guiteau should be brought to trial speedily and promptly convicted. Any legal jugglery will be resented.

Reporting Mining Information.

When a man has but little, his general disposition is to make it appear that he is pretty well fixed. When he has much, he becomes indifferent as to appearances, or as to what others think of his circumstances. With miners this same characteristic is even stronger. When a miner finds a ledge he talks as though he was independent. When he gets a small hole in the ground, he considers his prospects first-rate and is glad to have the reporter visit him and write up his claim, but when he strikes the real stuff itself, and his mine is paying big, he suddenly becomes indifferent, and about all the reporter can then get out of him is: "Oh, yes, we are taking out a little gold, but expenses are very heavy;" or "we are doing pretty well, but don't want anything said about it." Our experience is and has been that the man who has but little of substantial interest to report is free with his information, while the man who could furnish an item of real merit that would really help the district materially, generally keeps clear of the reporter, and has but little to say when found and run down. Of course to this, as all other rules, there are exceptions, but the exceptions are not common. There are mines being worked in this part of the country now that if the truth were told of them would make a good showing, but the exact truth is difficult to obtain. We may say "we hear" so and so, but that is not just exactly the kind of information that does the most good. Mine owners and mining superintendents could assist the publisher very materially in overcoming this difficulty if disposed to do so, and publishers would be pleased if they would. For our part we shall always be glad to know what they are doing. If their work, however, is "dead work," let them say so, and leave speculation as to what they expect out of the report. It is no discredit to a mine that a certain amount of "dead work" has to be done on it. In all cases more or less is necessary. If they are taking out ore let them say so, and if they are crushing let them tell frankly whether it pays or whether it don't. Such mining information, reliably reported, will be read and carefully considered, and would do good. Generalities have but little weight.—Placer Herald.

The Day in London.

A dispatch from London, dated on the 26th says: The Manchester Guardian appears to day in a deep mourning border. At various towns in England to-day, even at Portsmouth, having no particular connection with America, the municipal authorities request the inhabitants to show their respect for the late President Garfield by closing the shutters, more particularly during the funeral. A town meeting was held at Oldham to-day, to express sympathy with Mrs. Garfield and the American people. In London a number of offices connected with America are draped with black. All omnibus drivers are ordered by the omnibus companies to have crape on their whips. All flags on the river Thames are half-mast, as also those of many halls of the city companies. At the funeral services in the city temple to-day, Miss Beebee of New York and Antoinette Sterling will perform solos. The London Commerce saleroom in Mincing Lane will close at 1 P. M. to-day, as a mark of respect to the memory of the late President, also the rooms of the Underwriters' Association at Liverpool. The office of the Government of New Zealand in London will be closed all day.

THE old Antelope mill, down the canyon, has passed into the hands of a company headed by Gov. Blasdel, and will hereafter be known as the Humboldt mill. All the lighter machinery will be taken out and substituted with improved modern appliances. The light woodwork will be replaced with heavier lumber. The work of renovation has already begun, and Gov. Blasdel has gone below to order new machinery. On the Humboldt West is a shaft one hundred feet deep. A fifty foot drift south and a crosscut discloses a body of ore twenty-two feet wide. A contract has been let and the work begun to run a drift fifty feet north. Should the ledge show up as well in this as in the south drift it will develop enough ore to run the mill at least two years. It is now a settled fact that Aurora will soon again become a bullion producing camp.—Aurora Herald.

MARRIED.

AT Bishop Creek, Inyo Co., Cal., September 27, 1881, by Rev. A. Clark, CHARLES A. MCKAY to MISS JESSIE V. HOWELL.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

A CARD.

I desire to return my most sincere and heartfelt thanks to my good friends at Gold Mountain, who with brotherly care and solicitude waited on me at the time of my late painful accident, and brought me carefully and safely to Independence. Their kindness on that occasion will not be forgotten.

To my many friends in Independence I feel deeply and truly grateful, for their kind are and attention during my confinement. Their cheering words and heartfelt sympathy went far to relieve the weary and tedious hours, and made the time pass quickly by.

To Dr. W. H. George, under whose skillful hand my broken limb has so rapidly healed, I cannot find words to express my thanks. The Doctor's genial manner and delicate touch reduces the pain of setting a broken leg to almost a positive pleasure. If any of my friends should be so unfortunate as to receive a bad injury I commend them to the skill and kind care of Dr. George. T. F. A. CONNELLY.

CARD.

LONE PINE, Sept 30, 1881.

MESSRS. EDITORS—Having sold out all my right, title and interest in the Lone Pine Hotel to Mr. John Barnes (late of the New Coso station), I would like to bespeak for him and his amiable lady the good will of my old friends and the public generally. I think the change from landlady to landlord will be a public benefit, as after a week or two mine host will serve up good liquors and cigars, as well as good beds and good meals. Hoping they will find the good people of Inyo as kind and indulgent as they have always been to me, I retire, wishing them every success. Yours, respectfully, n589 M. A. BARRY.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 1.....1881

IN MEMORIAM.

Monday last, being the day officially set apart for humiliation and prayer in memory of our murdered President, every business place in the town, we believe without an exception, was closed for the day, while the demeanor of every person indicated, far plainer than words, that the hearts of all were deeply touched with a grief as if death had invaded every household. The flags, as on the day the sad intelligence reached us, were displayed in mourning. The Court-house, Masonic Hall and some private offices were draped in black. Excellent taste was manifested in the draping of the large Court-room, but we forbear details, though, it is but right to add that Messrs. A. W. Eibeshutz and Daniel Crough and Mrs. W. H. George greatly assisted Sheriff Smith, County Clerk John Crough and Under Sheriff Stevens in decorating the building under their especial charge.

At 11 A. M., all the Masonic brethren within reach gathered at their Hall to give expression to the sorrow felt at the loss of their distinguished brother, James Abram Garfield.

The impressive funeral rites of the fraternity were solemnized in due form. T. F. A. Connelly, W. M.

Pursuant to motion, a Committee on resolutions were appointed and reported as follows:

HALL OF INYO LODGE, No. 221, F. & A. M.
Sept. 26, A. L. 5881.

To the W. M., officers and members—Your Committee respectfully submit the following:

WHEREAS, our most beloved Brother, James Abram Garfield, the Chief Executive of the American Union, has been called from his great LABOR here on earth to REFRESHMENT in the Supreme Grand Lodge above;

RESOLVED, That we, in common with all our fraternity whithersoever dispersed around the globe, with the aged mother and bereaved wife and fatherless children; in common with all lovers of liberty, with the citizen and soldier, the private friend and public acquaintance, the lover of his country and the patriot under whatsoever flag he may dwell, do most deeply mourn the untimely death of our illustrious Brother in the Mystic Tie, James Abram Garfield, even as we grieve the loss of one of our own blood.

Mingling our tears with those of the stricken family, now bereft of his counsels, his affections and care, we tender our sincere sympathy in this hour of their irreparable loss, and assure them of our fraternal sympathy and heartfelt prayers. "Remembering the deep religious convictions of the deceased, we would temper the grief and establish the hope of the sorrowing relatives by pointing them to Him, who concealeth wisdom beneath His blight; and beneficence under His blast; for it is written, 'In little wrath I hid my face from them for a moment, but with everlasting kindness will I have mercy upon them, saith the Lord, thy Redeemer.' In the midst of our great woe at the solemn visitation that is upon us, we cannot forbear from an expression of abhorrence that barbarous assassination should have a history in these United States. In common with civilization everywhere, we deprecate this vilest of murders, and call with all the earnestness of humanity for speedy and condign punishment upon the malefactor."

As the only token in our power to further express our great sorrow,

Be it ordered, That this Hall and Lodge Room be draped in full mourning, and each and every member wear a badge of mourning for a period of thirty days.

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this Lodge.

P. A. CHALFANT.
A. N. BELL,
J. W. P. LAIRD.
Committee.

The resolutions were adopted, ordered for publication in THE INYO INDEPENDENT and a copy to be transmitted to the widow of the deceased brother.

No definite understanding or arrangements had been had until nearly noon in regard to a public meeting to take community action upon the sorrowful occasion, nevertheless, nearly every person in the place able to be there repaired to the Court-room at 2 P. M., when a meeting was duly organized and proceedings had as follows:

District Attorney Laird called the meeting to order, and after briefly and appropriately stating the occasion, Mr. J. Alexander was chosen to preside. On taking the chair Mr. Alexander neatly and warmly eulogized the distinguished man whose death, as President of this great nation, had brought deep and heartfelt sorrow to civilization, touching the hearts of every one from youth to age, man and woman alike, regardless of party and creed, or dwelling place, in all this broad land.

Mr. John Crough was chosen Secretary.

Under Sheriff Stevens, upon request of the Chairman, read a biographical sketch and a brief eulogy of the dead President.

As indicative of the far-reaching nature of the great sorrow, the Chair, pursuant to a motion to that effect, appointed a Committee of five, representing the youth as well as those of maturer age of both sexes, to draft resolutions suited to the occasion. For this purpose the following were chosen: Mr. G. H. Hardy, Miss Nettie Thompson, Mr. J. W. P. Laird, Miss Minnie Harris and Master Willie A. Chalfant. In due time the Committee submitted the following:

RESOLUTIONS.

WHEREAS, It has pleased an allwise God to remove from this life, and from the highest position of honor and trust, bestowed by our country upon man, James Abram Garfield, President of the United States, be it therefore

Resolved, That we the citizens of Inyo county, assembled to pay the last sad tribute of respect to the remains of our deceased President, hereby express our deep regret and sorrow at his untimely removal, and with all our fellow citizens bow in humble submission to the decree of our Almighty Father.

Resolved, That we hereby tender our heartfelt sympathy to the aged mother, to the faithful, self-sacrificing wife and to the fatherless children in their sad bereavement, and to the general fountain of grief we bring our sorrowing tears to give expression to our saddened feelings as a testimonial to departed greatness.

Resolved, That we execrate the principle and sentiments which actuate all those who wilfully raise their murderous hand against those in power; thus striking a blow at the very foundations of civil and religious liberty and "in common with civilization everywhere, we deprecate this vilest of murders, and call with all the earnestness of humanity for speedy and condign punishment upon the malefactor."

S. P. Moffat, Esq., then read the Episcopal burial service, and a prayer special to the subject and occasion. The meeting then adjourned—and "may there never be accasion for another of like nature" was in substance the prayer of all.

JUST SO.—The mere "taking," or appropriating a newspaper from a place of business or residence, without the consent of the owner, constitutes a misdemeanor—and one which ought to be prosecuted to the fullest extent. Concerning this, and referring to loose postal arrangements, a valued correspondent says: "It sometimes happens that I miss my INDEPENDENT, especially when a squib appears in its columns from this place. Hence, I wish you would always send me two or three copies, when an article appears, then I may be able to get one. There are some "smart Alecs" who like to read but don't like to pay for a paper, and who are shrewd enough to steal one occasionally. They are the meanest kind of thieves, and ought to be severely punished." It has been very safely calculated that there are an average of five readers to every newspaper subscribed for—men who steal their news, instead of buying it. This, of course, don't apply to the one who happens to be reading this paper, when he knows that he ought to take and pay for one of his own; oh, no!

SHOOTING.—A couple of Mexicans indulged in pistol practice at Lone Pine Saturday last. We have no particulars as to whether the men fell out with each other before they had any words, or how that was, but one Nicholas Bongel shot Melquades Contreres, the the ball striking his left arm, and glancing hit a rib and run around between the ribs and skin to the right side, where it was cut out by Dr. Stevenson. The wound is not dangerous, and the shootist has skipped. No complaint or arrests.

SCHOOL REPORT.—Following is the monthly report of the Lone Pine school, Miss M. E. Temple, teacher, for the month ending September 30th: Whole number enrolled, 34; whole number of days' attendance, 436½; days' absence, 77; average enrollment, 27; per cent. of attendance, 89. In the monthly examination of all studies the following named pupils averaged over 90: Misses Zelia Meysan, Annie Adams, Emma Duval, Martha Dodge, and Estella Meysan.

OUT OF LUCK.—His honor, Judge Hannah, is a good deal out of luck. His general health is exceedingly discouraging and painful to himself, and his troubles are now further aggravated by the effects of an accident last Sunday evening. In stepping upon a platform or porch at his house a board broke under his weight, wrenching him so severely, besides disabling his foot by splinters, that he has since been confined to his bed.

RELIGIOUS MATTERS.—Rev. F. M. and Mrs. Willis got back last evening from their trip to Carson to attend Conference at that place. The affairs connected with the business of that body, and social interchanges are spoken of as the most pleasant in their experience. Mr. Willis will hold regular services at the school house to-morrow evening, when we may expect further information regarding future plans and appointments under the new order of things.

REX MONTIS.—Supt. Holt has been giving the Rex Montis mill a thorough overhauling and clean up and now has it in readiness to start up work on the old tailings. If the mine-owners of Kearsarge Mountain will get back and down to their work again this starting up of the mill will give them a splendid chance to realize something out of their ore.

THE DEFIANCE.—The old Defiance mine at Darwin has finally settled into a complete shape again, as regards title. Messrs. P. Reddy and J. S. Gorman have purchased the interests of C. F. Sharp, Alfred Waitt, J. S. Taber, Asa Hasker and A. R. Conklin, covering all conflicting titles. Some $8,000 in cash was paid over.

NO SALE.—It was current upon the street this morning that the great Keynot mine, at Beveridge, had been sold. The facts are that Wm. Hamilton—probably in the interest of Osbiston and Smith—offered the Mexican owners $45,000 for it, which was refused.

CHRYSOPOLIS.—A. McKellips yesterday brought in seven ounces of gold, the proceeds of a seven days run of a little arastra near the old Chrysopolis mill. The gold is very fine, being worth $19 per ounce.

AT LONE PINE.—The people at Lone Pine observed the funeral day—the 26th—by closing all places of business and draping them with crape, tolling the bell and firing half-hour guns.

DIDN'T GO.—A correspondent says that that elopement from Lone Pine, as mentioned last week, didn't go.

LODGE.—Stated monthly meeting of Inyo Lodge, No. 221, F. & A. M., at the hall to-night.

LETTER FROM ROUND VALLEY.

MESSRS. EDITORS—Pretty fair crops of small grain have been gathered this season, exceeding in quantity and quality last year's yield. We often read of partial and total failures elsewhere—drought, grasshoppers, wind, water and fire play havoc, whereby whole communities are depressed and suffer. Never having experienced a total failure, may we not be proud and consider ourselves fortunate in this Owens River country, where we have a variety of soil, abundance of water and a mild, salubrious climate, wherein the grasses, cereals, vegetables, fruit and flowers profusely flourish?

WHAT DO WE NEED?

Nature having done, and is doing, so much it behooves us, small mortals, to do our utmost. The gods, it is said, help those only who help themselves, hence lazybones and bellyachers should not expect divine assistance. Possessing such natural resources, we ought to be a prosperous, contented set of farmers, in this favored land; however, this being, comparatively, a new country where old miners, butchers, tinkers, cobblers, and other broken down professionals are engaged in farming, it is but natural to presume that the majority of us are a rather slouchy, blundering set of soil scratchers, frequently realizing about one-half of what the ground is capable of producing. We need more thoroughness—more brains, experience, industry and economy, infused into our farming and other operations.

A GOOD MOVE.

To effect mutual improvements, the proposed "Owens River Agricultural Association" (would not Owens Valley A. A. be more appropriate?) if properly organized and conducted will surely prove beneficial to this entire farming region. To insure success it is essential that prominent men of the various settlements take a deep interest in this important move. By way of suggestion, would it not be advisable to thoroughly canvass the different settlements in Owens Valley in order to secure co-operation of all the districts, before permanently organizing? "Haste makes waste." "A word to the wise."

Besides monthly or semi-monthly meetings of the Association, where live subjects pertaining to our avocations would be discussed and elaborated, annual Fairs of course would be held under its auspices, which would naturally engender a spirit of rivalry, and stimulate us to better farming and better stock raising and also induce us to engage in a more diversified husbandry.

SOME BEEF.

A few years ago this scribbler visited, in Philadelphia, a cattle and horse show, where of course, very fine stock were exhibited. One animal, a fine bull, attracted particular attention. This animal weighed over 4,000 pounds—two tons of beef on four legs. (It would require six or eight of our common scrubs to pull the scales down that much!)

This wonderful animal was a rare exception, still it proves what may possibly be accomplished in that line. At the same exhibition there was a two-year-old colt weighing 1,600 pounds.

These are encouraging instances of what can be done. Our room for improvement in Owens River Valley is an extensive one.

The time will come when one beef steer will weigh as much as four at present. Such stock will be productive of pleasure and profit, even should we have to ship them by rail.

THE RAILROAD SCARE.

An impression prevails that whenever a railroad traverses Owens Valley farming will no longer pay—can't compete with the "other side," etc. Your columns will not admit lengthy arguments, pro or con, relative to this subject. It is immaterial whether we favor or oppose—the iron horse will surely snort by our homes before long. This big, rich country demands quicker and cheaper transportation—must and will get it. In that event, we may have to kill off our mules and mustangs, and like the French eat 'em up, and supplant them with domestic ducks, geese, turkeys, etc.

We may have to raise less wheat, oats and barley and produce more barrels of eggs, tons of bacon and cheese—anything and everything that will be more profitable.

We boast some of Inyo and Mono's mineral resources; railroads are indispensable to their development, which will increase our population, create a more extensive market and, of course, distribute more dollars through the land. Let us prepare to face the music of the locomotive!

A JOLLY TIME AT OLD'S.

On the evening of the 23d instant, quite a crowd met at Mr. D. Olds' to both celebrate the completion of his new mansion and also Mr. D's birthday. The new house is a roomy, substantial, well finished building, with a hall in the upper story, 18x35 ft. for dancing and other purposes. Another large room was improvised that evening, adjoining the hall, so that six sets were on the tiptoe at the same time. Not less than 140 persons were present (many from Bishop) most all of whon sat down to a sumptuous supper, free to all. The tables were loaded with a fine variety of eatables, and much credit is due Mrs. Olds for preparing such a grand feast.

Music was rendered by the Glenn band and dancing went on furiously until daylight. Mrs. Hutchison, of Bishop, was present, who read a few touching, original verses, suitable to the occasion. Some beautiful singing was also rendered by Mrs. Small, a lady from Fish Slough. It was generally conceded that this was one of the most enjoyable parties ever given in this section.

TO MR. DAVID OLDS, ON HIS BIRTHDAY.

Years are the milestones on the way,
As through this world we roam;
And as we pass each seems to say:
"Still nearer to your home."

To meet and part, this is our lot
As we pursue our way;
And, dying, may be soon forgot,
Though long on earth we stay.

But honest toil and moral worth
E're most their own reward;
So on this day that gave you birth,
We join in one accord—

In asking blessings on your home
For many coming years;
Where friends e're find a kind welcome—
Greeting, that always cheers.

When death at last shall you release
From all earth's toil and pain,
A home be yours of joy and peace,
Where life eternal reigns. LUNA.

Many more bright birthdays may our genial friends, Mr. Olds and his estimable wife and children enjoy in their new homes.

JENKINS.

IN 1853 or 1854 Ernest la Place was killed on Coyoto creek, Santa Clara county, by Joaquin Murrieta, and the body found with the right hand missing. A few days since, while digging for fish bait, a roll of zinc, containing a hand and a Mexican knife marked "J. M." were discovered.

MACHINE JOKES.

A man who lives in one of the territories, and is discreet to live so far away, sends the following alleged conundrum: "What is the difference between laudanum and Abraham of old? One is the juice of the poppy, and the other is the poppy of the Jews."

"I think I'm losing flesh this hot weather," was what the butcher said when he opened his store in the morning and found that a side of beef had been stolen during the night.

A somewhat simple woman was asked if her husband feared God. She replied: "I guess he does, for he never goes out on Sunday without his shotgun."

An Albany woman woke her husband during a storm the other night and said: "I do wish you would stop snoring, for I want to hear it thunder."

The "utterly utter" kind of talk has infected the street gamins, one of them, after picking up a more than usually fragrant cigar stump, exclaimed to his friend, "Jack, this is quite too positively bully."

A bad-tempered man: He had lost his knife, and they asked him the usual question: "Do you know where you lost it?" "Yes, yes," he replied, "of course I do. I'm merely hunting in these other places to kill time."

If it makes a white woman bewitching to stich a piece of black court-plaster on her face, why wouln't a piece of white court-plaster make a black woman appear positively charming?

It is cruelty to cast your bread upon the waters if the broad is sour and heavy. It might give the fishes the dyspepsia.

"Indeed, sir, I would box your ears" (pausing, reflectively) — "but where could I find a box large enough?"

The wife of a Philadelphian who had his life heavily insured set his death down to profit and loss.

A Norristown man, the father of a large family, calls his flour barrel Maud S. It goes so fast.

Does loss of sleep make a man look worn because it takes the nap out of him?

SOME of the timber fires of the Sierra are said to be five or six miles in length. A large amount of good timber is being destroyed in some places.

Settling the War.

In the Winter of 1864, Pony Mount, in the Shenandoah Valley, was full of game, and Federals and Confederates used to shoot squirrels and trap rabbits when off duty. Care was taken to avoid each other, but many collisions occurred, and more than one poor fellow's bones are bleaching under the dark pines to-day. One day a member of the Sixth Michigan Cavalry encountered a "Johnny," face to face, as they both turned a thicket. Both had guns on their shoulders, and both were too surprised to speak for some time. Then the Confederate yelled out:

"Say, you Yank, what are you down here for?"

"To put down the rebellion."

"You can't do it, no how."

"Bet you $10 we can."

"Look here," said the "reb," as he came closer and put down his gun to indulge in gestures, "I play ye a game of euchre to see which side is going to whip."
